DARROW ACCEPTS A CHALLENGE OF BRYAN

SECRETARY TO OFFER VIEWS AFTER A TOUR

Cabinet Officer, After Visit To Agricultural Area, Favors Reduced Taxes on Property and Re-Adjustment of Freight Rates.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Completing a tour which has taken him through the important crop raising regions of the west, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine will return to Washington Sunday to draft the government's program—administrative and legislative—for the further relief and improvement of the farming industry.

Leaving here on May 27, Jardine has visited Illinois, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa.

He has delivered many addresses, discussed the agricultural problem with all types of farmers, interviewed bankers on economic questions connected with farm financing and marketing, and upon these personal studies will base his recommendations for steps to be taken by the government to place agriculture on a more satisfactory basis.

These recommendations, according to information which has reached the department of agriculture here in advance of the secretary's return, will include:

Three Recommendations.

1—Reduction of taxes on property.

2—Re-adjustment of freight rates so as to provide lower rates for transportation for farm products.

3—Further development of cooperative marketing.

Although willing to urge congress to enact additional legislation to help the farmers, Secretary Jardine reflects the view of President Coolidge in feeling that agriculture cannot be legislated out of all of its troubles and that the farmers can give considerable aid to the government by helping themselves through more effecient operation and management of their farms and in adjusting production so that large surpluses, which cannot be sold, will not be created.

After discussing with his assistants here the manifold problems involved in the agricultural situation, Secretary Jardine probably will go to Swampscott to report to President Coolidge on his western trip and to get the president's view on farm relief legislation.

Dry Guard Chief Going To Frisco

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(I.N.S.)—Capt. W. E. V. Jacobs, commandant of the coast guard at New York, was one of the leaders in the intensive rum war on the eastern seaboard, has been transferred to San Francisco, it was announced at the treasury department today.

Officials said that Jocabs' transfer did not indicate the opening of a new rum drive on the Pacific coast, but that he would continue to be in charge of coast guard operations against liquor smugglers.

Abductor and A Girl, 13, Are Being Sought

GADSEN, Ala., July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Armed posses tonight were searching the mountainous sections of Cherokee and Etowah counties for a man known here as John Smith, 40, of Green Valley, and May Gaddis, 13-year-old girl, whom, officers allege, Smith has abducted.

Smith, who is reported to have taken the girl a second time after she had first escaped him and made her way to the home of a motorist, who picked her up on the road, is said by the authorities to have two revolvers and to have told friends that he would never be taken alive.

DECREE WORKS AGAINST DOHENY

Oil Magnate Stands To Lose $358,000 In Decision Of Coast Judge.

Los Angeles Ruling Involves Pearl Harbor And Elk Hills Deals.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 11.—(U.P.)—The government ordered an accounting today with E. L. Doheny and the Pan-American Oil Co., for the Doheny share of the famous Elk Hills oil funds.

Judge Paul Q. McCormick, who ruled recently that the valuable oil lands had been obtained by Doheny through fraud and conspiracy with Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, signed a decree ordering the Pan-American company to pay $358,031 into the federal treasury and relinquish the oil reserves.

The government owes the Doheny company $10,059,417 for construction of the Pearl Harbor naval oil storage project and permanent improvements on the Elk Hills property, the decree stated.

Offestting this is $10,417,448 which is due the government for oil taken from the Elk Hills field The difference is the $358,031 which the Pan-American company is ordered to pay into the federal treasury.

THREE ARRAIGNED IN BOSTON CRASH

Trio Pleads Not Guilty To Manslaughter Charges—Trial This Week.

BOSTON, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Three men arraigned in Suffolk County Superior court today on charges of manslaughter following the returning of secret indictments by the grand jury that has been investigating the collapse of the Pickwick club building a week ago, which caused a loss of forty-four lives.

The men arraigned were Timothy J. Barry, president and treasurer of the Pickwick club, Hyman Bloomberg, lessee of the building which housed the club, and George C. Funk, an architect.

All three defendants pleaded not guilty and each was released in $2,000 bail for trial next Wednesday.

Barry and Funk are specifically charged with having caused the death of Patrolman Paul Halleran, one of the victims.

COMRADES IN ARMY QUIZZED FOR CLUES

Young Suspect Known As Brilliant But Erratic Person Before Desertion At Mineola—Once Clubbed by South American Savage.

TO SEARCH WELLS ISLAND.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Phillip Knapp tonight was reported on wooded Wells island, off Alexandria bay, ready to slip into Canada at the first opportunity.

The young alleged "thrill slayer" of Louis Panella, New York taxicab driver, apparently has outwitted hundreds of pursuers, including a posse of military and civil huntsmen with "shoot on sight" orders.

Tonight Alexandria bay became the point of the hunt. R. B. Cashman, a fellow soldier in the company with Knapp and his confidant, is reported to have "squealed."

"I know where your man is," Cashman is said to have told Maj. William Hensley, commandant of the flying field at Mineola, New York.

"He is on Wells island in Alexandria bay. We used to bootleg there together. Phil told me if anything happened I could find him there."

Officials are of the belief that a Broadway actress is with the fugitive.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(U. P.)—A blow from a club wielded by a South American savage several years ago cracked the skull of Phillip K. Knapp of Syracuse, and started a chain of circumstances which culminated today in a great man hunt extending across upper New York state.

FOREST FIRES MENACE WEST

Logging Towns Of Carlisle And Stearnsville, In Washington, Threatened By Blazes — Residents Battle Flames.

HOQUIAM, Wash., July 11.—(I. N. S.)—The little logging towns of Carlisle and Stearnsville, located near here, were today reported to be in grave danger of being swept by a forest fire which broke out suddenly in green timber.

Scores of fighters are battling the flames which are reported to have surrounded Stearnsville. The entire population of both communities turned out to save their homes. A logging camp was wiped out by the fire, according to reports.

The fire is eating through a stand of green timber of the Carlisle-Pennell Logging Co., reports indicated.

Fire In Kootenai Forest

MISSOULA, Mont., July 1.—(I. N. S.)—Nearly 100 fire fighters were rushed tonight to combat a forest fire in the Kootenai forest south of Libby, where high winds today caused a minor blaze to jump the control lines

More than 200 acres of valuable timber have already been destroyed.

After destroying 400 acres of timber land near Stark, a forest fire there was brought under control after several nearby big logging camps narrowly escaped destruction. Embers from this fire continue to be a menace, reports said, and 200 of the best trained fire fighters in Montana are patroling the vicinity.

Wood Favors Advance Post In Philippines

MANILA, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Following a private conference with visiting congressmen from the United States, Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood was quoted by a member of the party as making the following statement:

"The Philippines should be made the advance outpost of American power in the Pacific, which in the future will be the center of a world conflict

"We will have to stay here our commercial interests demand that we have a central gateway to the Orient It will be good for both Americans and Filipinos. The independence situation is more political than real"

When shown the statement, Governor Wood said he "did not care to add or take anything from it."

Jacob Vanderbilt Dead At Tacoma

NEW YORK, July 11.—(U.P.) Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., today informed the United Press of the death of Jacob H. Vanderbilt at Tacoma, Wash. today.

The telegram announcing his death, read:

"Jacob H. Vanderbilt died of heart disease at Tacoma, Wash., this morning."

He was the last of his generation of the family.

EXPECT MOVE IN CHINESE PROBLEM

Conference of President and Secretary of State Believed Important.

Refuse to Give Out Statement As to Matters Decided Upon.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 11.—(U. P.)—A week-end conference expected to have an important bearing up the American government's next move in its effort to bring order out of chaos in China, began here tonight when President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg were closeted together for some time.

This afternoon Mr. Coolidge went on a brief outing to Lake Attitash, forty miles from here, where he was the guest of the Essex Press club. He cut short this visit to meet Kellogg and thereby missed a bountiful picnic lunch that had been provided by the club.

After several hours of discussion between President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg and Under Secretary of State Grew, it was officially stated that the subject matter of the conference had been limited to the debt funding negotiations and the Chinese situation.

No immediate developments are expected as a result of the meeting between the president and Mr. Kellogg, it was made clear. They declined to receive newspapermen tonight, or to authorize the issuance of any statement amplifying the occasion of Kellogg's hurried trip here.

Grew left White Court this evening and Kellogg plans to leave tomorrow.

Recommends Five Trips to Nearby Pleasure Places

With the weather prediction fair, and continued warm, swimming pools and cool places in the radius of fifty to sixty miles of Lincoln will be popular Sunday.

The following trips are suggested by the Lincoln Auto club:

To Seward, 24 miles. Via the S. Y. A. No. 11. Roads are good. The pool at Seward is in exceptionally fine condition, plenty of shade and a nice picnic place: Cottages can be rented.

To Crete: 26 miles. The road via the west of paving or D-L-D No. 7 to Emerald, then south to Denton, 6 miles, keeping south on the same road until intersecting the L. C. D. and west into Crete. By going this way loose gravel is avoided.

To Wahoo: 31 miles. Wanahoo park. Follow the C. H. No. 9 north of Havelock through Ceresco, Swedeburg and Wahoo.

The Fisheries: Take the D. L. D. to Ashland, then east until crossing the Platte river, to the Melia turn, then south. This road is rather narrow and follows the river, but is generally in fair to good condition.

To Beatrice, Riverside park: 40 miles. C. H. No. 9 leaving Lincoln on South Fourteenth. Gravelled to Cortland, dirt to Beatrice.

To Nebraska City, Arbor lodge: 56 miles. Follow highway No. 11 to Eagle, No. 24 to Syracuse and Nebraska City. Roads are reported good.

Booming Judge Button To Fill Bench Vacancy

District Judge F W. Button of Fremont is among the men being mentioned for appointment by Governor McMullen to fill the vacancy on the supreme court bench, caused by the recent death of Judge Robert E. Evans.

Judge Button has occupied the District bench for the last twelve years. It is claimed by his friends that he can get practically the unanimous endorsement of the leading members of the bar in the Third congressional district.

Judge Button has never occupied a political position, other than that of a non-partisan judicial nature. His friends are confident that his appointment would prove very satisfactory to the people of the Third district.

Broker Killed In Fall At Gotham

NEW YORK, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Robert Paret, 30, a broker, either jumped or fell to his death today from the window of his apartment on the fourth floor.

Police believe his death was accidental.

SIMMONS IN FINAL PLEA

Defense Contends New Evidence Shows Man Sentenced to Go to Electric Chair Tuesday Not Guilty of Pahl Murder.

BRIEF FILED WITH BOARD OF PARDONS

Attorney Holmes Says Supreme Court Ruling Should Not Inflence Decision Which Is Expected Monday Morning.

A final plea to save Walter R. Simmons from going to the electric chair in the Nebraska state penitentiary next Tuesday for the murder of Frank Pahl, Boyd county garage man, is made by Attorney E. P. Holmes in a brief filed Saturday afternoon in support of the condemned man's application for a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment.

The board Friday heard witnesses and testimony, presented by Simmons' attorneys in support of their contention that he is not guilty of the crime. Following that hearing Holmes was permitted to file a final brief, setting out his summary of this evidence and his argument. To this brief the prosecuting attorneys for the state will reply if they wish. The board will hold an executive meeting Monday morning, at which time it will attempt to reach a conclusion. Simmons latest reprieve expires July 14.

Touches On Court's Ruling.

Taking up the question of the supreme court's refusal to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment, Judge Holmes says:

"This case was tried, in the District court of Boyd county. The defendant pleaded not guilty. The jury found him guilty and fixed the death penalty. The writer of this brief would not contend for a moment that under the record made in the prosecution that the verdict was not justified. But after the term of court had adjourned new evidence was discovered that corro-

FRENCH DIVISION TO ATTACK RIFFS

Troops From Ruhr To Be Hurled Against Krim In Morocco.

PARIS, July 11.—(U. P.)—France and Spain are preparing for simultaneous thrusts against Abd-El-Krim, Riffian warrior chief.

To this end, one division of troops from the Ruhr has been ordered to Morocco. This is the first big contingent to be sent from France and will embark in about ten days.

Recent London messages indicated France was hastening Ruhr evacuation so that she might use forces from that region to hurl at Krim.

Before taking this new step in their campaign to end the war in Morocco, the two nations, according to word today from the French foreign office, have advised Krim that he cannot treat for peace separately with either country. If he wants peace, he must treat with both nations, he has been informed.

This action is regarded the first fruit of the Franch-Spanish negotiations for an accord on prosecution of the campaign against Krim.

Two Killed In A Plane Crash

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Falling into a tail spin as it circled over El Segundo near here late today an army plane from Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., crashed to earth and broke into flames, burning to death N. D. McClellan of Sawtelle, Calif., and Lieut. Hugh R. Denny, a reserve officer. Denny was said to have been piloting the plane.

WIND STORMS AND HEAT TAKE SEVERAL LIVES

Five Meet Death In Vicinity Of Chicago And One In Wisconsin.

Mercury Soars High In Northwest—Two Prostrated In Minneapolis.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Five persons met death in Chicago and vicinity from the storm and heat today.

The wind, accompanied by a heavy rain, lasted only twenty minutes, but during that time trees and wires were leveled.

One woman autoist, blinded by the rain, was killed at a Maywood railroad crossing. A man dropped dead from the heat at the Hawthorne race track, and another at Aurora. Two boys were drowned in the river at Elgin.

Tornado In Wisconsin.

STURGEON BAY, Wis., July 11.—(U. P.)—A tornado hit Sturgeon Bay late this afternoon with one known casualty.

The twister was accompanied by a heavy rain, and considerable property damage was reported.

Three men while crossing a bridge east of the city were swept off by the storm, being rescued by life savers.

No Relief In Sight.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 11.—No relief is sighted from the heat wave that gripped the northwest today, sending the mercury over the century mark in several cities and driving thousands to the lakes and parks.

Two were prostrated in Minneapolis when the mercury climbed twenty degrees to a maximum of 91.

At points in North and South Dakota long time records, broken yesterday, were again eclipsed when the mercury reached new high marks today. Pierre, S. D., recorded a temperature of 102, Fairfax 100 and Billings, Mont., 102.

Although the heat was general throughout Minnesota, the highest

Young Hiil Named In Alienation Suit

BILLINGS, Mont., July 11.—(I.N.S.)—Walter Hill, millionaire son of the late James J. Hill, founder of the Great Northern railroad and known as an "empire builder," was named as defendant in an alienation of affections suit filed in District court here today by Frank M. Gottlob, a rancher near Big Timber.

Mrs. Gottlob is now in Chicago, it was said.

Papers were served on Hill this week while he was inspecting his huge cattle ranch and land holdings near Livingston, in the vicinity of Yellowstone park.

Report a Plot Against Ruler And DeRivera

SANSEBASTIAN, Spain, July 11.—(I. N. S.) — An assassin's plot against the lives of King Alfonso and Gen. Primo De Rivera, head of the Spanish directory, was crushed today and two of its principals were enroute to Madrid under heavy guard after their capture in the province of Guipuzcoa.

They admitted their affiliation with the communist internationale and said the plot had been hatched in Paris. They were plentifully supplied with money.

The two men were arrested while attempting to buy automatic pistols. They were submitted to severe questioning and admitted they had arrived from Paris with the intentiton of killing the king and Gen. De Rivera.

Word of their arrest was telegraphed to Madrid and Gen. Amido ordered they be brought to the capital under heavy guard

Twelve Day Heat Wave Is Not Yet Record, Says Weather Man

With temperatures above 90 degrees every day but two of the last twelve days, and with three days of the twelve on which the mercury reached or exceeded 100 degrees, July this year is yet far from setting a record for a mid-summer hot spell, says Thomas A. Blair, meterologist of the United States weather bureau.

"One of the two days on which the maximum was less than 90 degrees was July 4, which had moderate temperatures and clear skies all day, contrary to the remark frequently made that it always rains and is always hot on the Fourth," Mr. Blair said.

"Although the average temperature of these twelve days is about eight degrees above normal," Mr Blair continued, "there have been several hotter periods in previous Julys, notably July, 1901, when there were twenty successive days during which the lowest maximum was 97 degrees and all the others were 100 degrees or more. Beginning June 29, 1911, there were seven successive days with maximum above 100 degrees the highest of which was 110 degrees, the highest official temperature of record here.

Watch Pressure Areas.

"Those who watch the weather maps published daily in the Star will have noted that the atmospheric pressure has been high over the southeastern states and generally low over the north and northwest during summer hot periods.

"So long as pressure remains high in the southeast, and such high pressure areas as are now in the northwest appear on the coast of California or Oregon and trend southeastward, so long the hot weather will continue.

"Whenever the general atmospheric circulation changes sufficiently to cause lower pressure in the southeast and moving high pressure areas across western Canada, we shall have cooler weather When such a shifting of the general distribution of pressure will occur is not known, because the particular causes of such movements are not definitely known."

STORM READY TO BREAK IN DAYTON TRIAL

Commoner Promises Fight To Last Ditch To Bar Testimony of Scientists In Evolution Fight---Will Touch Off Fireworks Monday.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 11.—(I. N. S.)—The thunder of an approaching forensic storm was heard here tonight during a lull in the evolution trial.

The torrent of words will burst Monday in the little courthouse where John Thomas Scopes stands trial for teaching evolution in alleged defiance of the Tennessee law. It was assured tonight when William Jennings Bryan, battle scarred leader of fundamentalists, issued a challenge to the defense, which was eagerly accepted by Clarence S. Darrow, grizzled chief of the modernist legion.

The forces of religion and science will clash over a technical question of admitting the testimony of the scientists on the relation of evolution to the Biblical story of the Divine creation of man.

Bryan brought the storm to a head by announcing the prosecution would fight every effort to place scientists on the stand. The testimony of such witnesses, he said, was incompetent.

Darrow declared the Scopes jury, if the Bryan plan were followed, would have to decide his guilt or innocence when "they know nothing about evolution."

Such a proceeding, said Darrow, would be a travesty. He accused the state of "seeking to run away from the trial."

To Meet In Court Arena.

Out of the challenge and acceptance, it was apparent these two great orators will meet in the court arena. Constitutional issues, the guilt or innocence of Scopes, the dry technicality of the law, all will be pushed to the background, while religion, science, the Bible and evolution will be brought to the fore.

This will greatly please the hill folks, whose lawmakers were responsible for the trial. There has been a wave of disappointment running through Dayton. The home folks found themselves barred from the courtroom by out-of-town newspaper men. There was a dearth of visitors except their own kin. The anticipated 30,000 visitors daily dwindled to 300. The interest in the trial waned.

But the prospect of a Bryan-Darrow battle of words revived Dayton's spirit. Tonight throngs on the criss-crossing main streets talked of nothing else. The public forum in Robinson's drug store was reorganized after a two day's adjournment. Arguments left off on Thursday were resumed. The town was staging a spiritual comeback.

Gives Thanks To Darrow.

They are giving thanks to Darrow. In his stuffy office on the second floor of the Telephone building, shirt-sleeved and suspendered, Darrow served notice of high lights to come. He dictated his statement while waving a fan.

"Two things are necessary to create an offense under the evolution statute of Tennessee," said Darrow. "First, that a theory is taught as to the origin of man that is contrary to the Divine account

Nebraska: Generally fair although somewhat unsettled Sunday and Monday; continued warm.

Kansas: Mostly fair Sunday and Monday; continued warm.

FEAR A CHINESE SHAMEEN DRIVE

Indications Seen Of Possible Attack On Canton Foreign Settlement.

HONG KONG, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Indications that the Chinese may carry out their threat to attempt to wrest Shameen, the international settlement at Canton, from the foreign powers was given today, according to reports from Canton.

The reports said the Chinese have erected barricades opposite Shameen, which is an island.

British, French and American gunboats are on duty at Shameen and the foreign defenders there have been strengthening their defenses.

The strike in the Hong Kong area has taken on a new aspect. Instead of being anti-foreign as was the case at first it has become capitalistic affecting Chinese the same as foreign-owned enterprises.

Chinese ships are being deserted by their Chinese crews.

Oil Is Struck At Iowa Town; Flow Is Small

HAMBURG, Ia., July 11.—(U.P.)—Visions of a second Tulsa swelled the hopes of two thousand inhabitants of this little agricultural center today with the report that oil had been struck on a farm four miles north of Hamburg.

And not to be deceived by the report, the whole town turned out enmasse to view the well which caused so much excitement.

It is located on the James Spicer farm well hidden from the main highway by waving fields of corn.

Operators of the well declared they have a high grade oil at the 1,090 foot level. A dozen barrels of crude, black oil were exhibited to the curious as evidence that the well is not a myth.

Skeptics, however, have joined in running down oil rumors in these parts before and accepted the evidence with a grain of salt

ARSENIC IS FOUND IN SUGAR BOWLS

Lives Of Twenty-Six Janitors at Stanford University Endangered.

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 11.—(U. P.)—Fingerprint experts were called to Stanford university today to help trace the origin of a quantity of arsenic found in the sugar bowls in the janitor's quarters shortly before breakfast. Twenty-six men were endangered.

The poison was discovered by a waiter who noticed the sugar bowls out of their usual places on the table shortly before the breakfast hour He observed a powder sprinkled on the sugar and reported his suspicions

A hasty analysis revealed the deadly poison The quantity was sufficient to have killed all the men had they eaten from the bowls chemists reported.

The janitors are all employed by the American Building Maintenance Co. A. E. Roth, comptroller at the university, said he felt certain the plot was framed by a discharged employe.

SISTERS OF THUG VICTIM SOUGHT

B. F. Pinneo, Former Lincoln Man, Dies Saturday; Relatives May Be Here.

Benjamin F. Pinneo, formerly of Lincoln, died in St. Joseph, Mo., Saturday, officials of that city notified Captain of Detectives Walter Anderson Saturday afternoon. They asked aid in finding two sisters of the deceased, one single and thought to be a school teacher, the other married.

Pinneo, the report said, was held up and slugged in St. Joseph three weeks ago, dying from the effects of the blow.

Efforts to locate the sisters were unsuccessful Saturday night.

Rules Chicago Women Eligible To Be Jurors

CHICAGO, July 11.—(U. P.)—Women of Chicago today won a fresh victory for equality with men in the eyes of the law.

Judge Phillip L. Sullivan in the Superior court, ruled that women of Cook county are eligible for jury service and a mandamus was issued ordering county jury commissioners to place the names of qualified women on their lists.

The court's decision ended a fight started against the jury commission by Mrs. Hannah B. Fyfe, a prominent clubwoman. She argued that since the Nineteenth amendment to the federal constitution made women qualified electors, they are also qualified to serve on juries. The commissioners intend to carry the case to the supreme court.

SECRETARY TO OFFER VIEWS AFTER A TOUR

Cabinet Officer, After Visit To Agricultural Area, Favors Reduced Taxes on Property and Re-Adjustment of Freight Rates.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Completing a tour which has taken him through the important crop raising regions of the west, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine will return to Washington Sunday to draft the government's program—administrative and legislative—for the further relief and improvement of the farming industry.

Leaving here on May 27, Jardine has visited Illinois, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa.

He has delivered many addresses, discussed the agricultural problem with all types of farmers, interviewed bankers on economic questions connected with farm financing and marketing, and upon these personal studies will base his recommendations for steps to be taken by the government to place agriculture on a more satisfactory basis.

These recommendations, according to information which has reached the department of agriculture here in advance of the secretary's return, will include:

Three Recommendations.

1—Reduction of taxes on property.

2—Re-adjustment of freight rates so as to provide lower rates for transportation for farm products.

3—Further development of cooperative marketing.

Although willing to urge congress to enact additional legislation to help the farmers, Secretary Jardine reflects the view of President Coolidge in feeling that agriculture cannot be legislated out of all of its troubles and that the farmers can give considerable aid to the government by helping themselves through more effecient operation and management of their farms and in adjusting production so that large surpluses, which cannot be sold, will not be created.

After discussing with his assistants here the manifold problems involved in the agricultural situation, Secretary Jardine probably will go to Swampscott to report to President Coolidge on his western trip and to get the president's view on farm relief legislation.

Dry Guard Chief Going To Frisco

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(I.N.S.)—Capt. W. E. V. Jacobs, commandant of the coast guard at New York, was one of the leaders in the intensive rum war on the eastern seaboard, has been transferred to San Francisco, it was announced at the treasury department today.

Officials said that Jocabs' transfer did not indicate the opening of a new rum drive on the Pacific coast, but that he would continue to be in charge of coast guard operations against liquor smugglers.

DECREE WORKS AGAINST DOHENY

Oil Magnate Stands To Lose $358,000 In Decision Of Coast Judge.

Los Angeles Ruling Involves Pearl Harbor And Elk Hills Deals.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 11.—(U.P.)—The government ordered an accounting today with E. L. Doheny and the Pan-American Oil Co., for the Doheny share of the famous Elk Hills oil funds.

Judge Paul Q. McCormick, who ruled recently that the valuable oil lands had been obtained by Doheny through fraud and conspiracy with Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, signed a decree ordering the Pan-American company to pay $358,031 into the federal treasury and relinquish the oil reserves.

The government owes the Doheny company $10,059.417 for construction of the Pearl Harbor naval oil storage project and permanent improvements on the Elk Hills property, the decree stated.

Offestting this is $10,417.448 which is due the government for oil taken from the Elk Hills field. The difference is the $358,031 which the Pan-American company is ordered to pay into the federal treasury.

THREE ARRAIGNED IN BOSTON CRASH

Trio Pleads Not Guilty To Manslaughter Charges—Trial This Week.

BOSTON, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Three men arraigned in Suffolk County Superior court today on charges of manslaughter following the returning of secret indictments by the grand jury that has been investigating the collapse of the Pickwick club building a week ago, which caused a loss of forty-four lives.

The men arraigned were Timothy J. Barry, president and treasurer of the Pickwick club; Hyman Bloomberg, lessee of the building which housed the club, and George C. Funk, an architect.

All three defendants pleaded not guilty and each was released in $2,000 bail for trial next Wednesday.

Barry and Funk are specifically charged with having caused the death of Patrolman Paul Halleran, one of the victims.

Son Of Wealthy and Prominent Family, Accused Of Slaying Taxi Driver "For a Thrill," Object of Man Hunt In New York.

COMRADES IN ARMY QUIZZED FOR CLUES

Young Suspect Known As Brilliant But Erratic Person Before Desertion At Mineola—Once Clubbed by South American Savage.

TO SEARCH WELLS ISLAND.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Phillip Knapp tonight was reported on wooded Wells island, off Alexandria bay, ready to slip into Canada at the first opportunity.

The young alleged "thrill slayer" of Louis Panella, New York taxicab driver, apparently has outwitted hundreds of pursuers, including a posse of military and civil huntsmen with "shoot on sight" orders.

Tonight Alexandria bay became the point of the hunt. R. B. Cashman, a fellow soldier in the company with Knapp and his confidant is reported to have "squealed."

"I know where your man is," Cashman is said to have told Maj. William Hensley, commandant of the flying field at Mineola, New York.

"He is on Wells island in Alexandria bay. We used to bootleg there together. Phil told me if anything happened I could find him there."

Officials are of the belief that a Broadway actress is with the fugitive.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(U. P.)—A blow from a club wielded by a South American savage several years ago cracked the skull of Phillip K. Knapp of Syracuse, and started a chain of circumstances which culminated today in a great man hunt extending across upper New York state.

FOREST FIRES MENACE WEST

Logging Towns Of Carlisle And Stearnsville, In Washington, Threatened By Blazes — Residents Battle Flames.

HOQUIAM, Wash., July 11.—(I. N. S.)—The little logging towns of Carlisle and Stearnsville, located near here, were today reported to be in grave danger of being swept by a forest fire which broke out suddenly in green timber.

Scores of fighters are battling the flames which are reported to have surrounded Stearnsville. The entire population of both communities turned out to save their homes. A logging camp was wiped out by the fire, according to reports.

The fire is eating through a stand of green timber of the Carlisle-Pennell Logging Co., reports indicated.

Fire In Kootenai Forest

MISSOULA, Mont., July 1.—(I. N. S.)—Nearly 100 fire fighters were rushed tonight to combat a forest fire in the Kootenai forest south of Libby, where high winds today caused a minor blaze to jump the control lines.

More than 200 acres of valuable timber have already been destroyed.

After destroying 400 acres of timber land near Stark, a forest fire there was brought under control after several nearby big logging camps narrowly escaped destruction. Embers from this fire continue to be a menace, reports said, and 200 of the best trained fire fighters in Montana are patroling the vicinity.

Wood Favors Advance Post In Philippines

MANILA, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Following a private conference with visiting congressmen from the United States, Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood was quoted by a member of the party as making the following statement:

"The Philippines should be made the advance outpost of American power in the Pacific, which in the future will be the center of a world conflict.

"'We will have to stay here. Our commercial interests demand that we have a central gateway to the Orient. It will be good for both Americans and Filipinos. The independence situation is more political than real.'

When shown the statement, Governor Wood said he "did not care to add or take anything from it."

Jacob Vanderbilt Dead At Tacoma

NEW YORK, July 11.—(U.P.) Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., today informed the United Press of the death of Jacob H. Vanderbilt at Tacoma, Wash. today.

The telegram announcing his death, read:

"Jacob H. Vanderbilt died of heart disease at Tacoma, Wash., this morning."

He was the last of his generation of the family.

EXPECT MOVE IN CHINESE PROBLEM

Conference of President and Secretary of State Believed Important.

Refuse to Give Out Statement As to Matters Decided Upon.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 11.—(U. P.)—A week-end conference expected to have an important bearing up the American government's next move in its effort to bring order out of chaos in China, began here tonight when President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg were closeted together for some time.

This afternoon Mr. Coolidge went on a brief outing to Lake Attitash, forty miles from here, where he was the guest of the Essex Press club. He cut short this visit to meet Kellogg and thereby missed a bountiful picnic lunch that had been provided by the club.

After several hours of discussion between President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg and Under Secretary of State Grew, it was officially stated that the subject matter of the conference had been limited to the debt funding negotiations and the Chinese situation.

No immediate developments are expected as a result of the meeting between the president and Mr. Kellogg, it was made clear. They declined to receive newspapermen tonight, or to authorize the issuance of any statement amplifying the occasion of Kellogg's hurried trip here.

Grew left White Court this evening and Kellogg plans to leave tomorrow.

Recommends Five Trips to Nearby Pleasure Places

With the weather prediction fair, and continued warm, swimming pools and cool places in the radius of fifty to sixty miles of Lincoln will be popular Sunday.

The following trips are suggested by the Lincoln Auto club:

To Seward, 24 miles. Via the S. Y. A. No. 11. Roads are good. The pool at Seward is in exceptionally fine condition, plenty of shade and a nice picnic place. Cottages can be rented.

To Crete: 26 miles. The road via the west of paving or D-L-D No. 7 to Emerald, then south to Denton, 6 miles, keeping south on the same road until intersecting the L. C. D. and west into Crete. By going this way loose gravel is avoided.

To Wahoo: 31 miles. Wanahoo park. Follow the C. H. No. 9 north of Havelock through Ceresco, Swedeburg and Wahoo.

The Fisheries: Take the D. L. D. to Ashland, then east until crossing the Platte river, to the Melia turn, then south. This road is rather narrow and follows the river, but is generally in fair to good condition.

To Beatrice, Riverside park; 40 miles. C. H. No. 9 leaving Lincoln on South Fourteenth. Gravelled to Cortland, dirt to Beatrice.

To Nebraska City, Arbor lodge: 56 miles. Follow highway No. 11 to Eagle, No. 24 to Syracuse and Nebraska City, Roads are reported good.

Booming Judge Button To Fill Bench Vacancy

District Judge F. W. Button of Fremont is among the men being mentioned for appointment by Governor McMullen to fill the vacancy on the supreme court bench, caused by the recent death of Judge Robert E. Evans.

Judge Button has occupied the District bench for the last twelve years. It is claimed by his friends that he can get practically the unanimous endorsement of the leading members of the bar in the Third congressional district.

Judge Button has never occupied a political position, other than that of a non-partisan judicial nature. His friends are confident that his appointment would prove very satisfactory to the people of the Third district.

Broker Killed In Fall At Gotham

NEW YORK, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Robert Paret, 30, a broker, either jumped or fell to his death today from the window of his apartment on the fourth floor.

Police believe his death was accidental.

SIMMONS IN FINAL PLEA

Defense Contends New Evidence Shows Man Sentenced to Go to Electric Chair Tuesday Not Guilty of Pahl Murder.

BRIEF FILED WITH BOARD OF PARDONS

Attorney Holmes Says Supreme Court Ruling Should Not Inflence Decision Which Is Expected Monday Morning.

A final plea to save Walter R. Simmons from going to the electric chair in the Nebraska state penitentiary next Tuesday for the murder of Frank Pahl, Boyd county garage man, is made by Attorney E. P. Holmes in a brief filed Saturday afternoon in support of the condemned man's application for a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment.

The board Friday heard witnesses and testimony, presented by Simmons' attorneys in support of their contention that he is not guilty of the crime. Following that hearing Holmes was permitted to file a final brief, setting out his summary of this evidence and his argument. To this brief the prosecuting attorneys for the state will reply if they wish. The board will hold an executive meeting Monday morning, at which time it will attempt to reach a conclusion. Simmons latest reprieve expires July 14.

Touches On Court's Ruling.

Taking up the question of the supreme court's refusal to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment, Judge Holmes says:

"This case was tried, in the District court of Boyd county. The defendant pleaded not guilty. The jury found him guilty and fixed the death penalty. The writer of this brief would not contend for a moment that under the record made in the prosecution that the verdict was not justified. But after the term of court had adjourned new evidence was discovered that corro-

FRENCH DIVISION TO ATTACK RIFFS

Troops From Ruhr To Be Hurled Against Krim In Morocco.

PARIS, July 11.—(U. P.)—France and Spain are preparing for simultaneous thrusts against Abd-El-Krim, Riffian warrior chief.

To this end, one division of troops from the Ruhr has been ordered to Morocco. This is the first big contingent to be sent from France and will embark in about ten days.

Recent London messages indicated France was hastening Ruhr evacuation so that she might use forces from that region to hurl at Krim.

Before taking this new step in their campaign to end the war in Morocco, the two nations, according to word today from the French foreign office, have advised Krim that he cannot treat for peace separately with either country. If he wants peace, he must treat with both nations, he has been informed.

This action is regarded the first fruit of the Franch-Spanish negotiations for an accord on prosecution of the campaign against Krim.

Two Killed In A Plane Crash

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Falling into a tail spin as it circled over El Segundo near here late today an army plane from Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., crashed to earth and broke into flames, burning to death N. D. McClellan of Sawtelle, Calif., and Lieut. Hugh R. Denny, a reserve officer. Denny was said to have been piloting the plane.

WIND STORMS AND HEAT TAKE SEVERAL LIVES

Five Meet Death In Vicinity Of Chicago And One In Wisconsin.

Mercury Soars High In Northwest—Two Prostrated In Minneapolis.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Five persons met death in Chicago and vicinity from the storm and heat today.

The wind, accompanied by a heavy rain, lasted only twenty minutes, but during that time trees and wires were leveled.

One woman autoist, blinded by the rain, was killed at a Maywood railroad crossing. A man dropped dead from the heat at the Hawthorne race track, and another at Aurora. Two boys were drowned in the river at Elgin.

Tornado In Wisconsin.

STURGEON BAY, Wis., July 11.—(U. P.)—A tornado hit Sturgeon Bay late this afternoon with one known casualty.

The twister was accompanied by a heavy rain, and considerable property damage was reported.

Three men while crossing a bridge east of the city were swept off by the storm, being rescued by life savers.

No Relief In Sight.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 11.—No relief is sighted from the heat wave that gripped the northwest today, sending the mercury over the century mark in several cities and driving thousands to the lakes and parks.

Two were prostrated in Minneapolis when the mercury climbed twenty degrees to a maximum of 91.

At points in North and South Dakota long time records, broken yesterday, were again eclipsed when the mercury reached new high marks today. Pierre, S. D., recorded a temperature of 102, Fairfax 100 and Billings, Mont., 102.

Although the heat was general throughout Minnesota, the highest

Young Hiil Named In Alienation Suit

BILLINGS, Mont., July 11.—(I.N.S.)—Walter Hill, millionaire son of the late James J. Hill, founder of the Great Northern railroad and known as an "empire builder," was named as defendant in an alienation of affections suit filed in District court here today by Frank M. Gottlob, a rancher near Big Timber.

Mrs. Gottlob is now in Chicago, it was said.

Papers were served on Hill this week while he was inspecting his huge cattle ranch and land holdings near Livingston, in the vicinity of Yellowstone park.

Report a Plot Against Ruler And DeRivera

SANSEBASTIAN, Spain, July 11.—(I. N .S.) — An assassin's plot against the lives of King Alfonso and Gen. Primo De Rivera, head of the Spanish directory, was crushed today and two of its principals were enroute to Madrid under heavy guard after their capture in the province of Guipuzcoa.

They admitted their affiliation with the communist internationale and said the plot had been hatched in Paris. They were plentifully supplied with money.

The two men were arrested while attempting to buy automatic pistols. They were submitted to severe questioning and admitted they had arrived from Paris with the intentiton of killing the king and Gen. De Rivera.

Word of their arrest was telegraphed to Madrid and Gen. Amido ordered they be brought to the capital under heavy guard.

Twelve Day Heat Wave Is Not Yet Record, Says Weather Man

With temperatures above 90 degrees every day but two of the last twelve days, and with three days of the twelve on which the mercury reached or exceeded 100 degrees, July this year is yet far from setting a record for a mid-summer hot spell, says Thomas A. Blair, meterologist of the United States weather bureau.

"One of the two days on which the maximum was less than 90 degrees was July 4, which had moderate temperatures and clear skies all day, contrary to the remark frequently made that it always rains and is always hot on the Fourth," Mr. Blair said.

"Although the average temperature of these twelve days is about eight degrees above normal," Mr. Blair continued, "there have been several hotter periods in previous Julys, notably July, 1901, when there were twenty successive days during which the lowest maximum was 97 degrees and all the others were 100 degrees or more. Beginning June 29, 1911, there were seven successive days with maximum above 100 degrees the highest of which was 110 degrees, the highest official temperature of record here.

Watch Pressure Areas.

"Those who watch the weather maps published daily in the Star will have noted that the atmospheric pressure has been high over the southeastern states and generally low over the north and northwest during summer hot periods.

"So long as pressure remains high in the southeast, and such high pressure areas as are now in the northwest appear on the coast of California or Oregon and trend southeastward, so long the hot weather will continue.

"Whenever the general atmospheric circulation changes sufficiently to cause lower pressure in the southeast and moving high pressure areas across western Canada, we shall have cooler weather. When such a shifting of the general distribution of pressure will occur is not known, because the particular causes of such movements are not definitely known."

STORM READY TO BREAK IN DAYTON TRIAL

Commoner Promises Fight To Last Ditch To Bar Testimony of Scientists In Evolution Fight---Will Touch Off Fireworks Monday.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 11.—(I. N. S.)—The thunder of an approaching forensic storm was heard here tonight during a lull in the evolution trial.

The torrent of words will burst Monday in the little courthouse where John Thomas Scopes stands trial for teaching evolution in alleged defiance of the Tennessee law. It was assured tonight when William Jennings Bryan, battle scarred leader of fundamentalists, issued a challenge to the defense, which was eagerly accepted by Clarence S. Darrow, grizzled chief of the modernist legion.

The forces of religion and science will clash over a technical question of admitting the testimony of the scientists on the relation of evolution to the Biblical story of the Divine creation of man.

Bryan brought the storm to a head by announcing the prosecution would fight every effort to place scientists on the stand. The testimony of such witnesses, he said, was incompetent.

Darrow declared the Scopes jury, if the Bryan plan were followed, would have to decide his guilt or innocence when "they know nothing about evolution."

Such a proceeding, said Darrow, would be a travesty. He accused the state of "seeking to run away from the trial."

To Meet In Court Arena.

Out of the challenge and acceptance, it was apparent these two great orators will meet in the court arena. Constitutional issues, the guilt or innocence of Scopes, the dry technicality of the law, all will be pushed to the background, while religion, science, the Bible and evolution will be brought to the fore.

This will greatly please the hill folks, whose lawmakers were responsible for the trial. There has been a wave of disappointment running through Dayton. The home folks found themselves barred from the courtroom by out-of-town news paper men. There was a dearth of visitors except their own kin. The anticipated 30,000 visitors daily dwindled to 300. The interest in the trial waned.

But the prospect of a Bryan-Darrow battle of words revived Dayton's spirit. Tonight throngs on the criss-crossing main streets talked of nothing else. The public forum in Robinson's drug store was reorganized after a two day's adjournment. Arguments left off on Thursday were resumed. The town was staging a spiritual comeback.

Gives Thanks To Darrow.

They are giving thanks to Darrow. In his stuffy office on the second floor of the Telephone building, shirt-sleeved and suspendered, Darrow served notice of high lights to come. He dictated his statement while waving a fan.

"Two things are necessary to create an offense under the evolution statute of Tennessee," said Darrow. "First, that a theory is taught as to the origin of man that is contrary to the Divine account

Nebraska: Generally fair although somewhat unsettled Sunday and Monday; continued warm.

Kansas: Mostly fair Sunday and Monday; continued warm.

FEAR A CHINESE SHAMEEN DRIVE

Indications Seen Of Possible Attack On Canton Foreign Settlement.

HONG KONG, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Indications that the Chinese may carry out their threat to attempt to wrest Shameen, the international settlement at Canton, from the foreign powers was given today, according to reports from Canton.

The reports said the Chinese have erected barricades opposite Shameen, which is an island.

British, French and American gunboats are on duty at Shameen and the foreign defenders there have been strengthening their defenses.

The strike in the Hong Kong area has taken on a new aspect. Instead of being anti-foreign as was the case at first it has become capitalistic affecting Chinese the same as foreign-owned enterprises.

Chinese ships are being deserted by their Chinese crews.

Oil Is Struck At Iowa Town; Flow Is Small

HAMBURG, Ia., July 11.—(U.P.)—Visions of a second Tulsa swelled the hopes of two thousand inhabitants of this little agricultural center today with the report that oil had been struck on a farm four miles north of Hamburg.

And not to be deceived by the report, the whole town turned out enmasse to view the well which caused so much excitement.

It is located on the James Spicer farm well hidden from the main highway by waving fields of corn.

Operators of the well declared they have a high grade oil at the 1,090 foot level. A dozen barrels of crude, black oil were exhibited to the curious as evidence that the well is not a myth.

Skeptics, however, have joined in running down oil rumors in these parts before and accepted the evidence with a grain of salt.

ARSENIC IS FOUND IN SUGAR BOWLS

Lives Of Twenty-Six Janitors at Stanford University Endangered.

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 11.—(U. P)—Fingerprint experts were called to Stanford university today to help trace the origin of a quantity of arsenic found in the sugar bowls in the janitor's quarters shortly before breakfast. Twenty-six men were endangered.

The poison was discovered by a waiter who noticed the sugar bowls out of their usual places on the table shortly before the breakfast hour. He observed a powder sprinkled on the sugar and reported his suspicions.

A hasty analysis revealed the deadly poison. The quantity was sufficient to have killed all the men had they eaten from the bowls chemists reported.

The janitors are all employed by the American Building Maintenance Co. A. E. Roth, comptroller at the university, said he felt certain the plot was framed by a discharged employe.

SISTERS OF THUG VICTIM SOUGHT

B. F. Pinneo, Former Lincoln Man, Dies Saturday; Relatives May Be Here.

Benjamin F. Pinneo, formerly of Lincoln, died in St. Joseph, Mo., Saturday, officials of that city notified Captain of Detectives Walter Anderson Saturday afternoon. They asked aid in finding two sisters of the deceased, one single and thought to be a school teacher, the other married.

Pinneo, the report said, was held up and slugged in St. Joseph three weeks ago, dying from the effects of the blow.

Efforts to locate the sisters were unsuccessful Saturday night.

Rules Chicago Women Eligible To Be Jurors

CHICAGO, July 11.—(U. P.)—Women of Chicago today won a fresh victory for equality with men in the eyes of the law.

Judge Phillip L. Sullivan in the Superior court, ruled that women of Cook county are eligible for jury service and a mandamus was issued ordering county jury commissioners to place the names of qualified women on their lists.

The court's decision ended a fight started against the jury commission by Mrs. Hannah B. Fyfe, a prominent clubwoman. She argued that since the Nineteenth amendment to the federal constitution made women qualified electors, they are also qualified to serve on juries. The commissioners intend to carry the case to the supreme court.

Kansas City Banker Dies--Mystery Of $630,000 Shortage Unsolved

KANSAS CITY July 11—A new investigation into the mysterious disappearance of $630 000 of the banks funds causing failure of the bank and the death indirectly of its head, Joseph H Gant will be by the prosecutors office, it was announced today

The Centropolis bank—depository of hundreds of working people who had absolute faith in Joe Gants honesty—closed its doors last November Bank examiners found a baffling maze of irregularities

Gant told them he could explain it all But he never did

After the shortage was discovered officials renewed their efforts to get Gant to tell what became of the money But Gant, stricken ill at his home was physically and mentally incapable of facing his inquisitors

Gants wife and father stood between the sick banker and the banks officers and depositors Finally a grand jury indictment was returned against him on charges of embezzlement and forgery

Gant was brought into court on a stretcher He pleaded not guilty and his bond which was fixed at $50 000 was quickly furnished by friends and associates The banker broken in health steadily grew worse His physicians said he made no fight to live Never would he discuss the mystery of the banks shortage

Today Gant died carrying to the grave his silence

The banks customers whose entire savings were swept away in the crash can expect to receive about 50 cents on the dollar officials said

Judge Raulston Must Make An Important Ruling Monday; Bryan And Darrow Perfect Their Plans

Judge John T Raulston, presiding judge in the Scopes anti evolution trial and (inset) a view of the Rhea county courthouse at Dayton, Tenn

DALTON Tenn July 11—(U P)—At the junction of Main and Water hub of Dayton lights tonight gleamed belligerently into the darkness from offices facing each other directly across the street

Clarence Darrow who is leading the fight to free John Thomas Scopes from the charge of violating the Tennessee anti evolution law sat in one surrounded by his staff of associates Big law books were heaped up in front of him and the table around which the lawyers sat was littered with papers From time to time Darrow brushed at winged bugs drawn in by the powerful globe

Across the street William Jennings Bryan standard bearer of the fundamentalists and main spring of the prosecution in the Scopes case similarly sat at a table strewn with papers and books Around him were his eight assistants

Voices dropped down from open windows into the deserted streets Tired natives long since had gone to bed The hot breath of the night rustled the trees which shade Water street

Here in this still town a masterly duel of wizards perhaps one of the greatest legal debates in history was being laboriously fashioned

Prepare For Coming Duel

On Monday when the second day of the Scopes evolution trial is opened the question of admissibility of scientific evidence in support of evolution will come up Both sides tonight prepared for a duel to the death

The prosecution will contend that the question of whether evolution conflicts with the Bible is still a question for the jury to decide not scientists The defense will contend that the jury admittedly without much knowledge of evolution must be informed about it in order to determine whether what Scopes taught his pupils was contrary to the Biblical law of creation

Bryan has ordered his forces to resist it to the end Darrow is equally determined that he will not go down without perhaps the greatest battle of his career

The defense is strictly on the defense If Judge Raulston rules that such evidence is not admissable the defense case falls flat

The great question of alleged conflict of evolution and religious teachings then will not be tried here and Dayton will be deserted while the Scopes case goes to higher courts

Judge John T. Raulston, presiding judge in the Scopes anti-evolution trial and (inset) a view of the Rhea county courthouse at Dayton, Tenn.

DALTON, Tenn., July 11.—(U. P.)—At the junction of Main and Water, hub of Dayton, lights tonight gleamed belligerently into the darkness from offices facing each other directly across the street.

Clarence Darrow, who is leading the fight to free John Thomas Scopes from the charge of violating the Tennessee anti-evolution law, sat in one, surrounded by his staff of associates. Big law books were heaped up in front of him and the table around which the lawyers sat was littered with papers. From time to time, Darrow brushed at winged bugs drawn in by the powerful globe.

Across the street, William Jennings Bryan, standard bearer of the fundamentalists and main spring of the prosecution in the Scopes case, similarly sat at a table strewn with papers and books. Around him were his eight assistants.

Voices dropped down from open windows into the deserted streets. Tired natives long since had gone to bed. The hot breath of the night rustled the trees which shade Water street.

Here in this still town, a masterly duel of wizards, perhaps one of the greatest legal debates in history was being laboriously fashioned.

Prepare For Coming Duel.

On Monday, when the second day of the Scopes evolution trial is opened, the question of admissibility of scientific evidence in support of evolution will come up. Both sides tonight prepared for a duel to the death.

The prosecution will contend that the question of whether evolution conflicts with the Bible is strictly a question for the jury to decide, not scientists. The defense will contend that the jury, admittedly without much knowledge of evolution, must be informed about it in order to determine whether what Scopes taught his pupils was contrary to the Biblical law of creation.

Bryan has ordered his forces to resist it to the end. Darrow is equally determined that he will not go down without perhaps the greatest battle of his career.

The defense is strictly on the defense. If Judge Raulston rules that such evidence is not admissable, the defense case falls flat.

The great question of alleged conflict of evolution and religious teachings then will not be tried here and Dayton will be deserted, while the Scopes case goes to higher courts.

Darrow, the United Press learns, intends to stake all on his oration Monday. Barred forever from introducing expert testimony on evolution at this trial, if Raulston rules against him, he intends to place as much of such evidence into the record as possible in his own words during the arguments on the question.

If Raulston rules out the evidence, Darrow at least has given the jury some idea of the conflict as the defense sees it.

If the judge admits it, nothing has ben lost.

Both sides profess optimism over Judge Raulston's probable ruling.

"We are so confident that he will admit our witnesses that we are going ahead getting them here," said John R. Neal.

"We do not see how he can admit them," said Herbert Hicks of the prosecution.

"If he does, the Supreme court of Tennessee is sure to reverse him under the laws of evidence."

John T. Scopes, the defendant, took an indifferent view.

"It doesn't matter a bit to me how it comes out," he said.

Bryan issued a statement giving his side of the case. He said no scientist could change the anti-evolutionist and that the only question was—has the law been violated.

RACE AWARD TO YOUNG ITALIAN

De Paolo Declared Victor In Gasoline Classic On Eastern Track.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Peter De Paolo and not Bobby McDonogh, won the 250-mile automobile race at the Washington-Baltimore speedway this afternoon, contest officers decided here tonight.

McDonogh, 25-year-old protege of Tommy Milton, was credited with a victory at the track this afternoon, but the judges, after a bitter session, checked over the figures tonight and gave the decision to DePaolo, nephew of Ralph DePalma. DePaolo had protested.

The revised and official standings were announced as follows: Peter DePaolo, first; McDonogh, second; Harry Hartz, third; Fred Comer, fourth and Frank Elliott, fifth.

The revised time gives Paolo an average speed of 123.33 miles per hour. He covered the course in two hours one minute and 32 seconds.

McDonogh's time was announced as two hours one minute and 59-28-100 seconds.

The re-count of laps was in charge of Richard Kennedy, chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile association.

Officials of the race admitted that things had moved so fast at the track that they had been unable to keep accurate account at the time.

Kansas City Banker Dies--Mystery Of $630,000 Shortage Unsolved

KANSAS CITY, July 11.—A new investigation into the mysterious disappearance of $630,000 of the bank's funds, causing failure of the bank and the death indirectly of its head, Joseph H. Gant, will be by the prosecutor's office, it was announced today.

The Centropolis bank—depository of hundreds of working people who had absolute faith in "Joe" Gant's honesty—closed its doors last November. Bank examiners found a baffling maze of irregularities.

Gant told them he could explain it all. But he never did.

After the shortage was discovered, officials renewed their efforts to get Gant to tell what became of the money. But Gant, stricken ill at his home, was physically and mentally incapable of facing his inquisitors.

Gant's wife and father stood between the sick banker and the bank's officers and depositors. Finally a grand jury indictment was returned against him on charges of embezzlement and forgery.

Gant was brought into court on a stretcher. He pleaded not guilty and his bond, which was fixed at $50,000, was quickly furnished by friends and associates. The banker, broken in health, steadily grew worse. His physicians said he made no fight to live. Never would he discuss the mystery of the bank's shortage.

Today Gant died, carrying to the grave his silence.

The bank's customers, whose entire savings were swept away in the crash, can expect to receive about 50 cents on the dollar, officials said.

NO TUBERCULOSIS IN POLK COUNTY

Area Certified to Government as Practically Free From Disease.

Is Second County So Accredited: Its Cattle to Sell At Premium.

Polk county has been certified as a modified tuberculosis-free accredited area by the state and federal governments. It is the second county in the state to be so declared following the tuberculin testing of cattle and the removal of those affected with the disease.

Official notice has been sent to the county board of commissioners and will be in force immediately. The requirement for this standing is that less than five-tenths of 1 per cent of the county must be free from the disease. The records of the work in Polk county show that since the work began in December [illegible], 1,725 herds have been tested, a total of 11,429 head of cattle. Since that time 135 tuberculous cattle have been found and removed. These were located on [illegible] different farms.

The cattle owners of Polk county will have an advantage over those of other counties which have no [illegible]. Cattle from Polk county may be moved interstate without additional tests being made provided that they are from the original herds.

A financial gain will also be had by swine breeders in the county. Hogs bred and fed in Polk county will receive a premium of 10 cents per 100 pounds over the market prices.

The following statement is issued from state bureau of animal industry:

Must Maintain Precautions.

"It is highly important that the cattle owners of Polk county be fully informed as to the arrangements under which this position is gained. To maintain the county its status as a modified tuberculosis-free accredited area, cattle brought into the county for breeding or dairy purposes must be tuberculin tested before being made a part of the herds in the county which have been tested. Cattle for feeding and grazing purposes may be brought into the county, but they must be kept separate and apart from tested cattle as to feeding, watering, and housing. This is but a reasonable precaution necessary to protect the clean herds from the infection of tuberculosis that might be brought in through cattle from other counties.

The cattle owners of Polk county are put on their honor as it is not the intention of the state department to police the farms and the territory of the county to see that the regulations of the state government are complied with. These regulations have been published and posted in various places in the county that every herd owner may have knowledge of the full arrangements. So long as these regulations are complied with it will not be necessary that the cattle in the county be again tuberculin tested for a period of at least three years. Thep rotection by reason of following closely these regulations is one that is to be expected from each person operating under their provisions.

To bring about this situation in Polk county has been a piece of work co-operated in by the Polk County Farm Bureau, the county board of commissioners, and the many herd owners who have been co-operative in assisting the state and federal field veterinarians engaged in testing the cattle. Particular credit may be given to the president of the farm bureau for his tireless effort in seeking to have this position attained by the county. No credit can rest on any individual alone, as every herd owner in his co-operation by having his herd tested has helped to an end that the county may be certified as credited area."

Luncheon Given For McDermott; Going To China

R. D. McDermott, chief at the Boy Scout Camp Quivira near Louisville for the last three years, was the guest at the chamber of commerce Saturday. Mr. McDermott leaves Lincoln in a few days and will sail August 8 on the President Cleveland from San Francisco to take up his duties at the Canton Christian College where he has a three-year appointment to head Scout work.

A white gold watch was presented to McDermott in token of the council's appreciation of his work at the camp. In a statement, attendance had increased 50 per cent the second year and will increase 65 per cent this year over last year. About twenty were present at the luncheon.

Telegrams he has received, MacDermott said Saturday, indicate that reports of conditions in Canton have been exaggerated. The rebels have been driven out, he said, the faculty of the college is occupying the buildings, and the school will open September 2 as usual.

Lodge Notes

Clematis club was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Helen Keller, 2403 R street. Seventeen members were present and one guest, Mrs. M. Huffnagel. The afternoon was spent informally. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Miss Mae Keller.

Magnolia Camp 44 of the R. N. of A. officers and team went to Bennet Friday evening and initiated a class of fifteen new members. Supreme Auditor Torkelson and Deputy Jackson were present. After initiation a dainty lunch was served to one hundred neighbors and guests. Bennet camp had a large class Lincoln members said. All are invited to the picnic at Antelope park in August when Magnolia camp will put on an open-air initiation.

NO TUBERCULOSIS IN POLK COUNTY

Area Certified to Government as Practically Free From Disease.

Is Second County So Accredited; Its Cattle to Sell At Premium.

Polk county has been certified as a modified tuberculosis-free accredited area by the state and federal governments. It is the second county in the state to be so declared following the tuberculin testing of cattle and the removal of those affected with the disease.

Official notice has been sent t the county board of commissioners and will be in force immediately. The requirement for this standing is that less than five-tenths of 1 per cent of the county must be free from the disease. The records of the work in Polk county show that since the work began in December 1923, 1,728 herds have been tested, a total of 21,429 head of cattle. Since that time 205 tuberculous cattle have been found and removed. These were located on 112 different farms.

The cattle owners of Polk county will have an advantage over those of other counties which have no been certified. Cattle from Polk county may be moved interstate without additional tests being made provided that they are from the original herds.

A financial gain will also be had by swine breeders in the county. Hogs bred and fed in Polk county will receive a premium of 10 cents per 100 pounds over the market prices.

The following statement is issued from state bureau of animal industry:

Must Maintain Precautions.

"It is highly important that the cattle owners of Polk county be fully informed as to the arrangements under which this position is gained. To maintain the county its status as a modified tuberculosis-free accredited area, cattle brought into the county for breeding or dairy purposes must be tuberculin tested before being made a part of the herds in the county which have been tested. Cattle for feeding and grazing purposes may be brought into the county, but they must be kept separate and apart from tested cattle as to feeding, watering, and housing. This is but a reasonable precaution necessary to protect the clean herds from the infection of tuberculosis that might be brought in through cattle from other counties.

The cattle owners of Polk county are put on their honor as it is not the intention of the state department to police the farms and the territory of the county to see that the regulations of the state government are complied with. These regulations have been published and posted in various places in the county that every herd owner may have knowledge of the full arrangements. So long as these regulations are complied with it will not be necessary that the cattle in the county be again tuberculin tested for a period of at least three years. Thep rotection by reason of following closely these regulations is one that is to be expected from each person operating under their provisions.

To bring about this situation in Polk county has been a piece of work co-operated in by the Polk County Farm Bureau, the county board of commissioners, and the many herd owners who have been co-operative in assisting the state and federal field veterinarians engaged in testing the cattle. Particular credit may be given to the president of the farm bureau for his tireless effort in seeking to have this position attained by the county. No credit can rest on any individual alone, as every herd owner in his co-operation by having his herd tested has helped to an end that the county may be certified as credited area."

Luncheon Given For McDermott; Going To China

R. D. McDermott, chief at the Boy Scout Camp Quivira near Louisville for the last three years, was the guest at the chamber of commerce Saturday. Mr. McDermott leaves Lincoln in a few days and will saili August 8 on the President Cleveland from San Francisco to take up his duties at the Canton Christian College where he has a three-year appointment to head Scout work.

A white gold watch was presented to McDermott in token of the council's appreciation of his work at the camp. In a statement, attendance had increased 50 per cent the second year and will increase 65 per cent this year over last year. About twenty were present at the luncheon.

Telegrams he has received, MacDermott and Saturday, indicate that reports of conditions in Canton have been exaggreated. The rebels have been driven out, he said, the faculty of the college is occupying the buildings, and the school will open September 2 as usual.

Lodge Notes

Clematis club was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Helen Keller, 2403 R street. Seventeen members were present and one guest, Mrs. M. Huffnagel. The afternoon was spent informally. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Miss Mae Keller.

Magnolia Camp 44 of the R. N. of A. officers and team went to Bennet Friday evening and initiated a class of fifteen new members. Supreme Auditor Torkelson and Deputy Jackson were present. After initiation a dainty lunch was served to one hundred neighbors and guests. Bennet camp had a large class Lincoln members said. All are invited to the picnic at Antelope park in August when Magnolia camp will put on an open-air initiation.

TRAINED AND PERPETUAL

The largest estates are in the care of trust companies. Men who are preeminently successful form sound judgments. They know the individual is not to be considered when they can have the trained experience of all the officers of an old established trust company, and the perpetual existence of a corporate body that will not die with its work unfinished.

Keep this in mind when your lawyer draws your will.

STOCK PRICES SWING UPWARD TO NEW HIGHS

Business And Industrial Reports For Past Week Are Favorable.

Building Permits Increasing —More Active Trading In Sight.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(I. N. S.) With only moderate reactions in the prices of motor and industrial stocks, which have been advancing very briskly of late, the course of the stock market was distinctly upward

The forward price movement in motor, tire and rubber, shipping, equipment, copper and some of the oil and railroad stocks continued, with many stocks reaching new high prices for the year. Week-end profit taking and professional selling were not sufficient to cause any general decline.

BUSINESS AND SECURITIES.

Business and industrial reports of the week were generally favorable. There was a decline of 339,000 tons in the unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation, but this was not above expectations. Week-end economic surveys reported a gradual change in policy in this respect, brought about by evidences of a tendency to higher commodity prices.

Bradstreets' review afforded the knowledge that wholesale prices rose again as in May, that building permits have been increasing, that the automobile manufacturing industry holds at record levels for this time of year, that chain store business is unusually large and profitable, and that industrial leaders are looking forward with confidence to more active business in the last half of the year.

BOND MARKET.

The week was active in both the listed market, where Liberty bonds reacted after reaching new high levels, and in the market for new securities, which absorbed about $115,000,000 of new domestic and foreign bond issues. Selling of Liberty bonds near the end of the week was attributed to profit taking by individual and institutional buyers, who had anticipated the reinvestment rush for high grade issues in the first part of July and acquired a good volume of securities in this class when prices were considerably lower. Industrial utility and railroad bonds continued strong and fairly active.

CURB MARKET.

Spectacular forward price movements took place in different sections of the curb market this week. Engineers Gold was the feature, with umps to 100 after which it declined to 83.

COTTON AND GRAIN.

Prices of grain and cotton were fairly steady. Wheat advanced about 10 cents a bushel on covering and commission house buying. Cotton prices declined about 15 points.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Foreign exchanges steadied after their recent extreme weakness. Domestic money rates were unchanged for time funds, while call money, after declining to 3 3-4 per cent, advanced to a closing price of 4½ per cent.

Bank clearings declined 20.4 per cent for the week in July 9. Bradstreet's food index for the week of July 9 is 371, against 368 last month and 311 in the same week last year.

Grains Regain Lost Ground.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—It was a bulls' day in the wheat market and grains today regained most of the ground lost in recent sessions, wheat closing 6 5-8 to 7 1-2c over Friday's figures. The heat wave over the northwest, reports of increasing rust inroads and the bullish Canadian report of yesterday were factors that caused aggressive buying, and, this coupled with the lack of selling pressure, made for the upturn in prices.

Corn also showed considerable strength, partly in sympathy with wheat and also because of the buying inspired by hot weather over the belt. Old crop futures were the strongest. There was a slowing up in the shipping demand.

There was a lack of selling pressure in oats and this firmed that market, values being firmed by only moderate buying. Stability in other grains also was a factor. Spot demand was fairly active.

Provisions were firm, reflecting the increasing value of livestock.

Hog Receipts Bigger.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Receipts of hogs this week 140,025, last week 102,607; cattle this week 52,923, last 52,095; sheep and lambs this week 74,806, last 68,951.

Hogs worked lower during the week, the best offerings being quoted around $14 40, against $14.50 last week. At the close of trade, however, values appeared to be on the upturn. Good butchers sold around $14.25 and light hogs were a little slow at times, but prices held fairly steady.

Cattle trade was slow generally through the week, with exception of top steers at $13.90 and prime yearlings at $13.75, the year's high to date. Plain grassers dropped about $1 with the medium grade leading the decline. Calves advanced from $1 to $1.50.

Prices held about steady in the sheep market and fat lambs showed strength compared with the close of last week, but at reduced values.

Cotton Closes Lower.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Cotton closed 10 to 20 points lower here today, after a lower opening in response to weaker cables. The trade was light

Closing prices were: July 23 60; Oct 23.03; Dec. 23 15; Jan 23 20; Mar. 23.50.

Avert Conflict Over Security Pact In Berlin

BERLIN, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—By desperate eleventh hour maneuvering the Luther-Stresemann government succeeded today in averting open conflict in its ranks over the proposed security pact.

Foreign Minister Stresemann was successful in persuading the coalition to postpone debate n the pact until after Germany's answer to France.

For a week there has been the hottest internal strife going on over whether the German proposals shall contain binding promises, fixing the future course of German foreign policy.

Snapshots of Scopes Trial

DAYTON, Tenn., July 11.—John T. Scopes is a convicted man today in the eyes of his father.

"With that jury," said the daddy, Thomas Scopes of Paducah, Ky., "the state is sure to win. They are opposed to evolution and you can't expect to change their convictions over night. But whatever their verdict is, and it is certain to be a conviction, it won't change the truth, and truth will prevail in the end. Despite this jury, I believe my boy will be acquitted in the eyes of the world."

Dorothy May Hayes, aged 10, a brown-eyed miss in Scopes' school, today described in a nutshell Dayton's attitude toward the young school teacher and the evolution trial.

"I'm for Scopes," she volunteered, "but I'm against evolution."

"Why?" asked the reporter.

"Well, he's from our country, he teaches in our schools and I like him," ran her prompt reply "But I don't believe I came from a monkey."

And her verdict reflected the countryside opinion.

Out of the hundreds of officials, attorneys and newspapermen attending the trial, only three wear their coats on the street. These charter members of the "Coat Wearers' union" are Judge John T. Raulston, to sustain his official dignity, Sheriff R. B. Harris, to hide his six-shooter, and Dudley Field Malone, to uphold Fifth avenue form.

The "pitchmen" enliven the streets near the courthouse with all the time worn "rackets" and one or two new ones. Auctioning feminine underwear is one Gathering a crowd with a machine supposed to turn a piece of blank paper into a two dollar bill and then "introducing" a thread that sharpens razors is another. Shoes, souvenirs, pennants, monkey dolls, caricatures of the principals, a monkey song, handbooks on the case and on the town are among other wares hawked at the curb.

As Judge Raulston at intervals of a few minutes orders the courtroom windows cleared for ventilation, the aroma of barbecued beef floats in. Four steers were quartered and roasted out doors in the courthouse grounds, the meat being served in an improvised shanty. A colored barbecue expert tends the slowly roasting meat, night and day, sleeping on the ground beside the trench.

To settle a frequently discussed question, there is no chapter of the Ku Klux Klan in Dayton or in Rhea county. This is a strongly Masonic community, with more than 100 thirty-second degree Masons in this town of 1,700.

William Jennings Bryan will teach the Sunday class tomorrow at the Methodist church in which young Scopes is a member. The latter is expected to attend. The Commoner also will speak Sunday night on "What Shall We Do with Jesus?" at a meeting in the courthouse.

By actual count there are 162 correspondents assigned to places in the courthouse. They have hammered their typewriters for a daily total of 400,000 words, according to an estimate by Western Union officials.

The stories have been sent to every corner of the United States, into Canada and by cable to Europe.

John Washington Butler, the Tennessee legislator who fathered the anti-evolution law, has endorsed the Scopes jury.

"Scopes will get a fair trial from the jury," said Butler.

"It is a jury of honest, God-fearing farmers."

Eleven uniformed policemen, imported from Chattanooga and Knoxville, have re-inforced the Dayton police department. This means that John Coleman, town marshal, won't have to do all the work alone.

MANY JOIN IN A SEARCH FOR YOUNG KNAPP

ered horses through the Adirondacks foothills, motorcycle police burned up the road from Albany to the border, while hundreds of farmers, campers, guides and woodsmen searched fields and forests and beat the brush in search of the man whose brain is alleged to have been affected by that chance blow. Army planes were ready to join the chase.

Search for the "super-thrill," as Knapp, son of a wealthy and prominent family, himself styled it, led him to desert the army and kill in cold blood a taxi driver, whose identity he assumed, the authorities believe. A warrant has been issued charging the fugitive with first degree murder.

The hunt for Knapp was not confined to the region to which he was traced this week after the body of Louis Panella of Hempstead, was found buried, save for one foot, beneath plaster slabs and sheets of metal lath near Camp Mills.

May Have Joined Runners.

In his erratic and venturesome career since recovering from an operation which lifted a piece of bone from his brain, the 27-year-old deserter had engaged in rum running and it was thought he might have joined some of his cronies among the bootleggers.

Knapp's comrades in the observance squadron, in which he was a private at Mineola, and whence he deserted, were closely questioned today with a view to obtaining further clues as to his possible whereabouts.

For it developed that the young man had discussed with his "buddies" his intention to go "over the hill," and had urged Pvt. "Scotty" Morrison to join him.

The fugitive was known to his army associates as a brilliant scholar, erratic in his conversation and conduct, always talking of "thrills" he had experienced, which left him dissatisfied.

Today some of these same buddies were on duty in the state-wide hunt which must end, the authorities say, in Knapp's capture, dead or alive, within a day or so.

To several the deserter wrote letters after his flight and through these he was traced to Albany.

Army airplanes, manned by members of Knapp's squadron, were tuned up today to take part in the man hunt. If he is captured, the state will be making the following case against him:

Knapp was seen talking to Panella, the slain chauffeur, on the afternoon of July 1. A few hours later, Panella was summoned by telephone to Mineola and never was seen again alive. His body was found near Camp Mills last Saturday. He had been shot through the head with a service revolver. Such a revolver disappeared from the observation squadron barracks simultaneously with Knapp's desertion.

Panella's pockets had been emptied and his cab had been driven to New York and sold to an automobile sales agency for $1,000 by a man answering Knapp's description. The company paid $100 down, and the seller never returned for the balance.

Knapp when he deserted left a letter explaining his boredom with life and saying he had contemplated suicide.

Knapp's family, shocked by the tragedy, still hope he is not the murderer of Panella. His father explained through an attorney that some years ago, when Phillip was in the navy, he and some comrades encountered a group of natives while climbing a hill in South America, and Knapp's skull was cracked by a blow from a club. Later an operation was performed and it was found necessary to insert an small plate in his skull to relieve pressure on the brain.

District Attorney Weeks is convinced Knapp is legally sane and can be convicted of first degree murder if apprehended.

AN OCEAN ROMANCE.

LONDON, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—A twentieth century romance beginning on an ocean liner in mid-Atlantic culminated in a marriage here today in the church of St. Etheldreda.

The bride was Miss Mary Webber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Webber of Keokuk, Iowa, and she was married to Prof. Barstow Griffis of the Carnegie institute, Pittsburgh. The couple met and became engaged on the way over here and their marriage followed close upon the docking of their ship.

STORM READY TO BREAK IN DAYTON TRIAL

as contained in the Bible; secondly, that this theory shall hold that man is developed from a lower order of animal life.

"Mr. Bryan and his associates seem to think that a Tennessee jury all of whom they say know nothing about evolution, can determine what evolution is without evidence, and that likewise, the jury can determine what is the Divine account contained in the Bible of the creation of man. This, in view of the fact that there are contradictory accounts in the Bible and no such an account is mentioned in the statute.

Weighty Question For Jury.

"A jury is expected likewise to find whether this theory of evolution and the accounts in the Bible are in conflict when millions of people of intelligence and learning are both Christians and evolutionists. The jury is expected to decide this without hearing any evidence.

"It is obvious on its face that this would be a travesty and the state is simply aiming to run away from the trial.

"The constitution of the state of Tennessee makes no distinction between the Mohammedan, the Christian or any creed or sect, but guarantees absolutely freedom of religious ideas.

"Millions of people in the United States are today discussing these questions, apparently having formed their conclusions from different facts. The Tennessee jury is expected to settle the question without hearing any facts."

Bryan Issues Challenge.

Earlier Bryan laid down the state's position in a challenge. He was coatless, sleeveless, sport shirted, slippered and hatless, beneath the cool shade of an elm on the lawn of the home which he makes his own here. Around him were gathered all the other members of the prosecuting staff and they first approved the statement before Bryan gave it to the public.

"This trial is a bonafide case in which the state is enforcing a law, serious in its purpose and passed deliberately," said Bryan.

"This case will be tried according to the rule of evidence, with the possibility of appeal to higher courts. If improper evidence is offered by the defense, objection will be made to it, and I doubt not that the defense will object to any testimony offered by the prosecution of it thinks that testimony improper.

Says Statute Clear.

"Attorney General Stewart has pointed out that the statute which is being enforced is perfectly clear and free from ambiguity. It forbids the teaching of a doctrine that denies the truth of the Bible record of man's creation, and that there may be no misunderstanding of the law it interprets the language used by specifying the objectionable thing as the doctrine that man is a descendant of some lower form of life. There is no doubt that evolution asserts man's descent from some lower form of life, and no scientific specialists could change the law or its meaning, no matter who these specialists might be or how many there might be.

"If the people of Tennessee have a right to pass laws for the protection of the religion of their children, then they have a right to determine for themselves what they consider injurious and dangerous to their children. No specialists from the outside are required to inform the parents of Tennessee as to what is harmful. The testimony of such experts, therefore, is not only incompetent, but would be offensive.

Says East Would Object.

"If a law like this were passed in New York and witnesses were called from Tennessee to assure the people of New York that they were unduly alarmed and that there was nothing to fear, their testimony would be objected to as offensive as well as improper. If it would be absurd for Tennessee experts to advise the people of New York and Illinois as to what is helpful not harmful to their children, why is it not absurd to call experts from New York and Illinois to challenge the right of the people of Tennessee to legislate as they please and according to their own sense of responsibilities and their own judgement as to what is harmful and as to what is objectionable from a sctable standpoint?

"The people of Tennessee have a right to protect the Bible as they understand it. They are not compelled to consider the interpretations placed upon it by people of other states, whether Christians or scientists, or both."

borated the statement of Simmons, and showed conclusively that he is not guilty.

"The supreme court refused to consider the newly discovered evidence and in passing upon this case invited the defendant to come before this board and get the relief to which he claimed he was entitled.

"We take no exception to the ruling of the court, but desire to impress upon the minds of this board that the holding of the supreme court in affirming the death sentence should not in any manner mitigate or influence the action of this board in determining the question of whether or not the newly discovered evidence is sufficient to show that Walter Simmons is not guilty of the crime charged. The statutes provide that all newly discovered evidence shall be produced at the term of court at which the case is tried, but in the district court of Boyd county where court is held but for a few days twice a year, this was impossible.

"The only question for you to determine is whether or not any reasonable honest, conscientious doubt has been created by the evidence produced."

Says Killed by Auto Crank.

Judge Holmes stresses the contention that Pahl was killed by an auto crank rather than by the hammer produced as evidence in the trial. This point is vital in that by the hammer, premeditation was proven while if death was caused by a blow with the crank, Judge Holmes insists that the premeditation could not have been proven. The death penalty is provided where premeditation is evident but where it is not, the guilt is presumed as of lesser degree.

Each point and the significance of it is gone over in the brief. The final conclusion however urges the granting of commutation on humanitarian grounds.

The commandment "Thou Shalt Not Kill" is brought forcibly to the attention of the members of the pardon board in this final plea. "That commandment is addressed not to him alone but to me, and you, and the courts and the whole community."

"There is only one question before the board at this time," Judge Holmes continues, "that is not whether the defendant shed the blood of a fellow man, but whether yourselves shall unlawfully shed his blood, and as we have urged, if this crime was committed in a sudden quarrel, if deliberation and premeditation to murder is eliminated, as we insist it is, to take this man's life is unlawful shedding of his blood.

"The writer of this brief would be guilty of murder if in his present relation to the defendant he saw the executioner waiting for an innocent man and failed to do and say in his behalf all that our ability allows.

"For three long years behind the bars Simmons has had time to reflect upon the awfullness of the charge against him and to make his peace with God, prepared to enter into the Great Beyond, yet not one word, either to his God or to his people has he said to indicate his guilt of the crime, or that his conscience had finally yielded to the burden it must bear if he is guilty.

Faith In Pardon Board.

"Quietly, submissively, calm and prepared, no sleepless nights, no expression of anxiety, no fearing for the future, he is hoping and believing in the effacy of our laws. Trusting in those who have administered the laws, and with the utmost faith in this tribunal, which is empowered, after all is said and done, to see that a life is spared when doubt, such as appears in this case exists.

"Vengeance is Mine, saith the Lord," and not for vengeance that we enforce the laws of this state, for, ever uppermost in our minds should be the most anxious and zealus thought that justice will prevail.

"If there are any pre-judgments, or any fear of popular clamor or opinions which generally have operated to cause you to deny to the defendant that consideration and clemency for which he now most earnestly pleads, and which the laws of God and man exact of you, and, owing to such an error on your part, this young man shall fall from the living, ask yurselves what will be your crime.

"In this case, under the facts, we should be asking for a pardon, and that should be granted, and Simmons relieved of the dreadful charge that has been made against him, and of which he has been wrongfully convicted. But we have not gone so far as to ask that which might cause this board to hesitate, but only asked for a reduction of sentence, in order that life should not be taken when such grave and serious doubts exist."

STOCK PRICES SWING UPWARD TO NEW HIGHS

Business And Industrial Reports For Past Week Are Favorable.

Building Permits Increasing —More Active Trading In Sight.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(I. N. S.) —With only moderate reactions in the prices of motor and industrial stocks, which have been advancing very briskly of late, the course of the stock market was distinctly upward.

The forward price movement in motor, tire and rubber, shipping, equipment, copper and some of the oil and railroad stocks continued, with many stocks reaching new high prices for the year. Week-end profit taking and professional selling were not sufficient to cause any general decline.

BUSINESS AND SECURITIES.

Business and industrial reports of the week were generally favorable. There was a decline of 339,000 tons in the unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation, but this was not above expectations. Week-end economic surveys reported a gradual change in policy in this respect, brought about by evidences of a tendency to higher commodity prices.

Bradstreets' review afforded the knowledge that wholesale prices rose again as in May, that building permits have been increasing, that the automobile manufacturing industry holds at record levels for this time of year, that chain store business is unusually large and profitable, and that industrial leaders are looking forward with confidence to more active business in the last half of the year.

BOND MARKET.

The week was active in both the listed market, where Liberty bonds reacted after reaching new high levels, and in the market for new securities, which absorbed about $115,000,000 of new domestic and foreign bond issues. Selling of Liberty bonds near the end of the week was attributed to profit taking by individual and institutional buyers, who had anticipated the reinvestment rush for high grade issues in the first part of July and acquired a good volume of securities in this class when prices were considerably lower. Industrial utility and railroad bonds continued strong and fairly active.

CURB MARKET.

Spectacular forward price movements took place in different sections of the curb market this week. Engineers Gold was the feature, with umps to 100 after which it declined to 83.

COTTON AND GRAIN.

Prices of grain and cotton were fairly steady. Wheat advanced about 10 cents a bushel on covering and commission house buying. Cotton prices declined about 15 points.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Foreign exchanges steadied after their recent extreme weakness. Domestic money rates were unchanged for time funds, while call money, after declining to 3 3-4 per cent, advanced to a closing price of 4½ per cent.

Bank clearings declined 20.4 per cent for the week in July 9. Bradstreet's food index for the week of July 9 is 371, against 368 last month and 311 in the same week last year.

Grains Regain Lost Ground.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—It was a bulls' day in the wheat market and grains today regained most of the ground lost in recent sessions, wheat closing 6 5-8 to 7 1-2c over Friday's figures. The heat wave over the northwest, reports of increasing rust inroads and the bullish Canadian report of yesterday were factors that caused aggressive buying, and, this coupled with the lack of selling pressure, made for the upturn in prices.

Corn also showed considerable strength, partly in sympathy with wheat and also because of the buying inspired by hot weather over the belt. Old crop futures were the strongest. There was a slowing up in the shipping demand.

There was a lack of selling pressure in oats and this firmed that market, values being firmed by only moderate buying. Stability in other grains also was a factor. Spot demand was fairly active.

Provisions were firm, reflecting the increasing value of livestock.

Hog Receipts Bigger.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Receipts of hogs this week 140,025, last week 102,607; cattle this week 52,923, last 52,095; sheep and lambs this week 74,806, last 68,951.

Hogs worked lower during the week, the best offerings being quoted around $14.40, against $14.50 last weefl. At the close of trade, however, values appeared to be on the upturn. Good butchers sold around $14.25 and light hogs were a little slow at times, but prices held fairly steady.

Cattle trade was slow generally through the week, with exception of top steers at $13.90 and prime yearlings at $13.75, the year's high to date. Plain grassers dropped about $1 with the medium grade leading the decline. Calves advanced from $1 to $1.50.

Prices held about steady in the sheep market and fat lambs showed strength compared with the close of last week, but at reduced values.

Cotton Closes Lower.

CHICAGO, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—Cotton closed 10 to 20 points lower here today, after a lower opening in response to weaker cables. The trade was light.

Closing prices were: July 23.60; Oct. 23.03; Dec. 23.15; Jan. 23.20; Mar. 23.50.

Avert Conflict Over Security Pact In Berlin

BERLIN, July 11.—(I. N. S.) —By desperate eleventh hour maneuvering the Luther-Stresemann government succeeded today in averting open conflict in its ranks over the proposed security pact.

Foreign Minister Stresemann was successful in persuading the coalition to postpone debate n the pact until after Germany's answer to France.

For a week there has been the hottest internal strife going on over whether the German proposals shall contain binding promises, fixing the future course of German foreign policy.

Snapshots of Scopes Trial

DAYTON, Tenn., July 11.—John T. Scopes is a convicted man today in the eyes of his father.

"With that jury," said the daddy, Thomas Scopes of Paducah, Ky., "the state is sure to win. They are opposed to evolution and you can't expect to change their convictions over night. But whatever their verdict is, and it is certain to be a conviction, it won't change the truth, and truth will prevail in the end. Despite this jury, I believe my boy will be acquitted in the eyes of the world."

Dorothy May Hayes, aged 10, a brown-eyed miss in Scopes' school, today described in a nutshell Dayton's attitude toward the young school teacher and the evolution trial.

"I'm for Scopes," she volunteered, "but I'm against evolution."

"Why?" asked the reporter.

"Well, he's from our country, he teaches in our schools and I like him," ran her prompt reply. "But I don't believe I came from a monkey."

And her verdict reflected the countryside opinion.

Out of the hundreds of officials, attorneys and newspapermen attending the trial, only three wear their coats on the street. These charter members of the "Coat Wearers' union" are Judge John T. Raulston, to sustain his official dignity, Sheriff R. B. Harris, to hide his six-shooter, and Dudley Field Malone, to uphold Fifth avenue form.

The "pitchmen" enliven the streets near the courthouse with all the time worn "rackets" and one or two new ones. Auctioning feminine underwear is one. Gathering a crowd with a machine supposed to turn a piece of blank paper into a two dollar bill and then "introducing" a thread that sharpens razons is another. Shoes, souvenirs, pennants, monkey dolls, caricatures of the principals, a monkey song, handbooks on the case and on the town are among other wares hawked at the curb.

As Judge Raulston at intervals of a few minutes orders the courtroom windows cleared for ventilation, the aroma of barbecued beef floats in. Four steers were quartered and roasted out doors in the courthouse grounds, the meat being served in an improvised shanty. A colored barbecue expert tends the slowly roasting meat, night and day, sleeping on the ground beside the trench.

To settle a frequently discussed question, there is no chapter of the Ku Klux Klan in Dayton or in Rhea county. This is a strongly Masonic community, with more than 100 thirty-second degree Masons in this town of 1,700.

William Jennings Bryan will teach the Sunday class tomorrow at the Methodist church in which young Scopes is a member. The latter is expected to attend. The Commoner also will speak Sunday night on "What Shall We Do with Jesus?" at a meeting in the courthouse.

By actual count there are 162 correspondents assigned to places in the courthouse. They have hammered their typewriters for a daily total of 400,000 words, according to an estimate by Western Union officials.

The stories have been sent to every corner of the United States, into Canada and by cable to Europe.

John Washington Butler, the Tennessee legislator who fathered the anti-evolution law, has endorsed the Scopes jury.

"Scopes will get a fair trial from the jury," said Butler.

"It is a jury of honest, God-fearing farmers."

Eleven uniformed policemen, imported from Chattanooga and Knoxville, have re-inforced the Dayton police department. This means that John Coleman, town marshal, won't have to do all the work alone.

MANY JOIN IN A SEARCH FOR YOUNG KNAPP

ered horses through the Adirondacks foothills, motorcycle police burned up the road from Albany to the border, while hundreds of farmers, campers, guides and woodsmen, searched fields and forests and beat the brush in search of the man whose brain is alleged to have been affected by that chance blow. Army planes were ready to join the chase.

Search for the "super-thrill," as Knapp, son of a wealthy and prominent family, himself styled it, led him to desert the army and kill in cold blood a taxi driver, whose identity he assumed, the authorities believe. A warrant has been issued charging the fugitive with first degree murder.

The hunt for Knapp was not confined to the region to which he was traced this week after the body of Louis Panella of Hempstead, was found buried, save for one foot, beneath plaster slabs and sheets of metal lath near Camp Mills.

May Have Joined Runners.

In his erratic and venturesome career since recovering from an operation which lifted a piece of bone from his brain, the 27-year-old deserter had engaged in rum running and it was thought he might have joined some of his cronies among the bootleggers.

Knapp's comrades in the observance squadron, in which he was a private at Mineola, and whence he deserted, were closely questioned today with a view to obtaining further clues as to his possible whereabouts.

For it developed that the young man had discussed with his "buddies" his intention to go "over the hill," and had urged Pvt. "Scotty" Morrison to join him.

The fugitive was known to his army associates as a brilliant scholar, erratic in his conversation and conduct, always talking of "thrills" he had experienced, which left him dissatisfied.

Today some of these same buddies were on duty in the state-wide hunt which must end, the authorities say, in Knapp's capture, dead or alive, within a day or so.

To several the deserter wrote letters after his flight and through these he was traced to Albany.

Army airplanes, manned by members of Knapp's squadron, were tuned up today to take part in the man hunt. If he is captured, the state will be making the following case against him:

Knapp was seen talking to Panella, the slain chauffeur, on the afternoon of July 1. A few hours later, Panella was summoned by telephone to Mineola and never was seen again alive. His body was found near Camp Mills last Saturday. He had been shot through the head with a service revolver. Such a revolver disappeared from the observation squadron barracks simultaneously with Knapp's desertion.

Panella's pockets had been emptied and his cab had been driven to New York and sold to an automobile sales agency for $1,000 by a man answering Knapp's description. The company paid $100 down, and the seller never returned for the balance.

Knapp when he deserted left a letter explaining his boredom with life and saying he had contemplated suicide.

Knapp's family, shocked by the tragedy, still hope he is not the murderer of Panella. Faith In Pardon Board.

"Quietly, submissively, calm and prepared, no sleepless nights, no expression of anxiety, no fearing for the future, he is hoping and believing in the effacy of our laws. Trusting in those who have administered the laws, and with the utmost faith in this tribunal, which is empowered, after all is said and done, to see that a life is spared when doubt, such as appears in this case exists.

"Vengeance is Mine, saith the Lord," and not for vengeance that we enforce the laws of this state, for, ever uppermost in our minds should be the most anxious and zealus thought that justice will prevail.

"If there are any pre-judgments, or any fear of popular clamor or opinions which generally have operated to cause you to deny to the defendant that consideration and clemency for which he now most earnestly pleads, and which the laws of God and man exact of you, and, owing to such an error on your part, this young man shall fall from the living, ask yurselves what will be your crime.

"In this case, under the facts, we should be asking for a pardon, and that should be granted, and Simmons relieved of the dreadful charge that has been made against him, and of which he has been wrongfully convicted. But we have not gone so far as to ask that which might cause this board to hesitate, but only asked for a reduction of sentence, in order that life should not be taken when such grave and serious doubts exist."

temperature was reported by Pipestone, when the mercury touched 99 degrees.

The beating sun was hailed as a boon to the corn crop in this vicinity. Warm weather has been needed to send the corn shooting upward, corn experts declared.

Bury Judge Evans Saturday Afternoon At Sioux City, Ia.

Grand Master John Wright of Nebraska grand lodge A. F. & A. M., returned from Sioux City early Sunday morning where the grand lodge had charge of services at the grave in Graceland cemetery of the late Judge R. E. Evans of the state Supreme court. Mr. Wright also attended the funeral services at Dakota City, Judge Evans' home town.

Almost every resident of the town attended the services in the Methodist church here, Mr. Wright said, and a large number of Sioux City people were at the grave there. A number of other officers of the Nebraska grand lodge were present, Mr. Wright said.

TRYS TO END LIFE.

MOLINE, Ill., July 11.—Basil W. Lee, 29, fired a bullet into his head and fatally injured himself here this afternoon while his wife, a year old baby in her arms, looked on helplessly. Lee, an electrical engineer, had returned home from the Peoples Power company, where he was employed. No cause for the act could be given.

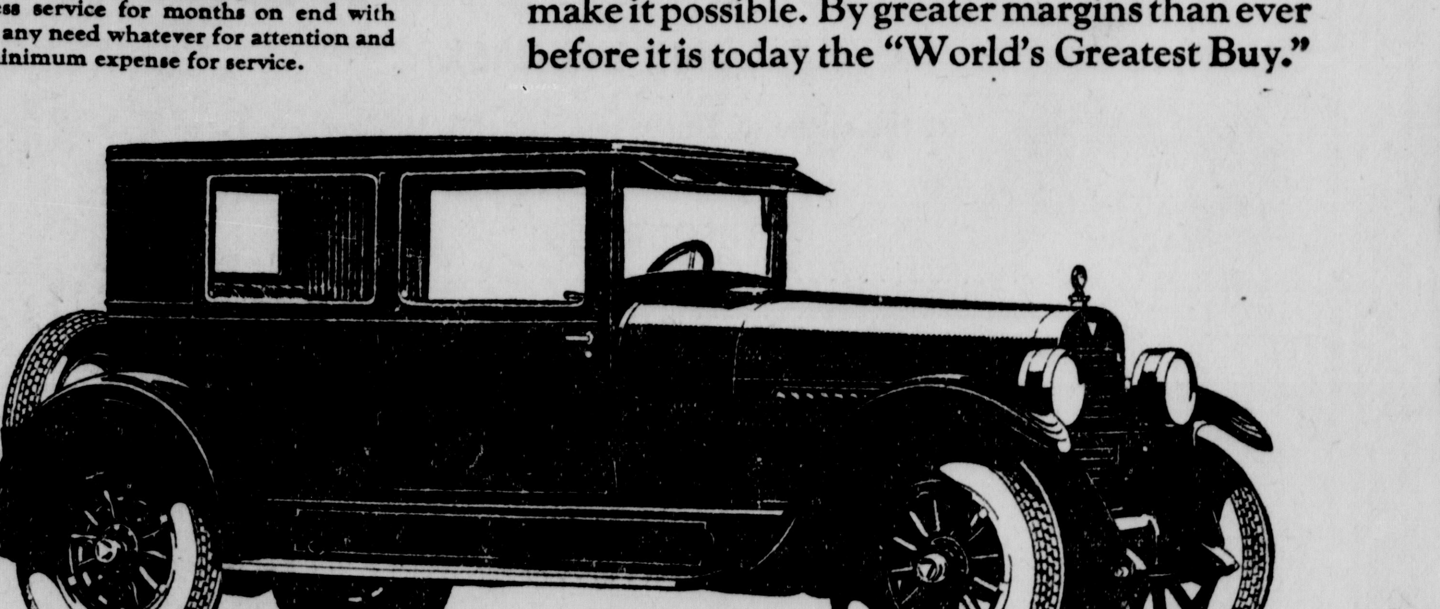
for the HUDSON COACH

The Great and Genuine Economy Its Owners Know

The good-will and satisfaction so evident throughout Hudson's enormous ownership results simply from the conviction of hundreds of thousands of individuals that they have the "World's Greatest Buy". The economy Hudson owners praise is not only in the big saving of first cost; they know, also, the greatest of all operating economies—faultless service for months on end with rarely any need whatever for attention and at a minimum expense for service.

Throughout Hudson's long-time policy of giving greatest value for the money, this is the lowest price, the finest Hudson, the greatest value Hudson ever offered. Only Hudson's exclusive advantages of the famous patented Super-Six principle combined with the world's largest production of 6-cylinder cars make it possible. By greater margins than ever before it is today the "World's Greatest Buy."



Hudson-Essex World's Largest Selling 6-Cylinder Cars

$465 For those who desire, special arrangements have been made whereby a Hudson Coach may be purchased for a First Payment of $465. The remaining payments conveniently arranged $465

A Growing Market for Nebraska Manufactured Goods

NOW is the season of whirring reapers and clattering threshers on broad Nebraska plains. Now is the time that eight million acres of corn are bursting with life and growing tall to bear the yellow ears that come in later months. It is now that few people would turn to middle west to find proof of a manufacturing area.

But just because of the broad fields and the ripening grain, Nebraska is one of the greatest states in its encouragement of manufactures.

Those fields were not tilled by hand, but by man-made tools, tools that were manufactured. That grain will not be thrown away to wine and women, but expended on more machinery, on more of the comforts and necessities of life All of these comforts, all of these necessities, and all of this machinery is manufactured

Thus it is that industrial leaders begin to realize that the nearer they can place their plants to such a healthy, enduring market as Nebraska offers, the more likely they are to sell readily and profitably. Thus it is that all over the state, as well as in its larger cities, manufacturing enterprise is booming.

For that reason, Nebraska industry has grown marvelously in the last few years and looks forward to greater but still steady advancement.

BOB-A-LAWN

"THE PUSHLESS LAWN MOWER"

A NEW and distinct type of grass cutting machine. Revolutionary in its performance. It is HALF as heavy, therefore TWICE as efficient. It does all the work the hand mower will do, and most of the work of the power mower, too. It is the first and only motorized hand lawn mower. . Easy to start, simple to control, light in weight, agile, capable, efficient. And guaranteed, of course.

PUSH no mower. It is no longer necessary. Let the Bob-a-Lawn cut the grass. You "Just Follow and Guide." A quick pull on the starting cord and the engine runs; an easy pull on the single control handle and the Bob-a-Lawn cuts grass. Trims around walks and flower beds. Runs over rough patches. Cuts short grass or long

BUT you can't appreciate what it will DO without seeing it. Just USE it once! See how effortless it is; how simple; how easy. Ask for a trial demonstration. See how it meets your conditions. Find out for yourself how much you really need it

Over the Hills—Along the Terrace

BOB-A-LAWN is so light and so powerful that it cuts heavy grass on the hill or terrace with ease. In this respect it is probably superior to any grass cutting device known. While the main wheels may slip in trying to go straight up a terrace (and they are so made purposely) it will be found that guiding the machine along the hillside or terrace accomplishes results. The special carburetor and oiling system, (Patents Applied for) permit operation of the engine at any reasonable cutting angle.

BOB-A-LAWN is particularly useful for the hills, valleys, and rough spots. Try it and see

AND the Bob-a-Lawn costs little to own. Just a few cents for gasoline and oil, and a few minutes of time, and the lawn is cut—all the lawn! Not necessary to follow up and trim—The Bob-a-Lawn engine is a stingy machine; it uses but little fuel or oil. Every bearing in the cutting unit is a ball bearing—frictionless, long lived. The engine delivers over twice as much power as is ordinarily needed. And the first cost is so low; the upkeep so slight; that the owner of a beautiful lawn cannot afford to keep pushing in the old-fashioned way

Built for You—To Use

BOB-A-LAWN was built for you—the Home Owner; the Park Superintendent; the Cemetery Care-taker; the Gardener; and the rest of you who have grass to cut—and costs to cut—and effort to cut.

BOB-A-LAWN is simple—to make it light and easy for anybody to run. And Bob-a-Lawn is strong—to stand up to hard work. Bob-a-Lawn is efficient to do ALL the work and do it well. It is half as heavy, half as complicated, half as costly to buy and maintain as any power mower. Yet it does more work and sticks to it

The names of the bride and bridegroom were not revealed.

STATE FINANCIAL CONDITION GOOD

Treasury Pulls Out of Hole, Ending Fiscal Year With $44,000 Balance.

Capitol Fund Growing and Has Sum of $2,099,000 To Its Credit.

The state pulled itself out of a hole and closed up its fiscal year June 30 with a balance of $44,733.65 in its general fund for the running expenses of the government. State Treasurer Robinson Saturday issued a statment showing the financial condition of the state at the close of that period The fiscal year began July 1, 924 and closed June 30.

The balance in the general fund is, however, considerably less than it was at the beginning of the year The state started with $932,273.81 in its general fund. The receipts to the fund during the year were $6,787,967.48 while the disbursements were $7,675,507.64. The expenses resulting from the 1925 session of the legislature helped to increase the expenditures over those of the previous fiscal year.

The capitol fund had $2,099,391.70 to its credit at the close of the year, while it began with $1,815,821.01. The receipts during the year were $925,402.36 and the expenditures were $641,831.67.

Aside from the capitol fund, the university cash fund shows the largest total of all the current revenue funds with $396,752.63. This is considerably larger than it was at the beginning of the year. The amount was then $259,827.16. The receipts during the year were $1,030,080.83 and the disbursements were $893,155.36.

Other current revenue funds show the following amounts:

Federal child welfare and hygiene $5,379.17 federal vocational educational, $26,042.69; federal aid and cash road, $97,432.59; university income, $70,734.16; agriculture and mechanics, Morrill, $1,833 30; Smith Lever, $14,264.45; U. S. experiment, $2,193.32, normal cash and library, $46,038.74; normal income, interest, $6,030 83, institution cash, $37,875.54

The temporary school trust fund shows a total of $572,538.51. Other temporary trust funds are, soldiers income, $37,781.25 and state hail insurance, $7,245 53.

Another feature brought out in the treasurer's report is the fact that for the first time in years the permanent trust funds have been almost wholly invested in bonds and are drawing interest to their own credit instead of being placed in banks and as needed. Treasurer Robinson has reduced the uninvested amounts in these funds from $426,823.34 a year ago to $3,944.38 at the close of June 925.

These amounts invested in bonds are; permanent school fund, $10,565,958.32, university, $274,993· Agriculture college endowment, $635,814.18; Normal endowment, $75,650.83; Soldiers relief, $1,949,971.21 and Bessey Memorial, $5,450, a total of $13,507,837.54.

Aside from these funds the treasurer has $4,299 29 in cash items, $462,402 98, a total of $13,507,837 54.

Aside from these funds the treasurer has $4,299.29 in cash items, $462,402.98 in registered warrants and $3,031,510 17 due from banks.

At least eight or ten bands from Nebraska cities, including the national guard regimental band from York, will be here for the big day of the convention, Tuesday. They will all participate in the annual parade slated for that afternoon. Immediately after the parade they will all join to form one gigantic band and give a concert in Frankfort square, the city's beautiful park in the heart of the business district. Drum and bugle corps from many of the posts will also be in attendance and a prize award will be made to the corps adjudged the best.

The national election of officers is slated for Wednesday forenoon, July 29, the last item of business in the closing session of the convention. The place of meeting in 1926 will be chosen Tuesday afternoon.

Special Collector Of Taxes Succeeds

SCOTTSBLUFF, Nebr., July, 11—Morrill county is many thousands of dollars richer by reason of a contract the commissioners made with J. L. Mueller, to collect delinquent personal taxes which the treasurer and sheriff had failed to get. He was made a special officer for this week, that has resulted in getting much money that would otherwise have been lost to the county. In only a few cases, has he been compelled to issue distress warrants and levy on property assessed.

Sod Walls Will Guard Gas Tanks From Grass Fire

SCOTTSBLUFF, NEBR., July, 10—Workmen have cut strips of native sod and piled them in solid walls around the tank colony west of town. The work is being done ot protect the five large storage tanks of oil at the pipe line pumping station there from fire. Each tank will have a wall of sod completely around it, at a distance of about 50 feet. The sod is cut in strips about two feet square.

Drouth Driving Texas Cattle to Northern Ranges

SCOTTSBLUFF, Nebr., July, 11—Cattle from the dry ranges of Texas, where the grass has been completely burned off by the hot sun and lack of moisture, are going through here by trainload, for ranges in Wyoming and Montana, and reports say that most of the steers in Texas will soon be out of the state. One train that contained 68 car loads, went through here Wednesday for Wyoming.

Aurora Red Cross Class Graduated

(Special to The Star.)

AURORA, Neb., July 11.—Graduating exercises of the Red Cross in its nursing departments and life saving work were held on the court house lawn Friday afternoon in charge of Mrs. M. W. Ainsworth, Red Cross nurse for Hamilton county.

Judge T. M. Scott gave a short address and delivered the certificates to the little girls who completed the work in the first aid and nursing class. Mrs. Ann Harrison of Grand Island, who is in charge of life saving work in the third city, gave an address on life saving and her talk was illustrated by Ted Soland and Francis Morris of Grand Island who demonstrated the "breaks" used by life guards in dragging the drowned to safety.

Host Starts Riot At Hotel Astor

NEW YORK, July 1.—The riot squad had to be called to the fashionable roof of the Astor hotel last night to quell a fight that started at a wedding supper.

Thomas Gaughan, a clerk of the Bronx, was the host, and was under arrest today charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct. According to police, the host objected to a remark about the bride made by a guest and started swinging a chair. It took four husky cops to subdue him.

The names of the bride and bridegroom were not revealed.

STATE FINANCIAL CONDITION GOOD

Treasury Pulls Out of Hole, Ending Fiscal Year With $44,000 Balance.

Capitol Fund Growing and Has Sum of $2,099,000 To Its Credit.

The state pulled itself out of a hole and closed up its fiscal year June 30 with a balance of $44,733.65 in its general fund for the running expenses of the government. State Treasurer Robinson Saturday issued a statment showing the financial condition of the state at the close of that period. The fiscal year began July 1, 924 and closed June 30.

The balance in the general fund is, however, considerably less than it was at the beginning of the year. The state started with $932,273.81 in its general fund. The receipts to the fund during the year were $6,787,967.48 while the disbursements were $7,675,507.64. The expenses resulting from the 1925 session of the legislature helped to increase the expenditures over those of the previous fiscal year.

The capitol fund had $2,099,391.70 to its credit at the close of the year, while it began with $1,815,821.01. The receipts during the year were $925,402.36 and the expenditures were $641,831.67.

Aside from the capitol fund, the university cash fund shows the largest total of all the current revenue funds with $396,752.63. This is considerably larger than it was at the beginning of the year. The amount was then $259,827.16. The receipts during the year were $1,030,080.83 and the disbursements were $893,155.36.

Other current revenue funds show the following amounts:

Federal child welfare and hygiene $5,379.17 federal vocational educational, $26,042.69; federal aid and cash road, $97,432.59; university income, $70,734.16; agriculture and mechanics, Morrill, $1,833.30; Smith Lever, $14,264.45; U. S. experiment, $2,193.32; normal cash and library, $46,038.74; normal income, interest, $6,030.83, institution cash, $37,875.54.

The temporary school trust fund shows a total of $572,538.51. Other temporary trust funds are, soldiers income, $37,781.25 and state hail insurance, $7,245.53.

Another feature brought out in the treasurer's report is the fact that for the first time in years the permanent trust funds have been almost wholly invested in bonds and are drawing interest to their own credit instead of being placed in banks and as needed. Treasurer Robinson has reduced the uninvested amounts in these funds from $426,823.34 a year ago to $3,944.38 at the close of June 925.

These amounts invested in bonds are; permanent school fund, $10,565,958.32; university, $274,993; Agriculture college endowment, $635,814.18; Normal endowment, $75,650.83; Soldiers relief, $1,949,971.21 and Bessey Memorial, $5,450, a total of $13,507,837.54.

Aside from these funds the treasurer has $4,299.29 in cash items, $462,402.98, a total of $13,507,837.54.

Aside from these funds the treasurer has $4,299.29 in cash items, $462,402.98 in registered warrants and $3,031,510.17 due from banks.

Road Conditions

Roads generally are reported good. Some roads are a little rough, and most of them dusty. Construction work, mostly graveling, is being done throughout the state, but all highways are passable.

No. 7 to Omaha: Via Ashland, good. Graveled or paved all but 8 miles.

No. 7, D-L-D., Harding highway, and Oregon trail west to Denver: Very good the entire distance. Short stretches reported a little rough. This is the preferable route to Denver and points in Colorado.

To Kansas City the St. Joseph or Topeka roads are recommended.

No. 24 to Nebraska City: Good.

No. 4, Meridian: Good through Nebraska.

No. 3, Golden Rod: Reported good.

No. 6, paved from Omaha to Fremont. Good to Grand Island, graveled to Kearney. Reported rugh in spots, and some construction between Kearney and Cheyenne.

To Yellowstone Park: D-L-D No. 7 to Sterling and Cheyenne, then north on the Yellowstone highway through Casper. An optional route is via No. 6 to Kimball, via North Platte then north to Scottsbluff, and west to Torrington, Guernsey, to Douglas, then through the Cody entrance. Roads are reported good.

To Portland, Ore.: By way of Denver, or Cheyenne to Salt Lake City. From Denver to Salt Lake the Victory highway, then the Old Oregon trail to Boise, following the Columbia River highway into Portland, is recommended.

To Minnesota: The C. H. No. 9 to Sioux City, or via Omaha and Denison, then north on No. 4, both roads are good, and very little construction work on either.

DENIES KOONTZ HEARING SECRET

Moderator In Fremont Church Dispute Says Colson Charges Unfounded.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., July 11.—Rev. Noel J. Breed of this city, who acted as moderator in the Congregational church dispute at Fremont, characterizes the leter of Paul Colson, iveng to the press at Fremont and championing the Koontz faction, as a "tissue of misrepresentations."

Mr. Breed had been attending a conference in Chicago and did not read the letter until his return here.

"Mr. Colson charges that the council violated the most fundamental agreement of the hearing through admitting some testimony without the presence of Mr. Koontz, after it had been agreed that he should be present," Mr Breed said.

"What really happened," he explained, "was that the council received first a request from Koontz that a part of the testimony for the minister be heard without the presence of the other side.

"It then followed that part of the testimony of both sides was in private. After Mr. Koontz's side had given some testimony in private, the council felt that the atmosphere could be better cleared, and the council could better understand the mind of the church, if part of the testimony from the side opposing Mr. Koontz could also be heard in private.

"In this connection, it is fair to say that none of the testimony heard in secret bore directly upon the charges, nor was any of it from either side made part of the record."

Charges against Mr. Koontz, the Fremont pastor, were that he had been unbecomingly familiar with women members of the congregation.

"If the Fremont church should retain Mr. Koontz as pastor," Mr. Breed said, "and it did not at the same time secede, it would be for the council to call the attention of the Omaha association to the facts. The natural action for the association in that event would be the deposition of Mr. Koontz from the ministry and the withdrawal of the fellowship of the association from the Fremont church."

Dispatches from Fremont yesterday indicated the church has no intention of retaining Mr. Koontz.

Strong Takes Over a Wilcox Elevator

WILCOX, Neb., July 11.—Rey M. Strong, local live stock dealer, Friday closed a deal for the purchase of the Duff Grain company elevator at Wilcox, the consideration said to be $5,000. The elevator capacity is 12,000 bushels. It has been operated here for the past twenty-five years by the Duff company, who closed it July first, giving as a reason that there was a scarcity of small grain in this vicinity this season. There are two other elevators in the town, and farmers state there will be a good amount of small grain to move this season, and the corn promises a big yield. Strong states that he will retain I. M. Rhoades, who was Duff's manager, in charge of the elevator for the present, and he will open up for business at once. The Duff company, of Nebraska City. closed four other elevators in this vicinity July 1.

Eight Miles of Paving In Crete

(Special to The Star.)

CRETE, Neb., July 11.—Forty blocks of new paving are nearly complete in Crete, making a total of eight miles, and the newly-surfaced streets leading to Doane college campus have made a remarkable improvement. The grounds of the college are being trimmed and cleaned preparatory to opening school in September.

DIES AT CASPER.

WYMORE, Neb., July 11.—Word received here Friday announced the death at her home in Casper, Wyo., of Mrs. Vera Aneill, wife of a Casper oil attorney, and former long time resident of Wymore and Blue Springs. She was Miss Vera Connett before her marriage about two years ago, and was a stenographer in the Burlington division superintendent's office at Wymore for four years, and also was employed later by the railway at Sheridan and Casper. She had lived in Casper for the past four years. The body will be brought to Blue Springs for burial. She is survived by the husband, mother and an infant child, of Casper, a brother, Curtis Connett, railway brakeman at Sheridan, and another brother, Myron Connett, railway conductor of Wymore. She was 28 years old.

Heat Kills Four Horses at Wymore

WYMORE, Neb., July 11—Hot weather of the past several days has been responsible for the loss of four heavy work horses in Wymore and vicinity, causing a total estimated less of $600. Sherman Taylor, Wymore ice retailer, lost a draft horse on his delivery route Thursday. The animal made frequent stops but was overcome and died after taken off the route. Frank D. Gish, Luther Cullison and John Humphreys farmers of this vicinity each lost a horse.

Steps On Wrong Pedal; Car Goes Through Window

DILLER, Neb., July 11.—When William Wagner, young farm hand of this vicinity drove a Ford truck into town Friday and attempted to park the vehicle in the street, it ran to the curb, which was several inches high, and jumped over it, darting across the sidewalk. The car speeded up and went through the large plate glass window of the E. F. Habichts general store.

It is thought that Wagner stepped on the wrong pedal. The truck was considerably damaged, and two large plate glass windows were wrecked, causing a damage of $200, but the driver escaped without a scratch. Wagner has been employed on the farm of Emil Krebs, near Diller.

TEST BRAKES OF CARS THIS WEEK

Auto Club Sponsors Second Annual Safety Campaign July 14 to 19.

The week of July 14 to 19 has been designated by the Lincoln Auto club as brake testing week and members of the club are exerting every effort to have every car owner in Lincoln have his brakes tested during the period.

The move is endorsed by Chief of Police Peter Johnstone, the auto club and by Municipal Judge Chappell. Each has said that there is no one thing which will serve to reduce the number of traffic accidents in the city as properly adjusted brakes, and are joining with the auto club in urging owners of cars to test their brakes.

The following proclamation was issued Saturday by Acting Mayor Gillaspie:

"The week of July 14 to July 19 inclusive has been designated as brake-testing week. I am heartily in sympathy with this movement and, as acting mayor, recommend that all owners of automobiles have their brakes tested during this period.

"TREV. E. GILLASPIE,
"Acting Mayor."

The testing will be done on P street between Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. during the period.

SAYS LEADERSHIP IS VALUE-BUILT

Manager of Lord Auto Co. Accounts For Hudson-Essex Sales Records.

"Hudson-Essex sales leadership in Lincoln is not an isolated instance," said J. C. Higgins, manager of the Lord Auto Co., Saturday. "It is imply a part of the universal recognition of value which has made Hudson-Essex the largest selling six-cylinder cars in the world — the largest selling of all cars with the exception of the two lowest-priced fours.

"In the registration of car sales from coast to coast, we read the irresistible nation-wide landslide to Hudson-Essex—the verdict of the world's greatest values' from the buyers themselves.

"No other fine car in motor history has been given the frank and complete acknowledgement of value leadership by such an overwhelming plurality of buyers in all sections of the country.

"In Detroit, for instance, the center of the motor industry, where the most accurate knowledge of motor values exists, Hudson-Essex sales for more than two years have outnumbered any other six and in recent months have exceeded the total sales of the next three six-cylinddr cars combined.

Widespread Leadership.

"This leadership is confined to no one section. In Massachusetts as in California, and in Maine as in Florida, Hudson-Essex sales outnumber any other six, so that under all conditions the preference for Hudson-Essex is simply the typical reflection of how buyers everywhere regard them.

"The Hudson-Essex policy of giving greatest value for the money, consistently followed for years, is today founded on value-building advantages that are absolutely exclusive.

"The simplicity of the famous patented Super-Six motor has always meant a lower selling price, with all the performance, smoothness and reliability possible for even the costliest cars to give. Now the world's largest production of six-cylinder cars gives them advantages that make today's Hudson and Essex cars the greatest in value and the lowet sin price ever sold."

Doctor Advised Operation Friend Said Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First

St. Paul, Minn. — "I was all run down from overwork and worry, had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and thinner everyday. The doctor said I had to go to the hospital, but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights."—Mrs. MARY WILHELMY, 309 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

NEW RECORD FOR HUPP CAR SALES

Most Money In History Of Company Brought In During June.

June was the largest month in the entire history of the Hupp Motor Car corporation in sales volume in dollars, and the second largest in number of cars manufactured, the company announces.

Continued large growth in demand for the Hupmobile eight, the largest seller among all cars of its type, particularly contributed to this record, says O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager. "Records of its performance in the hands of owners are beginning even to surpass our statements regarding its abilities and its super-smoothness," he added. "Before the end of August we shall have shipped more than 10,000 eights. That is a remarkable record for a car of its luxuriousness — doubly remarkable when one considers that it was made with a brand new car and a type even now just coming into general use by those who can afford the utmost in smoothness of operation.

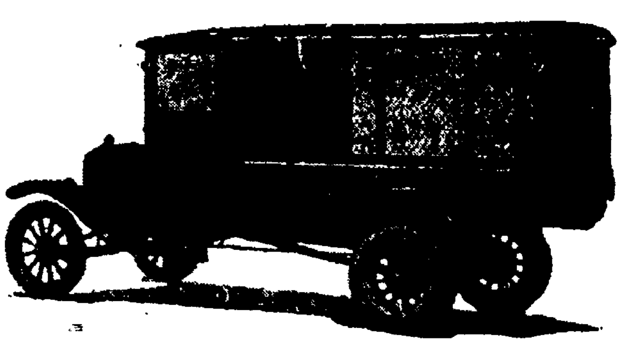
"This Eight, which so pleased the public that within five months it became the largest selling car of its type in the world, is now rapidly approaching a point where its sales records are challenging those of all other eight in line cars put together."

In making this record, Hupmobile reports that June shipments of eight cylinder cars increased 77 per cent over those for May. Despite this great gain it carried over unfilled orders June 30 for more than $700,000 in eight cylinder cars and nearly $2,000,000 in fours, and on one day, July 1, received additional orders amounting to more than 1,000,000 for eights alone.

Total shipments for June 1925 exceeded those of May by 61 per cent, of June 1924 by 92 per cent, and of June 1923 by 36 per cent.

"Hupmobiles today are being sold by distributors and dealers at the fastest rate they have ever attained," says Mr. Hutchinson. "At the end of June, stocks of cars on hand by dealers and in transit, represented less than a three-weeks' supply. They were nearly as low per dealer as they have ever been."

Ford Truck Week Scheduled



This Ford body provides full protection to merchandise and is meeting high favor with firms requiring this type of delivery unit. Canopy top and side curtains protect the load from weather and the screen sides and end doors protect it from theft. Other Ford truck equipment includes the open express type body and the stake body which may be converted into a platform and for farm use is adaptable either to cattle or grain sides. The closed cab on all bodies affords comfort and protection to the driver.

The coming week has been designated as national Ford truck week and will be observed by the authorized Ford dealers of this city.

Entrance of the Ford Motor company into the manufacture of commercial bodies indicates a new imported advancement in this division of motor transportation since it shows that Ford is bringing into delivery and hauling services the same low cost and high value that has made the Ford passenger car the most popular in the world. The Ford truck chassis has long held the lead among light commercial vehicles and at present approximately 75 per cent of the one-ton trucks in use are Fords.

The business man or farmer who is interested in reducing hauling costs will have the opportunity this week of becoming fully acquainted with these Ford built truck bodies which, because of the economies of Ford quantity production, are offered at low prices.

The Ford truck activities here will open with a parade to be held Monday beginning at 10 a. m. and which will traverse the business streets with local Ford dealers participating.

Every one of the Ford commercial body combinations will be shown in the parade so that business men may judge the appearance of these motor vehicles on the streets.

Closer inspection, of course, with full details regarding construction may be obtained at any Ford dealer's place of business. Arrangements have been made so that every dealer in the city will have on display a complete showing of the Ford-built commercial bodis and show rooms will be open every evening during the week.

A more important feature, however, is that every dealer will be prepared to give demonstrations of any body combination desired and any merchant is invited to call upon the nearest dealer for a demonstration, so that they may be able to judge from actual operation how a Ford-built unit will meet his particular hauling and delivery requirements.

The Ford-built body combinations for the famous Ford one-ton truck chassis include the open express type, the express type with either screen sides and canopy top or with top alone, and the stake and platform body. This latter body also is of particular interest to the farmer and truck gardner, for it is adaptable to every agricultural hauling requirement as it may be used with either grain or cattle sides. With stakes it provides unusual space for carting garden produce.

A closed cab, adaptable for use with any of these bodies, also is provided and has grown greatly in populariety since its introduction. It is all-steel construction, roomy, with panels in the back and affords complete protection for the driver in inclement weather, with ample ventilating facilities.

The displays also include the new pick-up body, which is mounted on the rear of the Ford runabout providing a light delivery car which meets a variety of requirements where quick delivery is an important factor.

DENIES KOONTZ HEARING SECRET

Moderator In Fremont Church Dispute Says Colson Charges Unfounded.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., July 11.—Rev. Noel J. Breed of this city, who acted as moderator in the Congregational church dispute at Fremont, characterizes the leter of Paul Colson, iveng to the press at Fremont and championing the Koontz faction, as a "tissue of misrepresentations."

Mr. Breed had been attending a conference in Chicago and did not read the letter until his return here.

"Mr. Colson charges that the council violated the most fundamental agreement of the hearing through admitting some testimony without the presence of Mr. Koontz, after it had been agreed that he should be present," Mr. Breed said.

"What really happened," he explained, "was that the council received first a request from Koontz that a part of the testimony for the minister be heard without the presence of the other side.

"It then followed that part of the testimony of both sides was in private. After Mr. Koontz's side had given some testimony in private, the council felt that the atmosphere could be better cleared, and the council could better understand the mind of the church, if part of the testimony from the side opposing Mr. Koontz could also be heard in private.

"In this connection, it is fair to say that none of the testimony heard in secret bore directly upon the charges, nor was any of it from either side made part of the record."

Charges against Mr. Koontz, the Fremont pastor, were that he had been unbecomingly familiar with women members of the congregation.

"If the Fremont church should retain Mr. Koontz as pastor," Mr. Breed said, "and it did not at the same time secede, it would be for the council to call the attention of the Omaha association to the facts. The natural action for the association in that event would be the deposition of Mr. Koontz from the ministry and the withdrawal of the fellowship of the association from the Fremont church."

Dispatches from Fremont yesterday indicated the church has no intention of retaining Mr. Koontz.

NEW RECORD FOR HUPP CAR SALES

Most Money In History Of Company Brought In During June.

June was the largest month in the entire history of the Hupp Motor Car corporation in sales volume in dollars, and the second largest in number of cars manufactured, the company announces.

Continued large growth in demand for the Hupmobile eight, the largest seller among all cars of its type, particularly contributed to this record, says O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager. "Records of its performance in the hands of owners are beginning even to surpass our statements regarding its abilities and its super-smoothness," he added. "Before the end of August we shall have shipped more than 10,000 eights. That is a remarkable record for a car of its luxuriousness — doubly remarkable when one considers that it was made with a brand new car and a type even now just coming into general use by those who can afford the utmost in smoothness of operation.

"This Eight, which so pleased the public that within five months it became the largest selling car of its type in the world, is now rapidly approaching a point where its sales records are challenging those of all other eight in line cars put together."

In making this record, Hupmobile reports that June shipments of eight cylinder cars increased 77 per cent over those for May. Despite this great gain it carried over unfilled orders June 30 for more than $700,000 in eight cylinder cars and nearly $2,000,000 in fours, and on one day, July 1, received additional orders amounting to more than 1,000,000 for eights alone.

Total shipments for June 1925 exceeded those of May by 61 per cent, of June 1924 by 92 per cent, and of June 1923 by 36 per cent.

"Hupmobiles today are being sold by distributors and dealers at the fastest rate they have ever attained," says Mr. Hutchinson. "At the end of June, stocks of cars on hand by dealers and in transit, represented less than a three-weeks' supply. They were nearly as low per dealer as they have ever been."

This latter body also is of particular interest to the farmer and truck gardner, for it is adaptable to every agricultural hauling requirement as it may be used with either grain or cattle sides. With stakes it provides unusual space for carting garden produce.

A closed cab, adaptable for use with any of these bodies, also is provided and has grown greatly in populariety since its introduction. It is all-steel construction, roomy, with panels in the back and affords complete protection for the driver in inclement weather, with ample ventilating facilities.

The displays also include the new pick-up body, which is mounted on the rear of the Ford runabout providing a light delivery car which meets a variety of requirements where quick delivery is an important factor.

WHEAT TESTS HIGH.

CRETE, Neb., July 11.—The first wheat threshed in this vicinity was on the S. R. Foss farm. t tested 65 pounds to the bushel. That on the Kahle brothers farm was about as good. The threshing club is composed of Adolph Maca, Joe Zajicek, Henry Pomizl, John Kohel, Ed J. Aron, C. W. Aron, Charles Kubicek, James Vak, George Putnam, Kahle Brothers, William Kramer, jr., Henry Kramer, Richard Wickencamp and Fritz Brothers.

BARN IS BURNED.

CRETE, Neb., July 11.—During the storm Wednesday evening, the barn of Joe Husa north of town was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. A valuable team was killed and much hay burned.

Refinish your car now with du Pont's Duco. It takes little more than a week.

Your old car can have the same finish used by 23 automobile makers. Dirt and mud do not harm it. Sleet and snow, or broiling sun have no effect upon it. Neither do alkaline dust nor strong soaps.

It's Great to Own and Drive

"That's the new Jewett Coach!" You hear it wherever you go. Admiration greets this great car on every hand. Because of its beauty of line and color. Because of its advanced features of design. Because its every detail bespeaks genuine quality.

Beyond the striking beauty of Jewett Coach—beyond its championship performance—greater even than its advanced engineering—is the following fact:

Consider It Well!

Paige has put the experience of fifteen years of building into the Coach—sacrificing nothing to achieve low price—improving the quality for which Jewett cars are justly respected. This fact alone more than justifies the enthusiasm that has greeted Jewett Coach—nationally!

Drive this great car yourself. Prove its value for yourself—as no one can tell you. Just phone for a demonstration. (579-2)

HAVELOCK WOMAN TELLS OF QUAKE

Mrs. Victor Erickson Calls Santa Barbara Disaster "Horrible."

Says Earth Billowed Like Sea; Buildings Swayed From Side to Side.

"Never as long as I live will I lose the vision of the tragedy connected with the Santa Barbara earthquake. It was horrible; beyond words to express."

That is the impression the Santa Barbara earthquake made on Mrs. Victor Erickson, a Havelock woman who was in the stricken city during all of the period of the tremor which hit the town. She was in Santa Barbara visiting her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. White.

MRS. VICTOR ERICKSON.

Mrs. Erickson returned from the California city last Monday.

"The first indication we had of anything unusual,'" she said. "was at 7 o'clock that morning. It got dark and there was the sound of a rumbling much, I should judge, like the distant roar of large guns along a battle line. It was not thunder and no one seemed to understand what was the cause.

Begins Violently.

"I first heard the noise when my son-in-law came to my bed and awakened me. I got up and dressed only to be tossed violently into a corner a moment later and then rolled back to another part of the room.

"I managed to get to a window. Holding myself I saw the ground rolling in great waves just like the billows of the sea. Houses and large buildings were swaying first one way and then another. Walls of some were toppling outward and others were crumbling to the ground like so much kindling wood.

"As the force of the tremors increased, papers on tables or on the floor began to fly about the room as though propelled by a terrific wind, yet there was not a breath of air stirring, as I remember it. Dishes slid off the breakfast table and crashed against the walls, broken into a thousand pieces.

"As though caught up by an unseen hand, the furniture cut all sorts of capers. It would race from one side of a room to the other, then back again; sometimes right side up and then again, all topsy turvy, in the end crashed into bits as it was tossed against a wall or thrown in a pile in some corner.

Appalling Scenes.

As soon as possible after the first shocks had passed we got into our automobile and drove to Ventura, 22 mile distant, for breakfast. We stayed there two days and as many nights.

"The scenes that greeted us as we left the house and started for Ventura were appalling. The first thing we noticed was the strong smell of ammonia. It was said the ammonia tanks at an ice plant had broken, and the fumes spread through the entire city.

"Great fissures 18 inches across, I should judge, greeted our eyes as we left the yard. Telephone and telegraph poles were either snapped off close to the ground or leaning over until they almost touched the earth. Wires were broken and dangling everywhere, making progress in some parts of the city dangerous until the light plant was wrecked.

"Frantic with fear, people rushed hither and thither through the streets, some fully dressed while others wore only their night garments. Everywhere men, women and children could be seen on their knees, in every posture in fact, praying for deliverance from further disaster.

State Street Hard Hit.

"State street, the O street of Santa Barbara, was the hardest hit. Here buildings crumbled in some places. In others the walls fell into the streets burying any chance passer-by. At one place a man stood beside an automobile talking with the driver. Both were killed and the car demolished.

"The building of which that wall was a part was a rooming house or a hotel. Which, I never knew, but after the walls fell each of the outside rooms on the three floors above the street exposed beds and bedroom furniture strewn from one end to the other. Sometimes the bedding would be hanging over the edge of the floors and then again it seemed as though it had not been touched.

The worst feature of the tremor was that it broke the water pipes leading from the mountains to the city and Santa Barbara was without water, and is now, except for what is hauled in on trucks. The electric plant was also wrecked and the city was without light at night It was a desolate looking place as seen under the feeble glow of what few candles there were.

"The first shock of the disaster having passed, sailors and marines from the U. S. warships, with police sent from Los Angeles, guarded the city and checked plundering and pillaging. Red Cross relief was rushed into the city and the people fed and some few housed in tents. The only food those who remained in the city had for the first few days was furnished by the Red Cross.

Predicts Finer City.

"Notwithstanding their losses the people of Santa Barbara will build a greater and a finer city than the one which was wrecked. They are a people undaunted by their adversity.

"Soon after the tremors had stopped and people began to recover from the shock, small eating houses made their appearance in the streets; a barber opened a shop at the edge of the sidewalk and began doing business. And so it was everywhere. A new Santa Barbara will rise on the ruins of the old.'

While on the Pacific coast Mrs. Erickson visited at the John Doddrell home at Whittier, and the W. R. Johnson family at Pasadena. Doddrill was formerly a resident of University Place and Mr. Johnson was engaged in the hardware business in Havelock.

TWO MILLION GAIN IN ASSESSMENTS

Returns For 74 Counties Show Decrease in Tangible Property Totals.

New Method of Computing Intangibles Results In Net Increases.

Assessment reports received by Tax Commissioner Williams from seventy-four counties up to Saturday, July 11, brings the total valuation in these counties for tangible property up to $2,133,398,723 and the intangible property to $75,235,695.

On the face of the total returns for tangible property in these seventy-four counties, a decrease of $14,637,850 under last years total of $2,148,036,573 is indicated. However there is in reality a gain of two million dollars in this year's assessment.

Included in the tangible property assessments in 1924 was $16,553,983 of intangible property. The assessors, in computing the intangible tax, added one fourth of that amount to the total tangible property assessment. This year, however, the tangible and intangible property are entirely separated in accordance with the method provided by the last legislature.

Intangible Apparent Gain.

This fact also has a tendency to produce an apparent gain in the total amount of intangible property assessed. The total assessment reports on intangible property for the seventy-four counties which have filed their reports is $75,235,695, while for 1924 the total was $66,215,934.

Following are the comparative reports of the eighteen additional counties which have been received:

County	Tangibles 1924	Tangibles 1925	Intangibles 1924	Intangibles 1925

Hays Reports On Tests Of Cattle For Tuberculosis

Dr. C. H. Hays, chief of the state bureau of animal industry, has made a report of the progress of the tuberculosis eradication work during the month of June showing that 2,917 herds, containing 40,974 head of cattle, were tested.

Following are the reports by counties:

Burt, 511 herds tested, 28 infected, 36 reactors.

Butler, 91 herds tested, 7 infected, 16 reactors.

Cass, 303 herds tested, 16 infected, 21 reactors.

Dakota, 26 herds tested, 3 infected, 3 reactors.

Dawson, 450 herds infected, 75 infected, 128 reactors.

Dodge, 162 herds tested, 13 infected, 29 reactors.

Douglas, 470 herds tested, 36 infected, 68 reactors.

Gage, 180 herds tested, none infected.

Hall, 163 herds tested, 21 infected, 42 reactors.

Otoe, 332 herds tested, 9 infected, 9 reactors.

Polk, 26 herds tested, 1 infected, 1 reactor.

Sarpy, 30 herds tested, 7 infected, 26 reactors.

Saunders, 181 herds tested, 2 infected, 2 reactors.

The work in Butler county is bringing the testing to a conclusion and the county will soon be recommended for certification as a clean area. Testing by practicing veterinarians at the expense of the herd owners shows an increase during the month of June, the report says. This work is under the direction of the state. These veterinarians tested 424 herds, and found twelve infected and thirty reactors during the month.

Borer Damaging Corn Near Leigh Nebraska Insect

The corn borer discovered on a farm near Leigh, of which samples were sent Friday to Secretary McLaughlin of the state department of agriculture, is not the European variety recently imported into the United States, but a native Nebraska insect called the stalk borer, says Prof. Myron H. Swenk, of the college of agriculture to whom the sample stalks were sent for examination.

The danger of damage from the pest, which is encountered every year, is about over now, says Professor Swenk, since the worms are nearly fully grown. Nothing practical can be done now in fields which the worm has already attacked, for after it is fully grown it ceases its depredations on the grain.

The stalk borer seems to have done more damage this year than usual, Professor Swenk said Saturday. It has been found in a number of fields, but none of them has been badly injured.

APPROVE PROGRAM.

HONOLULU, July 11.—The Institute of Pacific Relations in first session here today unanimously approved a program of permanent organzation looking toward a furtherance of the work which is being discussed. A temporary committee appointed includes: F. C. Atherton, Hawaii, T. Furum, Japan; S. T. Wen, China; John Nelson, Canada, and Lyman D. Wilbur, United States.

HAVELOCK WOMAN TELLS OF QUAKE

Mrs. Victor Erickson Calls Santa Barbara Disaster "Horrible."

Says Earth Billowed Like Sea; Buildings Swayed From Side to Side.

"Never as long as I live will I lose the vision of the tragedy connected with the Santa Barbara earthquake. It was horrible; beyond words to express."

That is the impression the Santa Barbara earthquake made on Mrs. Victor Erickson, a Havelock woman who was in the stricken city during all of the period of the tremor which hit the town. She was in Santa Barbara visiting her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. White.

MRS. VICTOR ERICKSON.

Mrs. Erickson returned from the California city last Monday.

"The first indication we had of anything unusual,"" she said, "was at 7 o'clock that morning. It got dark and there was the sound of a rumbling much, I should judge, like the distant roar of large guns along a battle line. It was not thunder and no one seemed to understand what was the cause.

Begins Violently.

"I first heard the noise when my son-in-law came to my bed and awakened me. I got up and dressed only to be tossed violently into a corner a moment later and then rolled back to another part of the room.

"I managed to get to a window. Holding myself I saw the ground rolling in great waves just like the billows of the sea. Houses and large buildings were swaying first one way and then another. Walls of some were toppling outward and others were crumbling to the ground like so much kindling wood.

"As the force of the tremors increased, papers on tables or on the floor began to fly about the room as though propelled by a terrific wind, yet there was not a breath of air stirring, as I remember it. Dishes slid off the breakfast table and crashed against the walls, broken into a thousand pieces.

"As though caught up by an unseen hand, the furniture cut all sorts of capers. It would race from one side of a room to the other, then back again; sometimes right side up and then again, all topsy turvy, in the end crashed into bits as it was tossed against a wall or thrown in a pile in some corner.

Appalling Scenes.

As soon as possible after the first shocks had passed we got into our automobile and drove to Ventura, 22 mile distant, for breakfast. We stayed there two days and as many nights.

"The scenes that greeted us as we left the house and started for Ventura were appalling. The first thing we noticed was the strong smell of ammonia. It was said the ammonia tanks at an ice plant had broken, and the fumes spread through the entire city.

"Great fissures 18 inches across, I should judge, greeted our eyes as we left the yard. Telephone and telegraph poles were either snapped off close to the ground or leaning over until they almost touched the earth. Wires were broken and dangling everywhere, making progress in some parts of the city dangerous until the light plant was wrecked.

"Frantic with fear, people rushed hither and thither through the streets, some fully dressed while others wore only their night garments. Everywhere men, women and children could be seen on their knees, in every posture in fact, praying for deliverance from further disaster.

State Street Hard Hit.

"State street, the O street of Santa Barbara, was the hardest hit. Here buildings crumbled in some places. In others the walls fell into the streets burying any chance passer-by. At one place a man stood beside an automobile talking with the driver. Both were killed and the car demolished.

"The building of which that wall was a part was a rooming house or a hotel. Which, I never knew, but after the walls fell each of the outside rooms on the three floors above the street exposed beds and bedroom furniture strewn from one end to the other. Sometimes the bedding would be hanging over the edge of the floors and then again it seemed as though it had not been touched.

The worst feature of the tremor was that it broke the water pipes leading from the mountains to the city and Santa Barbara was without water, and is now, except for what is hauled in on trucks. The electric plant was also wrecked and the city was without light at night. It was a desolate looking place as seen under the feeble glow of what few candles there were.

"The first shock of the disaster having passed, sailors and marines from the U. S. warships, with police sent from Los Angeles, guarded the city and checked plundering and pillaging. Red Cross relief was rushed into the city and the people fed and some few housed in tents. The only food those who remained in the city had for the first few days was furnished by the Red Cross.

Predicts Finer City.

"Notwithstanding their losses the people of Santa Barbara will build a greater and a finer city than the one which was wrecked. They are a people undaunted by their adversity.

"Soon after the tremors had stopped and people began to recover from the shock, small eating houses made their appearance in the streets; a barber opened a shop at the edge of the sidewalk and began doing business. And so it was everywhere. A new Santa Barbara will rise on the ruins of the old.'

While on the Pacific coast Mrs. Erickson visited at the John Doddrell home at Whittier, and the W. R. Johnson family at Pasadena. Doddrill was formerly a resident of University Place and Mr. Johnson was engaged in the hardware business in Havelock.

TWO MILLION GAIN IN ASSESSMENTS

Returns For 74 Counties Show Decrease in Tangible Property Totals.

New Method of Computing Intangibles Results In Net Increases.

Assessment reports received by Tax Commissioner Williams from seventy-four counties up to Saturday, July 11, brings the total valuation in these counties for tangible property up to $2,133,398,723 and the intangible property to $75,235,695.

On the face of the total returns for tangible property in these seventy-four counties, a decrease of $14,637,850 under last years total of $2,148,036,573 is indicated. However there is in reality a gain of two million dollars in this year's assessment.

Included in the tangible property assessments in 1924 was $16,553,983 of intangible property. The assessors, in computing the intangible tax, added one fourth of that amount to the total tangible property assessment. This year, however, the tangible and intangible property are entirely separated in accordance with the method provided by the last legislature.

Intangible Apparent Gain.

This fact also has a tendency to produce an apparent gain in the total amount of intangible property assessed. The total assessment reports on intangible property for the seventy-four counties which have filed their reports is $75,235,695, while for 1924 the total was $66,215,934.

Following are the comparative reports of the eighteen additional counties which have been received:

Hays Reports On Tests Of Cattle For Tuberculosis

Dr. C. H. Hays, chief of the state bureau of animal industry, has made a report of the progress of the tuberculosis eradication work during the month of June showing that 2,947 herds, containing 40,974 head of cattle, were tested.

Following are the reports by counties:

Burt, 511 herds tested, 28 infected, 36 reactors.

Butler, 91 herds tested, 7 infected, 16 recactors.

Cass, 303 herds tested, 16 infected, 21 reactors.

Dakota, 26 herds tested, 3 infected, 3 reactors.

Dawson, 450 herds infected, 75 infected, 128 reactors.

Dodge, 162 herds tested. 13 infected, 29 reactors.

Douglas, 470 herds tested, 36 infected, 68 reactors.

Gage, 180 herds tested, none infected.

Hall, 163 herds tested, 21 infected, 42 reactors.

Otoe, 332 herds tested, 9 infected, 9 reactors.

Polk, 26 herds tested, 1 infected, 1 reactor.

Sarpy, 30 herds tested, 7 infected, 26 reactors.

Saunders, 181 herds tested, 2 infected, 2 reactors.

The work in Butler county is bringing the testing to a conclusion and the county will soon be recommended for certification as a clean area. Testing by practicing veterinarians at the expense of the herd owners shows an increase during the month of June, the report says. This work is under the direction of the state. These veterinarians tested 424 herds, and found twelve infected and thirty reactors during the month.

Borer Damaging Corn Near Leigh Nebraska Insect

The corn borer discovered on a farm near Leigh, of which samples were sent Friday to Secretary McLaughlin of the state department of agriculture, is not the European variety recently imported into the United States, but a native Nebraska insect called the stalk borer, says Prof. Myron H. Swenk, of the college of agriculture to whom the sample stalks were sent for examination.

The danger of damage from the pest, which is encountered every year, is about over now, says Professor Swenk, since the worms are nearly fully grown. Nothing practical can be done now in fields which the worm has already attacked, for after it is fully grown it ceases its depredations on the grain.

The stalk borer seems to have done more damage this year than usual, Professor Swenk said Saturday. It has been found in a number of fields, but none of them has been badly injured.

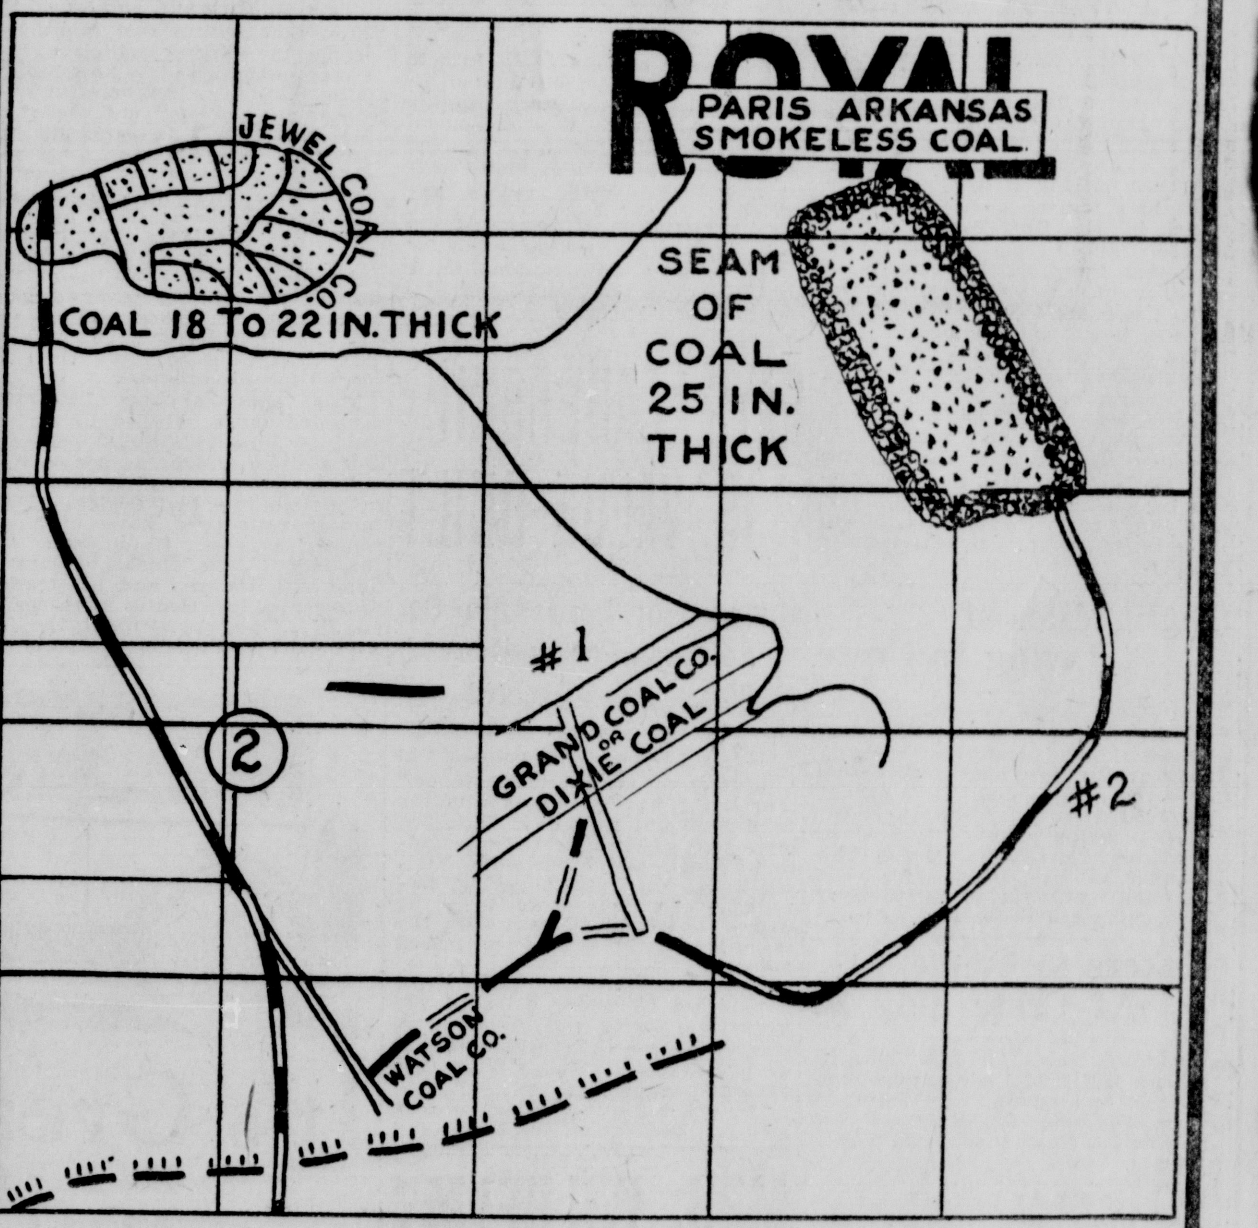
PARIS ARKANSAS SMOKELESS COAL

Map of
PARIS COAL FIELD
IN
LOGAN COUNTY, KANSAS
Showing Where Royal Coal Is Mined
Scale, 1 square—1 Mile



Having just succeeded in contracting with the shippers of this most wonderful coal for our future supply, we offer to the trade what we believe to be the highest grade coal in the entire field.

ROYAL COAL is machine mined and loaded in cars with belt conveyors. The coal having no impurities and being of very firm structure, can be handled and delivered in nice square lumps with practically no breakage whatever.

SPECIAL $12.75 PRICE

Having a few cars arriving on an early contract, we are making the above very special price on these few cars only, after which our regular July price will become effective. Avail yourself of this wonderful opportunity and let us fill your bin now. Cars on track for your inspection Monday.

GUARANTEE!—We guarantee Royal coal to be smokeless, sootless, free from impurities and to burn up to a fine ash without clinkering. In fact you can write your own guarantee and we will sign it. Use the coal two weeks and if for any reason you are dissatisfied we will remove the coal without argument or any cost to you.

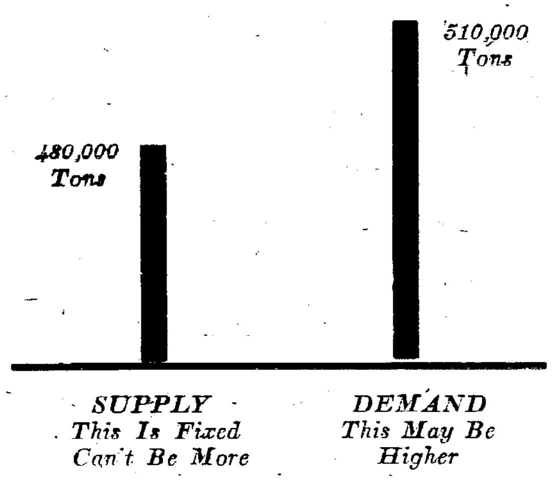
You should buy Tires NOW!

There is nothing mysterious about rapidly advancing tire prices; it is as simple as two and two. Here is the reason in a nutshell: The most important ingredient that goes into the making of tires is rubber, AND TIRE MANUFACTURERS CAN'T GET CRUDE RUBBER!

You Can't Beat the Law of Supply and Demand

Here It Is On Crude Rubber for 1925

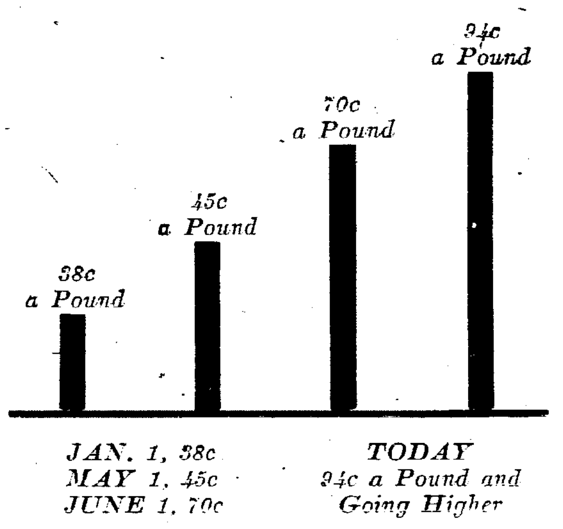


Why can't they get it?

Well, in the words of the old darkey, "You can't get it where it ain't."

What crude rubber the manufacturer is able to get is costing him such an exorbitant price that there is no other way out but to raise the price of tires. Just think of it—crude rubber has advanced from the first of the year from 38c to as high as 94c a pound—from $760.00 a ton to $1,880.00 a ton.

How the Price of Crude Rubber Is Advancing



Why is Crude Rubber so High in Price?

The majority of the world's rubber supply is grown in British colonies. The Parliament of Great Britain passed a law, known as the Stephenson Restriction Bill, which restricts the amount of rubber that may be produced, fixes the minimum selling price and, what is most vital to us, the amount of crude rubber that may be exported.

The committee reporting this bill to Parliament claimed it was intended for the relief of the rubber growers as it would check declining prices due to unlimited production as heretofore allowed.

This restriction may be relief to the rubber growers, but it is grief to American manufacturers and tire buyers, for while the consumption of rubber is greatly increasing (due in a measure to the balloon type of tire) the production of crude rubber, by this law, is greatly decreased.

For example, the world production of crude rubber for 1925 will be 480,000 tons, and the estimated consumption of rubber this year will be at least 510,000 tons. Figure this out for yourself and you will agree we are right when

NEW DESIGN IN 1926 CHANDLER

Paneled Radiator, Following European Practice, Feature of Model.

Seven Passenger Sedan Added; Mechanical Improvements Claimed.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 11—A new paneled radiator design, a distinct departure from the usual American practice, is a feature of the 1926 Chandler, announced today by the Chandler Motor Car company. A seven-passenger sedan is a new model in the 1926 line.

Mechanically, the new Chandler embodies many improvements and refinements that add to the ease and efficiency of operation, it was announced

Outwardly the new Chandler is distinctively different from previous models of the same make and other American cars because of the innovation in the radiator design

The traditional outline of the Chandler radiator has been retained, but instead of leaving the entire front of the radiator core exposed, the new Chandler shell divides this area into four panels Three parallel bars, spaced several inches apart, run from the top to the bottom of the shell. They enclose two slender panels, with two larger panels at the sides The bars are made a part of the nickle sell itself, and fit close against the radiator cores.

Heretofore, the front of the radiators in American cars have been unadorned; Chandler's innovation is in line with the latest trend in European practice.

New Seven-Sedan.

The new seven-passenger sedan is finised in Duco, the standard color scheme being two tones of rich brown, with an optional color, sagebrush green In the two-tone finish, the darker shade is used below the bead; the belt and top of the hood are in the lighter color, above the belt the dark brown is used. The bead, which runs clear to the radiator shell, is black, with two bronze stripes

Equipment for the new sedan includes the V. V. one-piece ventilating windshield, automatic windshield, clear-vision mirror and visor

The 1926 Chandler embodies many modifications and improvements to give better performance, economy, and efficiency

The Pikes peak motor for 1926 does not differ from the original basic design which had enabled the Chandler to win and hold many American high gearhill-climb trophies, and to set a new world's record for 1000 miles, at an average speed of 87 miles per hour For 1826, however, there are changes that have marked effect in smoothness, efficiency, and economy

GOOD BRAKES ARE NOW A NECESSITY

Large Share Of Accidents Caused By Defective Controls.

If those motorists who have "close calls" could experience for a moment the sensations of those who "actually hit," there'd be more attention paid to brake power than motor power these days

"If I had only been able to stop ten feet quicker, the accident would never have happened" How often that is heard Most accidents could be prevented if the brakes were powerful enough to stop the car a few feet quicker Fortunately, state and federal authorities now realize this and many laws on stopping distances have been passed

The Russell Manufacturing company, makers of the brake lining known as "Rusco," conducted an investigation among many of the cities and states having a law in force regarding stopping distances and found the average stopping requirements call for the ability to stop in 35 feet from a speed of 20 miles an hour and in 55 feet from a speed of 25 miles an hour.

Then some people whose cars had Rusco lined brakes made tests for the Russell company before witnesses These users then signed statements of the results of the tests before a notary public. These tests according to the signed statements which the Russell company have in their office in Middletown, Conn., proved that "Rusco" brake lining is actually capable of stopping a car from 6 to 14 feet quicker than police stopping requirements

WILLYS-KNIGHT SALES INCREASE

Officials Say Car Enjoying More Popularity Than Ever.

Officials of Willys-Overland indicate that the four-cylinder Willys Knight is enjoying even more popularity now than it did a year ago or three years ago and that a steady demand for these models has enabled the company to standardize these models in production that it directly meets competition both in and out of its own class.

Probably no other feature ever offered to the automobile owner has ben as popularly received as has the Lancaster Balancer which is now standard equipment on all four cylinder Willys-Knight cars, company officials say. This device, of English origin and patented in this country by Willys-Overland, is used exclusively on the Willys-Knight fours, eliminating the motor vibration so common in most four-cylinder cars Owners and drivers of these models repeatedly inform the company heads of the remarkable smoothness made possible in their cars by this unusual feature

Undoubtedly much of the popularity of the four-cylinder Willys-Knights is due to the trim appearance and fine equipment of these models according to dealers who have analyzed incidents leading to the unusual sales of these cars The retailers in Willys- Overland's big organization claim that the economy in the four cylinder, sleeve valved motors needs no introduction to the public and that the Willys-Knight fours and sixes are continually being purchased by former owners of the poppet type of motor.

No other feature noted in the sales of Willys-Knight fours by dealers everywhere in the continued inroads of these four-cylinder models into the sales fields of many of the lighter types of six-cylinder cylinder cars of other makes Dealers further report to the factory that the everyday experience of hundreds of drivers who have handleds their cars from 50,000 to 200 000 miles with a minimum of trouble from the Willys-Knight motor has reacted as one of the best of sales factors in favor of the four-cylinder of Willys-Knights

FINDS 4-WHEEL BRAKES POPULAR

Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company Says Public Buys No Others.

Idea Was First Brought By That Establishment From Europe.

One of the larger builders of the six-cylinder motor cars has been forcibly shown that the public will buy only four-wheel brake equipped automobiles

The Paige-Detroit Motor car company adopted four-wheel brakes of the hydraulic principle Janoury 1, 1925, but felt some doubts that the entire public wanted them The result was the brakes were only offered on Paige and Jewett cars as optional equipment at an extra price.

June 1, it became impossible for the Paige company to build two-wheel brake cars as the orders stood 98 per cent four-wheel brakes Rights to manufacture the Paige-Lockhead brakes under basic patents were originally secured by the Paige company two years before their final adoption

The Paige-Detroit Motor car company was one of the very first to purchase manufacturing rights to manufacture hydraulic brakes and nearly the last to place them on their products

Harry M Jewett, president of the Paige company, first became interested in four-wheel brakes while on a trip to Europe, about a year before announcement was made in this country of their adoption by any motor car On his return to the factory, Mr Jewett summoned all of his executives as well as the engineering department into conference and told them that four-wheel brakes were the coming thing

"We want them to get busy and see what kind of a brake is best suited for general American use," he told Andrew Bachle, vice president in charge of the engineering division.

Months of experimentation with every known type of four-wheel brake followed. The result was the purchase of the manufacturing rights to the hydraulic brake, and that was two years before the brake was offered to the public by the Paige company. Its executives saw their motor cars equipped with them

Queries sent the engineering department regarding when the Paige company was going to be able to announce the brake always met with the reply from Bachle that "we'll give you the brakes when we get them right"

After nearly a year had elapsed this explanation varied somewhat It seemed that the brakes were perfected for use in good weather and warmer climates But Andy Bachle, realizing that all of the Paige and Jewett care were noe sold in warm climes, refused to release the brakes for production untill he tried them out during the winter months

Winter did bring on a new set of troubles. Leather cups used in the cylinders which closed the brake bands had been replaced because they were ineffectual Rubber which was substituted proved also to be the wrong material with the solution used The solution was changed to alcohol and castor oil

Other changes were made and the brakes released to the production department for manufacture January 1, 1925 Nearly two years had elapsed since the Paige company first secured manufacturing rights to the brakes

Nearly every one of the larger companies in the industry has adopted four-wheel brakes of some kind or other. Paige was among the last

Now-a One-Profit Car in the Quality Field

STUDEBAKER has achieved one-profit manufacture in the quality field. This marks a new era in the automobile industry. Studebaker's achievement eliminates unnecessary profits running up to $500 on a single car. It banishes double overhead. It results in quantity production of quality cars. It vitally affects pricing by establishing a new criterion of value in the fine-car field.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago practically all "manufacturers" of automobiles were nothing more than assemblers. They purchased motors, bodies, tops, axles, etc., from parts makers who were the manufacturers in reality.

On this basis it was easy to become an automobile "manufacturer," and more than five hundred makes of automobiles have had their day in the American market and disappeared. They are represented only by "orphan cars" with practically no resale value in the hands of the public.

Notwithstanding this writing on the wall many manufacturers still assemble their product, piling profit upon profit for the ultimate purchaser to pay. Each profit which a maker pays to a body builder or parts supplier enters into his costs just as though he had spent the money for steel or plate glass or upholstery. Although it represents no value he not only passes it on to the purchaser but figures his own profit on top of it.

* * * * *

The Ford is a one-profit car and reigns supreme in its field.

In the fine car field Studebaker—and Studebaker alone—now offers the American public one-profit values.

During the past seven years, when demand for automobiles exceeded supply, Studebaker has been plowing earnings back into plants and machinery until we are now able to make this announcement.

Foundries, stamping mills, machine shops, are now complete. As final links in the chain of one profit production, the enormous Studebaker body plants have been operating for months at peak capacity. Resources totaling one hundred million dollars are concentrated on the production of this one-profit car.

No other individual manufacturer in the world (except Ford) possesses such facilities for the complete manufacture of automobiles.

Why Studebaker is the "one-profit" car

There are more than 50 makes of passenger cars built in the United States, but very few are manufactured complete in the plants of the producers who sell them.

Only 42 build all their own motors—and one of the 42 is Studebaker.

Of the 42 which claim to make their own motors only 14 make the iron castings, stampings and forgings which go into their motors—and one of the 14 is Studebaker.

Only 5 make all their own bodies and one of the 5 is Studebaker.

Only 2 make all their own motors, bodies, clutches, springs, axles, gear sets, differentials and steering gear. One of these 2 is Studebaker and the other is Ford

That is why Studebaker is able to put finer steel, finer wood, finer upholstery, better workmanship, hundreds of thousands of miles of reserve transportation, into every car—yet keep down the price to you.

This sound manufacturing principle not only holds down price, but it insures a better car regardless of price. The car is not a patchwork, but a unit.

Last year at the New York and Chicago automobile shows four well-known automobile manufacturers exhibited coaches mounted with the same body—a body made from the identical dies, jigs and fixtures. Certainly these manufacturers must have sacrificed engineering advantages in chassis construction to accommodate this "standardized" coach body built by an outside supplier.

And remember that no outside supplier is able to build bodies a whit cheaper than Studebaker with its vast modern plants and tremendous volume.

Contrast this with Studebaker, where the entire car is designed and built as a unit—and engineered complete. This construction means (1) longer life—(2) greater comfort in riding—(3) greater freedom from repair expense—(4) greater resale value.

With the advent of this one-profit-one-overhead plan of motor car manufacture, it is folly today to buy a car by the same comparisons you used yesterday. Today you must measure all cars with this "one-profit" Studebaker.

* * * *

One-fourth of all American passenger cars built today belong in the fine-car field—a total of 57 different makes selling above one thousand dollars.

There are 21 Studebaker body styles available on three different chassis. The Standard Six Models, 113-inch wheelbase, 50 h.p. engine, $1125 to $1650 f.o.b. factory. The Special Six Models, 120 inch wheelbase, 65 h.p. engine, $1450 to $2120 f.o.b. factory. And the Big Six Models; 127 inch wheelbase, 75 h.p. engine, $1875 to $2650 f.o.b. factory.

And you may buy your Studebaker today with the assurance that it will not be arbitrarily stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Instead of spectacular annual announcements of "new yearly models," Studebaker has adopted the policy of keeping its cars up-to-date in body styles and chassis design every day in the year. Therefore, buy your Studebaker now!

This device, of English origin and patented in this country by Willys-Overland, is used exclusively on the Willys-Knight fours, eliminating the motor vibration so common in most four-cylinder cars. Owners and drivers of these models repeatedly inform the company heads of the remarkable smoothness made possible in their cars by this unusual feature.

Undoubtedly much of the popularity of the four-cylinder Willys-Knights is due to the trim appearance and fine equipment of these models according to dealers who have analyzed incidents leading to the unusual sales of these cars. The retailers in Willys- Overland's big organization claim that the economy in the four-cylinder, sleeve valved motors needs no introduction to the public and that the Willys-Knight fours and sixes are continually being purchased by former owners of the poppet type of motor.

No other feature noted in the sales of Willys-Knight fours by dealers everywhere in the continued inroads of these four-cylinder models into the sales fields of many of the lighter types of six-cylinder cylinder cars of other makes. Dealers further report to the factory that the everyday experience of hundreds of drivers who have handleds their cars from 50,000 to 200,000 miles with a minimum of trouble from the Willys-Knight motor has reacted as one of the best of sales factors in favor of the four-cylinder of Willys-Knights.

FINDS 4-WHEEL BRAKES POPULAR

Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company Says Public Buys No Others.

Idea Was First Brought By That Establishment From Europe.

One of the larger builders of the six-cylinder motor cars has been forcibly shown that the public will buy only four-wheel brake equipped automobiles.

The Paige-Detroit Motor car company adopted four-wheel brakes of the hydraulic principle Janoury 1, 1925, but felt some doubts that the entire public wanted them. The result was the brakes were only offered on Paige and Jewett cars as optional equipment at an extra price.

June 1, it became impossible for the Paige company to build two-wheel brake cars as the orders stood 98 per cent four-wheel brakes. Rights to manufacture the Paige-Lockhead brakes under basic patents were originally secured by the Paige company two years before their final adoption.

The Paige-Detroit Motor car company was one of the very first to purchase manufacturing rights to manufacture hydraulic brakes and nearly the last to place them on their products.

Harry M. Jewett, president of the Paige company, first became interested in four-wheel brakes while on a trip to Europe, about a year before announcement was made in this country of their adoption by any motor car. On his return to the factory, Mr. Jewett summoned all of his executives as well as the engineering department into conference and told them that four-wheel brakes were the coming thing.

"We want them to get busy and see what kind of a brake is best suited for general American use," he told Andrew Bachle, vice president in charge of the engineering division.

Months of experimentation with every known type of four-wheel brake followed. The result was the purchase of the manufacturing rights to the hydraulic brake, and that was two years before the brake was offered to the public by the Paige company. Its executives saw their motor cars equipped with them.

Queries sent the engineering department regarding when the Paige company was going to be able to announce the brake always met with the reply from Bachle that "we'll give you the brakes when we get them right."

After nearly a year had elapsed this explanation varied somewhat. It seemed that the brakes were perfected for use in good yeather and warmer climates. But Andy Bachle, realizing that all of the Paige and Jewett care were noe sold in warm climes, refused to release the brakes for production untill he tried them out during the winter months.

Winter did bring on a new set of troubles. Leather cups used in the cylinders which closed the brake bands had been replaced because they were ineffectual. Rubber which was substituted proved also to be the wrong material with the solution used. The solution was changed to alcohol and castor oil.

Other changes were made and the brakes released to the production department for manufacture January 1, 1925. Nearly two years had elapsed since the Paige company first secured manufacturing rights to the brakes.

Nearly every one of the larger companies in the industry has adopted four-wheel brakes of some kind or other. Paige was among the last.

Now-a One-Profit Car in the Quality Field

STUDEBAKER has achieved one-profit manufacture in the quality field. This marks a new era in the automobile industry. Studebaker's achievement eliminates unnecessary profits running up to $500 on a single car. It banishes double overhead. It results in quantity production of quality cars. It vitally affects pricing by establishing a new criterion of value in the fine-car field.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago practically all "manufacturers" of automobiles were nothing more than assemblers. They purchased motors, bodies, tops, axles, etc., from parts makers who were the manufacturers in reality.

On this basis it was easy to become an automobile "manufacturer," and more than five hundred makes of automobiles have had their day in the American market and disappeared. They are represented only by "orphan cars" with practically no resale value in the hands of the public.

Notwithstanding this writing on the wall many manufacturers still assemble their product, piling profit upon profit for the ultimate purchaser to pay. Each profit which a maker pays to a body builder or parts supplier enters into his costs just as though he had spent the money for steel or plate glass or upholstery. Although it represents no value he not only passes it on to the purchaser but figures his own profit on top of it.

* * * * *

The Ford is a one-profit car and reigns supreme in its field.

In the fine car field Studebaker —and Studebaker alone—now offers the American public one-profit values.

During the past seven years, when demand for automobiles exceeded supply, Studebaker has been plowing earnings back into plants and machinery until we are now able to make this announcement.

Foundries, stamping mills, machine shops, are now complete. As final links in the chain of one-profit production, the enormous Studebaker body plants have been operating for months at peak capacity. Resources totaling one hundred million dollars are concentrated on the production of this one-profit car.

No other individual manufacturer in the world (except Ford) possesses such facilities for the complete manufacture of automobiles.

Why Studebaker is the "one-profit" car

There are more than 60 makes of passenger cars built in the United States, but very few are manufactured complete in the plants of the producers who sell them.

Only 42 build all their own motors—and one of the 42 is Studebaker.

Of the 42 which claim to make their own motors only 14 make the iron castings, stampings and forgings which go into their motors—and one of the 14 is Studebaker.

Only 5 make all their own bodies and one of the 5 is Studebaker.

Only 2 make all their own motors, bodies, clutches, springs, axles, gear sets, differentials and steering gear. One of these 2 is Studebaker and the other is Ford.

That is why Studebaker is able to put finer steel, finer wood, finer upholstery, better workmanship, hundreds of thousands of miles of reserve transportation, into every car—yet keep down the price to you.

This sound manufacturing principle not only holds down price, but it insures a better car regardless of price. The car is not a patchwork, but a unit.

Last year at the New York and Chicago automobile shows four well-known automobile manufacturers exhibited coaches mounted with the same body—a body made from the identical dies, jigs and fixtures. Certainly these manufacturers must have sacrificed engineering advantages in chassis construction to accommodate this "standardized" coach body built by an outside supplier.

And remember that no outside supplier is able to build bodies a whit cheaper than Studebaker with its vast modern plants and tremendous volume.

Contrast this with Studebaker, where the entire car is designed and built as a unit—and engineered complete. This construction means (1) longer life—(2) greater comfort in riding—(3) greater freedom from repair expense—(4) greater resale value.

With the advent of this one-profit-one-overhead plan of motor car manufacture, it is folly today to buy a car by the same comparisons you used yesterday. Today you must measure all cars with this "one-profit" Studebaker.

* * * *

One-fourth of all American passenger cars built today belong in the fine-car field—a total of 57 different makes selling above one thousand dollars.

There are 21 Studebaker body styles available on three different chassis. The Standard Six Models, 113-inch wheelbase, 50 h. p. engine, $1125 to $1650 f. o. b. factory. The Special Six Models, 120-inch wheelbase, 65 h. p. engine, $1450 to $2120 f. o. b. factory. And the Big Six Models, 127-inch wheelbase, 75 h. p. engine, $1875 to $2650 f. o. b. factory.

And you may buy your Studebaker today with the assurance that it will not be arbitrarily stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Instead of spectacular annual announcements of "new yearly models," Studebaker has adopted the policy of keeping its cars up-to-date in body styles and chassis design every day in the year. Therefore, buy your Studebaker now!

PIERCE ARROW BUILDS A COACH

Hand-built of Northern White Ash and aluminum by Pierce-Arrow body workers for strength and safety. In it are the same materials, the same high standards of workmanship, which distinguish all Pierce-Arrow coachwork. Yet, because of inherent economies of coach design, it is offered at a price close to that of the touring car.

It is an economy car—for the chassis is the standard Series 80, built for long years of service. Maintenance costs no more, and in some instances less, than that of other cars—and is needed less frequently. Your choice of six striking colors. Individuality!

Doors are thirty-six inches wide, and an ingenious seat arrangement permits you to slip into the rear seat without disturbing the occupants in front. Inside is luxury—and comfort. The deep, broad rear cushion is fifty inches wide—plenty of room for three six-footers.

Look around you. Rich textured upholstery—soil-proof and wear-proof—silk roller shades, silk toggle grips, a trim dome light, smoking and vanity cases, a carpeted foot rest, distinctive hardware and appointments of Pierce-Arrow design.

If desired, you may pay for this newest Pierce-Arrow car as you use it. A moderate initial investment secures immediate delivery, the balance being distributed evenly over a period of months through the Pierce-Arrow finance plan.

Clarke Clan Nosed Out by Single Run at Denver

LINKS BOW TO DENVER BEARS

Lynch Holds Clarke Crew To Four Hits And Bruins Grab Victory, 3 to 2; Brucker Smacks Home Run.

DENVER Colo, July 11—Adrian Lynch, pitching in his finest form, backed up by some sensational fielding, hurled the Bears to a 3 to 2 victory over the scrappy Links of Lincoln in the opening game of the series Saturday afternoon at Merchants park It was an old-fashioned ball game—the low-run, one run kind they used to play in the olden golden days—and came just when some of the more cynical fans thought they were due to watch "cut and slash" exhibitions throughout the season

Lynch held the Links to four hits one of the quartet a home run over the low left field fence by Catcher Earl Brucker Adrian's excellent pitching seems to inspire his mates for they turned in some fine fielding plays Falk and Gingliardi especially starring with long running catches

Pillette Strong In Pinches

Ted Pillette on the mound for the Links gave up ten hits but generally was able to bear down in the pinches This is shown by the fact that the Bears had twelve men left on bases Pillette twice bearing down and retiring the side with the bases full

Fliskamper's error on Gorman's grounder a stolen base by Gorman and Berger's single into right gave the Bears their first run in the first stanza They added another in the second on a walk to Gorman his second stolen base another walk to Berger and Gingliardi's left field single

Brucker Crashes Homer

Lynch pitched along in nice form until the sixth allowing only one hit—a single by Fliskamper Then Brucker the first man up got his home run Cooper followed with a single stole second and scored the tying run on Gooch's single past Berger Gooch went all the way to third when the ball went through O'Brien but Adrian tightened up and retired the next two batters

Manager Joe Berger was the hero of the winning run After Gorman opened the sixth with a single to center Joe crashed a double down the left field line the ball skipping all the way to the fence while Gorman brought over what proved to be the winning run

Gorman's Hundredth Run

Incidentally it was Gorman's hundredth run of the season He leads the league in that respect

A doubleheader is on the Sunday card Hodges and Beck the newcomer or Gilder will work for the Bears It looks like Christian and Carson for the Links Outfielder Bray joined the Links just before the game The score

LINCOLN GOLFERS IN CITY TOURNEY

Field of Ninety Players Competed Saturday In Qualifying Round.

Fifty Others Due to Shoot Today; Best Cards By Aitken-Brown.

QUALIFIERS WIND UP TODAY

The qualifying round of the 1925 city golf tournament will be continued at the Lincoln Country club today Qualifiers must tee off by 3 p m, according to Norman Sommers, professional in charge of the play

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

A field of ninety golfers the largest group of opening day starters in local history teed off at the Lincoln Country club Saturday in the qualifying round of the annual city tournament The group of Saturday qualifiers was but six less than the total number that enrolled for the 1924 golf meet and with at least forty additional qualifiers scheduled to travel round thecourse today the 1925 tourney is certain to set a new entry record for Lincoln golf

The regiment of Saturday qualifiers produced some good golf—a brand of play much superior to that demonstrated in past city champions and followers of the niblick and masie were predicting Saturday evening that at least an 86 would be necessary to land in the first flight

Of the ninety golfers that braved a blazing sun to qualify twelve had cards of 86 or better while nineteen had cracked the ninety mark and finished the eighteen holes with cards in the 70s or 80s

Aitken Brown Low Card

Phil Aitken and Joe Brown with cards of 77 each turned in the low medal scores for the Saturday round Par for the course is 72

Brown was out with a par 36 while Aitken took a 39 Brown had three 6s on the inside nine and slumped to a 41 while Aitken pegged along with a steady brand that yielded a 38

Aitken drove two balls out of bounds on his trip around the course He was on the way to a birdie three on number three when he drove one outside and another of his tee shots went astray on number fifteen His card of 77 includes a birdie 3 on the 342 yard number eighteen Aitken's card

HURLING WIZARDS GET THEIR BUMPS

That more veteran pitchers are getting their bumps during the present hectic race in the National league than was the case last season is daily becoming apparent Many of the old reliables are missing at the top Meadows and Kremer of Pittsburgh and Vance of Brooklyn are exceptions in the general rout of fancy hurlers

Meadows leads the league with 12 won and four lost while Vance has hung up 11 and five Kremer has a record of eight and four John Scott of the Giants did not figure in the race last year although he is up near the front this season New York has apparently picked up a winner in Greenfield who at present has a record of five victories and one defeat Jones of Chicago is another newcomer near the top

Rixey of Cincinnati has won almost two thirds of his games a good record considering what the Reds have been up against Donahue of the same team has done about as well with 1[illegible] and eight

Names Missing From Roll

Among those missing near the top are such artistic hurlers as Yde and Aldrige of Pittsburgh Sherdel of St Louis Genewich of Boston Luque of Cincinnati Ring of Philadelphia Alexander and Cooper of Chicago and McQuillan and Nehf of New York

Nothing startling has transpired during the race in the past week and the changes in the ranking of individual players have not been important Rogers Hornsby is in possession of a 30 point batting lead over Stock of Brooklyn Bottomly of the Cards has gone up to third place with Fournier and Bancroft and Burns of Boston next in the ranking Frisch of the Giants has been coming strong Barnhart of Pittsburgh has taken a tumble although still among the leaders

Pirates First in Hitting

Pittsburgh has suffered a loss in hitting percentage but the Pirates still have a big lead over the Phillies So far as ranking is concerned there has not been a single switch showing that the teams have settled down to the regular grind

The fielding figures are also [illegible] with Chicago leading and the pace making Pirates last in defense the latter having neither advanced nor receded

SLATTERY NEW STATE CHAMP

Former Lincoln Title-Holder Defeats Jack Hughes, 4 and 2, In Final of Nebraska Golf Tourney.

OMAHA Neb, July 11—Dr Gene Slattery Dundee club golfer, former city champion of Lincoln and once captain of the University of Nebraska golf team, is the new king of Nebraska golfdom In a 36-hole final match today, Slattery disposed of Jack Hughes, Omaha Field club, state champion in 1912 and runner up at the 1921 state tournament in Lincoln winning by a margin of 4 and 2

Slattery Won Decisively

Slattery's triumph was clean cut and decisive In playing up to the final match he had displayed championship form going under [illegible] in one of his contests during the week and delivering a brand of excellent golf which made him a consistent title contender

Today's match was staged under conditions trying to both finalists The heat was intense yet Slattery held fast to his task taking the lead over Hughes in the morning round and holding up his game until the championship was clinched on the sixteenth hole of the afternoon round

Clinched It With Birdie

Slattery was [illegible] up at the end of the first nine holes in the morning Hughes held the pace on the nine holes coming in and the first nine holes of the afternoon round also were halved but Slattery still was 2 up and the task which confronted Hughes of overtaking his young opponent apparently was hopeless Hughes picked up a hole on the inward journey but Slattery immediately won it back added still another to his advantage and then clinched victory on the sixteenth by shooting a spectacular birdie three The cards

DR GENE SLATTERY.

Former city champion of Lincoln and winner of the state golf tournament in Omaha Dr Slattery now is a resident of Omaha and member of Dundee Golf club

Clarke Clan Nosed Out by Single Run at Denver

LINKS BOW TO DENVER BEARS

Lynch Holds Clarke Crew To Four Hits And Bruins Grab Victory, 3 to 2; Brucker Smacks Home Run.

DENVER, Colo., July 11.—Adrian Lynch, pitching in his finest form, backed up by some sensational fielding, hurled the Bears to a 3 to 2 victory over the scrappy Links of Lincoln in the opening game of the series Saturday afternoon at Merchants park. It was an old-fashioned ball game—the low-run, one-run kind they used to play in the olden, golden days—and came just when some of the more cynical fans thought they were due to watch "cut and slash" exhibitions throughout the season.

Lynch held the Links to four hits, one of the quartet a home run over the low left field fence by Catcher Earl Brucker. Adrian's excellent pitching seems to inspire his mates, for they turned in some fine fielding plays, Falk and Ginlardi especially starring with long running catches.

Pillette Strong In Pinches.

Ted Pillette, on the mound for the Links, gave up ten hits, but generally was able to bear down in the pinches. This is shown by the fact that the Bears had twelve men left on bases, Pillette twice bearing down and retiring the side with the bases full.

Flaskamper's error on Gorman's grounder, a stolen base by Gorman and Berger's single into right gave the Bears their first run in the first stanza. They added another in the second on a walk to Gorman, his second stolen base, another walk to Berger and Ginglardi's left field single.

Brucker Crashes Homer.

Lynch pitched along in nice form until the sixth, allowing only one hit—a single by Flaskamper. Then Brucker, the first man up, got his home run. Cooper followed with a single, stole second and scored the tying run on Gooch's single past Berger. Gooch went all the way to third when the ball went through O'Brien, but Adrian tightened up and retired the next two batters.

Manager Joe Berger was the hero of the winning run. After Gorman opened the sixth with a single to center, Joe crashed a double down the left field line, the ball skipping all the way to the fence while Gorman brought over what proved to be the winning run.

Gorman's Hundredth Run.

Incidentally it was Gorman's hundredth run of the season. He leads the league in that respect.

A doubleheader is on the Sunday card. Hodges and Beck, the newcomer, or Gilder will work for the Bears. It looks like Christian and Carson for the Links. Outfielder Bray joined the Links just before the game. The score:

Baseball is a young man's game, well, for just about two weeks in the spring. The grand old dope works out this way now: Ty Cobb, twenty years with Detroit, leads the hitters in, the American eague; Rogers Hornsby, ten years with the St. Louis Cardinals, tops all, in the the National; "Mike" Murphy, with Connie Mack when he won pennants, is back at the top in the American association, and Wilber Good, only a memory in the majors, is fighting for the hitting lead in the Southern.

Haley Pounds Three Hits As Omaha Wins

DES MOINES, July 11.—Omaha defeated Des Moines today 15 to 11 in the opening game of the series here. Both teams played indifferent ball, the extreme heat affecting all of the players. Omaha took a big lead in the first three innings which the Demons couldn't overcome by late rallies. The score:

LINCOLN GOLFERS IN CITY TOURNEY

Field of Ninety Players Competed Saturday In Qualifying Round.

Fifty Others Due to Shoot Today; Best Cards By Aitken-Brown.

QUALIFIERS WIND UP TODAY.

The qualifying round of the 1925 city golf tournament will be continued at the Lincoln Country club today. Qualifiers must tee off by 3 p. m., according to Norman Sommers, professional in charge of the play.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

A field of ninety golfers, the largest group of opening day starters in local history, teed off at the Lincoln Country club Saturday in the qualifying round of the annual city tournament. The group of Saturday qualifiers was but six less than the total number that enrolled for the 1924 golf meet and with at least forty additional qualifiers scheduled to travel round thecourse today, the 1925 tourney is certain to set a new entry record for Lincoln golf.

The regiment of Saturday qualifiers produced some good golf—a brand of play much superior to that demonstrated in past city champions and followers of the niblick and masie were predicting Saturday evening that at least an 86 would be necessary to land in the first flight.

Of the ninety golfers that braved a blazing sun to qualify, twelve had cards of 86 or better, while nineteen had cracked the ninety mark and finished the eighteen holes with cards in the 70s or 80s.

Aitken-Brown Low Card.

Phil Aitken and Joe Brown, with cards of 77 each, turned in the low medal scores for the Saturday round. Par for the course is 72.

Brown was out with a par 36, while Aitken took a 39. Brown had three 6s on the inside nine and slumped to a 41, while Aitken pegged along with a steady brand that yielded a 38.

Aitken drove two balls out of bounds on his trip around the course. He was on the way to a birdie three on number three when he drove one outside and another of his tee shots went astray on number fifteen. His card of 77 includes a birdie 3 on the 342-yard number eighteen. Aitken's card:

Out ......4 4 4 5 3 4 6 5 4—39
In ....3 5 4 5 3 5 4 6 3—38—77

Brown Shoots a Birdie.

Brown, young University of Nebraska golfer, just back from competition in the state tournament at Omaha, got a birdie two on the short 141-yard pitch at number five. A five on number three was all that kept him from cracking par for the outside. His card:

Out ......4 4 4 5 3 4 6 5 4—39
In ....3 5 4 5 3 5 4 6 3—38—77

Billy Folsom, who holds the honor of winning the first city tournament, shot an 81, taking a sad 43 for the outside, but rallying for a 38 on the last nine. A birdie three on eighteen aided him on the inside. Folsom's card:

Out ......4 4 6 5 3 4 5 6 6—43
In ....4 6 3 5 3 5 4 5 3—38—81

Copeland Has Two Birdies.

C. B. Copeland, Country club golfer, who has been playing a strong game this spring, was out with a 37, one above par, but slipped on the inside, taking a 46 for a 83. Copeland shot a birdie three on the 400-yard number four and a birdie three on the 317-yard nine. A seven on the short 116-yard number fourteen spoiled a perfectly pleasant afternoon. Copeland's card:

Out ......4 4 4 3 3 5 5 6 3—37
In ....3 6 5 5 7 5 5 6 4—46—83

Ed Foss, fourteen-year-old Lincoln high school golfer and Country club caddy, was home with one of the 84s. Foss took a pair of 42s. His card:

Out ......4 5 4 5 5 4 5 5 5—42
In ....4 6 4 5 3 6 4 5 5—42—84

Chapin and Tucker Today.

Don Chapin of the Lincoln Country club, present city champion, and Joe Tucker of Eastridge clug, 1923 champion, are expected to qualify today. Both have been playing a good brand of golf this summer and should land in the first flight without much trouble.

Pairings for the five flights will be made Sunday evening. A silver shaker, selected by a committeeman in a moment of optimism, is the prize for the fifth flight winner. A wood club will go to the runner-up.

Saturday qualifying scores:
Phil Aitken, L. C. C., 36-41—77.
Joe Brown, East., 39-38—77.
W. M. Folsom, L. C. C., 43-38—81.
C. B. Copeland, L. C. C., 43-38—83
L. A. Ricketts, L. C. C., 41-43—84.
R. F. Gilkeson, East., 41-43—84.
Ed Foss, L. C. C, 42-42—84
C. F. McCain ,L. C .C., 41-44—85.
Walter Aitken L. C. C., 41-45—86.

TENNIS TOURNEY OPENS SATURDAY

Lincoln Racqueteers Will Meet In Annual City Tennis Tournament.

Mahood To Defend Laurels In 1925 Play; Expect Many Entries.

The 1925 Lincoln city tennis tournament will open on the University of Nebraska tennis courts next Saturday and continue through the following week.

Fred Archard, secretary of the Lincoln Tennis association, who will be in active charge of the tournament, announces that the largest field of entries in local net annals will compete in the tournament.

Drawings for first round singles play will take place Saturday at 10 a. m., first round matches being scheduled for Saturday or Sunday. Doubles will start the following Tuesday.

Entry fees for the city tournament are $1 for singles and $1.50 for doubles team. Entry books are open at the Lincoln Sporting Goods and Lawlor Sporting Goods stores or with Groundkeeper McKinney at the university courts.

Joe Stanton, president of the Lincoln Tennis association and veteran tennis player, will be the official referee of the tournament.

Five Champions Entered.

Five past and present city champions are enrolled for the tournament play. They are Ralph Weaverling, Don Elliott, B. E. McProud, Fred Archard and Paul Mahood. The present city title is held by Mahood.

Other leading contenders include Cedric Potter, finalists of the 1923 tournament; Gregg McBride, former university champion and last year semi-finals; Coach Ernest E. Bearg, University of Nebraska grid mentor; Eugene Staley, Nebraska college champion of two seasons; Sig North, former Lincoln junior champion.

Others who are capable of turning in an upset include J. D. Lau, Charles Warren, Kenneth Hattori; John Zogozya, John Straka, R. Gustafson, Leo Scherrer, E. Fullbrook, Charles McCandless and a quartet of junior players—John Ward, Mark Crewdson, Neal Lane and Lynn Trombla.

Some Fast Doubles Teams.

Mahood and Archard, 1924 state and city doubles champion, will play in defense of their team title.

Local tennis has developed some fast doubles teams this season, the list include Bearg and Potter, Weaverling and Lau, McBride and Elliott, McProud and Crewdson.

Bleachers will be erected to the south of the courts and pre-tournament interest points to a good-sized gallery at all matches.

"Rabbit" New Chicago Cub Boss.

WALTER MARANVILLE.

For years a spectacular figure in baseball, Walter "Rabbit" Maranville has been made manager of the Chicago Cubs, succeeding Bill Killefer. Maranville first became famous as a shortstop of the world champion Braves in 1914.

HURLING WIZARDS GET THEIR BUMPS

That more veteran pitchers are getting their bumps during the present hectic race in the National league than was the case last season is daily becomiing apparent. Many of the old reliables are missing at the top. Meadows and Kremer of Pittsburgh and Vance of Brooklyn are exceptions in the general rout of fancy hurlers.

Meadows leads the league with 12 won and four lost, while Vance has hung up 11 and five . Kremer has a record of eight and four. John Scott of the Giants did not figure in the race last year, although he is up near the front this season. New York has apparently picked up a winner in Greenfield, who at present has a record of five victories and one defeat. Jones of Chicago is another newcomer near the top.

Rixey of Cincinnati has won almost two-thirds of his games, a good record considering what the Reds have been up against. Donahue of the same team has done about as well, with 12 and eight.

Names Missing From Roll.

Among those missing near the top are such artistic hurlers as Yde and Aldrige of Pittsburgh, Sherdel of St. Louis, Genewich of Boston, Luque of Cincinnati, Ring of Philadelphia, Alexander and Cooper of Chicago and McQuillan and Nehf of New York.

Nothing startling has transpired during the race in the past week and the changes in the ranking of individual players have not been important. Rogers Hornsby is in possession of a 30-point batting lead over Stock of Brooklyn. Bottomly of the Cards has gone up to third place, with Fournier and Bancroft and Burns of Boston next in the ranking. Frisch of the Giants has been coming strong. Barnhart of Pittsburgh has taken a tumble, although still among the leaders.

Pirates First in Hitting.

Pittsburgh has suffered a loss in hitting percentage, but the Pirates still have a big lead over the Phillies. So far as ranking is concerned, there has not been a single switch, showing that the teams have settled down to the regular grind.

The fielding figures are also practically the same as last week, with Chicago leading and the pace-making Pirates last in defense, the latter having neither advanced nor receded.

Amateur Golfers In Tourney Over Course at Friend

FRIEND, Neb., July 11.—An open amateur golf tournament is planned by the Friend Country club for July 19 and 20. The qualifying round will get under way July 19 at 9 a. m.

The championship flight will consist of sixteen players. All other flights will be made up of eight players and every competitor will be placed in some flight, according to the committee.

Golfers wishing to compete may mail their entries to H. J. Southwick, Friend. The fee is $2.

To form the present team of the Philadelphia Athletics, more than 600 players were tried out between the seasons of 1915 and 1924.

Remember Jim Bagby? He won a lot of games for Cleveland when the Indians were more of a peril than they are now. Jim is doing well in the Southern. He has helped Atlanta to win nine ball games so far this year. For a time they couldn't beat him and he won six straight.

SLATTERY NEW STATE CHAMP

Former Lincoln Title-Holder Defeats Jack Hughes, 4 and 2, In Final of Nebraska Golf Tourney.

OMAHA, Neb., July 11.—Dr. Gene Slattery, Dundee club golfer, former city champion of Lincoln and once captain of the University of Nebraska golf team, is the new king of Nebraska golfdom. In a 36-hole final match today, Slattery disposed of Jack Hughes, Omaha Field club, state champion in 1912 and runner-up at the 1924 state tournament in Lincoln, winning by a margin of 4 and 2.

Slattery Won Decisively.

Slattery's triumph was clean cut and decisive. In playing up to the final match, he had displayed championship form, going under par in one of his contests during the week and delivering a brand of excellent golf which made him a consistent title contender.

Today's match was staged under conditions trying to both finalists. The heat was intense, yet Slattery held fast to his task, taking the lead over Hughes in the morning round and holding up his game until the championship was clinched on the sixteenth hole of the afternoon round.

Clinched It With Birdie.

Slattery was 2 up at the end of the first nine holes in the morning. Hughes held the pace on the nine holes coming in and the first nine holes of the afternoon round also were halved, but Slattery still was 2 up and the task which confronted Hughes of overtaking his young opponent apparently was hopeless. Hughes picked up a hole on the inward journey, but Slattery immediately won it back, added still another to his advantage and then clinched victory on the sixteenth by shooting a spectacular birdie three. The cards:

DR. GENE SLATTERY.

Former city champion of Lincoln and winner of the state golf tournament in Omaha. Dr. Slattery now is a resident of Omaha and member of Dundee Golf club.

Browns' Pilot Triples And Homers With The Sacks Saturated.

St. Louis Knocks Off The World Champs In First Of Series.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—George Sisler's bat proved too much of a handicap for the Senators to overcome today and the Browns defeated them 10 to 5. Sisler drove in seven runs with two hits, clearing the bases with a triple in the fourth and hitting a home run in the fifth with the bases full. The score:

Babe's Homer Aids Yanks At Chicago

CHICAGO, July 11.—Babe Ruth's eighth home run of the season, with two on, was the big factor in the Yanks defeating the White Sox today, 5 to 3. Bob Meusel knocked out his twenty-first homer. Sheeley of the Sox also contributed a four-base hit. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of rain.

The police are now inspecting automobile brakes

What About Yours?

DO YOU know the law in regard to automobile brakes?

Do you know you may be called upon any day to demonstrate to the police that your brakes are in good working order and will stop your car within a certain number of feet?

Avoid such penalties as fines, suspensions of license and suspensions of registration by having your brakes inspected. If they are not in good condition have them relined or readjusted at once. Be sure they will pass police inspection.

Stops in less distance than police require

AFTER your brakes are lined with Rusco, you can meet any police requirement. You can do more. Rusco will stop your car in less distance, at a given speed, than Police require.

Even if the police choose a rainy day when the brakes are wet, you need not worry. Rusco controls your car exactly as well in wet weather as in dry. Not all brake linings will do this.

Write for booklet about Rusco Brake Lining, its application, and care. Sent free. Address Dept. 1017, Russell Manufacturing Company, Middletown, Connecticut. Established 1830, (Branches: New York, Chicago and Atlanta).

Who to go to

A Good man to go to, to have your brakes inspected, readjusted and relined is the man who sells Rusco Brake Lining. He pays more for Rusco than for any other brand of lining because he wants quality. But he doesn't charge you more. You can depend on such a man. In the following garages are brake lining experts who use special electrical equipment for properly countersunk riveting of Rusco Brake Lining. It will pay you to use their skill.

The police are now inspecting automobile brakes

What About Yours?

DO YOU know the law in regard to automobile brakes?

Do you know you may be called upon any day to demonstrate to the police that your brakes are in good working order and will stop your car within a certain number of feet?

Avoid such penalties as fines, suspensions of license and suspensions of registration by having your brakes inspected. If they are not in good condition have them relined or readjusted at once. Be sure they will pass police inspection.

Fines!

Suspensions of License

Suspensions of Registration

Stops in less distance than police require

AFTER your brakes are lined with Rusco, you can meet any police requirement. You can do more. Rusco will stop your car in less distance, at a given speed, than Police require.

Even if the police choose a rainy day when the brakes are wet, you need not worry. Rusco controls your car exactly as well in wet weather as in dry. Not all brake linings will do this.

Write for booklet about Rusco Brake Lining, its application, and care. Sent free. Address Dept. 1017, Russell Manufacturing Company, Middletown, Connecticut. Established 1830, (Branches: New York, Chicago and Atlanta).

Who to go to

A Good man to go to, to have your brakes inspected, readjusted and relined is the man who sells Rusco Brake Lining. He pays more for Rusco than for any other brand of lining because he wants quality. But he doesn't charge you more. You can depend on such a man. In the following garages are brake lining experts who use special electrical equipment for properly countersunk riveting of Rusco Brake Lining. It will pay you to use their skill.

EVERETT SCOTT'S STREAK OF LUCK

Veteran Shortstop Gets In On Cutting of Five Series Melons.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, July 11.—There have been great names in plenty that never found their way into a world series box score—Ed Delahanty, Lajoie, Waddell, Hornsby, Sisler, Elmer Flick, Bill Bradley, Heilmann, Max Carey, Jack Fournier, Veach, Mike Doolan, Nap Rucker, Terry Turner, Bobby Wallace, Bill Bernhardt, Addie Joss, Donie Bush and Hal Chase are only a few that come to mind, offhand.

Consider then, the case of Everett Scott, who has five world series checks to show for his ten years in baseball and seems to be in a fair way to add another to the exchequer.

Scott Lucky As Ever.

Even though nearly at the end of his competitive rope, Scott's luck ran true to form. He was recently traded from the Yankees, a seeminlg hopeless outfit, to the champion Senators, favored by many to win the 1925 pennant in the American league. With his usual facility, Scott again has jumped from the frying pan into the plush-lined chaise longue.

Yet, with all due respect to his ability, Scott would hardly be remembered in the coming years if it wasn't for the fact that he hung up an endurance record that probably will live always. He played in 1,307 consecutive ball games from June 20, 1916, to May 7 of this year, when he was benched by Miller Huggins—a most remarkable effort.

Just a Good Shortstop.

But otherwise there was nothing about Scott's ball playing to engrave his name on the pages of Time. He was an excellent shortstop, but there have been better.

And, lest a misconstruction be placed upon these phrases, permit the writer to assure one and all that he considers Scott to have been eminently deserving of his good fortune. And, in this, he differs not at all from a dozen others to whom luck was more or less of a total stranger.

Scott, on the other hand, became acquainted almost from the outset of his major league career. He came up to the Red Sox in 1915, replaced the elderly Heinie Wagner and played against the Phillies in the fall series. The Sox won again in 1916 and 1918, and Scott was on hand for the melon cutting.

Then Harrry Frazee began dismantling the Sox nad after he had rendered them useless for purposes of pennant hunting, he traded Scott to the champion Yankees of 1922. The young man got into another world series that fall and again in 1923, winding up his career in New York with second placemoney last season.

He now seems due for another cut, since it is pretty generally agreed that the Senators will do no worse than third this year.

Bottomley's Smash Wins For Cardinals

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Bottomley's home run with a runner on base ended a four-run rally in the ninth inning that gave the St. Louis Cards a 7 to 6 victory over the Phillies. Blades starred at the bat with three doubles and a single. The score:

Wins National Sprint Title

FRANK HUSSEY.

By defeating Jackson Scholz and De Hart Hubbard by a scant few inches in the 100-yard dash at the A. A. U. championships at San Francisco, young Frank Hussey annexed his first national title. Hussey, who has just completed his freshman year at Boston college, was a member of the 1924 American Olympic team last year.

'TRIS' HORNS IN ON TIGER TRIO

Speaker Steps Ahead of Wingo; Ty Leads Hitters In American Loop.

The "Three Musketeers" of the Detroit Tigers have separated for the first time in several weeks. It is no longer Wingo, Cobb and Heilmann at the top among the hitters in the American league. It is still Cobb and Heilmann, first and second among the regulars, but Wingo has found the pace too stiff and has permitted the ancient Speaker to horn in ahead of him. The more or less "intermittent" Rice of St. Louis also has gone ahead of the Detroit fly-chaser.

Nothing has disturbed Cobb and Heilmann. Each has gained a lap or two in the percentages. Ty added nine points, while Harry packed on six, again bringing the latter over the .400 mark. Speaker advanced from .369 to .389, a remarkable showing considering the way the Indians have been going of late.

It is noteworthy that the five playing managers in the league all are hitting over .300. Stanley Harris of Washington has found the going roughest and the burden of managing heaviest, judging from his percentage, as he can only show a mark of .304.

Ty of Course On Top.

Ty Cobb, of course, leads the bunch with .418. Speaker comes next with .389, Sisler has .362, a gain over last week, while Collins of Chicago is hitting at a .349 clip, the Sox leader suffering a loss of 10 points.

Wingo suffered one of the heaviest losses in points with 13. Lamar of the Athletics did even worse, but Combs of the Yankees made a 10-point gain. Simmons of Philadelphia is dragging, but Rice of Washington made a slight advance.

Kenneth Williams of St. Louis pulled upon even terms with Bob Meusel of the Yankees in home runs, each having 19, the St. Louis slugger adding three during the week.

Mostil Leads In Larcenies.

Mostil of Chicago added three stolen bases to his string and now has 26.

The Mackmen increased their hitting percentage all around, while Detroit has kept what it had, as has Washington.

New York has played the tightest game in the field and has broken the tie with Washington, leading by one point.

Coveleskie of Washington ran his string to 11 and one, being the undisputed leader among the pitchers.

Chicago Girl Breaks Record In A.A.U. Games

PASADENA, Cal., July 11.—(United Press.)—Shattering two world's records, Helen Filkey, famous Chicago Athletic club diana, was the sensation today of the annual A. A. U. women's track and field championships.

The slender, dark-eyed little amazon set new records in both the 60-yard high hurdles in eight and two-fifths seconds in the final event this afternoon, one-fifth of a second faster than her record-breaking time in the preliminaries this morning. The former record in this event was 8 4-5 seconds.

She clipped the century event in 11.1 seconds, five-tenths of a second faster than the former world's mark.

The Pasadena Athletic club won the meet with 29 1/2 points. Eureka A. C. with 23 was second and the Chicago A. C. with 15 was third.

Other results were: Vallejo A. C., 11; Patterson, N. J. A. C., 9; Savage School, New York City 10 1-2; San Jose A. C., 3; Prudential Life Insurance company Newark, N. J., 3; Lufenbury A. C., 2: Meadowbrook A. C. 2: Anaheim, Calif., A. C., 1.

Shortstop Corgan of Wichita in the Western brought home the bacon in an Independence day game against St. Joseph by making two singles and two home runs in four times at bat. Gaudette of Jersey City in the International made three singles and two triples the same day against Providence in five times up.

Caractus Wins Chicago Derby In Fast Time

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, July 11.—Caractus, C. W. Reidlinger's colt, won the eighth running of the Chicago derby here this afternoon and set a new track record of 2:04 for the one and one-quarter miles.

J. J. Troler's King Nadi was second by a half length and Silver Fo, the star of the Rancocas stable, which was sent from New York, was third, two lengths behind King Nadi.

Silver Fox jumped into the lead when the barrier was sprung and set the pace on a fast track, with Caractus in hot pursuit and Markster in third place. Silver Fox faded at the three-quarters, where Caractus opened up and took the lead by three lengths. King Nadi showed at the mile and passed Silver Fox running with his head. The Troxler colt was closing fast at the finish and would have won in another 100 yards.

Caractus paid 30 to 1, 12 to 1 and 6 to 1; King Nadi paid 4 to 1 and 2 to 1, and Silver Fox 1 to 5 for show.

DEMPSEY PILOT GETS RAW DEAL

Jack Kearns Victim of Bad Treatment at Hands Of Fight Commish.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1925 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

This column owes no allegiance to Jack Kearns.

But it does owe allegiance to the thing that it is fair play and simple justice.

And, therefore, it must trail along with those who feel that the attitude of the New York state athletic commission toward Kearns has reached a point of persecution.

It seems about time for Al Smith, governor of the state of New York, to take a few searching looks at the conduct of the commission and ascertain if that body has not gone far beyond the limits to complete fairness in the entire Dempsey-Kearns matter.

Here are the facts:

Dempsey Accepted in 1922.

About three years ago Harry Wills hurled a challenge at Jack Dempsey. He filed with the commission a $2,500 checks to insure good faith of that defi. The commission, then having William A. Muldoon as its chairman, demanded that Dempsey accept the challenge. And Dempsey did.

The champion, in writing, signified his willingness to meet Wills anywhere, anytime before the fight club offering satisfactory inducements.

Here and there promoters, or near promoters, bobbed up and said they'd put on the match. They mentioned the sums they'd offer. Kearns asked them to back up their newspaper offers by posting a certified check with the commission. And that silenced the crowd that had made bids only to acquire cheap publicity for itself.

Kearns Anxious for Match.

Kearns, who always has held to the idea that Wills would be a set-up for Dempsey, was feverishly busy trying to get Tex Rickard or other promoters to stage the jamboree.

And then, just when things looked a bit bright and there seemed to be the likelihood of the battle being fought in New York, the rumor spread that the commission was opposed to a "mixed match." Kearns at the time stated that word had come to him from the commission, through unofficial sources.

"There'll be nothing doing on this match this year."

So Kearns ceased trying to find a promoter to put on the battle in 1922, the 90-day acceptance thing expired and, if information is correct, the check was returned to Wills.

No Dodging By Champion.

No fair man can say that in 1922 Dempsey dodged meeting Wills. For his acceptance proved his eagerness, and the activity of Kearns in trying to find a promoter backed it up. It is, therefore, obvious that the match fell through not because of any untoward act by either Dempsey or Kearns but for the reason, as Kearns has expressed it:

"Muldoon and his commission were against the fight—and that settled it and killed off Jack's chances of knocking the props from under Wills and getting about $500,000 for the effort."

Now comes 1925.

Wills does some more challenging. The commission, which still includes the very same Muldoon, insisted that Dempsey accept. Kearnes wrote a letter to the commission—and indulged in a few sarcasms. He reminded the commission of the 1922 incident—and he slapped the commission upon its dainty wrists. He took the attitude that inasmuch as the commission didn't want the match in 1922 it did not want it in 1925.

Commish Felt Insulted.

The Kearns letter had "insulted" the commission and the upshot of it was that Dempsey and Kearns were placed upon a sort of ineligible" list. The commission probably would have suspended both if they had possessed fighter and manager licenses. But neither had taken out such licenses in 1925—and, therefore, the worst the commission could do was to make Dempsey ineligible to fight in New York and Kearns ineligible as manager.

Meanwhile, Kearns became manager of Mickey Walker—and Walker was matched to meet Harry Greb on July 2. Kearns appeared at the commission's office to get a license to manage and act as second for Walker in New York. Kearns was dealt a rather subtle insult with his first appearance. The second time he arrived he was given a hearing—and also a grilling. The licenses were denied him. The commission still was all frothed up over the letter Kearns had sent.

Tendered Apology.

So Kearns went away and write the commission a letter apologizing for his earlier literary effort. Just why Kearns saw fit to apologize to the commission for writing a letter that embraced TRUE ASSERTIONS is a puzzle, unless it was because Kearns felt that an apology for writing some harsh truths might get him the desired license.

The commission's heart was not softened by that letter. It stood pat on its attitude of condemnation toward Kearns. The vanity of the commission, the tender feelings of the commission had been spanked—and it seemed intent to secure revenge to the absolute limit. And it retaliated in this way:

At its meeting just before the Walker-Greb match it ruled that Kearns could not have a manager's or second's license, and then went to the drastic extreme of barring Kearns from the arena on fight night even as a spectator.

Lack of Good Faith.

Simply because in 1922 the commission failed to completely sanction a Dempsey-Wills match and then in 1925, when it attempted to force such a meeting, Kearns frankly and publicly took this position:

"Your commission halted a Dempsey-Wills fight in 1922. How then do I know that you'll go through with it in 1925?"

Dempsey is on the ineligible list; so is Kearns. The latter is automatically barred from attending fights in New York City. Why? Simply because Dempsey, having once signed to fight Wills, won't do it again until he is assured a promotor will stage the match. And NO promoter EVER has made an offer to put on such a bout in New York—and it's about 10 to 1 that none ever will.

Abuse of Authority.

Therefore, isn't the attitude of the commission toward Kearns an abuse of authority and a punishment that certainly does not fit the crime—for, in the fairest sense of hinges, Kearns did not commit a crime.

Will the governor of New York permit perpetuation of such a condition of czardom on the part of the New York state athletic commission? We shall see.

Frenchmen Trim British In Davis Trophy Matches

EAST BOURNE, England, July 11.—(I. N. S.)—France won the first two singles tennis matches in the European zone Davis cup semi-finals today when Lacoste and Jean Borotra, French stars, respectively disposed of the Englishmen, Turnbull and Rees.

The Lacoste-Turnbull score was 3-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-2.

Borotra defeated Rees, 6-4, 10-8, 4-6, 6-0.

Harvard-Yale Athletes Win From Britons

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 11.—(I.N.S.)—Harvard and Yale won the international track meet and field games from the athletes of Oxford and Cambridge this afternoon through the sensational pole vaulting of Carr of Yale. With the score standing 5 to 5 and only two events remaining, Carr established successive records with 12 feet six inches and 13 feet, giving the Americans a 6 to 5 lead and the point championship, regardless of what might happen in the one-mile run, the final event.

This was won by Lowe of Cambridge, giving him a double victory for the day and leaving the scores 6 and 6 but the provision to count second places, in case of a tie, left the Americans in front. They took seven and one-half second places to four and a half for the Britishers.

Captain Lowe of the English team and the Olympic 800-meter champion, was the individual star of the meet. He won the 880-yard run, establishing a new meet record of 1:53 2-5, and took first place in the mile run in 4:21.

Hole-in-One By Omaha Youth

OMAHA, Nebr., July 11—Even the infants are doing it.

Jack Twelvetrees, thirteen-year- old boy shot a hole-in-one at the Elmwood course here today—and he did it with a mashie for he had no driver.

Twelvetrees made his shot on number twelve, which is a 150-yard hole.

EVERETT SCOTT'S STREAK OF LUCK

Veteran Shortstop Gets In On Cutting of Five Series Melons.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, July 11.—There have been great names in plenty that never found their way into a world series box score—Ed Delahanty, Lajoie, Waddell, Hornsby, Sisler, Elmer Flick, Bill Bradley, Heilmann, Max Carey, Jack Fournier, Veach, Mike Doolan, Nap Rucker, Terry Turner, Bobby Wallace, Bill Bernhardt, Addie Joss, Donie Bush and Hal Chase are only a few that come to mind, offhand.

Consider, then, the case of Everett Scott, who has five world series checks to show for his ten years in baseball and seems to be in a fair way to add another to the exchequer.

Scott Lucky As Ever.

Even though nearly at the end of his competitive rope, Scott's luck ran true to form. He was recently traded from the Yankees, a seeminlg hopeless outfit, to the champion Senators, favored by many to win the 1925 pennant in the American league. With his usual facility, Scott again has jumped from the frying pan into the plush-lined chaise longue.

Yet, with all due respect to his ability, Scott would hardly be remembered in the coming years if it wasn't for the fact that he hung up an endurance record that probably will live always. He played in 1,307 consecutive ball games from June 20, 1916, to May 7 of this year, when he was benched by Miller Huggins—a most remarkable effort.

Just a Good Shortstop.

But otherwise there was nothing about Scott's ball playing to engrave his name on the pages of Time. He was an excellent shortstop, but there have been better.

And, lest a misconstruction be placed upon these phrases, permit the writer to assure one and all that he considers Scott to have been eminently deserving of his good fortune. And, in this, he differs not at all from a dozen others to whom luck was more or less of a total stranger.

Scott, on the other hand, became acquainted almost from the outset of his major league career. He came up to the Red Sox in 1915, replaced the elderly Heinie Wagner and played against the Phillies in the fall series. The Sox won again in 1916 and 1918, and Scott was on hand for the melon cutting.

Then Harrry Frazee began dismantling the Sox nad after he had rendered them useless for purposes of pennant hunting, he traded Scott to the champion Yankees of 1922. The young man got into another world series that fall and again in 1923, winding up his career in New York with second placemoney last season.

He now seems due for another cut, since it is pretty generally agreed that the Senators will do no worse than third this year.

Bottomley's Smash Wins For Cardinals

Wins National Sprint Title

FRANK HUSSEY

By defeating Jackson Scholz and De Hart Hubbard by a scant few inches in the 100-yard dash at the A. A. U. championships at San Francisco, young Frank Hussey annexed his first national title. Hussey, who has just completed his freshman year at Boston college, was a member of the 1924 American Olympic team last year.

'TRIS' HORNS IN ON TIGER TRIO

Speaker Steps Ahead of Wingo; Ty Leads Hitters In American Loop.

The "Three Musketeers" of the Detroit Tigers have separated for the first time in several weeks. It is no longer Wingo, Cobb and Heilmann at the top among the hitters in the American league. It is still Cobb and Heilmann, first and second among the regulars, but Wingo has found the pace too stiff and has permitted the ancient Speaker to horn in ahead of him. The more or less "intermittent" Rice of St. Louis also has gone ahead of the Detroit fly-chaser.

Nothing has disturbed Cobb and Heilmann. Each has gained a lap or two in the percentages. Ty added nine points, while Harry packed on six, again bringing the latter over the .400 mark. Speaker advanced from .369 to .389, a remarkable showing considering the way the Indians have been going ot late.

It is noteworthy that the five playing managers in the league all are hitting over .300. Stanley Harris of Washington has found the going roughest and the burden of managing heaviest, judging from his percentage, as he can only show a mark of .304.

Ty of Course On Top.

Ty Cobb, of course, leads the bunch with .418. Speaker comes next with .389, Sisler has .362, a gain over last week ,while Collins of Chicago is hitting at a .349 clip, the Sox leader suffering a loss of 10 points.

Wingo suffered one of the heaviest losses in points with 13. Lamar of the Athletics did even worse, but Combs of the Yankees made a 10-point gain. Simmons of Philadelphia is dragging, but Rice of Washington made a slight advance.

Kenneth Williams of St. Louis pulled upon even terms with Bob Meusel of the Yankees in home runs, each having 19, the St. Louis slugger adding three during the week.

Mostil Leads In Larcenies.

Mostil of Chicago added three stolen bases to his string and now has 26.

The Mackmen increased their hitting percentage all around, while Detroit has kept what it had, as has Washington.

New York has played the tightest game in the field and has broken the tie with Washington, leading by one point.

Coveleskie of Washington ran his string to 11 and one, being the undisputed leader among the pitchers.

Chicago Girl Breaks Record In A.A.U. Games

PASADENA, Cal., July 11.—(United Press.)—Shattering two world's records, Helen Filkey, famous Chicago Athletic club diana, was the sensation today of the annual A. A. U. women's track and field championships.

The slender, dark-eyed little amazon set new records in both the 60-yard high hurdles in eight and two-fifths seconds in the final event this afternoon, one-fifth of a second faster than her record-breaking time in the preliminaries this morning. The former record in this event was 8 4-5 seconds.

She clpped dthe century event in 11.4 seconds, five-tenths of a second faster than the former world's mark.

The Pasadena Athletic club won the meet with 29 12 points. Eureka A. C. with 23 was second and the Chicago A. C. with 15 was third .

Other results were: Vallejo A. C., 11; Patterson, N. J. A. C., 9; Savage School, New York City 10 1-2; San Jose A. C., 3; Prudential Life Insurance company Newark, N. J., 3; Lufenbury A. C., 2; Meadowbrook A. C. 2; Anaheim, Calif., A. C., 1.

Shortstop Corgan of Wichita in the Western brought home the bacon in an Independence day game against St. Joseph by making two singles and two home runs in four times at bat. Gaudette of Jersey City in the International made three singles and two triples the same day against Providence in five times up.

Caractus Wins Chicago Derby In Fast Time

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, July 11.—Caractus, C. W. Reidlinger's colt, won the eighth running of the Chicago derby here this afternoon and set a new track record of 2:04 for the one and one-quarter miles.

J. J. Troler's King Nadi was second by a half length and Silver Fo, the star of the Rancocas stable, which was sent from New York, was third, two lengths behind King Nadi.

Silver Fox jumped into the lead when the barrier was sprung and set the pace on a fast track, with Caractus in hot pursuit and Markster in third place. Silver Fox faded at the three-quarters, where Caractus opened up and took the lead by three lengths. King Nadi showed at the mile and passed Silver Fox running with his head. The Troxler colt was closing fast at the finish and would have won in another 100 yards.

Caractus paid 30 to 1, 12 to 1 and 6 to 1; King Nadi paid 4 to 1 and 2 to 1, and Silver Fox 1 to 5 for show.

DEMPSEY PILOT GETS RAW DEAL

Jack Kearns Victim of Bad Treatment at Hands Of Fight Commish.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1925 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

This column owes no allegiance to Jack Kearns.

But it does owe allegiance to the thing that it is fair play and simple justice.

And, therefore, it must trail along with those who feel that the attitude of the New York state athletic commission toward Kearns has reached a point of persecution.

It seems about time for Al Smith, governor of the state of New York, to take a few searching looks at the conduct of the commission and ascertain if that body has not gone far beyond the limits to complete fairness in the entire Dempsey-Kearns matter.

Here are the facts:

Dempsey Accepted in 1922.

About three years ago Harry Wills hurled a challenge at Jack Dempsey. He filed with the commission a $2,500 checks to insure good faith of that defi. The commission, then having William A. Muldoon as its chairman, demanded that Dempsey accept the challenge. And Dempsey did.

The champion, in writing, signified his willingness to meet Wills anywhere, anytime before the fight club offering satisfactory inducements.

Here and there promoters, or near promoters, bobbed up and said they'd put on the match. They mentioned the sums they'd offer. Kearns asked them to back up their newspaper offers by posting a certified check with the commission. And that silenced the crowd that had made bids only to acquire cheap publicity for itself.

Kearns Anxious for Match.

Kearns, who always has held to the idea that Wills would be a set-up for Dempsey, was feverishly busy trying to get Tex Rickard or other promoters to stage the jamboree.

And then, just when things looked a bit bright and there seemed to be the likelihood of the battle being fought in New York, the rumor spread that the commission was opposed to a "mixed match." Kearns at the time stated that word had come to him from the commission, through unofficial sources.

"There'll be nothing doing on this match this year."

So Kearns ceased trying to find a promoter to put on the battle in 1922, the 90-day acceptance thing expired and, if information is correct, the check was returned to Wills.

No Dodging By Champion.

No fair man can say that in 1922 Dempsey dodged meeting Wills. For his acceptance proved his eagerness, and the activity of Kearns in trying to find a promoter backed it up. It is, therefore, obvious that the match fell through not because of any untoward act by either Dempsey or Kearns but for the reason, as Kearns has expressed it:

"Muldoon and his commission were against the fight—and that settled it and killed off Jack's chances of knocking the props from under Wills and getting about $500,000 for the effort."

Now comes 1925.

Wills does some more challenging. The commission, which still includes the very same Muldoon, insisted that Dempsey accept. Kearnes wrote a letter to the commission—and indulged in a few sarcasms. He reminded the commission of the 1922 incident—and he slapped the commission upon its dainty wrists. He took the attitude that inasmuch as the commission didn't want the match in 1922 it did not want it in 1925.

Commish Felt Insulted.

The Kearns letter had "insulted" the commission and the upshot of it was that Dempsey and Kearns were placed upon a sort of ineligible" list. The commission probably would have suspended both if they had possessed fighter and manager licenses. But neither had taken out such licenses in 1925—and, therefore, the worst the commission could do was to make Dempsey ineligible to fight in New York and Kearns ineligible as manager.

Meanwhile, Kearns became manager of Mickey Walker—and Walker was matched to meet Harry Greb on July 2. Kearns appeared at the commission's office to get a license to manage and act as second for Walker in New York. Kearns was dealt a rather subtle insult with his first appearance. The second time he arrived he was given a hearing—and also a grilling. The licenses were denied him. The commission still was all frothed up over the letter Kearns had sent.

Tendered Apology.

So Kearns went away and write the commission a letter apologizing for his earlier literary effort. Just why Kearns saw fit to apologize to the commission for writing a letter that embraced TRUE ASSERTIONS is a puzzle, unless it was because Kearns felt that an apology for writing some harsh truths might get him the desired license.

The commission's heart was not softened by that letter. It stood pat on its attitude of condemnation toward Kearns. The vanity of the commission, the tender feelings of the commission had been spanked—and it seemed intent to secure revenge to the absolute limit. And it retaliated in this way:

At its meeting just before the Walker-Greb match it ruled that Kearns could not have a manager's or second's license, and then went to the drastic extreme of barring Kearns from the arena on fight night even as a spectator.

Lack of Good Faith.

Simply because in 1922 the commission failed to completely sanction a Dempsey-Wills match and then in 1925, when it attempted to force such a meeting, Kearns frankly and publicly took this position:

"Your commission halted a Dempsey-Wills fight in 1922. How then do I know that you'll go through with it in 1925?"

Dempsey is on the ineligible list; so is Kearns. The latter is automatically barred from attending fights in New York City. Why? Simply because Dempsey, having once signed to fight Wills, won't do it again until he is assured a promotor will stage the match. And NO promoter EVER has made an offer to put on such a bout in New York—and it's about 10 to 1 that none ever will.

Abuse of Authority.

Therefore, isn't the attitude of the commission toward Kearns an abuse of authority and a punishment that certainly does not fit the crime—for, in the fairest sense of hinges, Kearns did not commit a crime.

Will the governor of New York permit perpetuation of such a condition of czardom on the part of the New York state athletic commission? We shall see.

Harvard-Yale Athletes Win From Britons

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 11.—(I.N.S.)—Harvard and Yale won the international track meet and field games from the athletes of Oxford and Cambridge this afternoon through the sensational pole vaulting of Carr of Yale. With the score standing 5 to 5 and only two events remaining, Carr established successive records with 12 feet six inches and 13 feet, giving the Americans a 6 to 5 lead and the point championship, regardless of what might happen in the one-mile run, the final event.

This was won by Lowe of Cambridge, giving him a double victory for the day and leaving the scores 6 and 6 but the provision to count second places, in case of a tie, left the Americans in front. They took seven and one-half second places to four and a half for the Britishers

Captain Lowe of the English team and the Olympic 800-meter champion, was the individual star of the meet. He won the 880-yard run, establishing a new meet record of 1:53 2-5, and took first place in the mile run in 4:21.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO Ill July 11

Grains were slightly higher at the close of the short session of the market today Wheat closed 6⅝ to 7⅛c higher corn finished 1⅞ to 3c higher oats up 1 to 1½c at the finish

Predictions of a hot wave over the spring wheat belt and a general desire to be even over the week end caused aggressive buying in the wheat pit and prices soared in the last hour

Commission houses and shorts were good buyers of corn and there was apprehension because of the hot weather

Oats rallied in sympathy with other grains Cash interests were active

Provisions closed firm with shorts and other exporters buying the limited offerings

Led by wheat grains opened higher here today

WHEAT—Wheat started ⅞ to 2c up with a general rush to cover because of the bullish report issued yesterday Offerings were limited and further gains were made after the opening

CORN—Corn started ⅝ to 1½c higher with offerings limited

OATS—Oats opened unchanged to ⅛c higher with buying general and offerings limited

PROVISIONS—Provisions were higher on light trade

Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising The Lincoln Star as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty

Advertising offered for irregular insertions takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines.

Ads ordered for seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned

Special rates for yearly advertising upon request.

Careful attention given to mail orders. Cash in full must accompany out-of-town advertisement.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION

All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and to the regular Lincoln Star style of type The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy

Errors in advertisement should be reported immediately The Star will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES.

Daily rate for consecutive insertions. Count six average words to a line Cash rate per line per day These special cash rates apply to advertising paid for within seven days after last insertion

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 11.

Grains were slightly higher at the close of the short session of the market otday. Wheat closed 6⅝ to 7½c higher; corn finished 1⅞ to 3c higher; oats up 1 to 1½c at the finish

Predictions of a hot wave over the spring wheat belt and a general desire to be even over the week-end caused aggressive buying in the wheat pit and prices soared in the last hour.

Commission houses and shorts were good buyers of corn, and there was apprehension because of the hot weather.

Oats rallied in sympathy with other grains. Cash interests were active.

Provisions closed firm with shorts and other exporters buying the limited offerings.

Led by wheat, grains opened higher here today.

WHEAT—Wheat started ½ to 2c up with a general rush to cover because of the bullish report issued yesterday. Offering were limited and further gains were made after the opening.

CORN—Corn started ⅜ to 1⅛c higher, with offerings limited.

OATS—Oats opened unchanged to ¼c higher, with buying general and offerings limited.

PROVISIONS—Provisions were higher on light trade.

THE LINCOLN STAR Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Lincoln Star, as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty.

Advertising offered for irregular insertions takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines.

Ads ordered for seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Special rates for yearly advertising upon request.

Careful attention given to mail orders. Cash in full must accompany out-of-town advertisement.

CLASSIFIEL ADVERTISING INFORMATION.

All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and to the regular Lincoln Star style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

Errors in advertisement should be reported immediately. The Star will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES.

Daily rate for consecutive insertions. Count six average words to a line. Cash rate per line per day. These special cash rates apply to advertising paid for within seven days after last insertion:

1 Time	.12
3 Times	.10
7 Times	.09

These offices are open to receive advertisements from 7:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. daily. All advertisements received up until 12:30 p. m., will appear in all city editions the same day. Al lads received between 12:30 p. m. and 10 p. m. will appear in all editions the following day.

The Size of the News—and the Size Of the Type

Hold-ups, murder trials, divorce suits—they catch your eye every time you pick up the paper.

Opportunities, bargains, service—are you missing them just because they're not printed in big type on the front page?

You won't find any "scare headlines" in the Thrift News columns in the A-B-C Classified Section—but you WILL find big money-making and saving stories back of these little ads.

For real interest, for satisfaction, for profit—wise readers of the Star watch the classified columns every day.

Remember your own personal wants every time you pick up the paper—then turn to the A-B-C Classified Section to fill them!

Your Time's Worth Money—
Are You Collecting?

Those few minutes that anyone spends in reading the Star's Classified Columns every day have a real dollar-and-cents value. They're worth cashing in on.

Sometimes they net a dollar apiece, sometimes ten dollars—sometimes a great deal more—all depending on the size and character of the particular need you have to be filled.

No matter what you want, you can count on one thing—that the quickest, easiest and least expensive way of getting it is to consult the ads in the Classified Section.

Your Time's Worth Money— Are You Collecting?

Those few minutes that anyone spends in reading the Star's Classified Columns every day have a real dollar-and-cents value. They're worth cashing in on.

Sometimes they net a dollar apiece, sometimes ten dollars—sometimes a great deal more —all depending on the size and character of the particular need you have to be filled.

No matter what you want, you can count on one thing—that the quickest, easiest and least expensive way of getting it is to consult the ads in the Classified Section.

WORLD IS FACING RUBBER DEARTH

Prices Jump From 19 to 94 Cents a Pound Within One Year.

Situation Due to Restrictions Imposed By British Rules.

In June 1924, rubber sold at 18 cents and 19 cents a pound; January 1, 1925, about 38 cents a pound; May 1, 45 cents a pound; June 1, 70 cents a pound and June 27, 94 cents per pound. This sharp advance in crude rubber prices is due fundamentally to the fact that the world's consumption of rubber in the last nine months has exceeded the world's production, even to the extent of absorbing surplus stocks held ordinarly in storage. For instance, the world's reservoir of crude rubber has been in London where for several years the storage stock approximated 800,000 tons. During the last six months this surplus has diminished very rapidly and the total stock now in storage in London is only 5,100 tons, of which about half is inferior in quality and not attractive to a manufacturer.

Three years ago it was predicted that considering normal increases in consumption as against production, there would be a world rubber shortage beginning about 1926 and becoming more acute a year or so later This shortage has become apparent sooner than predicted for the reason that consumption increased considerably beyond normal.. According to the best rubber and government authorities, there will be no relief in sight for several years. The United States government, department of commerce, in a recent bulletin predicted the peak of the shortage would arrive in 1930. Accordingly, it is safe to assume the high prices will prevail for some time to come

No Relief for Years.

During the time of the world industrial depression following the end of the war, consumption dropped off considerably with the result that rubber accumulated in storage and became a drug on the market. As a result selling prices of crude rubber fell way below the cost of production and there was no incentive for the planting and development of new acreage. As a matter of fact, some plantations were practically abandoned. Considering that it takes six to eight years after planting before a rubber tree produces, and bearing in mind further that there was no planting or development of acreage for a lapse of several years. it is easy to account for the shortage now and also to give merit to the prediction that there will be little relief for sometime to come, or at least until trees planted within the last year and a half begin to influence total production

The latter part of 1922 the Rubber Growers' association which is almost entirely British, if not wholly British, if not wholly so, put into effect the so-called Stevenson act. This act put a restriction on the exportation of rubber from English growing colonies. As the English control 70 per cent of the crude rubber acreage, the influence of this restriction affected the whole industry. This act went into effect the time the selling price of crude rubber was below the cost of production, and its object was to keep rubber off the market until the consumption absorbed the free surplus and would gradually bring the price of crude rubber up to the point where there would be a profit for the grower and an incentive for new planting.

Supply Insufficient.

With few exceptions American rubber manufacturers recognized not only the justice of this but the necessity of some such plan as a safeguard for an adequate supply of rubber in the future The point that is objectionable now is that the consumption has caught up with the supply and gone way beyond it. The price in consequence has risen, and any necessity for such a plan as the Stevenson Act has now gone by. It is still in effect, however, but runs out by limitation next February. There is nevertheless a shortage in supply irrespective of the Stevenson act, and as noted before, as far as we know this shortage will continue for some time to come

The principal reason for the unusual increase in consumption of rubber has been the increasing number of automobiles in use necessitating larger production the last few years of automobile tires Then, two years ago began the development of balloon tires which now is a large percentage of the total tire production. This tire being much larger in cross sectional diameter requires a larger amount of rubber for the tire as compared with the old tires of standard construction. The public is committed to the balloon tire, so that as time goes on more and more rubber will be used in the manufacture of tires.

The Radio Tool Kit.

Amateurs who build and repair sets will find the following tools and supplies helpful in the workshop. Long-nosed pliers, short nosed pliers, long screwdriver and a small one such as jewelers use, flashlight, soldering iron, wrenches for tightening nuts and an assortment of brass machine screws and nuts. A few small spools of magnet wire of 20 and 18 gauge, and a supply of spaghetti insulating tubing are valuable parts of the kit A few testing instruments also are needed including a voltmeter for testing the "A" and "B" batteries, and also a hydrometer, for testing the storage battery fluid.

STUDEBAKER A ONE PROFIT CAR

Building All Parts at Factory Keeps Cost to Buyer Lower.

Other Advantages Are Better Quality, Longer Life and Less Repair.

People generally now understand the advantages of complete automobile manufacture in the low priced field

Until today, no manufacturer of a quality car has been able to lay claim to these advantages. But now Studebaker manufactures practically every important unit—building its cars more completely than any other manufacturer in the fine car field.

It is the result of seven years of planning, of turning profits back into greater manufacturing facilities, the addition of such new plants as the largest gray iron foundry in the world and a body building plant which cost $10,000,000.

Studebaker not only builds its own engines, axles, springs, transmissions and clutches, but all car bodies as well Only two manufacturers, who build in quantity, make their own bodies. One is Studebaker; the other is the Ford Motor company

Studebaker points out:

"Other builders buy their car bodies from outside body builders, who of course must collect a profit. The builders pay this profit, include it in their costs, then figure their own profit on top of it, compounding the final cost to the buyer.

"What is true of bodies also is true of engines, eighteen builders buy their engines outside and twenty-eight others assemble engines from various parts bought elsewhere, in this case doubly compounding the profits, for consumers to pay.

"The same thing is true of axles, springs, transmissions, clutches—and other important parts.

"The buyer pays when he purchases a car not manufactured under the advantages Studebaker enjoys He pays many profits instead of one, and these many profits are not represented by anything in the car itself. As high as $500 of the purchase price of an assembled car may represent unnecessary profits"

Building its cars complete, declares Studebaker, enables it to put finer steel, finer wood, finer upholstery, better workmanship and hundreds of thousands of miles of reserve transportation into every car, and yet keep the price down.

Studebaker summarizes the one-point advantages as follows:

Longer life because all vital units are designed to operate in harmony.

Greater riding comfort because springs and chassis are scientifically designed to function with a body also designed and built by the same engineers.

Greater freedom from repair expense because strains and stresses of each moving part are determined accurately before the car is built and are spread evenly over mated parts.

Greater resale value because the tremendous reserve mileage, ruggedness and stamina built into them cannot be exhausted in years of service.

More than 500 car assemblers, which passed on these compounded profits into the prices exacted from buyers, have gone out of business. Studebaker's domination of the fine car field is an exemplification of the sound economic policy of complete manufacture which has given it that position.

Where Brakes Will Be Tested This Week

The above reproduction shows where automobile brakes will be tested July 14 to July 19, from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m Brake testing week is sponsored by the Lincoln Auto club.

Claim Auto Brakes Should Be Examined Every 1,000 Miles

Motorists should have their brakes examined every 1,000 miles, say automotive engineers, if they are to reduce the annual toll of 11,000 avoidable fatalities traceable to faulty brake mechanisms. Whenever driving conditions call for frequent application, such as on hills or in heavy traffic, the brakes should be inspected even more frequently. In many cities such ex- [illegible] ducted by the police, with court punishment for drivers who have permitted their brakes to lose efficiency

Seven simple rules for testing brakes are suggested by Nebraska Buick Auto Co., the local dealer in the asbestos automotive specialties of the Johns-Manville people:

1—Always test both the foot and the hand brake before starting your car.

2—Maintain a clearance between the lining and the brake band of one sixty-fourth of an inch

3—Never jam on the brakes so hard that the wheels lock and slide.

4—Use your motor as a brake on hills.

5—See that the right and left brakes operate with equal pressure

6—Keep the brake-lin [illegible]

7—Wash the lining every 90 days with gasoline.

Cuts Gasoline Cost to 10 cents a Gallon

James A. May of 4625 K St, Sioux Falls, S D, has perfected an amazing new device that is enabling car owners to cut their gasoline bills in half by doubling their mileage from gasoline used. Many owners have made over 40 miles on a gallon It also removes carbon, increases motor power and pep, prevents spark plug trouble and overheating. Anyon ecan install it in five minutes. Mr. May wants agents, and is offering to send one free to one auto owner in each locality. Write him today.—Advertisement.

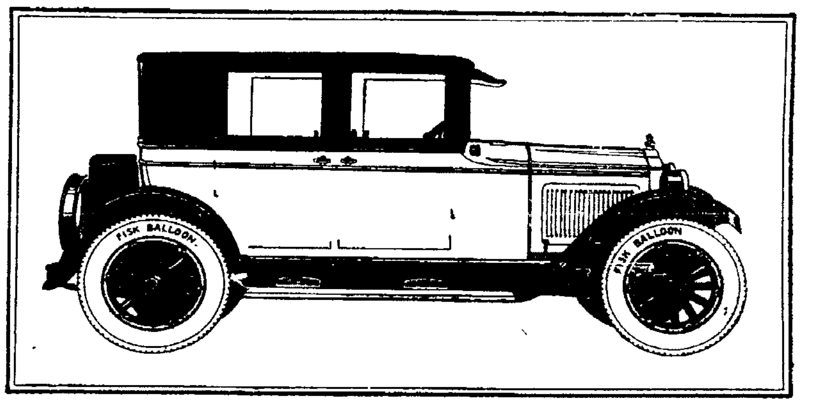
You Can Count on Keeping Your Willys-Knight Two or Three Times as Long as Other Cars



ANY ONE of the more than 200,000 owners will tell you that buying a Willys-Knight isn't merely making a motor car purchase . . .

With all the conviction in the world he will tell you it is the best investment you could make in present and perpetual car-satisfaction. And he can produce first-hand authority to substantiate his statement.

From the first mile—smooth-running, quiet, powerful. Better on every count at 10,000. Still smoother, more silent, more and more powerful at 25,000. And at 50,000 your Willys-Knight is a quieter and more efficient car than the day you bought it.

To this exceptional engine efficiency is added another exclusive advantage—absolute lack of vibration, due to the Lanchester Balancer. The Willys-Knight is the only automobile in the United States equipped with this device . . .

No valves to grind. No carbon troubles. The patented sleeve-valve idea gets rid of both, completely . . . All the power you need, from the start . . . This act put a restriction on the exportation of rubber from English growing colonies. As the English control 70 per cent of the crude rubber acreafe, the influence of this restriction affected the whole industry. This act went into effect the time the selling price of crude rubber was below the cost of production, and its object was to keep rubber off the market until the consumption absorbed the free surplus and would gradually bring the price of crude rubber up to the point where there would be a profit for the grower and an incentive for new planting.

Supply Insufficient.

With few exceptions American rubber manufacturers recognized not only the justice of this but the necessity of some such plan as a safeguard for an adequate supply of rubber in the future The point that is objectionable now is that the consumption has caught up with the supply and gone way beyond it. The price in consequence has risen, and any necessity for such a plan as the Stevenson Act has now gone by. It is still in effect, however, but runs out by limitation next February. There is nevertheless a shortage in supply irrespective of the Stevenson act, and as noted before, as far as we know this shortage will continue for some time to come.

The principal reason for the unusual increase in consumption of rubber has been the increasing number of automobiles in use necessitating larger production the last few years of automobile tires. Then, two years ago began the development of balloon tires which now is a large percentage of the total tire production. This tire being much larger in cross sectional diameter requires a larger amount of rubber for the tire as compared with the old tires of standard construction. The public is committed to the balloon tire, so that as time goes on more and more rubber will be used in the manufacture of tires.

The Radio Tool Kit.

Amateurs who build and repair sets will find the following tools and supplies helpful in the workshop: Long-nosed pliers, short nosed pliers, long screwdriver and a small one such as jewelers use, flashlight, soldering iron, wrenches for tightening nuts and an assortment of brass machine screws and nuts. A few small spools of magnet wire of 20 and 18 gauge, and a supply of spaghetti insulating tubing are valuable parts of the kit. A few testing instruments also are needed including a voltmeter for testing the "A" and "B" batteries, and also a hydrometer, for testing the storage battery fluid.

STUDEBAKER A ONE PROFIT CAR

Building All Parts at Factory Keeps Cost to Buyer Lower.

Other Advantages Are Better Quality, Longer Life and Less Repair.

People generally now understand the advantages of complete automobile manufacture in the low priced field.

Until today, no manufacturer of a quality car has been able to lay claim to these advantages. But now Studebaker manufactures practically every important unit—building its cars more completely than any other manufacturer in the fine car field.

It is the result of seven years of planning, of turning profits back into greater manufacturing facilities, the addition of such new plants as the largest gray iron foundry in the world and a body building plant which cost $10,000,000.

Studebaker not only builds its own engines, axles, springs, transmissions and clutches, but all car bodies as well. Only two manufacturers, who build in quantity, make their own bodies. One is Studebaker; the other is the Ford Motor company.

Studebaker points out:

"Other builders buy their car bodies from outside body builders, who of course must collect a profit. The builders pay this profit, include it in their costs, then figure their own profit on top of it, compounding the final cost to the buyer.

"What is true of bodies also is true of engines, eighteen builders buy their engines outside and twenty-eight others assemble engines from various parts bought elsewhere, in this case doubly compounding the profits, for consumers to pay.

"The same thing is true of axles, springs, transmissions, clutches—and other important parts.

"The buyer pays when he purchases a car not manufactured under the advantages Studebaker enjoys. He pays many profits instead of one, and these many profits are not represented by anything in the car itself. As high as $500 of the purchase price of an assembled car may represent unnecessary profits."

Building its cars complete, declares Studebaker, enables it to put finer steel, finer wood, finer upholstery, better workmanship and hundreds of thousands of miles of reserve transportation into every car, and yet keep the price down.

Studebaker summarizes the one-point advantages as follows:

Longer life because all vital units are designed to operate in harmony.

Greater riding comfort because springs and chassis are scientifically designed to function with a body also designed and built by the same engineers.

Greater freedom from repair expense because strains and stresses of each moving part are determined accurately before the car is built and are spread evenly over mated parts.

Greater resale value because the tremendous reserve mileage, ruggedness and stamina built into them cannot be exhausted in years of service.

More than 500 car assemblers, which passed on these compounded profits into the prices exacted from buyers, have gone out of business. Studebaker's domination of the fine car field is an exemplification of the sound economic policy of complete manufacture which has given it that position.

Where Brakes Will Be Tested This Week

The above reproduction shows where automobile brakes will be tested July 14 to July 19, from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Brake testing week is sponsored by the Lincoln Auto club.

Claim Auto Brakes Should Be Examined Every 1,000 Miles

Motorists should have their brakes examined every 1,000 miles, say automotive engineers, if they are to reduce the annual toll of 11,000 avoidable fatalities traceable to faulty brake mechanisms. Whenever driving conditions call for frequent application, such as on hills or in heavy traffic, the brakes should be inspected even more frequently. In many cities such examinations are actually being conducted by the police, with court punishment for drivers who have permitted their brakes to lose efficiency.

Seven simple rules for testing brakes are suggested by Nebraska Buick Auto Co., the local dealer, in the asbestos automotive specialties of the Johns-Manville people:

1—Always test both the foot and the hand brake before starting your car.

2—Maintain a clearance between the lining and the brake band of one sixty-fourth of an inch.

3—Never jam on the brakes so hard that the wheels lock and slide.

4—Use your motor as a brake on hills.

5—See that the right and left brakes operate with equal pressure.

6—Keep the brake-lining clear of grit.

7—Wash the lining every 90 days with gasoline.

Cuts Gasoline Cost to 10 cents a Gallon

James A. May of 4625 K St., Sioux Falls, S. D., has perfected an amazing new device that is enabling car owners to cut their gasoline bills in half by doubling their mileage from gasoline used. Many owners have made over 40 miles on a gallon. It also removes carbon, increases motor power and pep, prevents spark plug trouble and overheating. Anyon ecan install it in five minutes. Mr. May wants agents, and is offering to send one free to one auto owner in each locality. Write him today.—Advertisement.

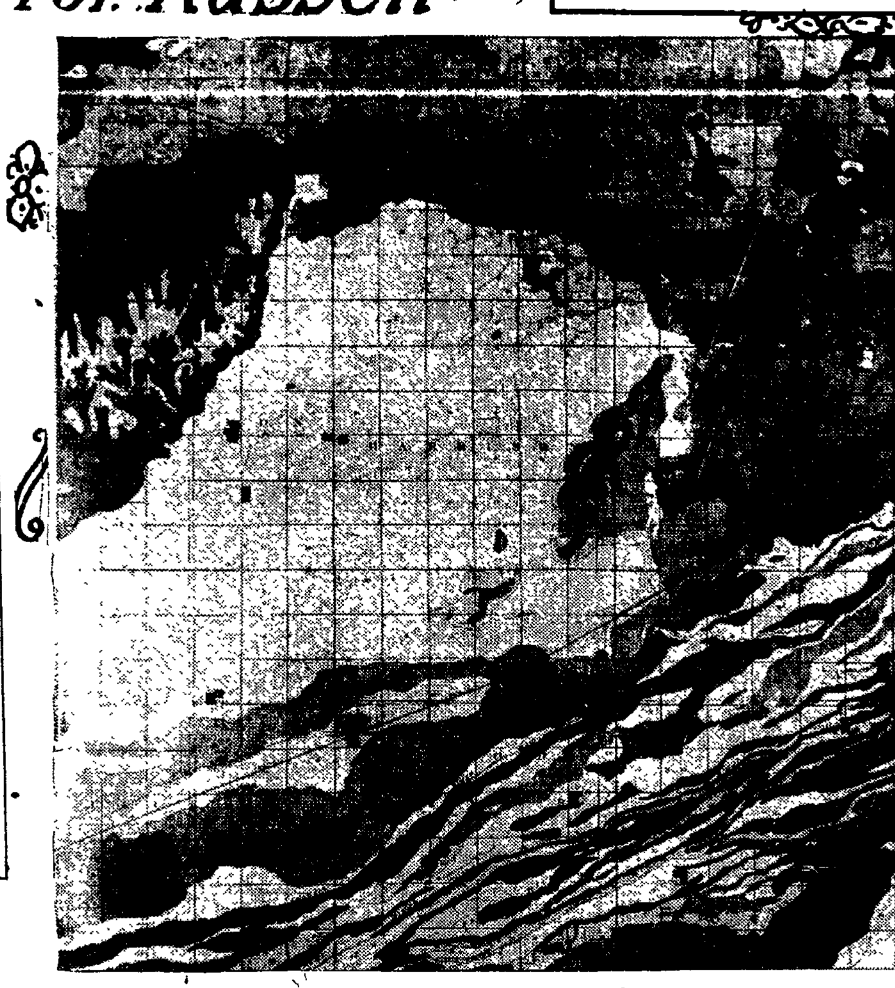
SOIL MAP OF HALL COUNTY.
SHOWING TWENTY-SIX SOIL TYPES.



Dirt is generally dirt, distinguishable in variety only in that some dirt is a little dirtier than others.

But when dirt assumes its technical name of soil, then it becomes an absorbing subject and it indulges itself in more ramifications than a family tree. To present day Nebraskans, soil is really a more important matter than whether Adam or an amoeba was the first twig on the ancestral tree.

To most of us the soils of the country have a tigerish appearance, the yellow for clay and the black, just black soil that seems so excellent for production. Were the soils of the state as easily divided as that, choice of good farm land would be a simple matter. However, the natural forces took a hand and made an intricate matter of the ground upon which we walk.

Actual soil in the city is pretty much hidden under brick, concrete, and cement and one becomes indifferent to it. To those who live in the city environs and in the agricultural portions of the state, soil is of paramount importance. Knowledge of the soil means the difference between a bumper crop and puny production. It means the difference between purchasing a farm blindly, or of buying with understanding reason. And, as good or bad soil means large or small production, with consequent food or lack of food and high prices or low for the city, soil is not a question irrelative to anyone.

Nebraska climate is not the only variable characteristic of the state. Within its diverse area of 77,510 square miles, the rainfall varies from 32 inches in the southeast corner to 16 inches near the Wyoming line. In the east it has the rather low altitude of 840 feet, but in the more mountainous west, it rises to an altitude of 5,340 feet. This variableness has its effects on Nebraska soils.

Three Large Soil Regions.

The state is divided into three large soil regions, namely, the Loess, which comprises 55 per cent of the area, the sand hill, comprising one-quarter of the state area, and the high plain, including the remaining 20 per cent. While not remarkable in soil structure, Nebraska has one outstanding characteristic—no other state has so much sand hill region as Nebraska.

The soils are divided into seven areas, the drift hills, comprising 6,700 square miles, the loess hills, 11,900 square miles in extent, the loess plains, 14,000 square miles in area, the sand hills of 20,000 square miles, the high plains, 15,500 square miles in extent, the alluvial plains and terraces, consisting of 6,000 square miles, and the outwash plains about 2,000 square miles in extent.

Within each area, the kinds of soils are divided into series and then into types, in the language of the soil survey. A soil series is a group of soils alike in all essential respects, color, origin, mode of formation, etc., except that the various soils of the group differ in texture of the surface soil. Nebraska has fifty soil series, which may be likened to families in the plant world. Included in each soil series there may be as many as fourteen different kinds of soils, which are unlike in texture, determined by the relative amounts of sand silt and clay. Each of these divisions is called a soil type.

Clay is the finest material, having no grit and being plastic when moist. Silt is found in most of the agricultural soils of the state and is more friable than clay. Friable in ordinary English simply means that silt is more easily powdered. Four grades of sand are recognized in soil classification.

Not all of the counties have been surveyed, but now about 160 soil types are known to exist in the state and each year as additional counties are surveyed one or two new types are found. The United States has about 1,500 soil types so Nebraska can not claim much distinction.

5,000 Samples on File.

The department of conservation at the university makes the original soil survey and makes a map showing the distribution of each [illegible] been surveyed, the soil testing laboratory of the agronomy department makes both chemical and physical tests of the soils to determine the fitness of each for agricultural purposes. Samples are taken with steel tubes one, three, six, and ten feet in length, so that the subsoil as well as the surface soil may be examined. Occasionally samples are taken to a depth of fifteen feet to test the moisture content. The department has 5,000 samples, all neatly stored in mason jars, and placed on shelves, so that they resemble the home fruit supboard. In addition, this department tests without charge samples sent by individuals.

According to J. C. Russell, associate professor of agronony at the university, each soil type has been given a name taken from the locality in which it was first found. When Lancaster county was surveyed for the first time about twenty years ago, a little patch of sandy soil north of Lincoln was a new variety to those making the test. The surveyors called it Lancaster for the county. Since that time this same soil has been found in Texas and in other parts of the country, Kansas having many acres of it, but it yet retains the name of Lancaster.

Some of the more widely known soil series named after Nebraska points are Cass, Hall, Holdrege, Bridgeport, Cheyenne, Pawnee and Holt.

Among the most widely distributed soil type in Nebraska are the Marshall silt loam the Carington silt loam, the Grundy silt loam, the Wabash silt loam and the Waukesha silt loam.

The Carlington silt loam is the soil type found in southeastern Lincoln, professor Russel explained, and in the immediate vicinity of the city. It was brought here by glaciers thousand of years ago and is probably the best glacial soil in the United States. The depth varies from 10 to 200 feet. The Waukesha silt loam, a terrace or second bottom type, is the soil upon which the town portion of Lincoln is located.

Must Observe Water.

Wabash silt loam is the main bottom land soil of southeastern Nebraska and it is famous for its corn production. Marshall silt loam is the soil type most common in northeastern Nebraska and is a loess soil of a very grea depth. West of Lincoln about twenty miles is a level expanse of country and therein the Grundy silt loam predominates. It is generally about 200 feet deep.

In the extreme west, the most common soil series is the Rosebud, which has exceedingly variable characteristics. The series is derived from limestone and calcareous sandstones. Occasionally the rock comes very close to the surface, which lowers the value of the far mland, but at points where the rock submerges itself and the soil deep, it is one of the most valuable soils in the state.

In western Nebraska, P. Professor Russell explained, "one of the most important soil problems is soil moisture. Fortunately, however, the different kinds of soil found there are generally almost ideal from a moisture storage standpoint. They are irtable and porous and take in water readily. On account of the great depth the roots can penetrate much more deeply than they do in other soils.

"If Nebraska had the shallow soils found in some districts or had many different kinds of soils with sandy subsoils, the state would not be able to withstand the periods of drouth that occasionally occur.

"The theory formerly advanced that soil moisture moved up into the feeding zone of plant roots, as oil moves upward in a lamp wick, and that because of the great depth and uniformity of Nebraska soils crops in this state would be better able to withstand shortage of moisture than in others where the soil is shallow, is not longer accepted by soil scientists.

"We are beginning to believe that more attention must be paid to getting water into soil and the conservation of it. Once it is stored."

Ten Soil Types Here.

The soil of Nebraska grows lighter as it goes westward. Wherever certain types of soils are found, they are suitable for certain crops. Lancaster county has ten types of soil. Deuel county probably has the largest number of soil types with twenty seven, but Hall is a close second with twenty-six.

The Carrington silt loam, the Shelby loam, and the Pawnee silt loam are three of the widely distributed soils of the drift hills region. The former is very productive and is cultivated for corn, oats, wheat, alfalfa, vegetables and fruits. The Shelby loam is pasture land largely, because it is stony. The drift hill region includes Richardson, Pawnee, Garge, Lancaster, Seward, Saline, Jefferson, Saun-

Last Services Today In Presbyterian Church That Makes Way For New Hotel

The last service in the First Presbyterian church at Thirteenth and M streets, which for forty years has stood as a landmark in downtown Lincoln, will be held today.

Wreckers will begin the work of razing it tomorrow to make room for a million-and-a-half dollar hotel.

Lincoln citizens who welcome the improvement in the city nevertheless look with regret at the loss of the old building.

Already there is about it that shabby, decrepit look that buildings about to be deserted assume. In front, almost shutting the church from view, is a screaming signboard, which tells the world that a fine new hotel, with so many rooms and so many baths, is to be built on the site.

The growth of the church, which will carry on its work at a location removed from the busy streets, typified the history of all growing cities.

The church was organized April 4, 1869. About a year later the "fine new building built at a cost of $5,000" was occupied. This was in use until 1885, when the present building was built at an expense of $40,000. This was hailed as a great achievement. Now, less than half a century later, the building is inadequate. It seats 600 persons It is growing old.

The congregation will soon begin the construction of a beautiful Gothic church on the northeast corner of Seventeenth and F streets—the old Sawyer home—and the new edifice will cost $200,000, it is estimated.

It is notable that each time a new building has been planned, the cost has been eight or ten times that of the one deserted.

Since its organization the church has enrolled 3,545 communicants Its growth has been steady and its membership now is several hundred.

William Jennings Bryan, crusader for Christianity as he sees it, worshipped at this church when he first came to Lincoln. Another presidential candidate, John W. Davis, attended Sunday morning service there last summer.

The first church at Eleventh and J streets was dedicated October 9, 1870. It was used for about fifteen years, ground being broken in April, 1884 for the present building. This was occupied in 1885 but not completed until 1886.

Because of its downtown location many people visited the church during the day to pray or rest. The soft light filtering through the stained windows, the seats worn and polished by years of use, and the dark furnishings gave an air of calm and restfulness that not all churches have.

The lobby of the new hotel will soon occupy this space, and the chancel may be supplanted by the clerk's desk. The spire will be replaced by the height of a ten story building.

Nebraska Soil Faces Old Age

ders, Butler, Otoe, Johnson, Nemaha and other counties where the soils are less marked.

The loess hill region has two principal soils, the Marshall silt loam, suitable for wheat, oats, alfalfa, corn, vegetables, some fruit, and supports stock raising, and the Knox silt loam, suitable for alfalfa, grapes and apples when cleared. It is found in portions of Dundy, Hitchcock, Red Willow, Furnas, Harland, Franklin, Webster, Nuckolls, Thayer, Jefferson, Gage, Chase, Frontier, Gosper, Phelps, Kearney, Adams, Clay, Hall, Merrick, Polk, Butler, Saunders, Dodge, Solfax, Platte, Boone, Greely Valley, Custer, uffalo, Dawson, Perkins, Lincoln, Howard, Sherman, Valley, Greeley, Nance, Cass, Sarpy, Washington, Douglas, Burt, Thurston, Dakota, Dixon, Cedar Knox, Cuming, Stanton and Madison counties.

The Grundy silt loam and the Holdrege silt loam are common to the loess plains area. The former is rich in production of wheat, corn, alfalfa, oats and supports stock raising and the latter supports extensive wheat farming and can be cultivated to corn, alfalfa, and oats This soil is included in Dundy, Hitchcock, Red Willow, Furnas, Harlan, Franklin, Webster, Nuckolls, Thayer, Jefferson, Chase, Hayes, Frontier, Gosper, Phelps, Kearney, Adams Clay Fillmore Saline, Seward, York, Hamilton, Butler and Polk counties.

The high plains have Rosebud silt, loam, on which wheat, corn and other crops can be raised The high plain counties are Chase, Keith, Deuel, Cheyenne, Kimball, Banner, Boyd, Garden and Cherry.

In the outwash plains region, O'Neill loam is quite common and is valuable for agricultural purposes Portions of Boyd, Knox, Antelope, Pierce, Wayne, Stanton and Madison counties lie within the outwash plains region The sand hill region has two soil types, Valentine sand, of which the principal value is grazing land, although it can be cultivated for rye, oats, hay and potatoes, and Gannett fine sand which produces splendid grass for grazing and hay.

The alluvial plains and terraces, which follow the river valleys, have several type soils, including Wabash silt loam, Waukesha silt loam, Hall silt loam, Mitchell silt loam, and various textural members of the Casa, Lamoure and Tripp series. The Wabash soil is the state's best corn producing soil and is also cultivated in small grains and the Hall soil is excellent for corn, wheat, alfalfa and other crops. The Mitchell soil is splendid for sugar beets, the Lamoure has high agricultural value, and the Tripp is a splendid potato soil, and also grows beets and cantaloupes, as well as being adapted to dry farming, including the raising of native hay and small grasses.

Speaking further of soils, Professor Russell said:

"We often hear it said that Nebraska soils will never wear out because of their depth. It is a fact that the mineral content of the soil of the loess hills and plains and of the drift hill area is about the same 100 feet below the surface as it is on the surface and with respect to these elements it is in a measure true that our soils may never wear out.

"However, the organic matter and nitrogen content is confined largely to the top foot and under certain conditions these constituents may be lost here as they might in any other part of the world. In fact, they are being lost at a rapid rate, 30 to 50 per cent of these constituents being lost already in esatern Nebraska and our soil is losing its humus, which makes it black.

"People who are not acquainted with Nebraska sand hills, but have seen sandy soil elsewhere generally think our sandy soils poor and valueless.

"That is not necessarily true, for sand which comprises this area is not white, badly bleached and silicious sand, such as is found on the lake and the seashores Rather it is more like pulverized rock that has not yet weathered down to clay

"Chemical analysis shows that the soil of the sand hills contains fully one-half as much potash as that of eastern Nebraska, and has large amounts of phosphorous and all other elements of plant nutrition, except nitrogen, which gives plants their color and vigor

"Netrogen in the sand hill region is very limited and as the cultivated areas of the country increase in extent, farmers will find the soil area will become unproductive unless proper effort is taken to grow such crops as sweep clover, to replace nitrogen in the soils."

Special Services Sunday Dedicate New Evangelical Lutheran Friedens Church

—MacDonald Photo.

The Evangelical Lutheran Friedens church at the corner of Sixth and D streets which will be dedicated Sunday with special services in charge of the pastor, Dr. Richard Kuehne. The church was partially destroyed by fire January 13, this year, and has been completely rebuilt and a new pipe organ installed.

Special services dedicating the new Evangelical Lutheran Friedens church at Sixth and D streets which was destroyed by fire last January 13, will be held at the church today Dr. Richard Kuehne, the pastor, will have charge, and will dedicate the building and the pipe organ which has been installed It is the first pipe organ the congregation has ever had.

Beginning with Sunday school at 9 o'clock there will be morning services at 10:30. Rev. F. Rabe will preach and Dr. Kuehne will have charge of the dedication service.

At 2 o'clock services will be conducted at the church in German and English, pastors from several of the other churches in the city making addresses. Among those from the Lutheran churches who will preach will be Rev E Walter of Tabitha Home; Rev. L. Grauenhorst of Havelock, and Rev. Victor Pieztka of Princeton; Rev. Mr. Gersib of Emerald, and Rev. Charles A. Bream of Grace Lutheran

These ministers from neighboring churches will speak: Rev. George Smith, Rev. Mr. Henkleman, Rev Jacob Wagner, Rev A. W Saremba, Rev. Mr. Sauer, Rev. Mr. Bechtholdt of Princeton, and Rev. Mr Obenhaus of Chicago Daniel Jordan is superintendent of the Sunday school.

Founded in 1907.

The Evangelical Lutheran Friedens congregation was founded February 15, 1907, and dedicated its first church on December 1 the same year. The first pastor was Rev. J. F. Krueger, until recently president of Midland college at Fremont and now a delegated missionary to China. He was in charge of the church from October 1, 1907 until August 31, 1911. Dr. M. Koolen was the second minister and had charge from October 1 1911 until November 9, 1913 The church has had but three pastors and the present minister, Dr. Richard Kuehne has been here since April 18 1914 During his pastorate he has had an important work, the greatest of which was distribution of relief supplies and funds gathered here by the American Volga Relief society. He went to Germany and personally supervised the distribution of the supplies.

When the church was founded it started with a membership of about seventy-five families. Since then the figures have grown until at the time of the fire there were more than 200 families in the congregation. The confirmed membership totaled 550 and there were 1,300 baptised members. There are 300 pupils in the Sunday school and twenty teachers while the young people's society has sixty-five and the confirmation class thirty-seven. Jacob Lebsack is leader of the choir of fifteen voices and Miss Helen Moessner will preside at the new pipe organ. The Mission Aid society has an enrollment of forty-five

Will Seat 900.

The new church will have a seating capacity of 900 and there is room for 400 in the Sunday school room. The entire property is valued at approxiamtely $38,000, of which $15,000 is represented in the new building.

At the dedication ceremonies today the first and the present presidents of the church organization will be in attendance. Adolph Lebsock was the first president and Fred Strasheim is the executive now.

Other officials of the congregation are:

Eugene Strasheim, secretary, Jacob William, treasurer, and John Pfeif, Conrad Pfeif, David Sell and George Bauer, father, in the council. The trustees are Henry Schmidt, Henry Lebsack and John Steinmiller.

How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded step to the right; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded step below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

This soil is included in Dundy, Hitchcock, Red Willow, Furnas, Harlan, Franklin, Webster, Nuckolls, Thayer, Jefferson, Chase, Hayes, Frontier, Gosper, Phelps, Kearney, Adams Clay Fillmore Saline, Seward, York, Hamilton, Butler and Polk counties.

The high plains have Rosebud silt, loam, on which wheat, corn and other crops can be raised. The high plain counties are Chase, Keith, Deuel, Cheyenne, Kimball, Banner, Boyd, Garden and Cherry.

In the outwash plains region, O'Neill loam is quite common and is valuable for agricultural purposes. Portions of Boyd, Knox, Antelope, Pierce, Wayne, Stanton and Madison counties lie within the outwash plains region. The sand hill region has two soil types, Valentine sand, of which the principal value is grazing land, although it can be cultivated for rye, oats, hay and potatoes, and Gannett fine sand, which produces splendid grass for grazing and hay.

The alluvial plains and terraces, which follow the river valleys, have several type soils, including Wabash silt loam, Waukesha silt loam, Hall silt loam, Mitchell silt loam, and various textural members of the Cass, Lamoure and Tripp series. The Wabash soil is the state's best corn producing soil and is also cultivated in small grains and the Hall soil is excellent for corn, wheat, alfalfa and other crops. The Mitchell soil is splendid for sugar beets, the Lamoure has high agricultural value, and the Tripp is a splendid potato soil, and also grows beets and cantaloupes, as well as being adapted to dry farming, including the raising of native hay and small grasses.

Speaking further of soils, Professor Russell said:

"We often hear it said that Nebraska soils will never wear out because of their depth. It is a fact that the mineral content of the soil of the loess hills and plains and of the drift hill area is about the same 100 feet below the surface as it is on the surface and with respect to these elements it is in a measure true that our soils may never wear out.

"However, the organic matter and nitrogen content is confined largely to the top foot and under certain conditions these constituents may be lost here as they might in any other part of the world. In fact, they are being lost at a rapid rate, 30 to 50 per cent of these constituents being lost already in esatern Nebraska and our soil is losing its humus, which makes it black.

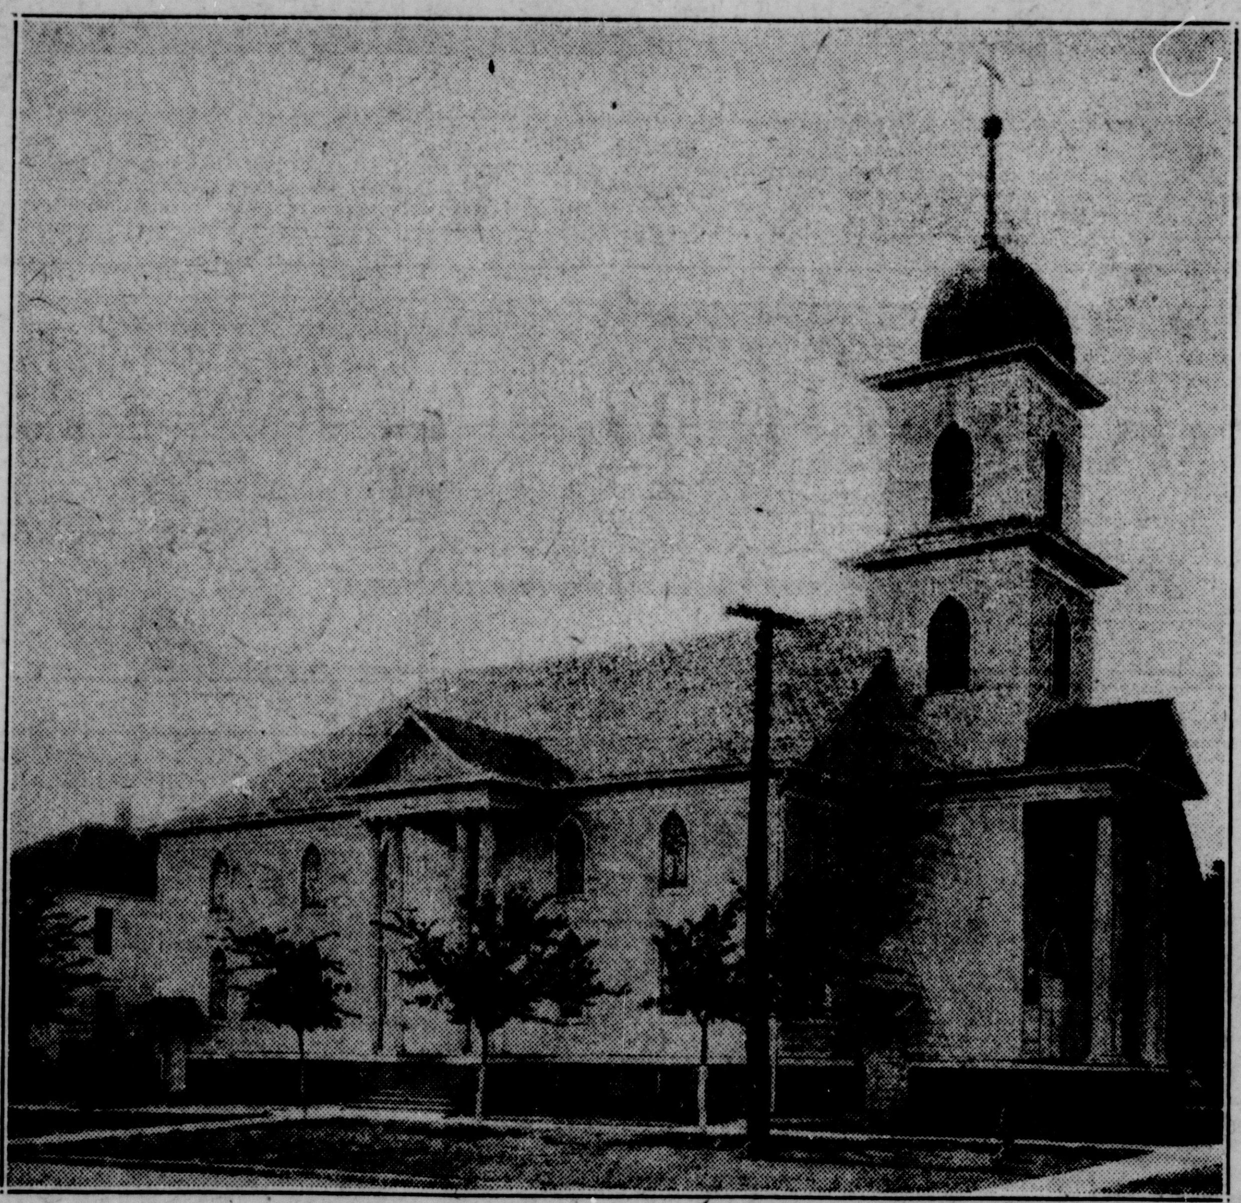
"People who are not acquainted with Nebraska sand hills, but have seen sandy soil elsewhere generally think our sandy soils poor and valueless.

"That is not necessarily true, for sand which comprises this area is not white, badly bleached and silicious sand, such as is found on the lake and the seashores. Rather it is more like pulverized rock that has not yet weathered down to clay.

"Chemical analysis shows that the soil of the sand hills contains fully one-half as much potash as that of eastern Nebraska, and has large amounts of phosphorous and all other elements of plant nutrition, except nitrogen, which gives plants their color and vigor.

"Netrogen in the sand hill region is very limited and as the cultivated areas of the country increase in extent, farmers will find the soil area will become unproductive unless proper effort is taken to grow such crops as sweep clover, to replace nitrogen in the soils."

Special Services Sunday Dedicate New Evangelical Lutheran Friedens Church



—MacDonald Photo.

The Evangelical Lutheran Friedens church at the corner of Sixth and D streets which will be dedicated Sunday with special services in charge of the pastor, Dr. Richard Kuehne. The church was partially destroyed by fire January 13, this year, and has been completely rebuilt and a new pipe organ installed.

Special services dedicating the new Evangelical Lutheran Friedens church at Sixth and D streets which was destroyed by fire last January 13, will b held t the church today. Dr. Richard Kuehne, the pastor, will have charge, and will dedicate the building and the pipe organ which has been installed. It is the first pipe organ the congregation has ever had.

Beginning with Sunday school at 9 o'clock there will be morning services at 10:30. Rev. F. Rabe will preach and Dr. Kuehne will have charge of the dedication service.

At 2 o'clock services will be conducted at the church in German and English, pastors from several of the other churches in the city making addresses. Among those from the Lutheran churches who will preach will be Rev. E. Walter of Tabitha Home; Rev. L. Grauenhorst of Havelock, and Rev. Victor Pieztka of Princeton; Rev. Mr. Gersib of Emerald, and Rev. Charles A. Bream of Grace Lutheran.

These ministers from neighboring churches will speak: Rev. George Smith, Rev. Mr. Henkleman, Rev. Jacob Wagner, Rev. A. W. Saremba, Rev. Mr. Sauer, Rev. Mr. Bechtholdt of Princeton, and Rev. Mr. Obenhaus of Chicago. Daniel Jordan is superintendent of the Sunday school.

Founded in 1907.

The Evangelical Lutheran Friedens congregation was founded February 15, 1907, and dedicated its first church on December 1 the same year. The first pastor was Rev. J. F. Krueger, until recently president of Midland college at Fremont and now a delegated missionary to China. He was in charge of the church from October 1, 1907 until August 31, 1911. Dr. M. Koolen was the second minister and had charge from October 1, 1911 until November 9, 1913. The church has had but three pastors and the present minister, Dr. Richard Kuehne, has been here since April 18, 1914. During his pastorate he has had an important work, the greatest of which was distribution of relief supplies and funds gathered here by the American Volga Relief society. He went to Germany and personally supervised the distribution of the supplies.

When the church was founded it started with a membership of about seventy-five families. Since then the figures have grown until at the time of the fire there were more than 200 families in the congregation. The confirmed membership totaled 550 and there were 1,300 baptised members. There are 300 pupils in the Sunday school and twenty teachers while the young people's society has sixty-five and the confirmation class thirty-seven. Jacob Lebsack is leader of the choir of fifteen voices and Miss Helen Moessner will preside at the new pipe organ. The Mission Aid society has an enrollment of forty-five.

Will Seat 900.

The new church will have a seating capacity of 900 and there is room for 400 in the Sunday school room. The entire property is valued at approxiamtely $38,000, of which $15,000 is represented in the new building.

At the dedication ceremonies today the first and the present presidents of the church organization will be in attendance. Adolph Lebsock was the first president and Fred Strasheim is the executive now.

Other officials of the congregation are:

Eugene Strasheim, secretary, Jacob William, treasurer, and John Pfeif, Conrad Pfeif, David Sell and George Bauer, father, in the council. The trustees are Henry Schmidt, Henry Lebsack and John Steinmiller.

How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded step to the right; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded step below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

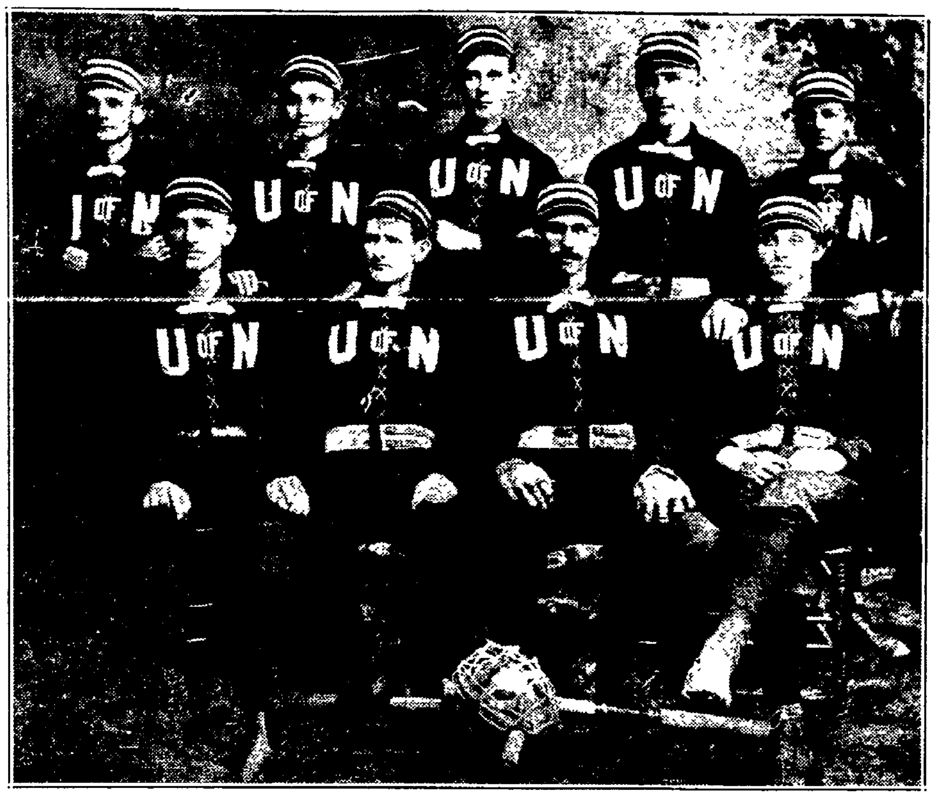
Lincoln Men on University's First Baseball Nine; Held Western League Squad To Two Runs



The first baseball team at the university. Just see the smart white ties and the crossed bats, piled as trophies of war. The lineup follows: Upper row, left to right, Joe Mallalieu, right field, T. S. Allen, third base, Harry Hicks, center field; M. I. Bigelow, short stop; W. S. Scott, left field, lower row, C. W. Bigelow, second base, W. L. Stephens, pitcher; M. A. Whistler, catcher, and T. A. Williams, first base.

The more controlled fans, who hadn't learned the dangers of inhibition, gripped the edge of the rough board planks of the bleachers. The others danced and howled and shrieked and yelled and indulged in all the physical and vocal activity possible. Only a few looked disgruntled, but many looked surprised.

It was a great moment.

The tall slim youthful university boys had held the much vaunted Western league to a 2 to 1 score.

The maroon clad students had only allowed the veteran players two runs and on top of that they had walked off with one for themselves. Swartzel and Harts, whose good right arms were known throughout the league, probably wondered what they had done to deserve this.

If the university boys dashed out toda yto play with the league, a cry that would resemble the roar of a cyclone would rend the air of the universities, but that great game was thirty-six or thirty-seven years ago, and professionalism hadn't become a word that gave the university athletes nightmares.

Study First Then.

In fact, students in those days of the university came exclusively to study and there were no athletics in which a college education could interfere, when the team was first organized.

Back in 1885, the first baseball team at the university was organized, and it led all the other teams.

Nebraska didn't have any football team. That major sport hadn't cast its shadow before in 1885. The lesser sports were to wait some time before suficient interest was taken in them to form teams.

The year previous to the organization of the university team, T. S. Allen, familiarly known on the campus as Tom, and T. A. Williams, whose name was Al, had an informal team hey had played on the Weeping Water team together before coming to the university. It wasn't regularly organized, but played games whenever nine enthusiastic and athletic souls could be secured.

Early in the year 1885, however, the real team came into being. W. L. Stephens, who had been playing at arvard ,enrolled at the university, and the three players got together and organized a real, competing baseball team.

Stephens Star Pitcher.

Stephens, who acquired the artistic name of Spider, was elected captain and appointed pitcher. It was his arm that so saddened the league team a couple of years later. Spider Stephens' pitching gave him his name, for he wound his tall thinness into such postures that he resembled a spider, but he made himself a star in so doing. According to Mr. Allen, Spider Stephens was the greatest baseball player the university has ever had.

Jo Mallalieu was right field, T. S. Allen, third base, Harry Hicks, center field, M. I. Bigelow, short stop, W. S. (Winnie) Scott, left field, C. W. (Charley) Bigelow, second base, W. L. Stephens, pitcher, M. A. (Monte) Whistler, catcher, and T. A. Williams, first base.

During the life of this team, the members played about twenty games a year. They had diamond scrimmages with Wesleyan, Doane, and Hastings college, with Seward, David City, and other town teams, generally league members. Sometimes fate was not kind, and the small end of the score fell to the university team, but very often fate did smile and the boys came home with a winning score.

That was the first baseball team the university had, and now its members are scattered from coast to coast, an dsome are no longer living.

Joe Mallalieu was clerk of the district court, but he has been dead for some time. Harry Hicks, the son of a university professor, is now a lawyer in New York City. T. S. Allen has remained in Lincoln, where he is practicing law. M. I. Bigelow is dead. W. S. Scott, for many years county surveyor, is another who is yet in Lincoln.

C. W. Bigelow is a banker in Denver and W. L. Stephens, formerly superintendent of schools in Lincoln, is now superintendent at Long Beach, Cal. M. A. Whistler is in Montana and T. A. Williams died in Washington, having become a famous botanist.

HAVELOCK NOTES.

Miss Ruth Graham, valedictorian of the Walton high school, graduated from there at the age of 15 years. In 1921 when Miss Graham was in the eighth grade, she won first prize in a spelling contest given at Lincoln. She then entered the Walton high school and in 1922 won first prize, which was a gold pencil, in a Lancaster county spelling contest. In 1923, Miss Graham, then a sophomore in high schol took first place in another Lancaster county spelling contest, this time the prize being a gold pin. Through a slight misunderstanding, Miss Graham was not entered in the contest of 1924, but in 1925, she again won first place. Miss Graham was winner of the gold medal given at Wesleyan high school day. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Graham, of Walton.

Assist Lincoln Post Membership Drive; Local Men Hosts at Banquet.

The organization meeting of the board of directors of the Nebraska division of the Travelers Protective association was held in Lincoln Friday and Saturday the state officers assisted Post C of Lincoln in a membership drive during the forenoon. The post now has a membership of more than 100.

Earl V. Austin, state president, presided at the sessions, and these members of the board attended: O. L. Wolford, N. Stanley Brown, L. L. Carr, Walter W. Watt, Omaha; Lee Martyn, Fremont; P. B. Tully, of Hastings; Chas. E. Daughty, Norfolk, L. N. St. John, Kearney; W. A. Ransdell, Beatrice; L. L. Kurtz, Lincoln. First Vice President Humphrey of York and State Secretary Chas L. Hopper of Omaha also attended the meetings.

The board of directors of the Lincoln post also held a meeting and in the evening the post was host to the visitors at a banquet at the Lincoln hotel at 6 o'clock.

REALTORS PLAN PICNIC JULY 25

Dealers From Over State Invited to Outing At Antelope Park.

The real estate business in Lincoln will be suspended Saturday, July 25. Every office in the city will close at noon and the realtors will attend a picnic at Antelope park in the afternoon. Realtors all over the state are invited and a large number are expected to attend.

Lunch will be served for the visiting real estate men and there will be a program of events for which prizes will be given. A golf tournament and horse shoe contests will feature the program.

Takes Traveling Job—R. L. Robuck, formerly a linotype operator for The Star, has accepted a position as salesman for the Intertype company, manufacturers of typesetting machines. He will make his headquarters in Denver and will travel through western Kansas and Colorado. Mr. Robuck's family will not move to Denver until November.

The Permanent Wave

Is one of Milady's best friends. When properly put into the hair and properly cared for, a permanent wave will remain lovely for a long time.

When Milady has a permanent wave, it is essential that she keep her hair and scalp healthy through the use of oil shampoos. A permanent wave is inclined to appear a wee bit uneven at times. This may be remedied through water waving. Water waves, judiciously applied, will prolong the life of the permanent wave.

Wouldn't you like to have a permanent now, during this hot weather, so you would be relieved of continual marcelling? Consult your beauty specialist regarding one.

During the life of this team, the members played about twenty games a year. They had diamond scrimmages with Wesleyan, Doane, and Hastings college, with Seward, David City, and other town teams, generally league members. Sometimes fate was not kind, and the small end of the score fell to the university team, but very often fate did smile and the boys came home with a winning score.

That was the first baseball team the university had, and now its members are scattered from coast to coast, an dsome are no longer living.

Joe Mallalieu was clerk of the district court, but he has been dead for some time. Harry Hicks, the son of a university professor, is now a lawyer in New York City. T. S. Allen has remained in Lincoln, where he is practicing law. M. I. Bigelow is dead. W. S. Scott, for many years county surveyor, is another who is yet in Lincoln.

C. W. Bigelow is a banker in Denver and W. L. Stephens, formerly superintendent of schools in Lincoln, is now superintendent at Long Beach, Cal. M. A. Whistler is in Montana and T. A. Williams died in Washington, having become a famous botanist.

HAVELOCK NOTES.

Miss Ruth Graham, valedictorian of the Walton high school, graduated from there at the age of 15 years. In 1921 when Miss Graham was in the eighth grade, she won first prize in a spelling contest given at Lincoln. She then entered the Walton high schol and in 1922 won first prize, which was a gold pencil, in a Lancaster county spelling contest. In 1923, Miss Graham, then a sophomore in high schol took first place in another Lancaster county spelling contest, this time the prize being a gold pin. Through a slight misunderstanding, Miss Graham was not entered in the contest of 1924, but in 1925, she again won first place. Miss Graham was winner of the gold medal given at Wesleyan high school day. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Graham, of Walton.

The organization meeting of the board of directors of the Nebraska division of the Travelers Protective association was held in Lincoln Friday and Saturday the state officers assisted Post C of Lincoln in a membership drive during the forenoon. The post now has a membership of more than 100.

The board of directors of the Lincoln post also held a meeting and in the evening the post was host to the visitors at a banquet at the Lincoln hotel at 6 o'clock.

REALTORS PLAN PICNIC JULY 25

Dealers From Over State Invited to Outing At Antelope Park.

The real estate business in Lincoln will be suspended Saturday, July 25. Every office in the city will close at noon and the realtors will attend a picnic at Antelope park in the afternoon. Realtors ou over the state are invited and a large number are expected to attend.

Lunch will be served for the visiting real estate men and there will be a program of events for which prizes will be given. A golf tournament and horse shoe contests will feature the program.

Takes Traveling Job—R. L. Robuck, formerly a linotype operator for The Star, has accepted a position as salesman for the Intertype company, manufacturers of typesetting machines. He will make his headquarters in Denver and will travel through western Kansas and Colorado. Mr. Robuck's family will not move to Denver until November.

The Permanent Wave

Is one of Milady's best friends. When properly put into the hair and properly cared for, a permanent wave will remain lovely for a long time.

When Milady has a permanent wave, it is essential that she keep her hair and scalp healthy through the use of oil shampoos. A permanent wave is inclined to appear a wee bit uneven at times. This may be remedied through water waving. Water waves, judiciously applied, will prolong the life of the permanent wave.

Wouldn't you like to have a permanent now, during this hot weather, so you would be relieved of continual marcelling? Consult your beauty specialist regarding one.

GOD AND MAN AND DAYTON.

A large number of the highest salaried newspaper writers in America are at Dayton to report the trial of Schoolmaster Scopes Dozens and dozens of correspondents are sending out thousands of words to their publications and to the wire associations for the enlightenment and entertainment of the peoples of this and other countries Miles and miles of extra wire was strung to provide facilities for the transmission of this flood of news

And yet that prosecution at Dayton brought against Schoolmaster Scopes which has been pictured very generally throughout the world as an evolution trial is the most absurd the most ridiculous the most futile and meaningless legal proceeding ever brought in this country

As if anything could be settled at Dayton beyond the question of the right of the state of Tennessee to pass a law restricting the freedom of a teacher in expressing the views and conclusions which he has obtained through study and observation The only definite outcome at Dayton will be a verdict by a jury some of whose members cannot even read or write, passing upon the validity of a state law born in bigotry and intolerance

It has been broadcast in Great Britain upon the continent of Europe and in some of those countries in Asia, whose peoples find comfort, and solace and guidance in their daily life in other religions than ours that Dayton is affording a test between science and Christianity Owing to the unusual publicity given the proceeding and the wrongful light in which it has been presented to the public there is grave danger even in this country among the unthinking masses of readers that a considerable portion of our population should acquire the notion that something of supreme importance to the spiritual welfare and the scientific progress of the human race will be decided at Dayton Expressed in the most brutal form the American people have been kidded sufficiently by the Dayton comedy In the interest of truth, it is now time that there should be a realization of the emptiness of all those eloquent gestures at Dayton

SCIENCE AND ITS STUDY AND APPLICATION ARE NOT AT STAKE

THE AUTHENTICITY OF THE BOOK OF GENESIS WILL NOT BE ESTABLISHED BY THAT ILLITERATE UNEDUCATED SIMPLE MINDED JUROR WHO IS ONE OF THOSE TO PASS UPON THE CASE

Was there ever such a hoax perpetrated upon a supposedly civilized and intelligent nation?

To listen to Mr Bryan one would think that the eternal secrets of life were known—that there was no mystery or lack of understanding about the source of life and hence there should be no question raised on that score.

What does Mr Bryan or any of the counsel associated with him or any of the lawyers on the other side, or the jury or the presiding judge or any of the profound scientists who might be summoned to testify actually know about the origin of life? Absolutely noth'ng' If they did they could take steps to stay the advance of death What does Mr Bryan or anyone else know about the beating of the heart How would he explain that marvelous phenomena of the heart beat which continues for some time even after the head has been severed from the body and the life blood is pouring out upon the ground? What does he or anyone else know about the mind and its functioning of the telegraphic communication of intelligence to various parts of the body? What does he or anyone else know about the spirit the crowning glory of the human race? No scientist of repute claims to know anything about the origin of life! No theologian should make such pretense!

The origin of life always has been and now is beyond the understanding of man Some of life's manifestations are equally inexplicable and mysterious

So let's get this Dayton travesty right Mr Bryan and his cohorts are not going to handcuff science They are not going to fail or succeed in establishing the authenticity of the Book of Genesis or the substantiality of the Christian faith They are not even going to finally determine the validity of a statute imposing certain restrictions upon the intellectual freedom of teachers in the state of Tennessee The Supreme court of the United States will do that if appeal to it is necessary

For its more serious aspect the American people should have the utmost commiseration for this Dayton trial they should get a hearty laugh out of its more ridiculous aspects

DESERTED FRENCH WIVES

It is rare when domestic misunderstandings lead to international complications

Something of this sort is looming up over the horizon, however in the whlesale desertion of French brides by American boys according to a dispatch from Paris Twenty seven wives of Americans were abandoned in France last month according to the Paris newspapers It is charged that the American husbands send their French wives to Europe for a vacation promising to keep them supplied with money and to send for them when they have completed their visits with their relatives No funds have been sent them the French newspapers claim and in a number of cases they have received notices that their husbands have divorced them in their absense

Figures are quoted to show that out of 5 000 Franco American marriages since the signing of the armistice 1 000 of them have terminated in this fashion As a result the French authorities at Washington have been asked to take the matter up with Washington

Possibly these marriages of French girls and American boys was what the bellicose Hi Johnson had in mind when he warned this country against entangling alliances

As a matter of fact the success and failure of these romances growing out of the world war are not markedly different from the marriages consummated in this country Divorce has been growing in America at such an alarming rate that thoughtful citizens have been unanimous in urging more drastic legislation in the matter of legal separation The figures for Nebraska in 1924 are more dismal than those produced by the French authorities There were but 4 234 marriages in this state last year while the courts granted divorces to 1 891 The preceding year or in 1923 Nebraska had 9 148 marriages and 2 077 divorces That is a more accurate barometer of the situation because the ten-day notice law had not tended to cut down the number of marriage licenses issued in this state The French authorities desire Washington to intervene because a fifth of all the marriages between American boys and French girls ended disastrously What is to be said when it develops from the figures that a situation which excites protest from the French is reflected in the marriages of American boys and American girls in this country?

THE NEW JOURNALISM.

Dr Glen Frank editor of the Century magazine and more recently selected as president of the University of Wisconsin, well known in Lincoln because of the fact that he has delivered commencement addresses here, came forward a few days ago with a plea for a new brand of journalism by American newspapers

He hopes that the time is close at hand when the press will find news values in 'ideas as well as incidents

I should like to see the American press develop more than it has a technique for extracting the real news values that exist in formative ideas If we journalists were really up to our jobs we would realize more than we do that there are as vivid news values in ideas as there are in incidents We must prove that accuracy does not have to be unreadable

The suggestion put forward by Dr Frank is by no means new and original It has been attempted by many of the larger newspapers of Great Britain and in a lesser degree by the larger publications of this country For years the British journals have been publishing what might be called interpretative news It calls for expert knowledge if it is to be of any real value and careful writing There is a reason why Great Britain has had its news and 'views as the British call them Education has not attained the position in British Isles that it has in this country There is less illiteracy in America The average American newspaper reader is qualified to draw his own conclusions and to place his own interpretations upon certain events and incidents

Of deeper significance and value to the newspaper profession and to the public than Dr Frank's suggestion is the code of ethics adopted by the Southern Publishers association at a recent meeting in Asheville There is little that is new in this code But it needs to be preached and to be practiced by the newspapers of this country if they are to fulfill their great mission

Its first tenet calls for the recognition of honest differences of opinion and the maintenance of the newspaper's position without denouncing others as unfair and dishonest It calls for the application of the ordinary rules of decency in the printing of news editorials advertising and all feature articles and illustrations It suggests that the test of the fitness of any part of the newspaper should be whether it can be read without shame in the family circle and not whether it will sell more papers It suggests consideration for the unfortunate and for guiltless victims of the faults of others No story justifies needless damage to a good reputation or wanton pain to an innocent And finally it calls for respect and tolerance for those of different religions and races and circumstances of life

What a splendid service American newspapers would perform if they observed these principles!

There has been too much wanton cruelty and thoughtlessness in the conduct of American newspapers Innocent people who never should have been subjected to pain and hurt, have been made to suffer in the mad quest for news The new journalism of America should breathe a spirit of kindness and consideration and thoughtfulness It would do more towards restoring the press of this country to a place of high esteem than any other influence which could be brought to bear

THE ATHENS EXPEDITION

Seemingly there is no expense or sacrifice too great in the effort to unlock the secrets of ancient civilizations which flourished on this earth hundreds of years ago

News comes from Princeton university that an expedition has been organized by Prof Edward Capps of the Greek department to undertake the most important archaeological research ever undertaken Forty American colleges and universities have signified their intention of joining in the enterprise and will subscribe a fund of $1 000 000 for the work

The success of the expedition was insured when permission was obtained from the Greek government to conduct excavations in the heart of Athens The buildings occupying about twenty blocks in one of the older sections of the Grecian capital will be razed About twenty-five to thirty feet under the surface of old Athens Professor Capps believes are treasures of far greater archaeological value than those uncovered at Pompeii The excavations will cover a strip to the north and east of the site of the ancient Acropolis The ancient Painted Atoa where the School of Philosophers was inaugurated and an open market place with buildings surrounding it formerly stood in the path of the contemplated excavation

Owing to the restrictions of Grecian law less real authentic information has been secured concerning the glories of ancient Athens than any of the civilizations which flourished in that day Up until a year ago the Greek government had maintained a firm hold upon all research undertakings But lack of finances to conduct the work properly has always handicapped it greatly Now the government has agreed to throw the investigations over to other countries with the understanding that none of the original treasure uncovered shall be removed from Greece The Capps expedition however will be privileged to make copies of any of the originals which it desires The next two years will be spent in mapping the territory and getting the forces organized After the excavation has been completed the area will be restored and returned to the Greek government which it in turn will dedicate it for a public park

A 'WASTEFUL" NATION SAVES

One $300 000 000 industry that does not go dead in the summer time is canning Right now a hundred thousand men and women are putting up $250 000 000 worth of vegetables fruit and other natural products for use in America and remote parts of the world all year round

The growth of the canning industry in this country says the National City bank of New York has been phenomenal The number of establishments devoted to that industry has increased about 150 per cent since 1890 Value of the products turned out thirty five years ago was only $50 000 000 while in the current year it probably will amount to $450 000 000

In spite of America's reputation for wastefulness the United States gives greater attention to the conservation of perishable foods for use than any other country in the world and the American tin can is recognized around the globe Children cry for it in Palestine Java China Indo China French Oceania and Belgian Congo

Thus it is that the canning industry is conducted with a view to the wants of the outside world as well as those of the 120 000 000 residents of the United States The value of canned goods exported last year totaled 70 000 000 and shipments were received by nearly 100 countries

The ingenuity of experts and the enormous area available for supply canning material has resulted in greater advances in the preservation of foodstuffs in America than in any other nation

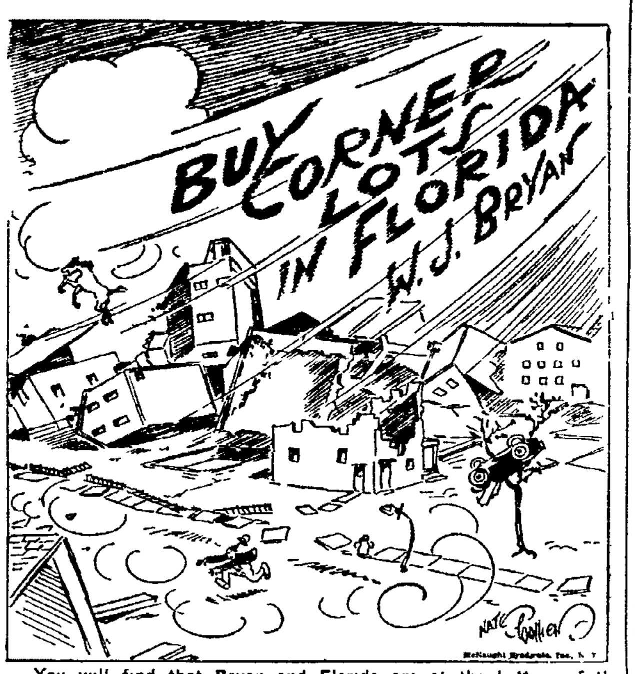
Yes, California Has Earthquakes, But Hasn't Florida Got Bryan?



BUY CORNER LOTS IN FLORIDA
W.J. BRYAN
NATE COLLIER
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.

You will find that Bryan and Florida are at the bottom of the Santa Barbara Earthquake

BY WILL ROGERS

All I know is just what I read in the papers Of course all the news the past couple of weeks especially in all the eastern papers has been about the earthquakes in Santa Barbara. At first they reported hundreds killed and thousands wounded If the world had come to an end it could not possibly have had any more sensational space devoted to it

On the same day that it happened four people jumped off various bridges here in New York and committed suicide but as far as the space they got in the papers they might just as well kept on living Their feat was a total loss so far as publicity was concerned Had they committed suicide in California there would have been editorials showing you what good climate will drive you to

Statistics prove that on the day of the quake seventeen people were killed in various parts of this country by drinking wood alcohol but they couldn't even make the front page because something had happened in California And hadn't some of their richest men been going there to establish winter homes? And now was their chance to point a moral to them New York papers even took all daily murder cases off their front pages to show what would happen to you if you went to California Florida got out extra editions as a warning

On the Sunday before at the public beaches back here there was as many drowned as met death in the 'quake but they hardly published their names because they wanted to show what had happened in California Nine lost their lives out there Why there is that many innocent bystanders shot in one day in New York and Chicago in street fights (to say nothing of the guilty bystanders) One good grade crossing back here considers it a poor Sunday's work if it can't account for more than that But everybody knows that California isn't going to get any of the best of it from an advertising point of view from the newspapers in any other states Of course it was mighty nice the sympathy they showed but it was kind of like I told you it would happen to you if you insisted on going out there

If you think California is the only place that is subjected to earthquakes you ought to read the list of New York houses that have taken out earthquake insurance. Woolworth is said to have taken out five million dollars worth on an original investment of ten cents and you know that guy is no fool Any man that can take a nickle and run it into a tower that looks down on New York—he's not paying that insurance premium for nothing

I'll give Santa Barbara credit for one thing They didn't try to claim it was a fire They said An earthquake hit us And they stuck to it showing you that even California is getting more honest

I have read for the last week explanations of scientists as to the cause no two of them agreeing on the same thing But I will bet you and I will stake the reputation of the Old Reliable Illiterate Digest on what made it happen When the truth of the whole thing comes out you will find that Bryan and Florida are at the bottom of it He had it systematically figured out that by making a speech at a certain place that the wave lengths would strike in California and cause an upheaval

Now this is no exaggeration Didn't they have to tear down Madison Square Garden after he got through speaking in it My statements are not based on science they are based on facts No Sir He just got his voice focused right and then he opened up Now you see the results

You know that history or the world almanac one (I don't know which) says 'Mohammed moved a mountain I don't know where he moved it to, or what he moved it for, or whether he moved it back or not That is one thing about history it never has to explain anything It just gives you the bare facts It just says So and So happened and there is no way of cross-examining them to find out

For instance it says Nero fiddled while Rome burned It don't tell what tune he fiddled whether it was by request or whether they had no other fiddler He couldn't have been much because a good player on that instrument is called a violinist" A poor player is called a fiddler so evidently Nero had not reached the virtuoso stage

But it is different with Bryan If we can prove that he spoke somewhere on the night previous to the quake we have the absolute proof We know that it did some damage other than local But we are fortunate at that I wouldn't trade California with its quake for Florida with Bryan Earthquakes only come every nineteen years (Frisco's was in 1906) while Bryan is causing an upheaval of nature daily

Why there is more people eaten up by alligators in a month in Florida than earthquakes kill in California in a generation An earthquake is an act of divine providence and shows that the Almighty has His eye on that particular state Some states the Almighty never visits in any form because He doesn't know that they exist

There is some honor to be killed by an earthquake It's a mode of passing away which your descendants are proud to speak of It's not like saying My father was bitten by a water mocassin in the ever glades or passed away by jumping out of the way of one Ford into the path of another There is a certain amount of dignity to be preserved even in death

Hollywood ninety miles away even tried to claim that it felt the shock That was purely an advertising scheme with them They hated to hear of something visiting California and not calling on them If the devil should appear at Dayton Tennessee (which no doubt he has too much sense and humor to do) Hollywood would immediately claim Well he's coming here on his way home If a plague struck Scranton Penn Hollywood would claim they had a touch of it

As a matter of fact, the only shake or shivering that Hollywood has felt has been Gilda Gray and Anne Pennington ex Follies cohorts of mine

Why did Hollywood want to get in on it? Hadn't Charlie Chaplin just had a baby the day before? Surely that is enough publicity for Hollywood He arrived just in time for the quake Charlie is tired of promoting Jackie Coogan to wealth and fame He says Why not raise your own?

Charlie's baby and the earthquake are the only publicity things that Gloria Swanson hasn't been connected with Gloria gained France's picture patronage by announcing that she would raise at the lowest estimate eight babies for them She will have to hurry for Charlie is out for French trade too So taken all in all we know the rest of the world is just jealous of California because it is better to live a year in California and then be killed by an earthquake than to just exist ninety years in some other state

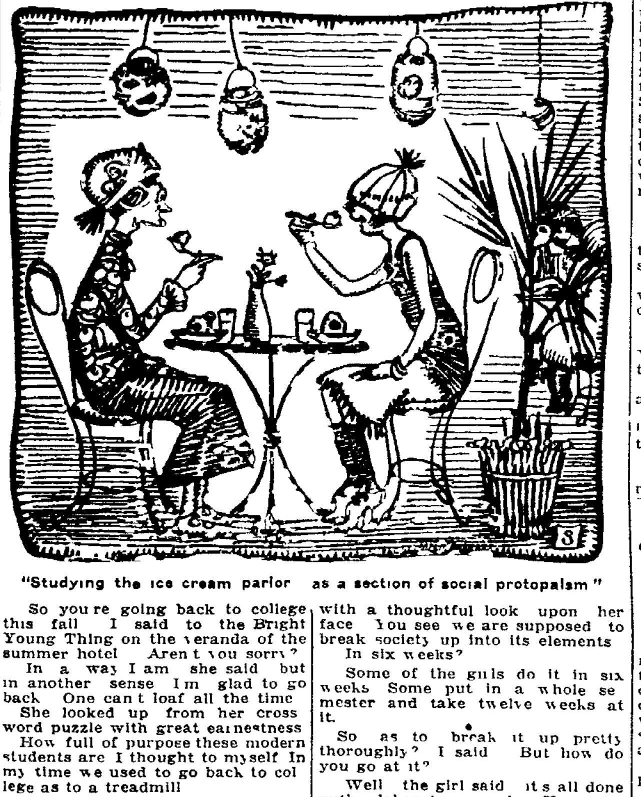
PAINLESS PEDANTRY

New Wrinkles in the Education of the Bright Young Thing, Et Al



"Studying the ice cream parlor as a section of social protopalsm"

So you're going back to college this fall I said to the Bright Young Thing on the veranda of the summer hotel Aren't you sorry?

In a way I am she said but in another sense I'm glad to go back One can't loaf all the time

She looked up from her cross word puzzle with great earnestness

How full of purpose these modern students are I thought to myself In my time we used to go back to college as to a treadmill

I know that I said but what I mean is that college after all is a pretty hard grind Things like mathematics and Greek are no joke are they? In my day as I remember it we used to think spherical trigonometry about the hardest stuff of the lot

Elector and Elected

She looked dubious

I don't elect mathematics she said

Oh I said I see So you don't have to take it And what have you elected?

For this coming half semester—that's six weeks you know—I've elected Social Endeavor

Ah I said that's since my day What is it?

Oh it's awfully interesting It's the study of conditions

What kind of conditions? I asked

All conditions We take up Society

And what do you do with it"

Analyze it she said

But it must mean reading a tremendous lot of books

No she answered It's all laboratory work

What do you mean by laboratory work?

Society Gets Its

Well answered the girl student with a thoughtful look upon her face You see we are supposed to break society up into its elements

In six weeks?

Some of the girls do it in six weeks Some put in a whole semester and take twelve weeks at it.

So as to break it up pretty thoroughly? I said But how do you go at it?

Well the girl said it's all done with laboratory work We take for instance department stores and factories The first thing is the department stores

And what do you do with it?

'We study it as a Social Germ

Ah I said as a Social Germ

Working in the Concrete

Yes said the girl delighted to see that I was beginning to understand as a Germ All the work is done in the concrete The class goes down with the professor to the department store itself—

And then—

Then they walk all through it, as Observers

You mean you don't buy anything and so you are able to watch everything?

No she said it's not that We do buy things That's part of it Most of the girls do their shopping while they're there But while they are there they are observing Then afterwards they make charts

Charts of what? I asked

Charts of the employes they're used to show the brain movement involved

Getting in to the Curves

Do you find much

Well she said hesitatingly the idea is to reduce all the employees to a Curve

To a Curve I exclaimed an In or an Out

No no not exactly that The idea is that from the Curve we can get the Norm of the employee

Get his Norm? I asked

Yes get the Norm That stands for the Root Form of the employe as a social factor

And what can you do with that?

Oh when we have that we can tell what the employee would do under any and every circumstance At least that's the idea—though I'm really only quoting she added breaking off in a diffident way from what Miss Thinker the professor of Social Endeavor says She's really fine She's making a general chart of the female employes of one of the biggest factories to show what percentage in case of fire would jump out of the window and what percentage would run to the fire escape

The Social Cell

It's a wonderful course I said we had nothing like it when I went to college And does it only take in stores and factories?

No said the girl the laboratory work includes for this semester ice cream parlors as well

What do you do with them?

We take them up as Social Cells Nuceli I think the professor calls them

And how do you go at them? I asked

Why the girls go to them in little laboratory groups and study them

They eat ice cream in them?

They have to she said to make concrete But while they are

What's Necessary For a Change

July 9 1925

To the Editor of the Star The name of our streets like the streets themselves are for the use and convenience of the people of Lincoln and the stranger that is within our gates and not to honor statesmen and heroes dead or alive

I think I can safely say that 75 per cent of our population demand a system of naming our streets rather than streets named at random They demand a simple system so that a stranger or even a child can find his way Such is the system of numbers and of letters as far as the letters go

So often have I been asked for street information by strangers in Lincoln and when I have spoken of any of the lettered streets they invariably say Oh I can find my way alright when I get to the lettered streets but it is outside of them where I get lost

If Mayor Zehrung or the city commissioners will devise a system and as simple a system for those portions of our growing city lying south and north of the lettered streets a vast majority of our people would call them public benefactors but they will not stand for doing away with a simple system that has served us so well in order to honor Roosevelt Harding Pershing or even Austin (whoever he may be)

No Mr Editor the people are not averse to a change where they can see something better through the change but they will not stand to have something rammed down their throats that they [illegible] by a board of five commissioners who were not elected on that issue

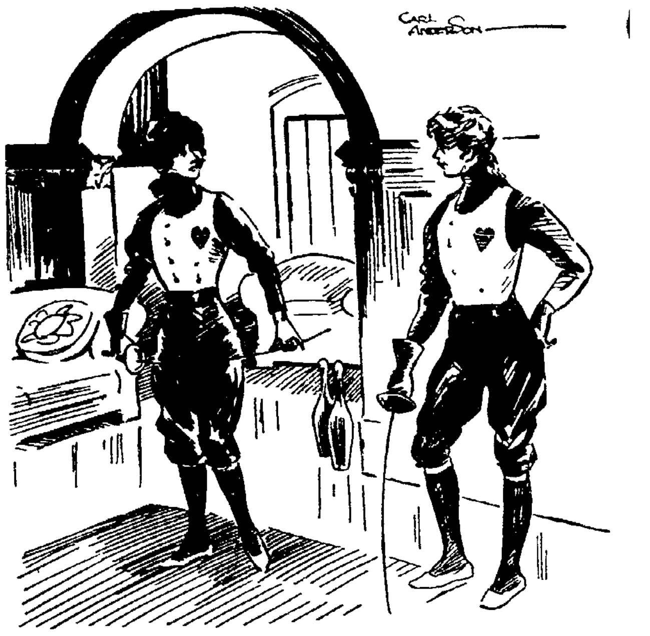
Discoveries In Humans

Three Persons Whose Names She Didn't Know Helped Elsie Ferguson To Get Stage Start—But Man In Audience Discovered She Was Real Star.

Had to go to England to get recognition — Later Edgar Selwyn Saw Her In a New Orleans Theater and Insisted That She Have Principal Role In His New Play



The Girl Happened to Know Another Girl Who Was in the Chorus

By Preston Wright

A 12 year old girl walking up Broadway New York with her chum one day passed in front of the old Bijou theater and pointed to the name of Olga Nethersole in huge letters across its front

My name will be up like that some day she announced

You're crazy said her companion as she pulled her on

Years later however a leading American playwright sitting in a theater in New Orleans saw the little girl now grown into a slender woman blonde and beautiful playing a role in a way that appealed to him mightily

The very person I need to do the leading part in my new play he said

And in the course of a few months Elsie Ferguson's name was glittering from a huge electric sign which announced to all Broadway that she was a full fledged star — just as she had said she would be

The man who really was first to see in Elsie Ferguson the ability to make good on the stage has passed into the limbo of unremembered He was only a voice tester in a musical comedy production and but one of three persons who helped her to a theatrical career but who passed into and out of her life almost like ghosts—such casual acquaintances that even their names slipped from her mind

Fencing was a part of the program of Elsie Ferguson's youth as arranged by her mother In her fencing class she met a girl with whom she became well enough known to confide her long cherished hope to be an actress The girl happened to know another girl who was in a chorus She introduced Elsie then fourteen but fully grown to this girl and the latter took her to the Shuberts office

She was given a try out A cynical person at a roughly used and tested her voice and decided it would do And next under her mother's chaperonage she was in the chorus She was on and of the stage but a long way from stardom

Three years in musical comedy convinced her she wanted a more serious career She sought and obtained a chance in a comedy production Thereafter she played a number of minor roles and served as understudy to a number of leading women She had a small part with the late Kyrle Bellew and a better one subsequently with Louis Mann

One night while touring with the latter she realized in the midst of her appearance on the stage she says what the sense and feeling of real acting is This gave her authority and she knew from then on that she held audiences in the palm of her hand

Miss Ferguson was now near stardom but no manager seemed to realize it Friends advised her to go to London telling her that the British managers liked American girls

In London she found Charles Frohman and confided to him her hopes and beliefs in herself Her sincerity impressed the great producer and he sent her to Cyril Maude with a note which induced the Britisher to engage her for a part in The Earl of Pawtucket

Stardom was getting closer and closer Her acting now attracted the attention of William J Brady who sent a friend to invite her to come to his office

She went and was offered a promising role in a play on tour

I don't want that sort of part she told Brady She was conscious of her possibilities

He studied her a moment

Have you done any emotional acting? he asked

No

Can you do it

I think I can

I've just bought a new play said Mr Brady I want you t read it Come back in two days

This was a thrilling moment was the first time she had bee given a play to read Bigger thing were at hand she felt sure S was promptly at the manager's o fice again in the stipulated t days

Do you think you can do leading woman's role was first question

Yes she rejoined confidentl

Mr Brady looked at her with quizzical smile

I think you can he said

The play was The Bondsma and its star was Wilton Lackaye

Elsie Ferguson made good Lackaye's leading woman Still was not a star Then in New O leans toward the end of the seas Edgar Selwyn the noted pla wright saw her act and fell a vic tim to her charm and ability

Miss Ferguson knew nothing o it but stardom now was actuall knocking at her door Sometime later she received a letter from Eugene Walter another writer plays and her friend telling he that Selwyn wished to see her in New York

The meeting was arranged Selwyn took her to the late Henry B Harris who on Selwyn's direct request engaged her for the principal woman's role in the playwright's new comedy Pierre of the Plains Her work in rehearsal was so impressive Mr Harris immediately signed her to a long term contract When she had finished with Pierre of the Plains he gave her the principal role in Channing Pollock's Such a Little Queen

She opened in the play as leading woman But she made a great hit Two weeks later when he was convinced her success was no flash in the pan Mr Harris sent for her

I'm going to make a star of you he said

And up went Elsie Ferguson's name in big flashing letters in front of the theater

GOD AND MAN AND DAYTON.

A large number of the highest salaried newspaper writers in America are at Dayton to report the trial of Schoolmaster Scopes. Dozens and dozens of correspondents are sending out thousands of words to their publications and to the wire associations for the enlightenment and entertainment of the peoples of this and other countries. Miles and miles of extra wire was strung to provide facilities for the transmission of this flood of "news."

And yet that prosecution at Dayton brought against Schoolmaster Scopes, which has been pictured very generally throughout the world as an evolution trial is the most absurd, the most ridiculous, the most futile and meaningless legal proceeding ever brought in this country.

As if anything could be settled at Dayton beyond the question of the right of the state of Tennessee to pass a law restricting the freedom of a teacher in expressing the views and conclusions which he has obtained through study and observation. The only definite outcome at Dayton will be a verdict by a jury, some of whose members cannot even read or write, passing upon the validity of a state law, born in bigotry and intolerance.

It has been broadcast in Great Britain, upon the continent of Europe and in some of those countries in Asia, whose peoples find comfort, and solace and guidance in their daily life in other religions than ours that Dayton is affording a test between science and Christianity. Owing to the unusual publicity given the proceeding, and the wrongful light in which it has been presented to the public, there is grave danger even in this country among the unthinking masses of readers that a considerable portion of our population should acquire the notion that something of supreme importance to the spiritual welfare and the scientific progress of the human race will be decided at Dayton. Expressed in the most brutal form, the American people have been "kidded" sufficiently by the Dayton comedy. In the interest of truth, it is now time that there should be a realization of the emptiness of all those eloquent gestures at Dayton.

SCIENCE AND ITS STUDY AND APPLICATION ARE NOT AT STAKE.

THE AUTHENTICITY OF THE BOOK OF GENESIS WILL NOT BE ESTABLISHED BY THAT ILLITERATE, UNEDUCATED, SIMPLE-MINDED JUROR, WHO IS ONE OF THOSE TO PASS UPON THE CASE.

Was there ever such a hoax perpetrated upon a supposedly civilized and intelligent nation?

To listen to Mr. Bryan one would think that the eternal secrets of life were known—that there was no mystery or lack of understanding about the source of life and hence there should be no question raised on that score.

What does Mr. Bryan, or any of the counsel associated with him, or any of the lawyers on the other side, or the jury, or the presiding judge, or any of the profound scientists who might be summoned to testify actually know about the origin of life? Absolutely nothing! If they did they could take steps to stay the advance of death. What does Mr. Bryan or anyone else know about the beating of the heart. How would he explain that marvelous phenomena of the heart beat, which continues for some time even after the head has been severed from the body and the life blood is pouring out upon the ground? What does he or anyone else know about the mind and its functioning, of the telegraphic communication of intelligence to various parts of the body? What does he or anyone else know about the spirit, the crowning glory of the human race? No scientist of repute claims to know anything about the origin of life! No theologian should make such pretense!

The origin of life always has been and now is beyond the understanding of man. Some of life's manifestations are equally inexplicable and mysterious.

So, let's get this Dayton travesty right. Mr. Bryan and his cohorts are not going to handcuff science. They are not going to fail or succeed in establishing the authenticity of the Book of Genesis or the substantiality of the Christian faith. They are not even going to finally determine the validity of a statute imposing certain restrictions upon the intellectual freedom of teachers in the state of Tennessee. The Supreme court of the United States will do that, if appeal to it is necessary.

For its more serious aspect the American people should have the utmost commiseration for this Dayton trial; they should get a hearty laugh out of its more ridiculous aspects.

DESERTED FRENCH WIVES.

It is rare when domestic misunderstandings lead to international complications.

Something of this sort is looming up over the horizon, however, in the whlesale desertion of French brides by American boys, according to a dispatch from Paris. Twenty-seven wives of Americans were abandoned in France last month, according to the Paris newspapers. It is charged that the American husbands send their French wives to Europe for a vacation, promising to keep them supplied with money and to send for them when they have completed their visits with their relatives. No funds have been sent them, the French newspapers claim, and in a number of cases they have received notices that their husbands have divorced them in their absense.

Figures are quoted to show that out of 5,000 Franco-American marriages since the signing of the armistice, 1,000 of them have terminated in this fashion. As a result the French authorities at Washington have been asked to take the matter up with Washington.

Possibly these marriages of French girls and American boys was what the bellicose "Hi" Johnson had in mind when he warned this country against entangling alliances.

As a matter of fact the success and failure of these romances growing out of the world war are not markedly different from the marriages consummated in this country. Divorce has been growing in America at such an alarming rate that thoughtful citizens have been unanimous in urging more drastic legislation in the matter of legal separation. The figures for Nebraska in 1924 are more dismal than those produced by the French authorities. There were but 4,234 marriages in this state last year while the courts granted divorces to 1,891. The preceding year, or in 1923, Nebraska had 9,148 marriages and 2,077 divorces. That is a more accurate barometer of the situation because the ten-day notice law had not tended to cut down the number of marriage licenses issued in this state. The French authorities desire Washington to intervene because a fifth of all the marriages between American boys and French girls ended disastrously. What is to be said when it develops from the figures that a situation which excites protest from the French is reflected in the marriages of American boys and American girls in this country?

THE NEW JOURNALISM.

Dr. Glen Frank, editor of the Century magazine and more recently selected as president of the University of Wisconsin, well-known in Lincoln because of the fact that he has delivered commencement addresses here, came forward a few days ago with a plea for a new brand of journalism by American newspapers

He hopes that the time is close at hand when the press will find "news values" in "ideas" as well as "incidents."

"I should like to see the American press develop more than it has a technique for extracting the real news values that exist in formative ideas. If we journalists were really up to our jobs, we would realize more than we do that there are as vivid news values in ideas as there are in incidents. We must prove that accuracy does not have to be unreadable."

The suggestion put forward by Dr. Frank is by no means new and original. It has been attempted by many of the larger newspapers of Great Britain, and in a lesser degree by the larger publications of this country. For years the British journals have been publishing what might be called interpretative news. It calls for expert knowledge, if it is to be of any real value, and careful writing. There is a reason why Great Britain has had its "news" and "views" as the British call them. Education has not attained the position in British Isles that it has in this country. There is less illiteracy in America. The average American newspaper reader is qualified to draw his own conclusions and to place his own interpretations upon certain events and incidents.

Of deeper significance and value to the newspaper profession and to the public than Dr. Frank's suggestion is the code of ethics adopted by the Southern Publishers' association at a recent meeting in Asheville. There is little that is new in this code. But it needs to be preached and to be practiced by the newspapers of this country if they are to fulfill their great mission.

Its first tenet calls for the recognition of honest differences of opinion and the maintenance of the newspaper's position without denouncing others as unfair and dishonest. It calls for the application of the ordinary rules of decency in the printing of news, editorials, advertising, and all feature articles and illustrations. It suggests that the test of the fitness of any part of the newspaper should be whether it can be read without shame in the family circle, and not whether it will sell more papers. It suggests consideration for the unfortunate and for guiltless victims of the faults of others. "No story justifies needless damage to a good reputation or wanton pain to an innocent." And finally it calls for respect and tolerance for those of different religions, and races and circumstances of life.

What a splendid service American newspapers would perform, if they observed these principles!

There has been too much wanton cruelty and thoughtlessness in the conduct of American newspapers. Innocent people, who never should have been subjected to pain and hurt, have been made to suffer in the mad quest for news. The new journalism of America should breathe a spirit of kindness and consideration and thoughtfulness. It would do more towards restoring the press of this country to a place of high esteem than any other influence which could be brought to bear.

THE ATHENS EXPEDITION.

Seemingly there is no expense or sacrifice too great in the effort to unlock the secrets of ancient civilizations which flourished on this earth hundreds of years ago.

News comes from Princeton university that an expedition has been organized by Prof. Edward Capps of the Greek department to undertake the most important archaeological research ever undertaken. Forty American colleges and universities have signified their intention of joining in the enterprise and will subscribe a fund of $1,000,000 for the work.

The success of the expedition was insured when permission was obtained from the Greek government to conduct excavations in the heart of Athens. The buildings occupying about twenty blocks in one of the older sections of the Grecian capital will be razed. About twenty-five to thirty feet under the surface of old Athens, Professor Capps believes, are treasures of far greater archaeological value than those uncovered at Pompeii. The excavations will cover a strip to the north and east of the site of the ancient Acropolis. The ancient Painted Atoa, where the School of Philosophers was inaugurated, and an open market place, with buildings surrounding it, formerly stood in the path of the contemplated excavation.

Owing to the restrictions of Grecian law, less real authentic information has been secured concerning the glories of ancient Athens than any of the civilizations which flourished in that day. Up until a year ago the Greek government had maintained a firm hold upon all research undertakings. But lack of finances to conduct the work properly has always handicapped it greatly. Now the government has agreed to throw the investigations over to other countries with the understanding that none of the original treasure uncovered shall be removed from Greece. The Capps expedition, however, will be privileged to make copies of any of the originals which it desires. The next two years will be spent in mapping the territory and getting the forces organized. After the excavation has been completed, the area will be restored and returned to the Greek government, which it in turn will dedicate it for a public park.

A "WASTEFUL" NATION SAVES.

One $300,000,000 industry that does not go dead in the summer time is canning. Right now a hundred thousand men and women are putting up $250,000,000 worth of vegetables, fruit and other natural products for use in America and remote parts of the world all year round.

The growth of the canning industry in this country, says the National City bank of New York, has been phenomenal. The number of establishments devoted to that industry has increased about 150 per cent since 1890. Value of the products turned out thirty-five years ago was only $50,000,000, while in the current year it probably will amount to $450,000,000.

In spite of America's reputation for wastefulness, the United States gives greater attention to the conservation of perishable foods for use than any other country in the world, and the American tin can is recognized around the globe. "Children cry for it" in Palestine, Java, China, Indo-China, French Oceania and Belgian Congo.

Thus it is that the canning industry is conducted with a view to the wants of the outside world, as well as those of the 120,000,000 residents of the United States. The value of canned goods exported last year totaled 70,000,000, and shipments were received by nearly 100 countries.

The ingenuity of experts and the enormous area available for supply canning material has resulted in greater advances in the preservation of foodstuffs in America than in any other nation.

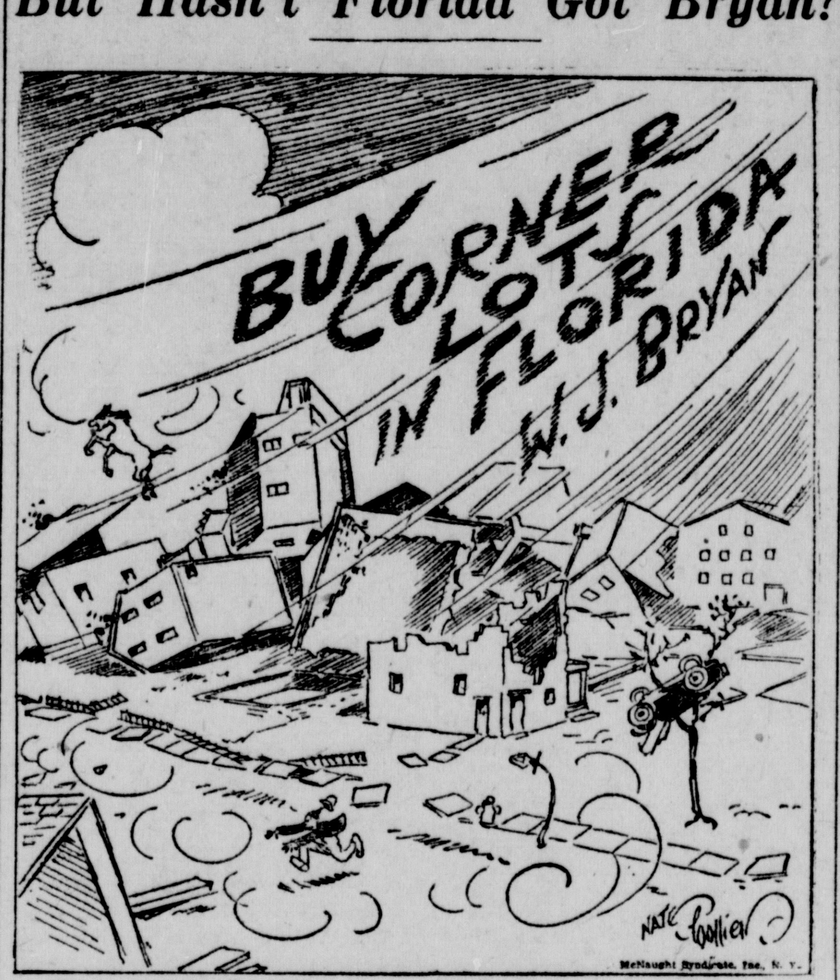
If you don't like Nebraska weather, wait fifteen minutes.

One of the differences between a sign painter and a preacher is that a sign painter can always draw a crowd.

Some people think that we have too many laws in this country but why worry? Only a few of them are being obeyed.

It looks like the next democratic national convention might hear, "Tennessee, twenty-four for Bryan."

Yes, California Has Earthquakes, But Hasn't Florida Got Bryan?



BUY CORNER LOTS IN FLORIDA
W. J. BRYAN
NATE COLLIER

McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.

You will find that Bryan and Florida are at the bottom of the Santa Barbara Earthquake.

BY WILL ROGERS.

All I know is just what I read in the papers. Of course all the news the past couple of weeks, especially in all the eastern papers, has been about the earthquakes in Santa Barbara. At first they reported hundreds killed and thousands wounded. If the world had come to an end it could not possibly have had any more sensational space devoted to it.

On the same day that it happened four people jumped off various bridges here in New York and committed suicide, but as far as the space they got in the papers they might just as well kept on living. Their feat was a total loss so far as publicity was concerned. Had they committed suicide in California there would have been editorials showing you what good climate will drive you to.

Statistics prove that on the day of the quake seventeen people were killed in various parts of this country by drinking wood-alcohol but they couldn't even make the front page because something had happened in California. And hadn't some of their richest men been going there to establish winter homes? And now was their chance to point a moral to them. New York papers even took all daily murder cases off their front pages to show what would happen to you if you went to California. Florida got out extra editions as a warning.

On the Sunday before, at the public beaches back here, there was as many drowned as met death in the 'quake, but they hardly published their names because they wanted to show what had happened in California. Nine lost their lives out there. Why there is that many innocent bystanders shot in one day in New York and Chicago in street fights (to say nothing of the guilty bystanders). One good grade crossing back here considers it a poor Sunday's work if it can't account for more than that. But everybody knows that California isn't going to get any of the best of it from an advertising point of view from the newspapers in any other states. Of course it was mighty nice, the sympathy they showed, but it was kind of like: "I told you it would happen to you if you insisted on going out there."

If you think California is the only place that is subjected to earthquakes you ought to read the list of New York houses that have taken out earthquake insurance. Woolworth is said to have taken out five million dollars worth on an original investment of ten cents and you know that guy is no fool. Any man that can take a nickle and run it into a tower that looks down on New York—he's not paying that insurance premium for nothing.

"I'll give Santa Barbara credit for one thing. They didn't try to claim it was a fire. They said, "An earthquake hit us." And they stuck to it, showing you that even California is getting more honest.

I have read for the last week explanations of scientists as to the cause, no two of them agreeing on the same thing. But I will bet you and I will stake the reputation of the Old Reliable Illiterate Digest on what made it happen. When the truth of the whole thing comes out you will find that Bryan and Florida are at the bottom of it. He had it systematically figured out that by making a speech at a certain place that the wave lengths would strike in California and cause an upheaval.

Now, this is no exaggeration Didn't they have to tear down Madison Square Garden after he got through speaking in it. My statements are not based on science; they are based on facts. No, Sir! He just got his voice focused right and then he opened up. Now you see the results.

You know that history, or the world almanac, one (I don't know which) says, "Mohammed moved a mountain." I don't know where he moved it to, or what he moved it for, or whether he moved it back or not. That is one thing about history; it never has to explain anything. It just gives you the bare facts. It just says, "So and So happened," and there is no way of cross-examining them to find out.

For instance, it says: "Nero fiddled while Rome burned." It don't tell what tune he fiddled; whether it was by request, or whether they had no other fiddler. He couldn't have been much, because a good player on that instrument is called a "violinist." A poor player is called a "fiddler," so evidently Nero had not reached the virtuoso stage.

But it is different with Bryan. If we can prove that he spoke somewhere on the night previous to the 'quake we have the absolute proof. We know that it did some damage other than local. But we are fortunate at that. I wouldn't trade California with its 'quake for Florida with Bryan. Earthquakes only come every nineteen years, (Frisco's was in 1906) while Bryan is causing an upheaval of nature daily.

Why, there is more people eaten up by alligators in a month in Florida than earthquakes kill in California in a generation. An earthquake is an act of divine providence, and shows that the Almighty has His eye on that particular state. Some states the Almighty never visits in any form because He doesn't know that they exist.

There is some honor to be killed by an earthquake. It is a mode of passing away which your descendants are proud to speak of. It's not like saying: "My father was bitten by a water-mocassin in the everglades, or passed away by jumping out of the way of one Ford into the path of another." There is a certain amount of dignity to be preserved even in death.

Hollywood, ninety miles away, even tried to claim that it felt the shock. That was purely an advertising scheme with them. They hated to hear of something visiting California and not calling on them. If the devil should appear at Dayton, Tennessee (which no doubt he has too much sense and humor to do) Hollywood would immediately claim, "Well, he's coming here on his way home." If a plague struck Scranton, Penn., Hollywood would claim they had a touch of it.

As a matter of fact, the only shake or shivvering that Hollywood has felt has been Gilda Gray and Anne Pennington, ex-Follies cohorts of mine.

Why did Hollywood want to get in on it? Hadn't Charlie Chaplin just had a baby the day before? Surely that is enough publicity for Hollywood. He arrived just in time for the 'quake. Charlie is tired of promoting Jackie Coogan to wealth and fame. He says, "Why not raise your own?"

Charlie's baby and the earthquake are the only publicity things that Gloria Swanson hasn't been connected with. Gloria gained France's picture patronage by announcing that she would raise, at the lowest estimate, eight babies for them. She will have to hurry for Charlie is out for French trade, too. So, taken all in all, we know the rest of the world is just jealous of California because it is better to live a year in California and then be killed by an earthquake than to just exist ninety years in some other state.

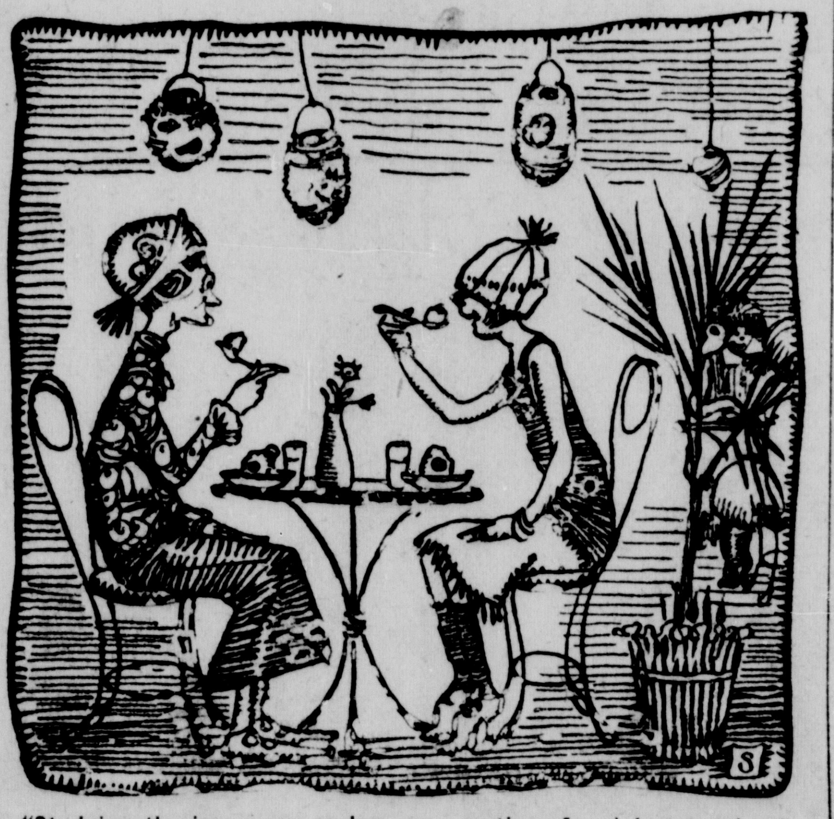
PAINLESS PEDANTRY

New Wrinkles in the Education of the Bright Young Thing, Et Al.



"Studying the ice-cream parlor as a section of social protopalsm."

"So you're going back to college this fall," I said to the Bright Young Thing on the veranda of the summer hotel. "Aren't you sorry?"

"In a way I am," she said, "but in another sense I'm glad to go back. One can't loaf all the time."

She looked up from her crossword puzzle with great earnestness.

How full of purpose these modern students are, I thought to myself. In my time we used to go back to college as to a treadmill.

"I know that," I said, "but what I mean is that college, after all, is a pretty hard grind. Things like mathematics and Greek are no joke, are they? In my day, as I remember it, we used to think spherical trigonomery about the hardest stuff of the lot."

Elector and Elected.

She looked dubious.

"I don't elect mathematics," she said.

"Oh," I said, "I see. So you don't have to take it. And what have you elected?"

"For this coming half semester—that's six weeks, you know—I've elected Social Endeavor."

"Ah," I said. "that's since my day. What is it?"

"Oh, it's awfully interesting. It's the study of conditions."

"What kind of conditions?" I asked.

"All conditions. We take up Society."

"And what do you do with it?"

"Analyze it," she said.

"But it must mean reading a tremendous lot of books."

"No," she answered. It's all laboratory work."

"What do you mean by laboratory work?"

Society Gets Its.

"Well," answered the girl student with a thoughtful look upon her face. "You see, we are supposed to break society up into its elements."

"In six weeks?"

"Some of the girls do it in six weeks. Some put in a whole semester and take twelve weeks at it."

"So as to break it up pretty thoroughly?" I said. "But how do you go at it?"

"Well," the girl said, "it's all done with laboratory work. We take for instance, department stores and factories. The first thing is the department stores."

"And what do you do with it?"

"We study it as a Social Germ."

"Ah!" I said, "as a Social Germ."

Working in the Concrete.

"Yes," said the girl, delighted to see that I was beginning to understand, "as a Germ. All the work is done in the concrete. The class goes down with the professor to the department store itself—"

"And then—"

"Then they walk all through it, as Observers."

"You mean you don't buy anything and so you are able to watch everything?"

"No," she said, "it's not that. We do buy things. That's part of it. Most of the girls do their shopping while they're there. But while they are there they are observing. Then afterwards they make charts."

"Charts of what?" I asked.

"Charts of the employes: "they're used to show the brain movement involved.

Getting in to the Curves.

"Do you find much.

"Well," she said hesitatingly, "the idea is to reduce all the employees to a Curve.

"To a Curve?" I exclaimed, "an In or an Out."

"No, no, not exactly that. The idea is that from the Curve we can get the Norm of the employee."

"Get his Norm?" I asked.

"Yes, get the Norm. That stands for the Root Form of the employe as a social factor.

"And what can you do with that?"

"Oh, when we have that we can tell what the employee would, do under any and evey circumstnce. At least that's the idea—though I'm really only quoting," she added, breaking off in a diffident way," from what Miss Thinker, the professor of Social Endeavor, says, She's really fine. She's making a general chart of the female employes of one of the biggest factories to show what percentage in case of fire would jump out of the window and what percentage would run to the fire escape."

The Social Cell.

"It's a wonderful course," I said, 'we had nothing like it when I went to college. And does it only take in stores and factories?"

"No," said the girl, "the laboratory work includes for this semester ice-cream parlors as well."

"What do wou do with them?"

"We take them up as Social Cells, Nuceli, I thing the professor calls them."

"And how do you go at them?" I asked.

"Why the girls go to them in little laboratory groups and study them."

"They eat ice-cream in them?"

"They have to," she said, "to make concrete. But while they are

What's Necessary For a Change.

July 9, 1925.

To the Editor of the Star: The name of our streets, like the streets themselves, are for the use and convenience of the people of Lincoln, and the stranger that is within out gates, and not to honor statesmen and heroes, dead or alive.

I think I can safely say that 75 per cent of our population demand a system of naming our streets, rather than streets named at random. They demand a simple system, so that a stranger or even a child, can find his way. Such is the system of numbers and of letters, as far as the letters go.

So often have I been asked for street information by strangers in Lincoln, and when I have spoken of any of the lettered streets, they invariably say, "Oh, I can find my way alright when I get to the lettered streets, but it is outside of them, where I get lost."

If Mayor Zehrung, or the city commissioners, will devise a system, and as simple a system, for those portions of our growing city lying south and north of the lettered streets, a vast majority of our people would call them public benefactors, but they will not stand for doing away with a simple system that has served us so well in order to honor Roosevelt, Harding, Pershing, or even Austin, (whoever he may be.)

No, Mr. Editor, the people are not averse to a change, where they get something better through the change, but they will not stand to have something crammed down their throats that they don't want, by a board of five commissioners who were not elected on that issue.

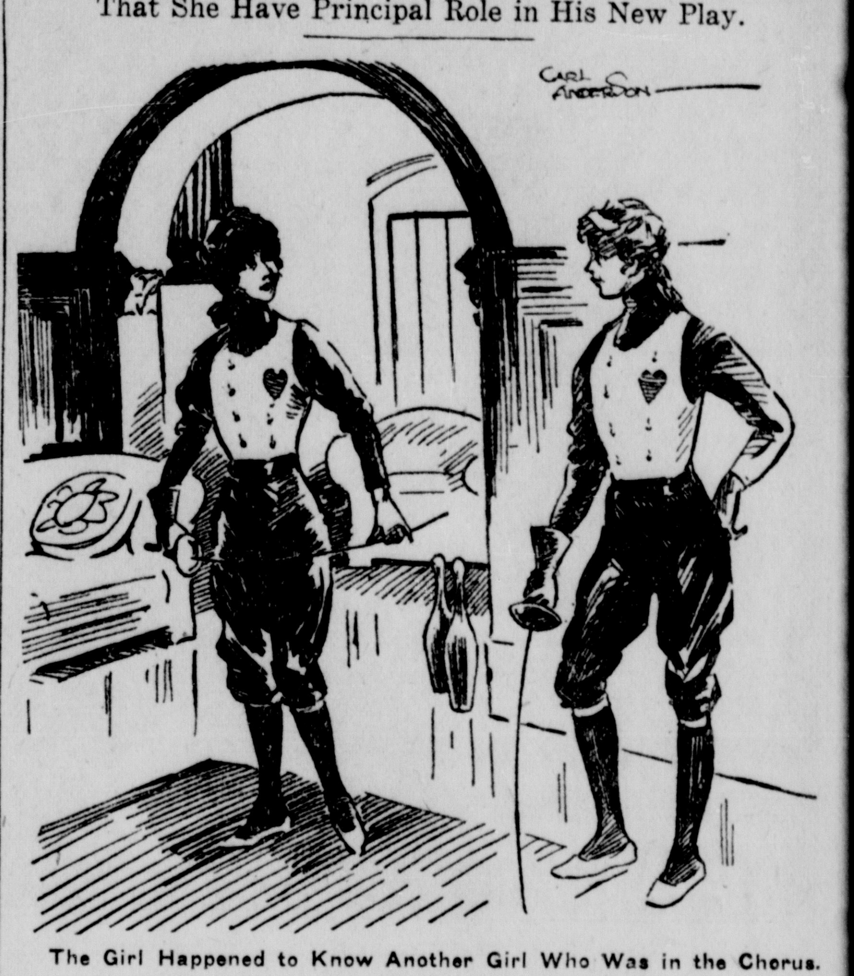
Discoveries In Humans

Three Persons Whose Names She Didn't Know Helped Elsie Ferguson To Get Stage Start—But Man In Audience Discovered She Was Real Star.

Had to go to England to get recognition — Later Edgar Selwyn Saw Her In a New Orleans Theater and Insisted That She Have Principal Role in His New Play.



The Girl Happened to Know Another Girl Who Was in the Chorus.

By Preston Wright.

A 12-year-old girl walking up Broadway, New York, with her chum one day, passed in front of the old Bijou theater and pointed to the name of Olga Nethersole in huge letters across its front.

"My name will be up like that some day," she announced.

"You're crazy," said her companion, as she pulled her on.

Years later, however, a leading American playwright, sitting in a theater in New Orleans, saw the little girl, now grown into a slender woman, blonde and beautiful, playing a role in a way that appealed to him mightily.

"The very person I need to do the leading part in my newplay," he said.

And in the course of a few months Elsie Ferguson's name was glittering from a huge electric sign which announced to all Broadway that she was a full-fledged star — just as she had said she would be.

The man who really was first to see in Elsie Ferguson the ability to make good on the stage has passed into the limbo of unremembered. He was only a voice tester in a musical comedy production and but one of three persons who helped her to a theatrical career, but who passed into and out of her life almost like ghosts—such casual acquaintances that even their names slipped from her mind.

Fencing was a part of the program of Elsie Ferguson's youth as arranged by her mother. In her fencing class she met a girl with whom she became well enough known to confide her long-cherished hope to be an actress. The girl happened to know another girl who was in a chorus. She introduced Elsie, then fourteen but fully grown, to this girl and the latter took her to the Shuberts' office.

She was given a try-out. A cynical person at a roughly-used piano tested her voice and decided it would do. And next, under her mother's chaperonage, she was in the chorus. She was on and of the stage, but a long way from stardom.

Three years in musical comedy convinced her she wanted a more serious career. She sought and obtained a chance in a comedy production. Thereafter she played a number of minor roles and served as understudy to a number of leading women. She had a small part with the late Kyrle Bellew and a better one subsequently with Louis Mann.

One night, while touring with the latter, she realized in the midst of her appearance on the stage, she says, what the sense and feeling of real acting is. This gave her authority and she knew from then on that she held audiences in the palm of her hand.

Miss Ferguson was now near stardom, but no manager seemed to realize it. Friends advised her to go to London, telling her that the British managers liked American girls.

In London she found Charles Frohman and confided to him her hopes and beliefs in herself. Her sincerity impressed the great producer and he sent her to Cyril Maude with a note which induced the Britisher to engage her for a part in "The Earl of Pawtucket."

Stardom was getting closer and closer. Her acting now attracted the attention of William J. Brady, who sent a friend to invite her to come to his office.

She went and was offered a promising role in a play on tour.

"I don't want that sort of part," she told Brady. She was conscious of her possibilities.

He studied her a moment.

"Have you done any emotional acting?" he asked.

"No."

"Can you do it?"

"I think I can.'

"I've just bought a new play, said Mr. Brady. "I want you t read it. Come back in two days.

This was a thrilling moment. I was the first time she had bee given a play to read. Bigger thing were at hand, she felt sure. Sh was promptly at the manager's o fice again in the stipulated t days.

"Do you think you can do leading woman's role?" was first question.

"Yes," she rejoined confidentl

Mr. Brady looked at her with quizzical smile.

"I think you can," he said.

The play was "The Bondsma and its star was Wilton Lackaye.

Elsie Ferguson made good Lackaye's leading woman. Still s was not a star. Then, in New O leans, toward the end of the seaso Edgar Selwyn, the noted play wright, saw her act and fell a vi tim to her charm and ability.

Miss Ferguson knew nothing o it, but stardom now was actuall knocking at her door. Sometim later she received a letter from Eugene Walter, another writer o plays, and her friend, telling he that Selwyn wished to see her i New York.

The meeting was arranged. Selwyn took her to the late Henry B. Harris, who, on Selwyn's direct request, engaged her for the principal woman's role in that playwright's new comedy, "Pierre of the Plains." Her work in rehearsal was so impressive, Mr. Harris immediately signed her to a long-term contract. When she had finished with "Pierre of the Plains" she played the principal role in Channing Pollock's "Such a Little Queen."

She opened in this as a leading woman. But she was not actually a star. Six weeks later, when he was convinced her success was no flash in the pan, Mr. Harris sent for her.

"I'm going to make a star of you," he said.

And up went Elsie Ferguson's name in flashing letters in first position.

Cities Service Power & Light Company
20-Year 6% Secured Sinking Fund Gold Bonds
Denominations of $1,000, $500, $100
Dated 1924 Due 1944

SECURITY—
The issue is amply secured by a group of sound and successful Public Utility Companies manufacturing and distributing electric light and power, artificial and natural gas in fifteen states, serving population of over 2,500,000.

EARNINGS—
Net earnings are substantially over four times the interest requirements on this issue.

MARKETABILITY—
The bonds are traded in, actively thereby providing for immediate availability of your funds.

MANAGEMENT—
The companies securing this issue are operated under the efficient and successful Doherty Management.

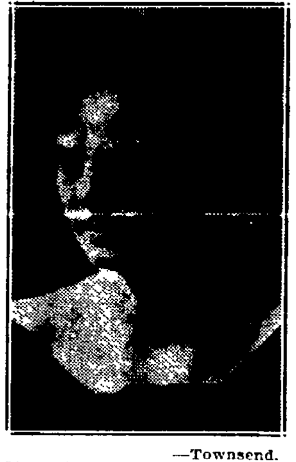
The Musical World

GUEST IN LINCOLN

Miss Mary Fochtman of Cozad, Neb., who was a guest in Lincoln for a few days the past week, en route home from the convention of Theta Phi Alpha sorority which was held at Lake Geneva.

Is Engaged



—Townsend.

Miss Esther Wilson, whose engagement to Virgil H. Freeman of Reynolds, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C A Wilson of Marquette.

LINCOLN MUSICIANS'

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Warfel and daughter, Doris, left July 4 for Kankakee, Ill., where they will spend two weeks with Mrs. Warfel's parents. Word received by friends indicates that they are having a very enjoyable trip in their car

Word has been received from Don G Berry, Chas. E. Ewing and William T. Quick, who are playing the summer engagement with the Colorado Springs band at Colorado Springs, Colo., that they are having a very pleasant time and are enjoying the cool weather.

"The Nebraskans" orchestra, playing the third successive summer at the Riverside amusement park at Estes Park, Colo., report a very successful season. The attendance at the Park has been unusually large due to the extreme heat in the various parts of the country Members of the orchestra report that the nights are so cool it is necessary to sleep under heavy blankets. The personnel of the orchestra is as follows: Allen L. Stanley, manager, trombone; Orville Andrews, banjo; Lamar Burling, piano; Chas. C. Wiles, drums; Lowell Miller, bass; Verne E. Powell, saxophone, Kenneth Kolb, saxophone; Robert Moore, saxophone; Harry Conners, trumpet.

Mabel Garrison declared before she left for the Orient that she was not afraid of any more Japanese earthquakes and she did not think it was any more dangerous to travel in China than it was anywhere else. From the cable dispatches from the Orient she seems to be living in the midst of excitement, but Miss Garrison is not one to be worried by such minor matters as revolutions.

Albert Berne, baritone, member of the artist faculty of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, sang over WSIJ, taking part in the program which continued from 4 p. m., on to 4 a. m. Mr. Berne, with Augustus O. Palm at the piano, was heard in selections by A. O Palm, Fogg, Bridge, Besly and Lohr Of interest is the fact that this program also was broadcast to France and England.

A novelty in music festivals began Saturday, July 11, at Conneaut Lake Park, Pennsylvania, under the direction of Lee Hess Barnes. Instead of lining up an array of soloists and merely gathering an audience to hear them, Mr. Barnes planned for the first time in such a festival to create a real and practical contact between the actual music and its hearers.

For this purpose he engaged Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, well-known as a speaker and as author of "The Common Sense of Music," to give daily talks on types of composition represented in the programs.

The first fellowship award made by the Caruso American foundation was won by Miss Mildred Seeba, dramatic soprano, after a spirited contest at Aeolian hall The judges, whose vote was unanimous, included Mme. Frances Alda, Oscar Saenger, vocal teacher, and Alfred Human, managing editor of Musical America.

Ten applicants appeared at the voice trials, eight sopranos and two tenors. Although a number of fine voices were heard, the content quickly narrowed down to Miss Seeba and a coloratura soprano

Miss Seeba, who was born in Jacksonville, Fla, is still in her early twenties. She will receive $1,200 and free transportation to and from Italy. Under the requirements of the fellowship she must spend some time in Italy to take advantage of the opportunities there for operatic appearances.

Mario Chamlee, tenor, of the Metropolitan Opera company, will remain in this country this summer and make a number of operatic appearances at Ravinia park. This will be his first season at Ravinia. He will then sail for Europe to make a few operatic appearances abroad before his season commences at the Metropolitan in November.

A new Irish soprano, Maria Nelv (Elizabeth Crieg), made her debut as Violetta in Traviata early in the season with the young American baritone, Robert Steel, at Vignola. She also sang the role of Mimi in La Boheme and met with much success. Later she sang the role of Margherita in Faust at Pistoia, and recently Violetta in Traviata at Siena, She is a pupil of the late Edouard De Reszke. Her voice is of sweet quality, well trained, and she is an artist of intelligence.

Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, returned to New York on the S. S. Leviathan. He came for the first time as a full fledged American, having received his citizenship papers before sailing in May. Mr. Heifetz recently gave one concert in London to a crowded house, and two recitals in Paris where he met with enthusiasm developing into ovations. Upon his arrival he will go to his country place at Narraganset Pier to rest for two months prior to his world tour which begins in the early autumn in London.

John McCormack has given two marvelously successful concerts in the Royal Albert Hall, London, since his departure from this country. The first was given on May 24, the second on June 7 The following, taken from the London Daily Graphic, tells the story of the second one on June 7: "We are a forgiving people. A few years ago John McCormack's name was scarcely mentionable to patriotic ears. Yesterday afternoon the Albert Hall was packed to hear him, and the enthusiasm was almost hysterical. Indian ladies, in gorgeous saris, appreciative Americans, Irishmen with their love of their pet countryman, Australians with their coo-ees of joy helped to make up one of the most wonderful audiences in the world. They wouldn't let McCormack go They screamed so loudly that he had to come back again and again and give encore after encore And outside the hall, after the concert, the crowds were so great that extra policemen had to come down to cope with them, and the traffic was stopped to enable McCormack to make a speech from the steps"

There is a story afloat about Ossip Gabrilowitsch which will be of interest It appears that Mrs. John Newberry gave a party recently in Detroit, and among the guests was Ossip Gabrilowitsch. During the course of the evening Mrs Newberry both surprised and delighted her guests by stating that Mr Gabrilowitsch would make an exception to his rule of never playing at private parties, and would tender a selection. However, the eminent conductor-pianist made the stipulation that the guests must not crowd him around the piano but remove themselves to the opposite side of the room. They readily complied with this, and then began the opening measures of the famous Rachmaninoff prelude in C sharp minor. The attentive listeners were enthralled, but about half way through the piece they were somewhat shocked to see Gabrilowitsch stop playing and light a cigarette—but the music continued without interruption. It immediately dawned upon the guests why Gabrilowitsoh was so very particular about not being crowded, for he was 'thrilling them with a player piano roll!

That characteristically American institution, the Music Memory contest, has lately been trnsplanted in Australia A scheme of such competitions throughout that country has been agitated by the Australian Music News. That paper offered a prize of ten pounds for a contest in connection with the South Street festival at Ballarat. In announcing the plan, the News cites the fact that similar contests had been held in more than 12,000 cities and towns in the United States.

The same project was broached in connection with the Lismore Musical festival in New South Wales, being proposed by Dr. Cahill at a meeting of the festival society.

Merle Alcock has been enjoying herself at home, unable to get about because of her badly sprained ankle. The only thing she has been able to do has been to sing. Her neighbors enjoy her singing, but they didn't know that she had a sprained ankle These circumstances have resulted in some curious misunderstandings on the part of the family who live in the apartment under her.

Clarence Whitehill, baritone, of the Metropolitan Opera company, sailed on the "Aquatania" for a summer in England, Scotland and France.

Felix Salmond, the 'cellist, is now in California, where he will spend the summer, the first few weeks in Los Angeles and the latter part of the summer in San Francisco.

Radio Digest

Winding of Coils.

To space wires on coils the correct distance, start the coil with thread and wire, at the same time applying considerably more tension to the wire than when no thread is used. After the coil is wound and the end of the wire fastened, the thread may be unwound.

Variable Leak Helps.

Variable grid leaks are helpful in obtaining the proper grid voltage needed for efficient operation. The fixed grid leak of two megohms is usually suitable for the ordinary circuit, but there are times, especially when hunting distant stations, when a variable unit is useful The variable grid leak should have a range between 500,000 and 5,000,000 ohms, or one-half to five megohms.

To Avoid Split Panels.

Holes should be bored in composition panels before inserting screws. Some times after holes are drilled in a panel and the instruments are ready to be assembled the panel cracks when tightening up the screws Baseboards also are often split by the screws used to hold the various instruments in place. This is particularly likely to happen if there are several screws near together which are in line with the same grain in the wood. Avoid this by scattering the screws as much as possible.

Wave-Length Range.

Two simple principles applied to the average receiving set will enable the operator to keep in tune with all waves from 200 to 600 meters. If a coil of wire is placed in series with the antenna, it has virtually the same effect as increasing the wave length of the antenna, thereby making it possible to pick up higher wave lengths. The larger the coil, the greater will be the increase in wave length. If a variable condenser is placed in series with the antenna or ground wire, the wave length range of the set is reduced. The smaller the capacity of the condenser, the greater will be the cut in wave length To place a coil in series with the antenna, connect the lead-in wire to one end of the coil and run a wire from the other terminal of the coil to the antenna binding post o nthe set. A series condenser is connected the same way.

Causes of Distortion in a Set.

There are several possible sources of distortion in a radio set. It may be due to poorly designed transformers, reproducing unit, voltage on the grid or elimination of the side bands in attempting great selectivity. If the transformer is poorly designed, the only remedy, of course, is a new transformer The same is true of a poor loud speaker or phone units Improper grid voltage can be taken care of by the installation of a "C" battery. When an amplifier is working properly, it is operating on the straight part of the curre of the tube. A small change in one direction causes a corresponding change in the opposite direction. If distortion occurs, the voltage is not properly adjusted and the tubes operate on that portion of their curre where a small change in one direction causes a much larger change in the opposite direction.

Protection From Battery Acid.

A rubber or glass battery mat is a good insurance policy against destroyed rugs and hardwood floors. Keeping the battery acid where it belongs is better than than letting it leak over a good rug.

Battery Lore.

Never permit a battery to get below 1175. The "fully charged" reading of the hydrometer for the ordinary lead storage battery is 1280 and the "fully discharged" reading is about 1150.

Avoid Strain on Tubes.

Suddenly turning off the filament circuit causes electric shock excitement to vacuum tubes in a radio set. It is best to disconnect the "B" battery circuit first or turn the filament rheostats down slowly to relieve the strain.

To Splice Wires.

Before splicing wires they should first be rubbed clean and bright with sandpaper or emery cloth. Care should be taken that the wires are held tightly together, so that they do not rub or slip It is always best to solder the joint so that no corrosion will occur and become a partial insulator.

Concerning Variable Condensers.

A variable condenser has an unlimited number of uses in radio sets. A few are as follows: In series with the antenna, in shunt with antenna and ground, in shunt with secondary of air core radio-frequency transformers as variable by-pass condensers, plate feed-back condensers and almost any other place where a fixed capacity is employed if it is desired to have a variable capacity.

The Wave Meter.

A wave meter consists essentially of a wave condenser and a coil, the former representing capacity and the latter inductance The wave meter dials are already calculated to read in meters of wave lengths. The wave meter is adjusted until its inductance capacity circuit, is in resonance with the transmitting circuit of unknown wave length. At that point the transmitter has the same wave length as that indicated by the readings on the dials of the meter.

Glass insulators are much better in the aerial circuit than those made of molded material, as the glass surface is smooth and not apt to corrode.

Bare Wires Are Best.

All wires carrying radio frequency should be bare, as the presence of spaghetti or other insulation may add to distributed capacity losses.

To Clean Jack Contacts.

The simplest way to clean jack contacts is to let them come together on a piece of fine sandpaper and pull the sandpaper out. Repeat this process several times. Do not use emery paper because emery paper is conductive and may partially short circuit the jack.

The Ideal Aerial.

The model aerial is a single wire on the roof with a single wire used as a lead-in, running directly to the receiver. The wire should be as long as possible and kept well away from solid objects in order to avoid a capacity or condenser effect.

To Stop Howling.

If howling begins shortly after the tubes are heated it indicates a "noisy" tube, usually in the detector This form of howl is caused by sound waves from the loud speaker hitting the detector tube and causing the grid to vibrate. The remedy is to change the tube and also to move the horn away from the set

For Better Signals

A poor ground connection not only produces weaker signals, but increases the effects of interference through an increase of the resistance in the aerial circuit Selectivity can be increased by decreasing the resistance of the aerial circuit to an absolute minimum. Soldered connections at all joints and enameled wire in the aerial, besides using large size wire, help to obtain the desired results.

Heat Rubber Before Cutting.

Hard rubber when heated in boiling water, becomes quite soft and pliable. The easiest way to cut a piece of this material is to place it in a utensil so that it may be entirely covered with water and allow the water to boil just long enough for the rubber to soften so it may be bent with the fingers If the rubber is allowed to remain in the water too long it will become so soft that the marks of the fingers will spoil the smoothness of the article. Heat a sharp knife to the same temperature as the rubber by placing it in the same water. When the rubber has reached the proper stage lay it on a flat surface and, with a ruler as a guide, cut along the desired line with the knife.

For the Notebook.

A single circuit set is not so select as a two-circuit one.

A set does not have to be in a polished cabinet to give good results.

Corrosion in aerial and lead-in contacts is a common cause of poor reception.

The full amplifying efficiency of the tubes is never realized in a reflex circuit.

A loose contact or partly worn out "B" batteries create disturbances that sound exactly like static.

When using battery chargers it is absolutely necessary to connect the positive terminal of the charger to the positive of the battery.

Copper foil makes the best fixed condenser.

A weak but clear signal is better than a noisy one.

An indoor antenna will not entirely eliminate static.

An electric fan causes interference to the set in summer.

Keep wires straight; a kink in a wire may cause it to break.

The clips and terminals of a battery should be cleaned once a week.

A small watch case voltmeter is a valuable accessory to any radio

Rubbing over a bakelie panel set.

with an oil-soaked rag will make the surface look like new.

When static is heavy, operators of neutrodyne sets may be able to enjoy local programs by using the ground connection on the aerial binding post and disconnecting the aerial.

Radio receiving troubles are caused by installing unmatched parts.

An aerial that is badly corroded can be cleaned with a rag saturated with gasoline.

All circuits must be at least slightly regenerative to obtain maximum distance and volume.

When working about the set, always throw off the switch and disconnect the battery wires from the batteries.

Spliced wires should be soldered, to insure a permanently good electrical contact. The wire corrodes in time, making the contact less conductive, and causing loss of signal strength.

To find the positive and negative posts on a storage battery, dip the wires in a dilute solution of salt in water. Bubbles will form most copiously on the wire attached to the negative terminal of the battery.

Radiograms.

Fifty prisoners at Sing Sing, Ossining, N. Y, have installed radio receivers in their cells.

No radio station of the United States is licensed to use 300 and 450 meters except broadcasting stations.

Art Linick and Lee Sims, radio entertainers, visited and played from fifteen broadcasting stations in Chicago in one evening The mileage covered in this radio marathon was forty-eight.

There are sixty-two churches in the United States licensed to broadcast, as well as several stations operated privately by ministers and other religious organizations.

More students are enrolled in the radio correspondence course of the Pennsylvania State College than in any of the other correspondence courses offered by the department.

There are two microphones in the Vatican in Rome—one at the great altar where the Pope celebrates mass and another at the papal throne from which the Pope delivers the benediction

For the benefit of city dwellers, a British broadcasting company will attempt to transmit farm noises such as the hum of the bee, the chirp of the cricket, the crow of the rooster and similar sounds suggestive of the great outdoors. For the benefit of the country folks, by way of contrast, the sounds of London, the streets, and the jabber of people in the subways are to be picked up and carried into the rural districts.

In England, a wireless company has been organized to broadcast waves that cannot be tapped.

Helen Keller, famous deaf and blind mute, is considered a good speaker over the microphone, although she has never heard her own voice.

It is said that as many as 1,500 persons are engaged throughout the United States in the work of arranging radio programs for the various broadcasting stations.

French ships with 2,000 gross tons or more, carrying 50 persons, including the crew, and ships having more than 12 passengers, must be equipped with a complete radio telegraphic installation.

The new German radio station at Herzogstand, Bavaria, when completed, will be the most powerful broadcasting stations in the world. It will use at least 100 kilowatts. The object is to have this station reach every listener in Germany using a crystal detector set

The United States leads the world with 564 broadcasting stations. Canada is second with 83; Soviet Russia has 43, and Cuba is next, having 38 stations. The United Kingdom and Mexico vie for fifth place with 20 each. France and Germany are also tied, having 18 apiece. Australia is listed with 16 and Argentina.

China has 20 privately-owned broadcasting stations and 5,000 listeners.

Forty-one countries in the world now operate broadcasting stations There are 926 station listed.

Six out of every 10 music stores in the United States handle radio sets along with the musical instruments.

The most congested broadcasting field in the United states is in Chicago and its surroundings. There are thirty-six station operating in this district.

King George of England is a regular radio fan. He often spends the entire evening with the Queen in Buckingham Palace listening in on concerts and lectures.

The United States navy, which has radio equipment with a replacement value of $15,000,000, is planning to expend $8,500,000 in completing and modernizing it

MACAROON BISQUE.

1 cup heavy cream, 1-4 cup powdered sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 6 crumbled macaroons, cherries and whole macaroons for garnishing. Whip the cream stiff and flavor it by folding the sugar and vanilla and broken macaroons in lightly. Pile into sherbet glasses and decorate with macaroons and a cherry.

Obituary

MRS. CATHERINE MURPHY.

Mrs. Catherine Murphy, 75, died early Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. G. Cattle, in Denver. She had been ill for several weeks. Mrs. Murphy had spent the last three years with her daughter but before that lived in Lincoln and in Seward and was widely known here.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs P L. Meier of Los Angeles, Mrs F G Cattle of Denver, and Miss Marjorie Murphy of Lincoln, a son, H. D. Murphy of Lincoln, and two sisters, Mrs. M. Baroch and Mrs. A. N. Linscott of Denver

Services were held in Denver Wednesday morning at the church of St. John the Evangelist, and on Thursday afternoon, soort services were held at Roberts' chapel in Lincoln. A short service was held at the grave in Wyuka.

CONTRIBUTED.

SAMUEL D. WOODLEY.

Samuel D. Woodley was born in Williamsport, Pa, December 13, 1856, and died July 3, 1925, at 9:15 o'clock

He was a charter member of Modern Woodmen camp 916 at Lincoln. He was appointed special deputy for that order. Having served twenty-five years in that office, Mr Woodley was widely known in Woodmen circles throughout Nebraska.

Mr. Woodley came from Pennsylvania forty years ago, transporting a car of cattle, settling at Auburn. Disposing of his cattle, he took up farming and farmed the land on which Havelock is now built. Mr. Woodley was loved and highly respected by all who knew him He is survived by his wife, Mary Woodley, a son, Elmer C., and a daughter, Eunice L., all of Lincoln

CONTRIBUTED.

STRAWBERRY MOUSSE.

One cup crushed strawberries, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1-4 level teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 cups stiffly whipped cream. Add lemon juice to strawberries, salt and sugar, and mix well. Let stand for 10 minutes. Add the beaten cream and pour into chilled mold, moistened with cold water. Have lid tightly in place over piece of waxed paper, and pack in equal parts of salt and ice. The ice mixture should be 4 inches deep on all sides of the mold. Let stand 4 hours, unmold and serve

PINEAPPLE ICE.

One cup grated pineapple, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water Boil sugar and water for 5 minutes, cool, add rest of ingredients and our into well chilled freezer can. Freeze in 1 part salt to 3 parts ice until stiff.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE.

18 lady fingers or sheet sponge cake cut one-half inch thick, 1 cup heavy cream, 1-3 cup powdered sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg white. Split the lady fingers and cut in half. Line the bottom and sides of six small molds or one large mold. Beat the cream stiff, then fold in flavoring and stiffly beaten egg white. Fill the forms with the whipped cream Garnish the top with the aid of a pastry tube and sliced fruit. Keep iced until needed

CLEANING GILT.

Whenever a gilded object such as a clock, has become rusty looking, rub the gilded portions with a piece of cut lemon and then sponge with tepid suds of a pure soap and baking soda in the proportion of one teaspoonful to a pint of water

Aerial Insulation.

The best type of insulator for an aerial is made of processed glass or glazed porcelain properly corrugated to drain off moisture and avoid surface leakage. Insulators must be strong enough to support not only the wire weight, but the strain of the wire that comes with wind. Careful insulation must be made at every point where the wire is supported or makes mechanical contact with other objects. If the wire touches a wall or window, the metal must be covered with rubber insulation doing it they are considering the ice-cream parlor merely a a section of social protoplasm"

"Does the professor go?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, she heads each group Professor Thinker never spares herself from work"

Nature Au Naturel.

"Dear me!" I said, "you must be kept very busy. And is Social Endeavor all that you are going to do?"

"No," she answered, "I'm electing a half course in Nature Work as well."

"Nature Work? Well! well! That I suppose, means cramming up a lot of biology and zoology, does it not?"

"No," said the girl, "it's not exactly done with books. I believe it is done by Field Work."

"Field Work?"

"Yes Field Work four time a week and an excursion every Saturday."

"And what do you do in the Field Work?"

"The girls," she answered, "go out in groups anywhere out of doors, and make a Nature Study of anything they see"

"How do they do that?" asked.

"Why, they look at it. Suppose for example, they come to a stream or a pond or anything—"

"Yes—"

"Well, they look at it"

"Had they never done that before?" I asked.

The Chair of Ambulation.

"Ah, but they look at it as a Nature Unit. Each girl must take forty units in the course I think we only do one unit each day we go out"

"It must," I said, "be pretty fatiguing work, and what about the Excursion?"

"That's every Saturday. We go out with Miss Stalk, the professor of Ambulation"

"And where do you go?"

"Oh, anywhere. One day we go perhaps for a trip on a steamer and another Saturday somewhere in motors, and so on."

"Doing what?" I asked

"Field Work The aim of the course—I'm afraid I'm quoting Miss Stalk but I don't mind, she's really fine—is to break nature into its elements—"

"I see—"

"So as to view it as the external structure of Society and make deductions from it"

The Sense of Purpose.

"Have you made any" I asked

"Oh, no," she laughed. "I'm only starting the work this term But, of course, I shall have to Each girl make at least one deduction at the end of the course Some of the seniors make two or three But you have to make one"

"It's a great course," I said, No wonder you are going to be busy, and as you say, how much better than loafing round here doing nothing"

"Isn't it?" said the girl student with enthusiasm in her eyes, "it givse one such a sense of purpose, such a feeling of doing something"

"It must," I answered

"Oh, goodness," she exclaimed, "there's the lunch bell. I must skip and get ready"

Passing the Insult.

I could not help reflecting, as the young woman left me, on, on the great changes that have come over our college education It was a relief to me later in the day to talk with a quiet, somber man, himself a graduate student in philosophy on this topic He agreed with me that the old strenuous studies seem to be very largely abandoned.

I looked at the somber man with respect

"Now your work," I said, "is very different from what these young people are doing—hard, solid, definite effort What a relief it must be to you to get a brief vacation up here. I couldn't help thinking today as I watched you moving round doing nothing, how fine it must feel for you to come up here after your hard work and put in a month of out-and-out loafing."

"Loafing!" he said indignantly, "I'm not loafing I'm putting in a half summer course in Introspection. That's why I'm here. I get credit for two majors for my time here"

"Ah!" I said, as gently as I could, "you get credit here."

He left me I am still pondering over our new education. Meantime I think I shall enter my little boy's name on the books of Tuskegee college, where the education is still old-fashioned.

LINCOLN MUSICIANS'

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Warfel and daughter, Doris, left July 4 for Kankakee, Ill., where they will spend two weeks with Mrs. Warfel's parents. Word received by friends indicates that they are having a very enjoyable trip in their car.

Word has been received from Don G. Berry, Chas. E. Ewing and William T. Quick, who are playing the summer engagement with the Colorado Springs band at Colorado Springs, Colo., that they are having a very pleasant time and are enjoying the cool weather.

"The Nebraskans" orchestra, playing the third successive summer at the Riverside amusement park at Estes Park, Colo., report a very successful season. The attendance at the Park has been unusually large due to the extreme heat in the various parts of the country. Members of the orchestra report that the nights are so cool it is necessary to sleep under heavy blankets. The personnel of the orchestra is as follows: Allen L. Stanley, manager, trombone; Orville Andrews, banjo; Lamar Burling, piano; Chas. C. Wiles, drums; Lowell Miller, bass; Verne E. Powell, saxophone; Kenneth Kolb, saxophone; Robert Moore, saxophone; Harry Conners, trumpet.

Mabel Garrison declared before she left for the Orient that she was not afraid of any more Japanese earthquakes and she did not think it was any more dangerous to travel in China than it was anywhere else. From the cable dispatches from the Orient she seems to be living in the midst of excitement, but Miss Garrison is not one to be worried by such minor matters as revolutions.

Albert Berne, baritone, member of the artist faculty of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, sang over WSIJ, taking part in the program which continued from 4 p. m., on to 4 a. m. Mr. Berne, with Augustus O. Palm at the piano, was heard in selections by A. O. Palm, Fogg, Bridge, Besly and Lohr. Of interest is the fact that this program also was broadcast to France and England.

A novelty in music festivals began Saturday, July 11, at Conneaut Lake Park, Pennsylvania, under the direction of Lee Hess Barnes. Instead of lining up an array of soloists and merely gathering an audience to hear them, Mr. Barnes planned for the first time in such a festival to create a real and practical contact between the actual music and its hearers.

For this purpose he engaged Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, well-known as a speaker and as author of 'The Common Sense of Music," to give daily talks on types of composition represented in the programs.

The first fellowship award made by the Caruso American foundation was won by Miss Mildred Seeba, dramatic soprano, after a spirited contest at Aeolian hall. The judges, whose vote was unanimous, included Mme. Frances Alda, Oscar Saenger, vocal teacher, and Alfred Human, managing editor of Musical America.

Ten applicants appeared at the voice trials, eight sopranos and two tenors. Although a number of fine voices were heard, the content quickly narrowed down to Miss Seeba and a coloratura soprano.

Miss Seeba, who was born in Jacksonville, Fla., is still in her early twenties. She will receive $1,200 and free transportation to and from Italy. Under the requirements of the fellowship she must spend some time in Italy to take advantage of the opportunities there for operatic appearances.

Mario Chamlee, tenor, of the Metropolitan Opera company, will remain in this country this summer and make a number of operatic appearances at Ravinia park. This will be his first season at Ravinia. He will then sail for Europe to make a few operatic appearances abroad before his season commences at the Metropolitan in November.

A new Irish soprano, Maria Nelvi (Elizabeth Crieg), made her debut as Violetta in Traviata early in the season with the young American baritone, Robert Steel, at Vignola. She also sang the role of Mimi in La Boheme and met with much success. Later she sang the role of Margherita in Faust at Pistoia, and recently Violetta in Traviata at Siena. She is a pupil of the late Edouard De Reszke. Her voice is of sweet quality, well trained, and she is an artist of intelligence.

Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, returned to New York on the S. S. Leviathan. He came for the first time as a full fledged American, having received his citizenship papers before sailing in May. Mr. Heifetz recently gave one concert in London to a crowded house, and two recitals in Paris where he met with enthusiasm developing into ovations. Upon his arrival he will go to his country place at Narraganset Pier to rest for two months prior to his world tour which begins in the early autumn in London.

John McCormack has given two marvelously successful concerts in the Royal Albert Hall, London, since his departure from this country. The first was given on May 24, the second on June 7. The following, taken from the London Daily Graphic, tells the story of the second one on June 7: "We are a forgiving people. A few years ago John McCormack's name was scarcely mentionable to patriotic ears. Yesterday afternoon the Albert Hall was packed to hear him, and the enthusiasm was almost hysterical. Indian ladies, in gorgeous saris, appreciative Americans, Irishmen with their love of their pet countryman, Australians with their coo-ees of joy helped to make up one of the most wonderful audiences in the world. They wouldn't let McCormack go. They screamed so loudly that he had to come back again and again and give encore after encore. And outside the hall, after the concert, the crowds were so great that extra policemen had to come down to cope with them, and the traffic was stopped to enable McCormack to make a speech from the steps."

There is a story afloat about Ossip Gabrilowitsch which will be of interest. It appears that Mrs. John Newberry gave a party recently in Detroit, and among the guests was Ossip Gabrilowitsch. During the course of the evening Mrs. Newberry both surprised and delighted her guests by stating that Mr. Gabrilowitsch would make an exception to his rule of never playing at private parties, and would render a selection. However, the eminent conductor-pianist made the stipulation that the guests must not crowd him around the piano but remove themselves to the opposite side of the room. They readily complied with this, and then began the opening measures of the famous Rachmaninoff prelude in C sharp minor. The attentive listeners were enthralled, but about half way through the piece they were somewhat shocked to see Gabrilowitsch stop playing and light a cigarette—but the music continued without interruption. It immediately dawned upon the guests why Gabrilowitsch was so very particular about not being crowded, for he was 'thrilling them with a player piano roll!

That characteristically American institution, the Music Memory contest, has lately been trnsplanted in Australia. A scheme of such competitions throughout that country has been agitated by the Australian Music News. That paper offered a prize of ten pounds for a contest in connection with the South Street festival at Ballarat. In announcing the plan, the News cites the fact that similar contests had been held in more than 12,000 cities and towns in the United States.

The same project was broached in connection with the Lismore Musical festival in New South Wales, being proposed by Dr. Cahill at a meeting of the festival society.

Merle Alcock has been enjoying herself at home, unable to get about because of her badly sprained ankle. The only thing she has been able to do has been to sing. Her neighbors enjoy her singing, but they didn't know that she had a sprained ankle. These circumstances have resulted in some curious misunderstandings on the part of the family who live in the apartment under her.

Clarence Whitehill, baritone, of the Metropolitan Opera company, sailed on the "Aquatania" for a summer in England, Scotland and France.

Felix Salmond, the 'cellist, is now in California, where he will spend the summer, the first few weeks in Los Angeles and the latter part of the summer in San Francisco.

GUEST IN LINCOLN

Miss Mary Fochtman of Cozad, Neb., who was a guest in Lincoln for a few days the past week, en route home from the convention of Theta Phi Alpha sorority which was held at Lake Geneva.

Miss Esther Wilson, whose engagement to Virgil H. Freeman of Reynolds, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wilson of Marquette.

Radio Digest

Winding of Coils.

To space wires on coils the correct distance, start the coil with thread and wire, at the same time applying considerably more tension to the wire than when no thread is used. After the coil is wound and the end of the wire fastened, the thread may be unwound.

Variable Leak Helps.

Variable grid leaks are helpful in obtaining the proper grid voltage needed for efficient operation. The fixed grid leak of two megohms is usually suitable for the ordinary circuit, but there are times, especially when hunting distant stations, when a variable unit is useful. The variable grid leak should have a range between 500,000 and 5,000,000 ohms, or one-half to five megohms.

To Avoid Split Panels.

Holes should be bored in composition panels before inserting screws. Some times after holes are drilled in a panel and the instruments are ready to be assembled the panel cracks when tightening up the screws. Baseboards also are often split by the screws used to hold the various instruments in place. This is particularly likely to happen if there are several screws near together which are in line with the same grain in the wood. Avoid this by scattering the screws as much as possible.

Wave-Length Range.

Two simple principles applied to the average receiving set will enable the operator to keep in tune with all waves from 200 to 600 meters. If a coil of wire is placed in series with the antenna, it has virtually the same effect as increasing the wave length of the antenna, thereby making it possible to pick up higher wave lengths. The larger the coil, the greater will be the increase in wave length. If a variable condenser is placed in series with the antenna or ground wire, the wave length range of the set is reduced. The smaller the capacity of the condenser, the greater will be the cut in wave length. To place a coil in series with the antenna, connect the lead-in wire to one end of the coil and run a wire from the other terminal of the coil to the antenna binding post o nthe set. A series condenser is connected the same way.

Causes of Distortion in a Set.

There are several possible sources of distortion in a radio set. It may be due to poorly designed transformers, reproducing unit, voltage on the grid or elimination of the side bands in attempting great selectivity. If the transformer is poorly designed, the only remedy, of course, is a new transformer. The same is true of a poor loud speaker or phone units. Improper grid voltage can be taken care of by the installation of a "C" battery. When an amplifier is working properly, it is operating on the straight part of the curre of the tube. A small change in one direction causes a corresponding change in the opposite direction. If distortion occurs, the voltage is not properly adjusted and the tubes operate on that portion of their curre where a small change in one direction causes a much larger change in the opposite direction.

Protection From Battery Acid.

A rubber or glass battery mat is a good insurance policy against destroyed rugs and hardwood floors. Keeping the battery acid where it belongs is better than than letting it leak over a good rug.

Battery Lore.

Never permit a battery to get below 1175. The "fully charged" reading of the hydrometer for the ordinary lead storage battery is 1280 and the "fully discharged" reading is about 1150.

Avoid Strain on Tubes.

Suddenly turning off the filament circuit causes electric shock excitement to vacuum tubes in a radio set. It is best to disconnect the "B" battery circuit first or turn the filament rheostats down slowly to relieve the strain.

To Splice Wires.

Before splicing wires they should first be rubbed clean and bright with sandpaper or emery cloth. Care should be taken that the wires are held tightly together, so that they do not rub or slip. It is always best to solder the joint so that no corrosion will occur and become a partial insulator.

Concerning Variable Condensers.

A variable condenser has an unlimited number of uses in radio sets. A few are as follows: In series with the antenna, in shunt with antenna and ground, in shunt with secondary of air core radio-frequency transformers, as variable by-pass condensers, plate feedback condensers and almost any other place where a fixed capacity is employed if it is desired to have a variable capacity.

The Wave Meter.

A wave meter consists essentially of a wave condenser and a coil, the former representing capacity and the latter inductance. The wave meter dials ore already calculated to read in meters of wave lengths. The wave meter is adjusted until its inductance capacity circuit is in resonance with the transmitting circuit of unknown wave length. At that point the transmitter has the same wave length as that indicated by the readings on the dials of the meter.

Glass insulators are much better in the aerial circuit than those made of molded material, as the glass surface is smooth and not apt to corrode.

Bare Wires Are Best.

All wires carrying radio frequency should be bare, as the presence of spaghetti or other insulation may add to distributed capacity losses.

To Clean Jack Contacts.

The simplest way to clean jack contacts is to let them come together on a piece of fine sandpaper and pull the sandpaper out. Repeat this process several times. Do not use emery paper because emery paper is conductive and may partially short circuit the jack.

The Ideal Aerial.

The model aerial is a single wire on the roof with a single wire used as a lead-in, running directly to the receiver. The wire should be as long as possible and kept well away from solid objects in order to avoid a capacity or condenser effect.

To Stop Howling.

If howling begins shortly after the tubes are heated it indicates a "noisy" tube, usually in the detector. This form of howl is caused by sound waves from the loud speaker hitting the detector tube and causing the grid to vibrate. The remedy is to change the tube and also to move the horn away from the set.

For Better Signals.

A poor ground connection not only produces weaker signals, but increases the effects of interference through an increase of the resistance in the aerial circuit. Selectivity can be increased by decreasing the resistance of the aerial circuit to an absolute minimum. Soldered connections at all joints and enameled wire in the aerial, besides using large size wire, help to obtain the desired results.

Heat Rubber Before Cutting.

Hard rubber when heated in boiling water, becomes quite soft and pliable. The easiest way to cut a piece of this material is to place it in a utensil so that it may be entirely covered with water and allow the water to boil just long enough for the rubber to soften so it may be bent with the fingers. If the rubber is allowed to remain in the water too long it will become so soft that the marks of the fingers will spoil the smoothness of the article. Heat a sharp knife to the same temperature as the rubber by placing it in the same water. When the rubber has reached the proper stage lay it on a flat surface and, with a ruler as a guide, cut along the desired line with the knife.

For the Notebook.

A single circuit set is not so select as a two-circuit one.

A set does not have to be in a polished cabinet to give good results.

Corrosion in aerial and lead-in contacts is a common cause of poo reception.

The full amplifying efficiency of the tubes is never realized in a reflex circuit.

A loose contact or partly worn out "B" batteries create disturbances that sound exactly like static.

When using battery chargers it is absolutely necessary to connect the positive terminal of the charger to the positive of the battery.

Copper foil makes the best fixed condenser.

A weak but clear signal is better than a noisy one.

An indoor antenna will not entirely eliminate static.

An electric fan causes interference to the set in summer.

Keep wires straight; a kink in a wire may cause it to break.

The clips and terminals of a battery should be cleaned once a week.

with an oil-soaked rag will make the surface look like new.

When static is heavy, operators of neutrodyne sets may be able to enjoy local programs by using the ground connection on the aerial binding post and disconnecting the aerial.

Radio receiving troubles are caused by installing unmatched parts.

An aerial that is badly corroded can be cleaned with a rag saturated with gasoline.

All circuits must be at least slightly regenerative to obtain maximum distance and volume.

When working about the set, always throw off the switch and disconnect the battery wires from the batteries.

Spliced wires should be soldered, to insure a permanently good electrical contact. The wire corrodes in time, making the contact less conductive, and causing loss of signal strength.

To find the positive and negative posts on a storage battery, dip the wires in a dilute solution of salt in water. Bubbles will form most copiously on the wire attached to the negative terminal of the battery.

Radiograms.

Fifty prisoners at Sing Sing, Ossining, N. Y., have installed radio receivers in their cells.

No radio station of the United States is licensed to use 300 and 450 meters except broadcasting stations.

Art Linick and Lee Sims, radio entertainers, visited and played from fifteen broadcasting stations in Chicago in one evening. The mileage covered in this radio marathon was forty-eight.

There are sixty-two churches in the United States licensed to broadcast, as well as several stations operated privately by ministers and other religious organizations.

More students are enrolled in the radio correspondence course of the Pennsylvania State College than in any of the other correspondence courses offered by the department.

There are two microphones in the Vatican in Rome—one at the great altar where the Pope celebrates mass and another at the papal throne from which the Pope delivers the benediction.

For the benefit of city dwellers, a British broadcasting company will attempt to transmit farm noises such as the hum of the bee, the chirp of the cricket, the crow of the rooster and similar sounds suggestive of the great outdoors. For the benefit of the country folks, by way of contrast, the sounds of London, the streets, and the jabber of people in the subways are to be picked up and carried into the rural districts.

In England, a wireless company has been organized to broadcast waves that cannot be tapped.

Helen Keller, famous deaf and blind mute, is considered a good speaker over the microphone, although she has never heard her own voice.

It is said that as many as 1,500 persons are engaged throughout the United States in the work of arranging radio programs for the various broadcasting stations.

French ships with 2,000 gross tons or more, carrying 50 persons, including the crew, and ships having more than 12 passengers, must be equipped with a complete radio telegraphic installation.

The new German radio station at Herzogstand, Bavaria, when completed, will be the most powerful broadcasting stations in the world. It will use at least 100 kilowatts. The object is to have this station reach every listener in Germany using a crystal detector set.

The United States leads the world with 564 broadcasting stations. Canada is second with 83; Soviet Russia has 43, and Cuba is next, having 38 stations. The United Kingdom and Mexico vie for fifth place with 20 each. France and Germany are also tied, having 18 apiece. Australia is listed with 16 and Argentina.

China has 20 privately-owned broadcasting stations and 5,000 listeners.

Forty-one countries in the world now operate broadcasting stations. There are 926 station listed.

Six out of every 10 music stores in the United States handle radio sets along with the musical instruments.

The most congested broadcasting field in the United states is in Chicago and its surroundings. There are thirty-six station operating in this district.

King George of England is a regular radio fan. He often spends the entire evening with the Queen in Buckingham Palace listening in on concerts and lectures.

The United States navy, which has radio equipment with a replacement value of $15,000,000, is planning to expend $8,500,000 in completing and modernizing it.

MACAROON BISQUE.

1 cup heavy cream, 1-4 cup powdered sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 6 crumbled macaroons, cherries and whole macaroons for garnishing. Whip the cream stiff and flavor it by folding the sugar and vanilla and broken macaroons in lightly. Pile into sherbet glasses and decorate with macaroons and a cherry.

Obituary

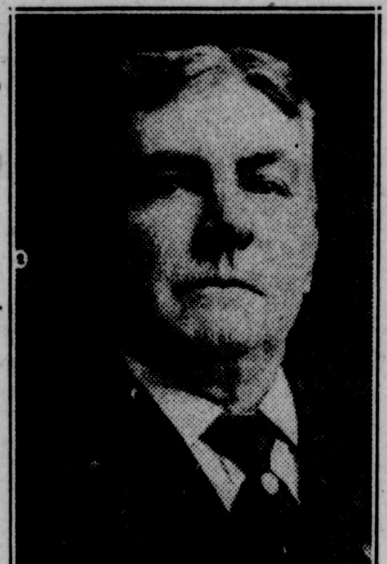
MRS. CATHERINE MURPHY.

Mrs. Catherine Murphy, 75, died early Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. G. Cattle, in Denver. She had been ill for several weeks. Mrs. Murphy had spent the last three years with her daughter but before that lived in Lincoln and in Seward and was widely known here.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. P. L. Meier of Los Angeles, Mrs. F. G. Cattle of Denver, and Miss Marjorie Murphy of Lincoln; a son, H. D. Murphy of Lincoln; and two sisters, Mrs. M. Baroch and Mrs. A. N. Linscott of Denver.

Services were held in Denver Wednesday morning at the church of St. John the Evangelist, and on Thursday afternoon, soort services were held at Roberts' chapel in Lincoln. A short service was held at the grave in Wyuka.

CONTRIBUTED.



SAMUEL D. WOODLEY.

Samuel D. Woodley was born in Williamsport, Pa., December 13, 1856, and died July 3, 1925, at 9:15 o'clock.

He was a charter member of Modern Woodmen camp 916 at Lincoln. He was appointed special deputy for that order. Having served twenty-five years in that office, Mr. Woodley was widely known in Woodmen circles throughout Nebraska.

Mr. Woodley came from Pennsylvania forty years ago, transporting a car of cattle, settling at Auburn. Disposing of his cattle, he took up farming and farmed the land on which Havelock is now built. Mr. Woodley was loved and highly respected by all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, Mary Woodley, a son, Elmer C., and a daughter, Eunice L., all of Lincoln.

CONTRIBUTED.

STRAWBERRY MOUSSE.

One cup crushed strawberries, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1-4 level teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 cups stiffly whipped cream. Add lemon juice to strawberries, salt and sugar, and mix well. Let stand for 10 minutes. Add the beaten cream and pour into chilled mold, moistened with cold water. Have lid tightly in place over piece of waxed paper, and pack in equal parts of salt and ice. The ice mixture should be 4 inches deep on all sides of the mold. Let stand 4 hours, unmold and serve.

PINEAPPLE ICE.

One cup grated pineapple, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water. Boil sugar and water for 5 minutes, cool, add rest of ingredients and our into well chilled freezer can. Freeze in 1 part salt to 3 parts ice until stiff.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE.

18 lady fingers or sheet sponge cake cut one-half inch thick, 1 cup heavy cream, 1-3 cup powdered sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg white. Split the lady fingers and cut in half. Line the bottom and sides of six small molds or one large mold. Beat the cream stiff, then fold in flavoring and stiffly beaten egg white. Fill the forms with the whipped cream. Garnish the top with the aid of a pastry tube and sliced fruit. Keep iced until needed.

CLEANING GILT.

Whenever a gilded object such as a clock, has become rusty looking, rub the gilded portions with a piece of cut lemon and then sponge with tepid suds of a pure soap and baking soda in the proportion of one teaspoonful to a pint of water.

Aerial Insulation.

The best type of insulator for an aerial is made of processed glass or glazed porcelain properly corrugated to drain off moisture and avoid surface leakage. Insulators must be strong enough to support not only the wire weight, but the strain of the wire that comes with wind. Careful insulation must be made at every point where the wire is supported or makes mechanical contact with other objects. If the wire touches a wall or window, the metal must be covered with rubber insulation.

doing it they are considering the ice-cream parlor merely a a section of social protoplasm."

"Does the professor go?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, she heads each group. Professor Thinker never spares herself from work."

Nature Au Naturel.

"Dear me!" I said, "you must be kept very busy. And is Social Endeavor all that you are going to do?"

"No," she answered, "I'm electing a half course in Nature Work as well."

"Nature Work? Well! well! That I suppose, means cramming up a lot of biology and zoology, does it not?"

"No," said the girl, "it's not exactly done with books. I believe it is done by Field Work."

"Field Work?"

"Yes Field Work four time a week and an excursion every Saturday."

"And what do you do in the Field Work?"

"The girls," she answered, "go out in groups anywhere out of doors, and make a Nature Study of anything they see."

"How do they do that?" asked.

"Why, they look at it. Suppose for example, they come to a stream or a pond or anything—"

"Yes—"

"Well, they look at it."

"Had they never done that before?" I asked.

The Chair of Ambulation.

"Ah, but they look at it as a Nature Unit. Each girl must take forty units in the course. I think we only do one unit each day we go out."

"It must," I said, "be pretty fatiguing work, and what about the Excursion?"

"That's every Saturday. We go out with Miss Stalk, the professor of Ambulation."

"And where do you go?"

"Oh, anywhere. One day we go perhaps for a trip on a steamer and another Saturday somewhere in motors, and so on."

"Doing what?" I asked.

"Field Work. The aim of the course—I'm afraid I'm quoting Miss Stalk but I don't mind, she's really fine—is to break nature into its elements—"

"I see—"

"So as to view it as the external structure of Society and make deductions from it."

The Sense of Purpose.

"Have you made any?" I asked.

"Oh, no," she laughed. "I'm only starting the work this term. But, of course, I shall have to. Each girl make at least one deduction at the end of the course. Some of the seniors make two or three. But you have to make one."

"It's a great course," I said, No wonder you are going to be busy; and as you say, how much better than loafing round here doing nothing."

"Isn't it?" said the girl student with enthusiasm in her eyes, "it givse one such a sense of purpose, such a feeling of doing something."

"It must," I answered.

"Oh, goodness," she exclaimed, "there's the lunch bell. I must skip and get ready."

Passing the Insult.

I could not help reflecting, as the young woman left me, on, on the great changes that have come over our college education. It was a relief to me later in the day to talk with a quiet, somber man, himself a graduate student in philosophy, on this topic. He agreed with me that the old strenuous studies seem to be very largely abandoned.

I looked at the somber man with respect.

"Now your work," I said, "is very different from what these young people are doing—hard, solid, definite effort. What a relief it must be to you to get a brief vacation up here. I couldn't help thinking today as I watched you moving round doing nothing, how fine it must feel for you to come up here after your hard work and put in a month of out-and-out loafing."

"Loafing!" he said indignantly, "I'm not loafing. I'm putting in a half summer course in Introspection. That's why I'm here. I get credit for two majors for my time here."

"Ah!" I said, as gently as I could, "you get credit here."

He left me. I am still pondering over our new education. Meantime I think I shall enter my little boy's name on the books of Tuskegee college, where the education is still old-fashioned.

The Mock of Scoffers, Once! Now—

Just forty years ago a small group of pioneer Omahans banded themselves together and built the city's first electric light plant, one of the earliest in America.

Scoffed at by friends—branded as impossible and visionary—the little plant began operation under the watchful care of its founders.

Through panics and depressions these sturdy pioneers battled. Their path was far from being strewn with roses.

From the little town grew present Omaha. From the little electric light station, as a nucleous, the present mamoth plant of the Nebraska Power company developed.

Instead of the small group of pioneers, there are now several thousand investors, with saving and capital represented by several million of dollars worth of machinery, wires, poles, building and cables.

The real growth of Omaha and its great power and light industry has just begun. A remarkable past is behind. A great future lies before them.

Scoffed at by friends—branded as impossible and visionary—the little plant began opertion under the watchful care of its founders.

Through panics and depressions these sturdy pioneers battled. Their path was far from being strewn with roses.

From the little town grew present Omaha. From the little electric light station, as a nucleous, the present mamoth plant of the Nebraska Power company developed.

Instead of the small group of pioneers, there are now several thousand investors, with saving and capital represented by several million of dollars worth of machinery, wires, poles, building and cables.

The real growth of Omaha and its great power and light industry has just begun. A remarkable past is behind. A great future lies before them.

LATEST THRILLER BY FAIRBANKS IS A HIT IN GOTHAM

Eight Weeks' Run at Globe Theater Likely To Be Too Short an Opening.

Marvels of Direction and Impersonation Seen Once More In This Play.

BY BRETT PAGE

NEW YORK CITY July 11—No passing account of the summer season on Broadway could pretend to be complete without a full and vivid review of Douglas Fairbanks new photoplay production Last year 'The Thief of Bagdad literally tore up the town with its fantastic beauty and superb imaginative qualities Don Q Son of Zorro its 12 successor is scarcely so pretentious a production yet it too is so far above the average that the scant eight weeks alloted to it at the Globe theater will probably prove too brief

Mr Fairbanks in addition to being an expert showman and capable actor possesses an unique directorial facility highly uncommon among stars of the screen No matter whom he may select to wield the megaphone the result is invariably a polished output perfect down to the least spectacular detail For example in the current picture we see royal Spain recreated before our eyes with a completion and veracity which would put most motion picture productions to shame

But Don Q has other attractions which are bound to insure it an altitudinous rating on the list of the year's best First of all it is simon pure melodrama of the most pulse quickening sort packed with legitimate thrills and mounting to an exciting climax when the two Zorros father and son (both played through double exposure by Mr Fairbanks) hold a score of antagonists at bay in the most approved Three Musketeers fashion This crisis is skilfully built up from the initial premise of the plot in which the innocent Don Q is by a chain of involved circumstances made to appear the slayer of the Austrian archduke

Doug Does a Thriller

How he disappears apparently a suicide only to reappear at the crucial moment and exculpate himself forms a tribute to the literary art of K and Kesketh Pritchard the novelists from whose book the picture play has been adapted Incidentally Mr Fairbanks giddy leap from the castle window into the raging waters of the stream far below is one of the most frightening things in the drama

Invariably in these annual productions of his the principal player is careful to surround himself with an aggregation of stellar caliber In Don Q the much abused all star is fully justified Distinguished historianism is supplied by the exquisite Mary Astor who besides looking her loveliest acts with astonishing fire and emotional depth The characters of the pair of villains are in the competent hands of Donald Crisp and Jean Hersholt whose work in von Stroheim's Greed and in So Big will not readily be forgotten by the fans

Warner Oland plays the duke with his usual force and humor and the smaller roles are all well cared for even down to the maid servant impersonated by Lottie Pickford It is needless for me to go into the matter of settings and costumes for these bear the Fairbanks stamp of authenticity and beauty All told 'Don Q may easily be declared the finest picture of the early summer Its popularity with every class of play goers is indisputable

With the protracted lull in legitimate producing it is interesting to cast a glance at what the autumn season promises The Actors Theater which used to call itself merely the Equity Players will inaugurate the fourth year of its activities with an expensive program The cozy Comedy theater has been leased from Lee Shubert for forty weeks beginning in October An enlarged stage and re decorated auditorium are among the new features of the playhouse

Among the plays to be produced by the organization which already has to its credit Shaw's Candida and Ibsen's The Wild Duck are the following Arthur Schnitzler's The Call of Life translated by Dorothy Donnelly Magdalene and Mary by a new American dramatist S J Lauren Storm by C K Munro the Irish playwright and Ludwig Thoma's Moral as Englished by Charles Recht

The Actors theater has by leaps and bounds attained a splendid rating as one of New York's not strictly commercial institutions which without being dolefully highbrow still offers entertainments beyond the grasp of most Broadway managers With the Theater Guild the Provincetown Playhouse the Neighborhood Playhouse and the Stagers it composes a quintet of ambitious producing forces not equaled probably in any other part of the country

Out of towners who began to gnash their teeth at the sudden announcement that David Belasco's production of Willard Mack's colorful melodrama The Dove would close may defer their wailing It now appears that the cessation of the play is merely to afford Judith Anderson and Troof Plinn's co star a much needed vacation and that the piece will reopen in August

SCREEN SIFTINGS

Jack Mulhall Signed—Jack Mulhall who recently completed his work opposite Corinne Griffith in Classified has been signed to play opposite Colleen Moore in her new picture We Moderns which will be made at the United Studios

'Permanent Retirement Ends—When Katherine MacDonald married Charles Johnson she announced that she would permanently retire from the screen But the lure of the movies was too great for her in spite of the fact that she now has a little son to keep her occupied When Arthur Beck president of Embassy pictures offered her the leading role in The Unnamed Woman she couldn't resist signing the contract Leah Baird is another member of the cast and Herbert Rawlinson has the leading masculine role in the picture Cr[illegible] Gordon who has been understudying Maude Fulton in The Big Pop on the stage and Wanda Hawley are other members of the all star cast

Nebraska To Be Represented In Historical Expedition To Indians Of Upper Missouri

Nebraska and the Missouri Valley Historical society will have a representative on an expedition to be held July 16 to 23 along the upper reaches of the Great Muddy, for the purpose of studying early history of the Northwest and for honoring some of the great explorers and pioneers of the region

Mrs Clara S Paine of the state historical society who is also secretary of the Missouri Valley Historical society has been been invited to make the trip with a party of historians and others interested in historical work Governor A G Sorlie of North Dakota Governor J E Erickson of Montana and the historical societies of North Dakota Montana Minnesota and South Dakota are sponsoring the trip and are co operating with the Great Northern railroad which is to furnish transportation

A preliminary survey of the remnants of primitive tribes will be made Historians will be given a chance to talk with famous old fighters among the Indians and thus gained at first hand much information that might otherwise be lost

Among the Indians who will be seen are the Arikara Mandan Hidatsa tribes of Fort Berthold reservation North Dakota the Sioux of the Standing Rock agency in North and South Dakota the Assiniboine from the Turtle Mountain agency in North and South Dakota and the Fort Peck reservation in Montana the River Crows of the Fort Belknap agency in Montana and the Crow agency in Montana and the Piegan Blood and Black feet tribes of Montana and Alberta

Among the prominent persons who have accepted invitations to make the trip are Major General Hugh L Scott of the United States board of Indian commissioners considered the greatest living authority on the American Indian Official representatives of many historical societies will also be present

The train leaves St Paul at 9 p m Thursday July 16

At Verendrye N D there will be ceremonies and an address by Lawrence J Burpee on the explorations of Pierre de la Verendrye who in 1738--39 penetrated the upper Missouri valley His sons were the first white men to gaze on that portion of the snow capped Rock mountains

A monument is to be erected to David Thompson who first mapped the Northwest This monument will be in the form of a granite sphere

Fort Union N D once the most powerful trading post in the United States will be visited July 18 As the train pulls into the encampment by the Missouri river a scene will greet them that might have been witnessed a hundred or two hundred years ago The tepees of scores of Indians will be gathered there ready for what may be their last great council with the pale faces The pipe of peace and other paraphernalia and customs of old time ritual will be in evidence

After these ceremonies there will be conferences between the historians and the old time Indians and a big American flag will be raised from the spot where the flag used to fly in trading days Indian sports such as tepee raising horse racing will be played

From this fort the party journeys to Glacier National park the scene of Chief Joseph's last heroic stand with his dwindling band of tribesmen Placed on an uncongenial reservation in the south by the United States government he and his fellows started northward to their homeland and conducted one of the most masterly retreats military men have ever observed Surrounded by greater numbers of well equipped troops the exhausted band was finally defeated by General Miles

A monument to Meriwether Lewis leader of the Lewis Clark expedition will be erected by the Great Northern railway at Meriwether Mont marking the farthest north reached by these explorers

Sin And Punishment

BY DR J D M BUCKNER

Ma do you believe that if boys steal apples and watermelons they will make them sick? Do you think God punishes bad boys that way? Our Sunday school teacher told us today that God punishes bad folks for doing wrong She told us about a man who worked on Sunday and God sent a hail storm and destroyed his crop and then he cursed God and God sent the lightning and burned up his house then he cursed God more and God sent a cyclone and killed him

She said the world got so wicked that God sent a great flood and drowned everybody except Noah and his family they were the only good people

Now Johnny run out and play mother is busy and you can ask daddy those questions tonight

Is there any punishment for sin except the results of sin with God? Is there any rewards for righteousness except its results A man becomes a drunkard loses his job friends money family character health and reputation These are the results of drunkardness Now will God punish him in addition to these?

I used to think that there would be a great judgment day when God would call everybody out of heaven and hell and pass judgment on each one and decide whether they should go into heaven or into hell I began to think about it one day and several things bothered me about that theory for it seemed the people had been judged in part for some were in heaven and others in hell why be judged the second time I believe man is judged every moment of his life and is punished or rewarded that moment for his deeds

The punishment or the reward may grow with time and increase in power and the punishment will become more severe or the joy more blessed The doctrine that misfortune is the punishment for sin sent by God is an old theory now generally given up and discarded

The book of Job in the Bible was written for the purpose of destroying the old error and the hero of the story who had such bad luck kept saying I am not a sinner I served God with all my strength His friends said you must be a sinner or God would not have destroyed your children stock crops health and all

The writer proved Job was a good man and his friends were mistaken for they had false notions about God and his dealings with man God is good and is doing his best for man and his punishment of man is in the constitution of man and is reformatory in its nature The old theory of a burning hell which lasted forever without any thought of reformation is not like God God never punishes men to get even with them That kind of hell may have scared folks but I doubt if it did them any good

I believe man suffers the consequence of sin forever I do not believe that death changes my relations to God I believe whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap I believe that finally every man shall get his just dues

A. T. Cassel of Palmyra To Be Doane College Treasurer

(Special to The Star)

CRETE Neb July 11 — A T Cassel graduate of Doane of the class of 1894 has just been offered the position of treasurer of Doane College by the board of trustees He has accepted the offer and resigned from his position as cashier of the Bank of Palmyra to take up his work at Doane August 1

Chummy with Moores — "Any more Moores," Florence Vidor wants to know. She plays the wife of Tom Moore in "The Trouble with Wives," which Malcolm St. Clair is directing for Paramount. In "Grounds for Divorce" she played the wife of Matt Moore. Eventually she expects to be the screen wife of Owen and Joe Moore.

Climbs the Ladder — Priscilla Bonner, who started up the ladder of fame in "Priscilla with a Million," has gone several rungs higher. She has been awarded the enviable role opposite John Barrymore in his first picture for Warner Brothers. "The Sea Beast" is the name of the story which Mr. Barrymore decided would do for his re-entry into the movie kingdom. It deals with the whaling industry in New Bedford in 1840. Bess Meredith is preparing the script.

New Comedy Series—Mrs. Wallace Reid has recently announced that she will feature Gertrude Short and Arthur Rankin in a new series of comedies, to be made in the near future.

Russian Dancer Signed—Theodore Kosloff, the Russian dancer, has been added to the cast of "The Road to Yesterday," which Cecil B. De Mille has chosen as his first independent production. Kosloff will play the part of "Gypsy John." Other featured players in the cast are Joseph Schildraut, Jetta Goudal and Vera Reynolds.

Woman Indian Expert—Mrs. John Wetherill, who with her husband has operated a trading post at Keyenta, on the Navajo reservation for twenty years, has been chosen as technical adviser during the preparations and filming on "The Vanishing American." Mrs. Wetherill has been admitted to be the leading authority on the Navajo and other tribes. It was one of her discoveries that led to the abandonment by experts of the theory that the aboriginies of this country originated in Asia. Richard Dix and Lois Wilson are the only featured players selected to date for "The Vanishing American." Lucien Hubbard adapted the Zane Grey story to the screen for Paramount.

Duke Doing Dives—Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian champion, is adding diving and swimming thrills to the new Hal Roach comedy in which Charley Chase is starred. Laguna Beach furnishes the location for the story, and ten bathing beauties add the scenic character. "Innocent Husbands" is the title and Katherine Grant has the leading feminine role.

De la Motte Starred—Marguerite de la Motte will be "The Girl who Would Not Work" in the picture which Lionel Barrymore is making under that title. Marcel de Sano, the youthful director and war hero, is producing the picture for F. B. O. Henry Walthaill of "Birth of the Nation" fame is one of the principal members of the cast.

Another Deserter Returns—Montague Love is another deserter who is returning to the silver sheet. Mr. Love has been on the vaudeville stage for sometime. He will play the role of "Alan Hurde" in "The Ancient Highway," a picturization of James Oliver Curwood's story of the same name. Jack Holt has the male lead in the production, and Irvin Willat is directing.

Star Of "No, No Nanette" Not To Be Movie Queen, In Spite Of Lordly Contracts Offered

They are working mornings and evenings at the Universal studios now. Helene Chadwick suggested the hours after she couldn't keep her nose powdered and the men spent all their time whizzing to the dressing rooms to change drooping collars. The reason is a four letter word beginning with H and common to Nebrasky.

'O, Min!"

You know the Gumps? Well, Andy's to have a new Min. Samuel Van Ronkle, who makes the Gumps for the movies, has elected Ivy Livingston, sister of the popular Margaret of Fox fame, to bear up under Andy's tirades. Margaret came up by way of serials. Possibly Ivy will go to fame on the the Gump route.

Famous Players-Lasky sent two electric generating plants and fifty-one thousand-watt lights to Santa Barbara upon an appeal from the mayor for power wagons and powerful lights to aid rescue workers digging through earthquake debris. Studio electricians installed the lights, which gave illumination for eight blocks in the stricken area. Charles Eyton, Paramount's west coast general manager, and Tom White, casting director, were also in Santa Barbara, and worked throughout the night.

Pauline Starke, Clara Bow, Norma Shearer, Jack Multall, Constance Bennett, Renee Adoree, Jack Gilbert—those are a few of the near famous you want to watch this year. Constance and Clara are the super de luxe flappers and they've both registered high with fans the past year—Connie certainly put "The Goose Hangs High" over and Clara has a couple of bits in "Kiss Me Again" that are perfect.

Norma and Gloria Far Apart.

Norma and Pauline have made a big hit with the fans, especially Norma, who has had a little the best of the roles, and the directors on the Metro lot cry for them. Rene Adoree should make herself in "The Big Parade," where her beauty and personality should put her in the front rank. Jack Gilbert has the lead in "The Big Parade" and "The Merry Widow," two of the classics of the season, and if he fails, Jack is not the actor he has appeared in the last five or six years of upward climb. Jack Mulhall is one who should have arrived, but hasn't. He is with Corinne Griffith in "Classified," and he who so well in "Dulcy" and "Turn to the Right" has a better part in the news drama. Watch'em all. The old stars are getting older, and some one must take their places.

Listen, my children, and you shall hear of a girl who spurned a movie career.

Nancy Welford, star of the "No, No. Nanete," musical comedy company, which just finished a five months' run in Hollywood, has frowned upon the lure of the Kleig lights. Directors offered her rich contracts on silver platters and begged on bended knees and orated upon the sacredness of their cause, but Nancy stood firm.

"I wouldn't trade one little footlight for all the Kleig lights in Hollywood!" Nancy announced.

May McAvoy has just completed a stepping stone part in "My Old Dutch," in which she portrays youth, middle age, and old age. Hope May is not too late with the picture, for Colleen and Norma Talmadge have both appeared as their own grandmothers, and have passed on to lighter fancies. May is a charming young thing who deserves to have succeeded better than she has. She has given the screen some lovely bits of work. You always feel that it is to be "one, two, three—go" for May, but that she doesn't go on the go.

Allyan Dwan summons his mobs by a police sireen. Hard on the nerves of the visitors, but not so trying as to see a couple of hundred Indians, harem beauties, African savages, bowry frequenters, gangsters, and Australian bushmen beardown upon the poor but honest guest.

Harold Lloyd and Raymond Griffith have some new rivals.

Remembers Old Comrad.

Educational has added two new star series of comedies, which will present Lupino Lane, the celebrated English comedian, and Jimmie Adams, formerly featured in the Christie comedies. The Mermaid, Christie, Tuxedo, Lloyd Hamilton, Walter Hiers, Bobby Vernon, and the Juvenile comedies will continue their two-reel productions, also the length of the two new varieties.

Tom Minx rode Tony twenty miles from location the other day to pay tribute to Old Blue, Tony's predecessor and the first horse he used in the movies. Old Blue is buried in the corral of Tom's ranch and the birthday of the cow pony is never allowed to pass without a visit to the graveside by the master he loved so well.

Gloria is to make her next picture in the eat and Pola, in spite of former announcements, is to make her next production in Hollywood. It is rumored a continent apart is not too far to please the rivals, and that may have influenced Pola's plans when she heard Gloria intended to go east.

Irene Rich has defeated the censor movement by requesting that censorable scenes be entirely eliminated from her pictures. Doesn't seem probable that Irene's films would have to be very badly mutilated to follow that decree. Wonder why she's always cast as the neglected wife? Must be hard to neglect the patrician, well bred Irene. She's come a long way since she wore her hair in a knob at the back of her neck and dressed in shirtwaists, in the Will Rogers' offerings.

Ten feature production are to be begun on the Lasky lot within ten days. James Cruze's next historical picture of the west, the story of the pony express, which features Betty Compson and Ricordo Cortez, will be taken at Sacramento and Cheyenne. The Vanishing American" is underway, with Richard Dix and Lois Wilson, and "location" in the heart of the Navajo Indian reservation, 160 miles north of Flagstaff. Betty Bronson and company of "The Golden Princess" are on location in Owens valley.

Florence Vidor and Tom Moore, who are seeking to explain the "Trouble with Wives" are having a good time at Catalina while they work.

"The Ancient Highway" players are in Oregon and Paul Bern is en route west to direct Pola's next starring vehicle, "Flowers of the Night," from the original story written for her by Joseph Hergesheimer. Raymond Griffith and Mary Brian are beginning "On Dress Parade" and Joseph Conrad's masterpiece, "Lord Jim," will soon start production, although Percy Marmont is the only one yet selected.

Screen Siftings

Dustin Farnum Gets Busy—Since he has a new son and heir to provide for, Dustin Farnum has decided he had better get busy, so he has signed up with Universal. He will be one of the thirty principals in "On the Frontier" which Universal will make on a spectacular scale. The great Pendleton Roundup at Pendleton, Oregon, will be one of the features of the picture. Mr. Farnum's outstanding screen successes, "The Squaw Man," "The Virginian" and "The Littlest Rebel," were all adaptations of his stage plays.

Takes Year's Vacation—It has been a whole year since Jackie Coogan has had the camera turned on him in a working capacity. His vacation will be over July 15th, when he starts work on "Old Clothes," his first picture under his new agreement with Metro-Goldwyne-Mayer. Eddie Cline, who has directed Jackie in his last three pictures, will see him safely through "Old Clothes." The picture will be a sequel to "The Rag Man." It was written especially for Jackie by Willard Mack.

Plan Big Production—Jesse Lasky, vice president of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has gone to Hollywood, where he will personally supervise one of the biggest production booms in the history of his organization. Ten feature productions are already under way at the studio. Several other companies are scattered on location from Oregon to the Mexican border, and as far east as Cheyenne, Wyo.

There Were no Cops Then—Not one of the fifteen vehicles used in "Not So Long Ago" has a speed of over six miles an hour! There are two horseless carriages, an old-fashioned stage coach and twelve wooden wheeled bicycles used in the picture, which Sidney Olcott is directing for Paramount. The story is laid in New York in the middle of the past century. It is an adaptation of Arthur Richman's stage success. Betty Bronson and Ricardo Cortez are the featured players.

Age With Rapidity—May McAvoy, Pat O'Malley and Jean Hersholt have grown old with amazing rapidity during the making of "My Old Dutch" at the Universal studio. They are all members of the cast. They started out sprightly a few weeks ago, but they totter around the studio with lagging steps now. It's all for the sake of their art, however. They portray seven different ages throughout the story, which Laurence Trimble is directing from the famous English coster song.

LATEST THRILLER BY FAIRBANKS IS A HIT IN GOTHAM

Eight Weeks' Run at Globe Theater Likely To Be Too Short an Opening.

Marvels of Direction and Impersonation Seen Once More In This Play.

BY BRETT PAGE

NEW YORK CITY, July 11.—No passing account of the summer season on Broadway could pretend to be complete without a full and vivid review of Douglas Fairbank's new photoplay production. Last year "The Thief of Bagdad" literally "tore up the town" with its fantastic beauty and superb imaginative qualities. "Don Q. Son of Zorro," its 12 successor is scarcely so pretentious a production, yet it, too, is so far above the average that the scant eight weeks alloted to it at the Globe theater will probably prove too brief."

Mr. Fairbanks, in addition to being an expert showman and capable actor, possesses an unique directarial facility highly uncommon among stars of the screen. No matter whom he may select to wield the megaphone, the result is invariably a polished output perfect down to the least spectacular detail. For example, in the current picture we see royal Spain recreated before our eyes with a completion and veracity which would put most motion picture reductions to shame.

But "Don Q" has other attractions which are bound to insure it an altitudinous rating on the list of the year's best. First of all, it is simon pure melodrama of the most pulse-quickening sort, packed with legitimate thrills and mounting to an exciting climax when the two Zorros, father and son (both played, through double exposure, by Mr. Fairbanks) hold a score of antagonists at bay in the most approved Three Musketeers fashion. This crisis is skilfully built up from the initial premise of the plot, in which the innocent Don Q is, by a chain of involved circumstances, made to appear the slayer of the Austrian archduke.

Doug Does a Thriller.

How he disappears, apparently a suicide, only to reappear at the crucial moment and exculpate himself forms a tribute to the literary art of K. and Kesketh Pritchard, the novelists from whose book the picture play has been adapted. Incidentally, Mr. Fairbank's giddy leap from the castle window into the raging waters of the stream far below is one of the most frightening things in the drama.

Invariably, in these annual productions of his, the principal player is careful to surround himself with an aggregation of stellar caliber. In 'Don Q" the much abused "all-star" is fully justified. Distinguished historianism is supplied by the exquisite Mary Astor, who besides looking her loveliest acts with astonishing fire and emotional depth. The characters of the pair of villains are in the competent hands of Donald Crisp, and Jean Hersholt, whose work in von Stroheim's "Greed" and in "So Big" will not readily be forgotten by the fans.

Warner Oland plays the duke with his usual force and humor, and the smaller roles are all well cared for, even down to the maid servant, impersonated by Lottie Pickford. It is needless for me to go into the matter of settings and costumes, for these bear the Fairbanks stamp of authenticity and beauty. All told, "Don Q" may easily be declared the finest picture of the early summer. Its popularity with every class of playgoers is indisputable.

With the protracted lull in legitimate producing, it is interesting to cast a glance at what the autumn season promises. The Actors' Theater, which used to call itself merely the Equity Players, will inaugurate the fourth year of its activities with an expensive program. The cozy Comedy theater has been l eased from Lee Shubert for forty weeks beginning in October. An enlarged stage and re-decorated auditorium are among the new features of the playhouse.

Among the plays to be produced by the organization which already has to its credit Shaw's "Candida" and Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" are the following: Arthur Schnitzler's "The Call of Life," translated by Dorothy Donnelly; 'Magdalene and Mary," by a new American dramatist, S. J. Lauren; "Storm," by C. K. Munro, the Irish playwright, and Ludwig Thoma's "Moral," as Englished by Charles Recht.

The Actors' theater has, by leaps and bounds, attained a splendid rating as one of New York's not strictly commercial institutions which, without being dolefully highbrow, still offers entertainments beyond the grasp of most Broadway managers. With the Theater Guild, the Provincetown Playhouse, the Neighborhood Playhouse and the Stagers it composes a quintet of ambitious producing forces not equaled, probably, in any other part of the country.

Out-of-towners who began to gnash their teeth at the sudden announcement that David Belasco's production of Willard Mack's colorful melodrama "The Dove," would close may defer their wailing. It now appears that the cessation of the play is merely to afford Judith Anderson, Holbrook Blinn's co-star, a much needed vacation, and that the piece will reopen in August.

SCREEN SIFTINGS

Jack Mulhall Signed—Jack Mulhall, who recently completed his work opposite Corinne Griffith in "Classified," has been signed to play opposite Colleen Moore in her new picture, "We Moderns," which will be made at the United Studios.

"Permanent" Retirement Ends.—When Katherine MacDonald married Charles Johnson she announced that she would permanently retire from the screen. But the lure of the movies was too great for her, in spite of the fact that she now has a little son to keep her occupied. When Arthur Beck, president of Embassy pictures offered her the leading role in "The Unnamed Woman," she couldn't resist signing the contract. Leah Baird is another member of the cast, and Herbert Rawlinson has the leading masculine role in the picture. Grace Gordon, who has been understduying Maude Fulton in "The Big Top" on the stage, and Wanda Hawley are other members of the all-tar cast.

Nebraska To Be Represented In Historical Expedition To Indians Of Upper Missouri

Nebraska and the Missouri Valley Historical society will have a representative on an expedition to be held July 16 to 23 along the upper reaches of the Great Muddy, for the purpose of studying early history of the Northwest, and for honoring some of the great explorers and pioneers of the region.

Mrs. Clara S. Paine of the state historical society, who is also secretary of the Missouri Valley Historical societly, has been been invited to make the trip with a party of historians and others interested in historical work. Governor A. G. Sorlie of North Dakota, Governor J. E. Erickson of Montana, and the historical societies of North Dakota, Montana, Minnesota and South Dakota are sponsoring the trip, and are co-operating with the Great Northern railroad, which is to furnish transportation.

A preliminary survey of the remnants of primitive tribes will be made. Historians will be given a chance to talk with famous old fighters among the Indians and thus gained at first hand much information that might otherwise be lost.

Among the Indians who will be seen are the Arikara, Mandan, Hidatsa tribes of Fort Berthold reservation, North Dakota; the Sioux of the Standing Rock agency in North and South Dakota; the Assinnibone from the Turtle Mountain agency in North and South Dakota and of the Fort Peck reservation in Montana; the River Crows of the Fort Kelknap agency in Montana and the Crow agency in Montana; and the Piegan, Blood and Blackfeet tribes of Montana and Alberta.

Among the -prominent persons who have accepted invitations to make the trip are Major General Hugh L. Scott of the United States board of Indian commissioners, considered the greatest living authority on the American Indian. Official representatives of many historical societies will also be present.

The train leaves St. Paul at 9 p. m. Thursday, July 16.

At Verendrye, N. D., there will be ceremonies and an address by Lawrence J. Burpee on the explorations of Pierre de la Verendrye, who in 1738--39 penetrated the upper Missouri valley. His sons were the first white men to gaze on that portion of the snow-capped Rock mountains.

A monument is to be erected to David Thompson, who first mapped the Northwest. This monument will be in the form of a granite sphere.

Fort Union, N. D., once the most powerful trading post in the United States, will be visited July 18. As the train pulls into the encampment by the Missouri river, a scene will greet them that might have been witnessed a hundred or two hundred years ago. The tepees of scores of Indians will be gathered there ready for what may be their last great council with the pale faces. The pipe of peace, and other paraphernalia and customs of old time ritual will be in evidence.

After these ceremonies, there will be conferences between the historians and the old time Indians, and a big American flag will be raised from the spot where the flag used to fly in trading days. Indian sports such as tepee raising, horse racing will be played.

From this fort, the party journeys to Glacier National park, the scene of Chief Joseph's last heroic stand with his dwindling band of tribesmen. Placed on an uncongenial reservation in the south by the United States government, he and his fellows started northward to their homeland, and conducted one of the most masterly retreats military men have ever observed. Surrounded by greater numbers of well equipped troops, the exhausted band was finally defeated by General Miles.

A monument to Meriwether Lewis, leader of the Lewis Clark expedition, will be erected by the Great Northern railway at Meriwether, Mont., marking the farthest north reached by these explorers.

Sin And Punishment

BY DR. J. D. M. BUCKNER.

"Ma, do you believe that if boys steal apples and watermelons they will make them sick? Do you think God punishes bad boys that way? Our Sunday school teacher told us today that God punishes bad folks for doing wrong. She told us about a man who worked on Sunday and God sent a hail storm and destroyed his crop and then he cursed God and God sent the lightning and burned up his house then he cursed God more and God sent a cyclone and killed him."

"She said the world got so wicked that God sent a great flood and drowned everybody except Noah and his family, they were the only good people."

"Now, Johnny, run out and play, mother is busy and you can ask daddy those questions tonight."

Is there any punishment for sin except the results of siin with God? Is there any rewards for righteousness except its results? A man becomes a drunkard; loses his job, friends, money, family, character, health and reputation. These are the results of drunkardness. Now will God punish him in addition to these?

I used to think that there would be a great judgment day when God would call everybody out of heaven and hell and pass judgment on each one and recide whether they should go into heaven or into hell. I began to think about it one day and several things bothered me about that theory for it seemed the people had been judged in part for some were in heaven and others in hell; why be judged the second time? I believe man is judged every moment of his life and is punished or rewarded that moment for his deeds.

The punishment or the reward may grow with time and increase in power and the punishment will become more severe or the joy more blessed. The doctrine that misfortune is the punishment for sin sent by God is an old theory now generally given up and discarded.

The book of Job in the Bible was written for the purpose of destroying the old error and the hero of the story who had such bad luck kept saying: "I am not a sinner, I served God with all my strength." His friends said you must be a sinner or God would not have destroyed your children, stock, crops, health and all.

The writer proved Job was a good man and his friends were mistaken for they had false notions about God and his dealings with man. God is good and is doing his best for man and his punishment of man is in the constitution of man and is reformatory in its nature. The old theory of a burning hell which lasted forever without any thought of reformation is not like God. God never punishes men to get even with them. That kind of hell may have scared foiks but I doubt if it did them any good.

I believe man suffers the consequence of sin forever. I do not believe that death changes my relations to God. I believe whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap. I believe that finally every man shall get his just dues.

A. T. Cassel of Palmyra To Be Doane College Treasurer

(Special to The Star.)

CRETE, Neb., July 11. — A. T. Cassel, graduate of Doane of the class of 1894, has just been offered the position of treasurer of Doane College by the board of trustees. He has accepted the offer and resigned from his position as cashier of the Bank of Palmyra to take up his work at Doane August 1.

Mr. Cassel has been a banker for twenty-four years in Nebraska City and Palmyra. Previously he had spent six years with the Anaconda Copper Co. at Butte, Montana. Mr. Cassel comes from a family which has made good in the business world. One brother, Walter N. Cassel, graduated from Doane in 1892, is in a successful business on Fifth Avenue, New York. Another brother, John H. Cassel, who attended Doane at the same time, one of the outstanding artists and cartoonists of America, has a position with the New York Evening World.

Highly Recommended.

Mr. Cassel comes to Doane highly recommended as a careful and efficient banker. He will take up the work of Prof. J. E. Taylor, who has been holding the position of treasurer for the past few months and who has been anxious to get back into his teaching in the history and economics, department. Professor Taylor's work as treasurer has been most satisfactory and was a fine service to the college in a crisis when resignations confronted President Dean with the necessity of filling that position, he said.

The discovery of Mr. Cassel by President Dean and will bring strength to the business department of the college. Mr. and Mrs. Cassel plan to move to Crete at once. They have two children, a boy of 9 years and a girl of 11. Mrs. Cassel and the children are now visiting in Illinois and are going on east to New York and New England to visit the old home of Mrs. Cassel. Mr. Cassel will go east about July 11, after being relieved from his bank at Palmyra, and will visit a short time with his family before coming back to his duties at Doane.

CHERRY MARMALADE.

Four quarts stoned tart cherries.

Grated rind of 1 orange.

Sugar.

Chop cherries slightly. Place in a preserving kettle with two-thirds their weight of sugar. Add the orange rind, cover and let stand for an hour or two, stirring occasionally. Boil gently until a few drops will hold their shape (218 to 222 degrees Farenheit). Turn into sterilized glasses, cool and cover with hot melted paraffin.

NEW SHADE IN RED.

A shade of red that is being seen a great deal in millinery fashions is the deep tone of ripe raspberries. Hats of this shade are particularly lovely when made of a fine straw faced and banded with velvet the same color, or with a single large flower of a corresponding tone.

AUTO PATENTS POPULAR.

Of the eighty thousand applications for patents made annually in the United States, fully one-third relate to some phase of the automobile industry.

ROSE-VIOLET HATS.

Smart women just back from Paris are bringing deep rosy-violet hats from Reboux. Indeed, one woman avers that so many of these hats were worn at the races that, in looking down from the stand, one seemed to be observing the movements of an animated field of purple flowers.

DROOPING HAT LINE.

Windows and displays have practically been given over to the showing of large drooping hats made of hair or of some of the exotic body straws that incline to the fancier weaves. The shops show this type of hat almost to the exclusion of everything else, and there is also a great deal of the large flower trimming in evidence as well.

BARONESS ZUR MUEHLEN INTL

New York police are investigating the death of the beautiful Baroness Helen Zur Muehlen, 28, of Java, Dutch Indies, who was killed by a plunge from the window of her room in the Ritz-Carlton hotel. SCREEN SIFTINGS

Serial Team Together—Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, who made one of the best serial teams in the movies about ten years ago, are again working together. This time, however, Francis Ford will not appear with Miss Cunard on the screen. He is directing, "The Winking Idol," in which Miss Cunard has an important part. William Desmond is the hero of the chapter play and Eileen Sedgwick has the chief feminine role in the production, which is being filmed on the Universal lot.

PAPERS ON HEAT.

The Smithsonian institute is publishing three unusual papers by Messrs. Abbot, Clayton, and Hoxmark, on the heat of the sun and its effect upon weather. Abbot shows not only that the heat received by the earth from the sun appears variable, but that the changes of it can be predicted nearly a week in advance by looking at the sun with a telescope. The bright patches on the sun called faculae mean a hotter sun is coming. So do numerous sun-spots. But when a sun-spot reaches the center of the sun's disk, it seems to carry a cloud over it and cuts off our sun-heat a little for a few days. The Smithsonian institute runs two observatories, in Arizona and Chile, where they determine with special instruments the amount of heat coming from the sun each day and forward the result to Washington by telegraph.

TOLL WIRELESS.

A telegraph company in Hawaii is planning to install an interisland radiophone system between several central exchanges on wave lengths between sixty-six and seventy meters. When complete, it is believed any phone subscriber in the islands can call any other subscriber through the radio- relaying system. This development will not make for commercial economies, but will be a factor in the insular defense in time of war.

RADIO MOVIES.

Motion pictures have already been successfully sent and received by radio, C. Francis Jenkins, Washington inventor, declared before the American Chemical society. Describing the laboratory experiments in which this seeming marvel is daily performed, he predicted that stay-at-homes throughout the country will see the next presidential inaugural ceremonies and the Olympic games without leaving their own firesides.

AN ADAPTABLE COLLAR.

With the vogue for the turtle neck in sports blouses and sweaters, several models are featuring the adaptable collar that will fasten up high, rolled like the turtle neck, but also modified into scarf ends. One fastens at the back, the neckline finished with the rollover collar that terminates in long scarf ends slotting through each other.

U. S. FAR IN LEAD.

The United States has so far outdistanced other nations in the development of radio that there are probably more receiving sets in operation in this country than in all the rest of the world together.

HANDKERCHIEF TRIMS.

In the search for something really new in the way of trimming for the ever popular felt hat, one smart milliner in Paris has esigned a pastel shade blue felt cloche, with a narrow turn-down brim Placed boldly at the side-front of the crown is a three-inch square miniature envelope, the flap secured with an imitation seal, by means of a printed cachet made of silver toned leather, narrow bands of which outline both brim and ornament. Folds of a white siik crepe de Chine handkerchief float from underneath the envelope flap.

CRETONNE COATS.

An innovation that has taken Portland's younger set quite by storm is the Junior Miss Cretonne coat for outing, beach and even street wear. Girls responded to a display put in the window with such eagerness that it was necessary to increase the stock appreciably. These coats were made up especially for this store.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—This is a nice quiet afternoon and I haven't much to do, so I thought I would visit with you for awhile. I would like to know if it is really so that some bandits tried to kidnap Mary Pickford, or was is just a newspaper story. I think it was terrible if it was so, but I've heard that about half of the stuff that was read in the papers about the movie stars is all bunk.

Is Constance Bennett a sister to Enid Bennett. Is Enid married and if so, to whom?

Where could I address Eleanor Boardman? I would like to have a picture of her. Also what is Robert Agnew's address and what is his latest picture?

What is the title of Thomas Meighan's next picture and who will play opposite him.

Again thanking you for answering my questions, I am, BLUE EYES.

There no doubt is a lot of hokum mixed with the real facts in the stories about the movie players, but it was all true about Mary Pickford and the bandits. Mary has graduated from the hokum stage. She doesn't need a lot of publicity to get a public-that is already at her feet. She even went so far as to intercede for the three men who tried to kidnap her for ransom.

Constance Bennett is not related to Enid at all. She is the daughter of Richard Bennett, the well-known stage actor. Marjorie is Enid's sister. Enid is married to Fred Niblo, the director.

Address Miss Boardman at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. Culver City, Cal., and I'm sure she will be gled to send you a picture. She is working under Hobart Henley in "An Exchange of Wives."

Robert Agnew is with Lasky, at 1520 Vine street, Hollywood, Cal. His latest role was with Greta Nisson in "Lost, a Wife."

"Whispers" is the title of Mr. Meighan's latest production. Virginia Valli has the leading role opposite Tommy, and Alfred Green is directing.

Dear Movie Editor—I have written to you once before quite a while ago, but I cannot wait any longer so prepare yourself for many questions. Here goes. I have heard that there has been sort of a little scrap between Pola Negri and Gloria Swanson. What is the cause?

Tell me all you can about Pola Negri, Jack Mower and Hoot Gibson.

Please give me the cast of "The Eagle's Feather."

Thanking you for your space and trouble, I am AN ELEVEN YEAR OLD FAN.

There is no need at all for waiting any longer, my dear. You are always welcome.

The little coolness between Pola and Gloria could hardly be called a scrap. Its just a case of professional jealousy, and if one stopped to analyze the situation carefully, it might only seem to exist, because they happen to appear in the same kind of pictures. It is true that when Pola appeared at the west coast, where Gloria had reigned supreme, Gloria immediately set up her kingdom in the east and in Europe. Then when Gloria treked back home with a brand new title, Pola decided to go a picture in the east.

It is interesitng to compare the two women because they are so alike and yet so unlike. They are about the highest exponents of Europe and American art on the screen. Pola is typically European, and Gloria is a real American, who started at the very bottom rung of the ladder and by hard work and perseverance has reached the top. Pola has been more or less a fizzle in American pictures, but in European pictures and under a director who understands European temperament, she has no equal.

Pola was born in Poland in 1898. Her right name is Apolcnia Chalupez. Her father, who had a good fabric business, died in 1905 during the Russian Polish revolution. Pola's mother sent her to Countess Platten's school, where she became fond of Polish translations of the works of Ada Negri, the Italian poetess. It was her fondness for this poetry that caused her to adopt the name of Negri, and shorten her first name to Pola, when she went on the stage. She made her professional debut at the Kleines theater in Warsaw, playing a role in "Sodom's End," a play by Herman Sudermann. She then went to the Imperial theater in Warsaw, where she remained until the German occupation in 1916.

During 1915 Max Reinhardt saw her and engaged her to play the leading role in "Sumurun." Following this she played in "The Deaf Girl of Portici."

Her motion picture debut was with UFA Film corporation in Germany. She made her first big hit in America in "Passion" and later in "Gypsy Blood."

Miss Negri speaks Polish, Russian, German and French besides English.

Jack Mower was born in Honolulu in 1890. He received his education at Punahou college, Honolulu. He was on the stage in stock for six months and in musical comedy for two years before turning his attention to the screen. He was the Pacific coast champion swimmer for four years, and has a long screen career. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 180. His hair is brown, and his eyes gray.

Hoot Gibson is a native of Nebraska. He was born in Tekamah in 1892.

He started his career as a cowboy, and later went with Bud Atkin's circus to Australia. His screen career began in 1911 when he played in "Hazards of Helen" for the old Kalem company. He later went to Universal, and has been with that company ever since. He is five feet ten inches tall and has light hair and blue eyes.

The cast for "The Eagle's Feather is as elusive and hard to find as the eagle itself.

Dear Movie Editor—This is the first time I have ever written to you but I am an interested reader of your page.

I would like to know the name of the boy who played the part of the blind boy in "Love in the Dark." He also played the part of "Dick" in "Masters of the Sea." He surely is a splendid actor and I surely would like to see more of him.

Who played the part of Barry Dunne in "Chickie?" In my estimation he is one of the best actors on the screen. Is he married? How old is he? What is his address? If I send a quarter can I get an autographed photograph? Thank you in advance, I remain A LOVER OF MOVIES.

Its always a pleasure to add new fans to our fan list. Cullen Landis is the young man whom you admire in "Love in the Dark." He also had the role of "Dick." Did you happen to see him in "The Magnificent Ambersons?" Its one of his late releases.

John Bowers played the role of Barry Dunne opposite Dorothy Mackaill in "Chickie." He was born in Indiana in 1889. If Marguerite de la Motte is not already married to him, she will be soon. It has been reported for sometime that they were married, but they neither confirm or deny the rumor. They are playing together in a new picture, "Off the Highway," which is being filmed by Producers Distribution corporation at the Hollywood studios, 6642 Santa Monica boulevard. If you will write John there, and enclose a quarter, I'm quite sure he will send you his photograph.

Dear Movie Editor — Will you please give me the address of David James and tell me all you can about him?

I would also like to know who played the part of Patrick O'Farrell in "Super Speed." Also his address and anything interesting about him.

Could you give me any idea how many people play in the movies? Thank you very much, MARJORIE, Blue Springs, Neb.

I'm glad to hear from you again, Marjorie. David is very reluctant about giving out information himself, but if you will tell me in what picture you saw him, I'll try and track him to his lair and pry it loose.

Reed Howes had the leading role with Mildred Harris in "Super Speed." Address him at Seeling Studios, 2800 Mission road, Hollywood, Cal.

I can't tell you exactly how many people there are in movies, but you might get some idea from the fact that Los Angeles "houses" about 34,000 people. It is, of course, the center of the film industry. The studio payrolls amount to about $40,000,000 a yer. There are about 15,000 "extras" on the list besides the permanent members of the motion picture players in this country.

Dear Movie Editor — I saw "Madame Sans Gene" and I certainly was the most disappointed person you ever saw. I thought it was the worst picture Gloria has made for a long time, and I had seen so much about it I expected it to be her best. I simply couldn't keep awake through it, it was so awful. Why do they do such things anyhow? Gloria is wonderful in her proper setting, but that picture was anything but her kind of a picture. If she does many more like that, she's simply done for. She looked a little too heavy in it, too, but it might have been because of the clothes she wore. Who played the role of "Lefebvre?" I'm sure I've seen him before, and I thought it was an entirely foreign cast, except for Gloria. Did Gloria's new husband appear in the picture? If so, what role did he have?

Please give me the cast for "Proud Flesh" and "Excuse Me."

Accept my many thanks for your answers, and sign me JUST NAN.

We will just have to speak to Gloria about "Madame Sans Gene" and tell her you didn't like it. Charles de Roche was "Lefebvre." You no doubt have seen him several times before. He is a French actor, but he made pictures in this country for quite a while. The rest of the cast were all new to the American film public. Gloria's husband did not appear in the picture.

The cast for "Proud Flesh" is: "Fernanda," Eleanor Boardman; "Pat O'Malley," Pat O'Malley; "Don Jaime," Harrison Ford; "Mrs. McKee," Trixie Friganza; "Mr. McKee," William J. Kelly; "Vicente," Rosita Marstini; "Wong," Sojin; "Spanish Aunt," Evelyn Sherman; "Spanish Uncle," George Nichols; "Mrs. O'Malley," Margaret Seddon; "Mrs. Casey," Lillian Elliot; "San Francisco Girl," Priscilla Bonner.

The "Excuse Me" cast is: "Marjorie Newton," Norma Shearer; "Harry Mallory," Conrad Nagel; "Francine," Rene Adoree; "Porter," Walter Hiers; "Jimmy Wellington," Bert Roach; "Rev. Dr. Temple," William V. Mong; "Mrs. Temple," Edith Yorke;" Lieut. Shaw," John Boles; "Lieut. Hudson: Eugene Cameron; "George Ketchum," Fred Kelsey; "Rev. Job Wales," Paul Weigel; "Mrs. Job Wales," Mae Wells.

Dear Movie Editor—I know you are nice and good natured, so I'm going to ask you a whole lot of question today. Please tell me whether it was Ruth Roland or Pearl White who played in the serial, "White Eagle."

What is Louise Fazenda's next picture, and who will play with her? Is she married, and if so to whom?

Does Corrine Griffith have any children and if so how many?

Who starred in the first of the series of "The Leather Pushers?" I like him lots better than I did Billy Sullivan.

Where was "The Ten Commandments" filmed? Did the company go to Europe to take the desert scenes? It certainly was a wonderful picture. I thought the photoplay was the best I have ever seen. That place where the sea rolled back and allowed the people to pass through was superb, and the place where Moses got the Ten Commandments has never been equaled in motion pictures.

I hope you will forgive me. I really came for information and not to air my views. With many thanks, yours truly, ST. ELMO.

I like to have other people's opinions of the pictures we see. I hope you will come for a little more 'airing" when you feel the spirit moving you.

It was Ruth Roland in "White Eagle."

Louise Fazenda has an important role in "Grounds for Divorce." Florence Vidor, Matt Moore and Harry Myers are the other members of the cast. Louise is single.

Corrine Griffith has no children, but she insists that she expects to leave the screen after she does a few more pictures and raise a family.

Reginald Denny was in the first of the "Leather Pushers" series.

"The Ten Commandments" was filmed in California. Mr. De Mille took his company out into the sand dunes around Los Angeles for the desert scenes. He had a regular little city consisting of 2,500 men and women and over 3,000 animals with him, and it became known as Camp De Mille. It took fifteen tons of modeling clay and 100 tons of plaster to make the four statues of the Pharaoh that were used in the picture.

Eighteen thousand dollars worth of Egyptian harness were made to order for the horses, and over 33,000 yards of cloth were used in the costumes for the players.

In the modern story the church building scenes were taken in San Francisco where the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul was under construction.

Dear Movie Editor—I got the address from you for Antonio Moreno some time ago and wrote him a letter. He sent me his picture and a nice little letter with it. It surely is a good picture of him, too. I think he is a wonderful actor.

And now I am after a few more addresses of my favorites, because I want to get some more pictures. I would like to have Ronald Colman's address, and also tell me what his next picture will be and who will play opposite him?

Where could I reach Charles Jones, Tom Mix, Hoot Gibson and Conrad Nagel? What is Hoot Gibson's real name? What is Conrad Nagel's next picture. This is all for this time. Good-bye until I write again. BEULAH L.

No wonder you like Tony when he sent you a picture, and a letter, too.

Address Ronald Colman in care of Goldwyn Productions, United Studios, Hollywood, Cal. He is working on "Stella Dallas." Alice Joyce has the role of Helen Morrison in the picture. Other members of the cast are Belle Bennett, Lois Moran, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Jean Hersholt and Verna Lewis.

Charles Jones and Tom Mix both work at the Fox Film Corporation studios, Hollywood, Cal. Hoot Gibson is with Universal, Universal City, Cal., and you will find Conrad Nagel at the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer lot. He just completed "The Only Thing" for Elinor Glyn. Hoot Gibson's real name is Ed Gibson.

Screen Siftings

Dancing Ability Useful—Diana Miller is having an opportunity to put into effect her early training in ball room dancing. She plays the role of a classical dancer in "Helen and Warren," the married life series which Fox Film Corporation is making.

Mae in a Mask.—Mae Murray's next starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will be "The Masked Bride." The story was written especially for Miss Murray by Leon Abrams. Josef Von Sternberg, who has just completed "The Exquisite Sinner" has been chosen to direct Miss Murray in her new production.

Lillian Perplexed—Lillian Gish is in a state of perplexity these days. All former Mimis in "La Boheme" have been of the brunette type, but Lillian's blond loveliness has won her the title of "the lily of the screen." She can't decide whether she wants to take a chance with a wig and become a brunette Mimi, or to be her own sweet self which would make her a blond Mimi. "La Boheme" offers her a new type of vehicle from anything she has ever done. It is her first appearance under the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer banner. King Vidor will direct the picture

Dog Star Carries On—Cap, the grandson of Teddy, the Great Dane in Mack Sennett comedies, who died recently, will carry his famous sire's banner forward on the screen. Cap is eight months old and already 3 inches taller than his ancestor. He is black and white spotted and is known as Harlequin Dane. His first work is in "Smith's Baby" and Smith's Vacation," which Eddie Cline made with Raymond McKee as the star.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—This is a nice quiet afternoon and I haven't much to do, so I thought I would visit with you for awhile. I would like to know if it is really so that some bandits tried to kidnap Mary Pickford, or was is just a newspaper story. I think it was terrible if it was so, but I've heard that about half of the stuff that was read in the papers about the movie stars is all bunk.

Is Constance Bennett a sister to Enid Bennett. Is Enid married and if so, to whom?

Where could I address Eleanor Boardman? I would like to have a picture of her. Also what is Robert Agnew's address and what is his latest picture?

What is the title of Thomas Meighan's next picture and who will play opposite him.

Again thanking you for answering my questions, I am, BLUE EYES.

There no doubt is a lot of hokum mixed with the real facts in the stories about the movie players, but it was all true about Mary Pickford and the bandits. Mary has graduated from the hokum stage. She doesn't need a lot of publicity to get a public that is already at her feet. She even went so far as to intercede for the three men who tried to kidnap her for ransom.

Constance Bennett is not related to Enid at all. She is the daughter of Richard Bennett, the well-known stage actor. Marjorie is Enid's sister. Enid is married to Fred Niblo, the director.

Address Miss Boardman at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, Culver City, Cal., and I'm sure she will be gled to send you a picture. She is working under Hobart Henley in "An Exchange of Wives."

Robert Agnew is with Lasky, at 1520 Vine street, Hollywood, Cal. His latest role was with Greta Nisson in "Lost, a Wife."

"Whispers" is the title of Mr. Meighan's latest production. Virginia Valli has the leading role opposite Tommy, and Alfred Green is directing.

Dear Movie Editor—I have written to you once before quite a while ago, but I cannot wait any longer so prepare yourself for many questions. Here goes. I have heard that there has been sort of a little scrap between Pola Negri and Gloria Swanson. What is the cause?

Tell me all you can about Pola Negri, Jack Mower and Hoot Gibson.

Please give me the cast of "The Eagle's Feather."

Thanking you for your space and trouble, I am AN ELEVEN YEAR OLD FAN.

There is no need at all for waiting any longer, my dear. You are always welcome.

The little coolness between Pola and Gloria could hardly be called a scrap. Its just a case of professional jealousy, and if one stopped to analyze the situation carefully, it might only seem to exist, because they happen to appear in the same kind of pictures. It is true that when Pola appeared at the west coast, where Gloria had reigned supreme, Gloria immediately set up her kingdom in the east and in Europe. Then when Gloria treked back home with a brand new title, Pola decided to go a picture in the east.

It is interesitng to compare the two women because they are so alike and yet so unlike. They are about the highest exponents of Europe and American art on the screen. Pola is typically European, and Gloria is a real American, who started at the very bottom rung of the ladder and by hard work and perseverance has reached the top. Pola has been more or less a fizzle in American pictures, but in European pictures and under a director who understands European temperament, she has no equal.

Pola was born in Poland in 1898. Her right name is Apolcnia Chalupez. Her father, who had a good fabric business, died in 1905 during the Russian Polish revolution. Pola's mother sent her to Countess Platten's school, where she became fond of Polish translations of the works of Ada Negri, the Italian poetess. It was her fondness for this poetry that caused her to adopt the name of Negri, and shorten her first name to Pola, when she went on the stage. She made her professional debut at the Kleines theater in Warsaw, playing a role in "Sodom's End," a play by Herman Sudermann. She then went to the Imperial theater in Warsaw, where she remained until the German occupation in 1916.

During 1915 Max Reinhardt saw her and engaged her to play the leading role in "Sumurun." Following this she played in "The Deaf Girl of Portici."

Her motion picture debut was with UFA Film corporation in Germany. She made her first big hit in America in "Passion" and later in "Gypsy Blood."

You Can Afford A Brick Home Now

HAVE you ever longed for the summer coolness and the winter warmth of a brick house, for the pride and joy of ownership felt by the man who dwells in a home of brick?

If the beauty and charm—the permanence and fire safety—of the brick house appeal to you, do not dismiss brick as a possibility for your home on the mistaken idea that it is too expensive.

Once when frame construction was very cheap, the brick house was a luxury for the favored few. But the nearby forests are gone now, lumber must come long distances, paying high freight rates. The cost of frame construction has doubled and redoubled. At the same time quality production with modern labor-saving machinery has improved the quality and reduced the relative cost of brick. Today you can build your home of brick for only seven per cent more than a frame house would cost. The many savings in a brick house after it is built—slow depreciation, elimination of repairs, low heating and insurance costs, painting confined to the doors and window openings—in five years amount to more than twice the additional first cost of brick.

At Yankee Hill, a suburb of Lincoln, is located the great plant of the YANKEE HILL BRICK COMPANY. Here are made not only building brick, but also high quality face brick in a wide variety of colors and textures. Because of the saving in freight, the Nebraska Home-Builder enjoys a distinct price advance in the purchase of YANKEE HILL BRICK.

the scenic beauties of the surrounding country.

In the afternoon, which was spent at Paris Hill, the home of Hannibal Hamlin, tea was served by the women of the town, wearing colonial costumes. Then they all visited the library, which had once been a prison.

In the evening a State of Maine banquet was given at the Poland Springs hotel followed by a ball. At this time all the governors and their wives were introduced to the conference and lovely leather-bound books containing views in Maine were presented each guest. Among other interesting souvenirs given at the meeting were a gavel with a silver name plate, and silver keys to the cities passed through on the itinerary.

The last day of the conference proper, the guests were driven to [illegible], the birthplace of Mrs. McMullen's father.

At many of the small towns on the 65 mile route from Poland Springs to Augusta special celebrations were held, with band concerts, speeches, and refreshments.

Arrive in Augusta.

On arriving in Augusta luncheon was served in the James G. Blaine home, now the governor's mansion. It contains forty-four rooms and was recently refurnished and redecorated. Later they were taken through the capitol and the governor's suite and were served dinner at the Penobscot Valley Country club. In the evening a dance was given at the club with 800 guests attending.

After a trip on the governors special through the potato district of Maine they were eventually carried to Bar Harbor where Gov. and Mrs. McMullen were guests of Judge Deasy and his daughter. Judge Deasy is on the Supreme bench. While in Bar Harbor they attended a special shore dinner at the Pot and Kettle club and later visited the Rockefeller home and the home of Henry Ford, now under construction. The day was closed with a banquet and ball at the Swimming club.

In the Curtis yacht the gubernatorial party was carried to Camden where they were served luncheon at the Yacht club on the Fourth of July. Late in the day they were taken back to Portland where they took the boat to New York.

According to Mrs. McMullen—charming friendships were formed by the members of the party and the conference has made a congenial family of the governors and their wives throughout the United States.

Gertrude Moran, a Former Nebraska University Girl Is Welcomed On Broadway

When Gertrude Moran of Nebraska City, Neb., powdered her pert little nose and went sailing down New York's Broadway to see what was going on, it was without any idea of Broadway opening its arms and being the least bit chummy with her.

The facts in the case were that this wisp of blonde girlishness who was just out of school, the American Academy of Dramatic Art, had theatrical ambitions but thought she would hit Broadway as a success about fifteen years hence.

Broadway Opens Its Arms.

But even hard hearted Broadway melts before a pair of deep blue eyes, an impudent red mouth and impertinent nose, to say nothing of blonde curly hair that borders on a golden shade—and that is Gertrude Moran.

It was in April of 1924 that Miss Moran made up her mind to go on the stage, and for this decision May Robson was somewhat responsible. Miss Robson met Miss Moran at a party and was much impressed with her looks and asked her if she had had any stage experience. She told Miss Moran that she had heard of her theatrical ambitions.

"I didn't want to tell her that I had not had any experience, so I evaded her question," Miss Moran said.

Delights May Robson.

"Then she asked me if I would come to her room in the hotel the next afternoon and read over the ingenue lines for her. She said that the ingenue she had in the company was not good and that she wanted another. I read the part for her, and was just about half scared to death, but I read them. When I had finished she was quite delighted and wanted to arrange everything then concerning salary and all, but I told her I would have to ask my father. I did and that settled that. I had to finish my work at Nebraska. However, Miss Robson told me that if I intended to go on with my work I should go to the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York City.

"Unlike most schools the training is practical, not theoretical. It is the best school of its kind in America, and in six months' time I had finished my course.

"Then came the period which is most difficult in the life of every unsponsored actress. I put on my hat and proceeded to do Broadway. I had a letter of introduction to Mr. Wilmer of Wilmer and Vincent. He was very charming to me and promised me a part in his next production, "Dawn." It was not to be produced for several weeks and I was in a hurry so I visited all of the other producers on Broadway.

"My first engagement was a small part in "The Saint," produced by the Provincetown Players. There I met a number of real artists, among them Boleslavoky, and Maria Ouspenskia of the Moscow Art theater; Kenneth McGowan, Robert Edmund Jones and Leo Carillo, the star of the piece. "The Saint" was a wonderfully artistic piece with a good cast and all that, but it was one of the things that the public did not care for, and consequently lasted only a few weeks.

"Then my first chance at a real part came with an unexpected call to play the ingenue in the "Easy Mark," with only one company rehearsal. I was given the part on Tuesday and was told to have it ready by Saturday night. I did, but needless to say I was very nervous.

"In the spring came "The Fourflusher," which closed a few weeks ago.

"To me, the stage is the most exacting of the arts and should not be entered upon lightly. Individuality is the one thing that one has to bring to the theater. Sincerity, personality, and as in everything else, persistent hard work, are essential on the stage.

"Opportunity in the theater comes sooner of later to everyone, the thing is to be ready for it when it comes. Of myself there is very little to say. I have only stepped on the first rung of the ladder and sincerely hope to go further."

Miss Moran attended the University of Nebraska and was popular in dramatic work there. She took part in many Kosmet Klub productions, always with success, and her last amateur bit before going to New York was the title role in "Dulcie."

Many Small Dinner Parties At Eastridge Honor Guests

Numerous small dinner parties in honor of visiting house guests added a note of interest to the festivities of the weekly dinner and dancing party at the Eastridge club on Friday evening.

Table appointments, with attracgarden flowers, were perceptibly brightened by gay little nut cups and individual favors. Softly shaded tapers placed here and there in the dining rooms added softness to the decorative effect.

In addition to the private parties, the usual number of Dutch treat parties were vogue.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Hall had as their dinner guests, Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Withers of Long Beach, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Colton of Sioux City, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tucker and Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Noll.

Miss Virginia Harris, of Kansas City, Mo., was guest of honor at the dinner party given by her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Underhill, with whom she is visiting for several days. Among those invited to meet Miss Harris were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. George, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Freadrich, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Eager, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Barwick, Dr. and Mrs. Corol E. Brown and Oliver Hallam.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hammond, were host and hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stone, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Buehler, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Buer, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Johnson, and and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Lyons.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Kinsey entertained Mr. and Mrs. F. E. McFarland, and Mr. and Mrs. George Westgate.

Included in one of the popular Dutch treat parties, were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. de Brown, Dr. and Mrs. D. D. Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Barber and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Funk.

Dr. O. E. Liston, of Elmwood, also made reservations for ten guests.

Small Family Parties, Large Dutch Treats At Country Club

Small family parties, together with the larger Dutch treat affairs, brought together a number of congenial friends for a pleasant evening of cards and dancing at the Country club Saturday evening.

Mrs. Leonard Flansburg invited about twenty friends to meet Mr. and Mrs. George Lee who recently moved to Lincoln from Omaha. Gladiolas were used for the centerpiece at the dining table.

Jack Whitten was host to a small party of friends for dinner and dancing.

Miss Rose Carson entertained informally for about eighteen friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Truman invited Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Michel and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rohman to be their dinner guests.

Among the larger Dutch treat parties was one formed by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walt, Mr. and Mrs. Will Straub, Mr. and Mrs. Strayer, Mr and Mrs. Frank Sidles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matson, Mr. and Mrs. John McGreer, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Assenmacher, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deurmyer.

Weddings

FITZSIMMONS-CARSON

An attractive garden wedding will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fitzsimmons, 217 South Twenty-seventh street, when their daughter, Dorothy becomes the bride of Harry Carson at 8 o'clock the evening of July 29. One hundred and twenty-five invitations have been issued. Miss Fitzsimmons has chosen as her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Cable Jackson of Minneapolis. Her bridesmaid will be Miss Evelyn Carson, a sister of the groom. Jo Ann Macoy will be the flower girl. Miss Fitzsimmons attended the University of Nebraska and is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Carson also attended the university and is affiliated with Delta Upsilon.

HARRIS-PEDERSON

The marriage of Miss Bernice Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harris, and Dr. Merritt C. Pederson will take place Wednesday evening, July 22, at 8 o'clock at the Second Baptist church in the presence of two hundred guests. The Rev. H. G. Smith, pastor of the church, will read the lines. A reception will follow in the church parlors.

Miss Harris has chosen Miss Lavern Henderson of Lincoln as her maid of honor and Miss Mildred Nowell of Columbia, Mo., will be the bridesmaid. Dr. Walter A. Weber of Norfolk will be Dr. Pederson's groomsman.

Martha Jane Armintraut and Betty Jane Kingery will be the flower girls. Junior Cathers is to carry the ring.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, Dr. Pederson and his bride will be at home in Lincoln.

Parties of the Week

Mrs. A. A. Pitts of 3253 Q street entertained with a birthday party on July 9 in honor of the seventh birthday anniversary of her daughter, Helen May Pitts.

Nine friends of the honoree were invited to the party. Games and other juvenile diversions were enjoyed. Late in the afternoon refreshments were served at a table attractively decorated with paper dolls, fancy candies and toys.

Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Hollenbeck returned the first of the week from the coast where they spent several weeks. They toured the New England states and motored through the Adirondacks and the Green mountains and into Canada as far as Montreal. Among the interesting things of their trip were the commencement exercises at Bowdoin and a glimpse of Captain MacMillan's ship, the Commodore Peary. Alexander Hollenbeck, who has been in Europe with classmates since his graduation from Dartmouth in June, landed at New York yesterday. He will enter the Harvard school of finance in the autumn.

Honoring Mrs. F. M. Quistgard of Omaha, who is their house guest over the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Holman entertained at a dancing party at Eastridge Friday evening. Supper was served at the Holman home, 1409 E street, late in the evening.

Miss Cora Gast will entertain at a dinner party Monday evening at the La Petit Gourmet in honor of Miss Emily Krisl, who is leaving for Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Caldwell, of vited1906 Washington street, left Thursday for Lake Okoboji where they will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dorgan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross P. Curtis invited the following friends to be week-end guests at their cottage on Lake Okoboji; Mrs. Herbert E Gooch, Mrs. F. E. Roth, Mrs. Edward L. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Proudfit.

The two parties motored together to the lake.

Mrs. W. C. Becker entertained at a family dinner Saturday evening i nhonor of the eleventh birthday of her daughter, Arnetta. The picnic dinner was served out on the veranda of the Becker home. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Grant and family, Mrs. F. A. Mason, Mrs. Becker's mother; Glen Mason and son, John.

Mrs. J. E. Beltzer will entertain at a bridge luncheon Wednesday favoring Mrs. O. A. Beltzer, who will move to Grand sland. Mrs. Earl Stanfield of Arapahoe, Neb., will be an out of town guest.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Howard entertained a number of guests at their home, 1619 North Twenty-third street, Friday evening. The time was spent informally. Late in the evening watermelon was served.

MRS. GAYLORD DAVIS

MISS FRANCES HOLYOKE.

MRS. J. O. KERN

One of the most interesting of out of town weddings was that of Miss Susan Scott, formerly of Kearney, and Gaylord Davis of New York City, son of Mrs. W. C. Davis of Lincoln. The marriage took place Saturday, July 4, at 4:30 o'clock, at "Old Orchard Lane," home of Miss Ellen Dearborn, a friend of the bride, in Scarsdale, N. Y. Miss Meron Berdine of the Greenwich Village Follies sang, preceding the ceremony. Miss Dorothy Sawyer and Miss Willa Frederic were bridesmaids, and Howard J. Murfin, a former University of Nebraska man, served as best man. Mrs. Davis attended the University of Nebraska and was one of the most popular girls on the campus. She affiliated with Pi Beta Phi sorority. She was especially prominent in dramatic work, and continued her stage career after going to New York City, where she appeared in 'Spite Corner," and other Broadway productions.

Another bride whose marriage took place at the "Little Church Around the Corner," in New York City, is Mrs. Joseph Burchinal Martin, formerly Miss Margarette Ann Dobbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dobbins, 1857 South Twenty-seventh street, Lincoln. The wedding took place July 3. Mrs. Martin attended the University of Nebraska.

Miss Frances Holyoke of Chadron is the very attractive guest of Miss Jane Beaumont, 2202 Washington street. She has also been the honoree at several informal luncheons and afternoon parties at the Country club.

The marriage of Miss Henrietta Claussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Claussen of Bloomfield, Neb., to Fred Gardner, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gardner, 2002 F street, was solemnized Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Plymouth Congregational church in Omaha. Mrs. Gardner attended the University of Nebraska for two years.

An interesting engagement which is announced today is that of Miss Roberta Spain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Spain of Lee's Summit, Mo., to Mark Phelps of Ypsilanti, Mich. The wedding will take place in the near future at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Spain is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

An attractive guest from Sioux Falls, S. D., is Mrs. J. O. Kern, a former resident of Lincoln, who arrived last week for a visit with her sister, Mrs. C. J. Mosher, 1920 South Sixteenth street. A number of informal affairs have been given for Mrs. Kern since her arrival, and several more have been planned during her stay in Lincoln.

Social Clubs

Miss Capitola Spiker of Fremont, Neb., was the guest of the O-K-O club Monday evening. The club met at the home of Miss Edna Moore, 300 Kleckner Court, for a

Governors Conference Made One Family of Whole Party, Mrs. McMullen's Conviction

Governors and their wives from four middle western states, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Iowa, and Nebraska, have recently returned home from the governors conference in Poland Springs, Me., profuse in their praise of the hospitality of the state of Maine.

In addition to teas, garden parties and banquets, with whole cities as hosts, the wives of the governors from the middle west, with those from twenty-three other states in the union, were taken for a ride in a seaplane, were carried by special train along the the banks of the St. John river, and as a farewell cruise were taken aboard the Cyrus H. K. Curtis yacht, the Lyndonia, to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bok on a trip around Mount Desert island and along the rock-bound coast of upper New England.

Delegates to the governors conference left New York city aboard the S. S. Calvin Austin for Portland. The cruise, which started early Sunday morning, continued until late Monday morning, giving the delegates ample time to become acquainted. Twenty-seven states were represented, among them, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, New Hampshire, New York, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, California, Wyoming, Alabama, Nebraska and Michigan.

One Woman Executive.

Governor Nellie T. Ross of Wyoming was the only woman governor present and she added much interest to the conference, according to Mrs. Mullen. Gov. F. S. Billings of Vermont was also outstanding among the delegates because of his striking likeness to President Calvin Coolidge.

In Portland the delegation was given a breakfast by the city with a welcoming address by the mayor, and a musical program. The visitors were driven by motor to all the points of industrial and scenic interest about Portland, and later taken the 40 miles to Poland Springs.

Mr. Ricker, owner of the picturesque hotel in Poland Springs, acted as host to the party and furnished the visitors with every comfort.

The first day, June 29, the wives of the governors attended the opening of the conference, afterwards a tea was given on the hotel lawn, followed by a concert by the Fifth United States Infantry band. A second concert was given during the evening, preceding the ball which followed the evening executive session. Early in the evening, the women of Poland Springs entertained with a party for the visiting women.

Take Sea Plane.

Mrs. R. O. Brewster of Maine and Mrs. E. Lee Trinkle of Virginia entertained with a morning coffee and a reception on Tuesday. From this affair Mrs. McMullen and Mrs. John Hammill of Iowa were taken by motor to a nearby lake where a yacht conducted them to a sea plane sent especially for the use of the governors party. They were taken to an elevation of 2,000 feet and were delighted by the sight of

161 Children Were Enrolled In Calvary Vacation Bible School

The junior boys in the group played three games of baseball and won them all.

Among the children who attended the daily vacation Bible school at Calvary Evangelical church were forty from the state home for dependent children. The total enrollment of the school was 161 and the average attendance during the four weeks, 120. Miss Irma Miller of Trinity Methodist church was in charge, assisted by Pauline Prestegaard and Nadene Parks of Grace Lutheran; Marcia Follmer of Westminster Presbyterian; Geraldine Minderfer of Emmanuel Methodist; Gertrude Killer of Trinity Methodist; and Elizabeth McPherson, Mary Kimball and Anna Southworth of Calvary Evangelical. Dorothy Thielen of the First Baptist church served as a volunteer helper in the beginner's department.

Twelve schools were represented in the enrollment, 111 of the children belonging to Calvary Evangelical, a condition, according to Miss Eleanore Miller, secretary of the Lincoln council of churches, typical of all churches where schools were held.

One of the difficulties experienced in conducting the vacation schools this year, Miss Miller said, was the lack of playgrounds at some of the churches. At Calvary the children played in the street, supervised by four instructors, during the twenty-minute recreation period. Seldom were they interrupted more than once or twice by autoists.

Has Won Spelling Prizes Five Times

Miss Ruth Graham, of Bethany, who has won five prizes in spelling contests. Miss Graham won three prizes while she was in the eighth, ninth and tenth grades. She did not compete during her junior year but was awarded first prize her senior year in the Lancaster county spelling contest. She also took first prize at the Wesleyan high school day contests and received the gold medal in spelling. Miss Graham graduated from the Walton high school at the age of fifteen, with a scholarship average over 90 per cent.

HAVELOCK NOTES

Miss Luella Conway spent the week-end with friends in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Walter McKinney is erecting a home on Twenty-third and P stret, which will be completed in about two months.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Randall will leave Monday for the Black Hills. They expect to be gone two weeks.

Mrs. Edith Allen and daughter, Helen, left Thursday for a month's vacation with relatives at Hartington, Neb.

Mrs. Frank Morgan and daughter Frances, returned Wednesday from a three weeks' vacation with relatives in parts of Texas and California.

Rev. D. B. O'Conner left Wednesday evening for a week's vacation in Denver, Colo. While there Father O'Connor will call on Bishop Tihen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Elmore and two children, and Mrs. Elmore's mother, Mrs. W. L. Minor, spent the week-end at Stanton, Neb., with Mr. Elmore's mother, Mrs. J. D. Elmore, and his sister, Mrs. John Hollspien.

The Foresters met Monday evening in the basement of St Patrick's church. Mrs. L. A. Janda, past chief ranger, was presented with a Ranger pin, and later in the evening refreshments were srvd.

Thomas Egan suffered painful injuries Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a switch engine while working in the shop yards. He was badly bruised about the head and body, but is improving nicely.

Misses Eva and Elsa Anderson entertained at a bridge party Wednesday evening at their home, 1940 N street, in honor of Miss Eva Bong who arrived here Tuesday from Los Angeles, California. Tables were arranged on the porch, which was attractively decorated with colored lights and flowers. After a splendid radio program, the hostesses served dainty refreshments. Miss Bong, left Friday for a few days' visit with friends in Omaha and Chicago, and will then return to her home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. A. Wright met with a painful accident Monday evening when the Ford coupe which she was driving collided with a Chevrolet coupe drive by C. S. Ringer of 2336 N street, Lincoln. The accident occurred near Bethany. Mrs. Wright, who was going east on the Bethany boulevard, saw the Rinker car approaching from the south, but thought it was slowing down. The Wright car was completely demolished. Mrs. Wright's left arm was badly cut and she sustained many painful bruies about the head and back. Her daughter, Lona who was with her, remained uninjured. Mrs. Wright came here from Tecumseh to spend the Fourth with her mother, Mrs. Edith Allen.

the scenic beauties of the surrounding country.

In the afternoon, which was spent at Paris Hill, the home of Hannibal Hamlin, tea was served by the women of the town, wearing colonial costumes. Then they all visited the library, which had once been a prison.

In the evening a State of Maine banquet was given at the Poland Springs hotel followed by a ball. At this time all the governors and their wives were introduced to the conference and lovely leather-bound books containing views in Maine were presented each guest. Among other interesting souvenirs given at the meeting were a gavel with a silver name plate, and silver keys to the cities passed through on the itinerary.

The last day of the conference proper, the guests were driven to Bangor, the birthplace of Mrs. McMullen's father.

At many of the small towns on the 50 mile route from Poland Springs to Augusta special celebrations were held, with band concerts, speeches, and refreshments.

Arrive in Augusta.

On arriving in Augusta luncheon wa served in the James G. Blaine home, now the governor's mansion. It contains forty-four rooms and was recently refurnished and redecorated. Later they were taken through the capitol and the governor's suite, and were served dinner at the Penobscot Valley Country club. In the evening a dance was given at the club with 800 guests attending.

After a trip on the governors special through the potato district of Maine they were eventually carried to Bar Harbor where Gov. and Mrs. McMullen were guests of Judge Deasy and his daughter. Judge Deasy is on the Supreme bench. While in Bar Harbor they attended a special shore dinner at the Pot and Kettle club and later visited the Rockefeller home and the home of Henry Ford, now under construction. The day was closed with a banquet and ball at the Swimming club.

In the Curtis yacht the gubernatorial party was carried to Camden where they were served luncheon at the Yacht club on the Fourth of July. Late in the day they were taken back to Portland where they took the boat to New York.

According to Mrs. McMullen—charming friendships were formed by the members of the party and the conference has made a congenial family of the governors and their wives throughout the United States.

DECLARES USE OF KNOWLEDGE IMPORTANT.

Speaking on the value of education before the state convention of Business and Professional women's clubs of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Bertha Maxwell, state president, said: "Education in itself is not the most vital thing, it is the connection of education with life that is of the greatest importance. The use of knowledge is the thing rather than the mere acquiring of it."

MONTHLY MEETING ROLLER CANARY CLUB.

NOTES FROM LINCOLN BUSINESS WOMEN'S LEAGUE.

Members of the Lincoln Business women's league enjoyed their first open air meeting of the summer, at the McKesson homestead, Thursday evening. The real forest atmosphere and the icy water from a natural spring added much to the pleasure of the evening. The committee under the direction of Miss Martha Walsh and Miss Erma Austin had prepared a delicious picnic supper and the recreation committee staged a burlesque program with other amusements. A short business meeting was held.

The next out-of-door program will be held July 23, the place announced later.

On Wednesday afternoon the delegation from the league and also from Axis left for the Portland, Me. national convention. Dr. Ruth M. Warner, president of the league, headed the company.

The national convention will be held July 12-18. One of the important subjects to be discussed at this time is raising the standard of efficiency, which is the prime object of the organization. The scholarship funds are provided and financed for the benefit of girls entering the business world, and the slogan "At least a high school education for every girl before she enters the business world," will be subjects for discussion and consideration.

AXIS CLUB NOTES.

Axis club met for a picnic at Bethany Grove, Tuesday evening. Miss Elizabeth Geeting was hostess and she was assisted in serving by five Camp Fire girls. Later the Axians were invited into the Camp Fire cottage which is located in the grove.

Miss Bertha Lefferdink will be hostess at the next picnic to be held at the state farm July 21.

Eight or more Axians left Lincoln Thursday for Portland, Me., to attend the annual national convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs. An effort will be made by Nebraskans attending the meeting to bring the next annual convention to the middle west, Des Moines, and Kansas City are competing for the honor.

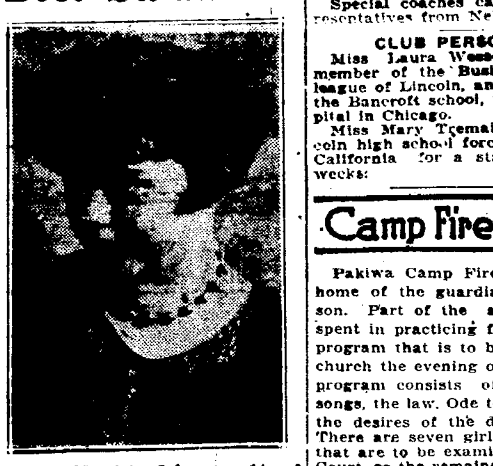
Special coaches carried the representatives from Nebraska east.

CLUB PERSONALS.

Miss Laura Wessel, an active member of the Business Women's league of Lincoln, and a teacher in the Bancroft school, is ill in a hospital in Chicago.

Miss Mary Tremain of the Lincoln high school force, has gone to California for a stay of several weeks.

Best Swimmer



Miss Harriet Johnson, 14, of Crete, Neb., who is the swimming champion at Camp Crete.

Camp Fire Notes

Pakiwa Camp Fire met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Carlson. Part of the afternoon was spent in practicing for the musical program that is to be given at the church the evening of June 5. The program consists of Camp Fire songs, the law, Ode to the Fire, and the desires of the different ranks. There are seven girls in the group that are to be examined at Wohelo Court, so the remainder of the time was spent in discussing the various requirements to be passed.

Spe Camp Fire held an outdoor ceremonial at the hiking cabin Wednesday. One new girl was taken into the group and three girls received honor beads they had won while working in the contest held during the winter.

The mothers of the girls at Watonopa Camp Fire were entertained Friday at Wakeya. A short program was given and dinner was served by the girls. The guardian and girls stayed all night, eating a breakfast that was cooked over the camp fire.

Six members of the Eluta Camp Fire met at the office on Friday. The girls decided not to have any set program for the summer, owing to so many of the group being away, and to others being at camp at various times during the next two months. A party was planned to be held in the basement of the First Baptist church Saturday. The guardian, Helen Clement, will be the honor guest, for she has been at camp as a nature councellor the first half of the summer.

At Wohelo Court held at the office Friday, eight girls took twelve of the fourteen requirements for Fire Maker. They were: Olivia Finke, Frances Berry, Hilda Parker, Enda Aure, Lulu Carlson, Lois Poore, DeLoras Gage, and Florence Hanneman. The two requirements on first aid and elementary bandaging will be passed at camp. They will take their ranks at the grand ceremonial at Antelope park early in the fall.

The swimming classes at the Municipal swimming pool have increased so that to give proper instruction, different divisions of the classes are to be made. The requirements for the first class or blue ribbon will be: To blow bubbles, do the dead mans float, and correctly illustrate the side stroke. The tests will gradually become harder for the different groups until they begin to work for junior Red Cross life saving honor. The advanced class will be assisted in learning the tests for the Red Cross life saving honor by one of the life saving corp.

The camp craft class to be held on Thursday, will be given instruction in the ten standard knots. How to make each knot and to know the purpose and advantage of each will be the aim. Each girl attending is asked to bring a three foot rope.

Leaves have been the main study of the nature lore class. Discovering the difference in the veination of leaves collected and pressed was done in last week's class. The note books will be started this week, along with new ideas for printing the leaves.

The Pakiwa camp fire gave a musical program at their church last Sunday. The program consisted of camp songs, the law, ode to the fire, camp fire songs, and the various desires of each rank. Their guardian, Mrs. Carlson gave a brief talk.

The Eluta camp fire held a party at the First Baptist church on Saturday. A program was given which consisted of impromptu stunts by each member. The camp songs were sung many times and a discussion of the program to be carried out this summer was made. Refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

The Clinton community camp fire or Wapelka will have a picnic supper at Wakeya, Thursday evening, after the classes in nature lore and camp craft.

Eight girls won their blue ribbons at the swimming classes held at the Municipal pool this week, Florence Hanneman, Alice Hart, Lois Poore, Roberta Stevenson, Florence Stevenson, Margaret Sowles, Elizabeth Cook and Lulu Carlson. To win these ribbons the girls had to do the dead mans float, blow bubbles and illustrate correctly on land the side stroke. Dorothy Orr, June Holmes, Irma Bass, Frances Whitsett, Theona Steel, Elizabeth Barber and Doretta Christenson, not only passed the blue ribbon test, but the red one also, which included swimming fifteen yards, dead man's float with the flutter kick, and jumping into the deep water. Miss Ruth Hatfield has charge of the beginners classes, which have had an average attendance of thirty. Miss Betty Thornton will teach the advanced swimmers class, that are working towards the Red Cross life saver requirements.

The class in nature lore was told about the different stars and planets to be seen in the sky during this month and that on the evening of July 10 the three planets Mercury, Venus, and Mars would be so near together that they might be mistaken for a triple star.

The class learned how to draw star maps and are to make a star map of the sky some evening during the coming week. The last half of the period was spent in making smoke prints of the leaves that had been pressed for the nature note books.

Knot tieing was taught in the camp craft class the past week. Six different knots were learned toward the honor ow knowing ten different knots and their uses. This same honor will be completed the coming week, each girl passing a test on ten different knots.

At Wohele court held July 3, the following girls were tested on twelve of the fourteen requirements for Fire Maker: Olivia Ginke, Frances Berry, Hilda Parker, Edna Aure, Lulu Carlson, Lois Poore, DeLoras Gage, and Florence Hanneman. The two requirements concerning first aid and bandaging will be passed when the girls go to camp. This was the last court to be held where the old requirements for the rank will be used. The new manual has twenty-seven requirements which all girls that wish to become Fire Makers must be able to pass.

The last week at Camp Kiwanis is to be older girls week. All girls that have been to camp the last five years and have not been this summer and even those who have want to register for this last week. Plans are being made for a great camp reunion with lots of new stunts, and activities. Friday night August 14, is to be the gala night.

All camp fire girls will be glad to know that Mrs. Eugene McAllister formerly Dorothy Williams is now in her new home in Ventura California. Many have asked about her, knowing that she had gone to Santa Barbara.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Back Row: Olive Viele, Donald Viele, L. N. McCartney, Ellis McCartney, Roy McCartney, L. C. McCartney, O. M. McCartney, Frank Viele, Melvin McCartney, Richard McCartney, Genevieve McCartney and Fred Viele.

Front row: Orlyn McCartney, Mrs. L C McCartney, Mrs Roy McCartney, baby Kenneth McCartney, Jessie McCartney, Max Viele, Mrs. Nicholas McCartney, Dorothy McCartney, Robert McCartney, Mrs. Amy Viele, Willard Viele, Mrs. L. N. McCartney, Mrs. O. M. McCartney.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas McCartney celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Tuesday, July 7, at their home, 202 West Twenty-third street, University Place.

They have lived in Lancaster county for forty-five years, moving here from LeMars, Ia., five years after their marriage. They first located on a farm near Waverly and later moved to another one six miles east of University Place, where they resided until removing to their present location in 1910.

Six children were born to Mr. and Mrs. McCartney, all of whom were present at the golden wedding. They are L. N. of Los Angeles, Calif., Orley M. of Scottsbluff, and Leslie C., Roy M., Mrs. Amy Viele and Miss Jessie, all of University Place.

At noon Tuesday a picnic dinner was served on the lawn for members of the family, including the thirteen grandchildren, all of whom were present.

From 3 to 5 p. m., old friends and former neighbors from Waverly and Sharon church neighborhoods were entertained, and in the evening a reception was held for University Place and Lincoln friends.

Many beautiful gifts were offered the couple by their friends and relatives.

Dr. Pfeiffer To Lecture Monday On World Court

Timely pictorial information bearing upon the proposal for American membership in the World Court, will be presented at an illustrated address on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Social Science auditorium, on "League and Court: What They Are. How They Work." More than one hundred views will be shown with an explanation of the relationship between the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice. The extent of present American association with the two bodies through individual and non-governmental agencies will also be revealed. This exhibit was prepared for the screen by Jonathan A. Rawson, jr., of New York City, lecturer and writer, whose visual presentations of current topics has been seen by many American audiences. This lecture will be given by Dr. Laura B. Pfeiffer of the department of history University of Nebraska. The public is welcome.

MATCHING COLORS.

The combination of felt and velour in machine colors is shown in a little Agnes model of purple with a crown of felt and a little brim of velour, the brim turned up at the front and held to the crown by a strap of itself, which seems to pass through a buckle effect in the brim The crown is made with two dimples at the front, much on the order of the crown which Reboux has made so popular.

Russian green is a color which Reboux is introducing for the fall and which is seen in a model with a crown that is rather larger at the top and made on the order of the Balloon crown. This is developed in felt and dimpled on each side of the front. The little brim rolls up tightly to the crown at the front and is turned under in a clever way at the back.

Where Are the Over-Fat?

A few years ago excess fat was common. Men and women did not seem to care. Now look around in any circle. Note how rare it is.

One reason is this: Fat is now recognized s a blight to beauty, to health to efficiency. It is regarded as abnormal, often due to a disorder easily corrected. And people abhor the abnormal.

Another reason is Marmola. For 18 years the Marmola Prescription, has been proving that fat can be easily and pleasantly reduced. It has proved that to countless thousands and those users have told others. Now people are taking over a million boxes yearly of these famous reducing tablets.

Mark the results. You see them everywhere in slender figures which you envy, maybe. Then why not ask about Marmola? Learn how those results have come without abnormal exercise or diet.

We state the ingredients in Marmola and explain just how they act. Thus every user knows why Marmola is so efficient, helpful, safe. Investigate this famous treatment in justice to yourself.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Send this coupon for our latest book, a 25-ct sample free and our guarantee. Clip it now.

The junior boys in the group played three games of baseball and won them all.

Among the children who attended the daily vacation Bible school at Calvary Evangelical church were forty from the state home for dependent children. The total enrollment of the school was 161 and the average attendance during the four weeks, 120, Miss Irma Miller of Trinity Methodist church was in charge, assisted by Pauline Prestegaard and Nadene Parks of Grace Lutheran; Marcia Follmer of Westminster Presbyterian; Geraldine Minderfer of Emmanuel Methodist; Gertrude Killer of Trinity Methodist; and Elizabeth McPherson, Mary Kimball and Anna Southworth of Calvary Evangelical. Dorothy Thielen of the First Baptist church served as a volunteer helper in the beginner's department.

Twelve schools were represented in the enrollment, 111 of the children belonging to Calvary Evangelical, a condition, according to Miss Eleanore Miller, secretary of the Lincoln council of churches, typical of all churches where schools were held.

One of the difficulties experienced in conducting the vacation schools this year, Miss Miller said, was the lack of playgrounds at some of the churches. At Calvary the children played in the street, supervised by four instructors, during the twenty-minute recreation period. Seldom were they interrupted more than once or twice by autoists.

Has Won Spelling Prizes Five Times

Miss Ruth Graham, of Bethany, who has won five prizes in spelling contests. Miss Graham won three prizes while she was in the eighth, ninth and tenth grades. She did not compete during her junior year but was awarded first prize her senior year in the Lancaster county spelling contest. She also took first prize at the Wesleyan high school day contests and received the gold medal in spelling. Miss Graham graduated from the Walton high school at the age of fifteen, with a scholarship average over 90 per cent.

HAVELOCK NOTES

Miss Luella Conway spent the week-end with friends in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Walter McKinney is erecting a home on Twenty-third and P stret, which will be completed in about two months.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Randall will leave Monday for the Black Hills. They expect to be gone two weeks.

Mrs. Edith Allen and daughter, Helen, left Thursday for a month's vacation with relatives at Hartington, Neb.

Mrs. Frank Morgan and daughter Frances, returned Wednesday from a three weeks' vacation with relatives in parts of Texas and California.

Rev. D. B. O'Conner left Wednesday evening for a week's vacation in Denver, Colo. While there Father O'Connor will call on Bishop Tihen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Elmore and two children, and Mrs. Elmore's mother, Mrs. W. L. Minor, spent the week-end at Stanton, Neb., with Mr. Elmore's mother, Mrs. J. D. Elmore, and his sister, Mrs. John Hollspien.

The Foresters met Monday evening in the basement of St Patrick's church. Mrs. L. A. Janda, past chief ranger, was presented with a Ranger pin, and later in the evening refreshments were srvd.

Thomas Egan suffered painful injuries Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a switch engine while working in the shop yards. He was badly bruised about the head and body, but is improving nicely.

Misses Eva and Elsa Anderson entertained at a bridge party Wednesday evening at their home, 1940 N street, in honor of Miss Eva Bong who arrived here Tuesday from Los Angeles, California. Tables were arranged on the porch, which was attractively decorated with colored lights and flowers. After a splendid radio program, the hostesses served dainty refreshments. Miss Bong left Friday for a few days' visit with friends in Omaha and Chicago, and will then return to her home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. A. Wright met with a painful accident Monday evening when the Ford coupe which she was driving collided with a Chevrolet coupe drive by C. S. Ringer of 2336 N street, Lincoln. The accident occurred near Bethany. Mrs. Wright, who was going east on the Bethany boulevard, saw the Rinker car approaching from the south, but thought it was slowing down. The Wright car was completely demolished. Mrs. Wright's left arm was badly cut and she sustained many painful bruies about the head and back. Her daughter, Lona who was with her, remained uninjured. Mrs. Wright came here from Tecumseh to spend the Fourth with her mother, Mrs. Edith Allen.

DECLARES USE OF KNOWLEDGE IMPORTANT.

Speaking on the value of education before the state convention of Business and Professional women's clubs of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Bertha Maxwell, state president, said: "Education in itself is not the most vital thing, it is the connection of education with life that is of the greatest importance. The use of knowledge is the thing rather than the mere acquiring of it."

MONTHLY MEETING ROLLER CANARY CLUB.

The Nebraska Pedigreed Roller Canary club was entertained Friday evening by Mrs. J. W. Minderfer, 1534 South Twenty-first street. A short business meeting was followed by a social on the lawn and refreshments. Mrs. J. W. Carr, 922 South Twenty-second street will be at home to the club August 14 at 2:30 p. m.

NOTES FROM LINCOLN BUSINESS WOMEN'S LEAGUE.

Members of the Lincoln Business women's league enjoyed their first open air meeting of the summer, at the McKesson homestead, Thursday evening. The real forest atmosphere and the icy water from a natural spring added much to the pleasure of the evening. The committee under the direction of Miss Martha Walsh and Miss Erma Austin had prepared a delicious picnic supper and the recreation committee staged a burlesque program with other amusements. A short business meeting was held.

The next out-of-door program will be held July 23, the place announced later.

On Wednesday afternoon the delegation from the league and also from Axis left for the Portland, Me. national convention. Dr. Ruth M. Warner, president of the league, headed the company.

The national convention will be held July 12-18. One of the important subjects to be discussed at this time is raising the standard of efficiency, which is the prime object of the organization. The scholarship funds are provided and financed for the benefit of girls entering the business world, and the slogan "At least a high school education for every girl before she enters the business world," will be subjects for discussion and consideration.

AXIS CLUB NOTES.

Axis club met for a picnic at Bethany Grove, Tuesday evening. Miss Elizabeth Geeting was hostess and she was assisted in serving by five Camp Fire girls. Later the Axians were invited into the Camp Fire cottage which is located in the grove.

Miss Bertha Lefferdink will be hostess at the next picnic to be held at the state farm July 21.

Eight or more Axians left Lincoln Thursday for Portland, Me., to attend the annual national convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs. An effort will be made by Nebraskans attending the meeting to bring the next annual convention to the middle west, Des Moines, and Kansas City are competing for the honor.

Special coaches carried the representatives from Nebraska east.

CLUB PERSONALS.

Miss Laura Wessel, an active member of the Business Women's league of Lincoln, and a teacher in the Bancroft school, is ill in a hospital in Chicago.

Miss Mary Tremain of the Lincoln high school force, has gone to California for a stay of several weeks.

Best Swimmer

Miss Harriet Johnson, 14, of Crete, Neb., who is the swimming champion at Camp Crete.

Camp Fire Notes

Pakiwa Camp Fire met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Carlson. Part of the afternoon was spent in practicing for the musical program that is to be given at the church the evening of June 5. The program consists of Camp Fire songs, the law, Ode to the Fire, and the desires of the different ranks. There are seven girls in the group that are to be examined at Wohelo Court, so the remainder of the time was spent in discussing the various requirements to be passed.

Spe Camp Fire held an outdoor ceremonial at the hiking cabin Wednesday. One new girl was taken into the group and three girls received honor beads they had won while working in the contest held during the winter.

The mothers of the girls at Watonopa Camp Fire were entertained Friday at Wakeya. A short program was given and dinner was served by the girls. The guardian and girls stayed all night, eating a breakfast that was cooked over the camp fire.

Six members of the Eluta Camp Fire met at the office on Friday. The girls decided not to have any set program for the summer, owing to so many of the group being away, and to others being at camp at various times during the next two months. A party was planned to be held in the basement of the First Baptist church Saturday. The guardian, Helen Clement, will be the honor guest, for she has been at camp as a nature councellor the first half of the summer.

At Wohelo Court held at the office Friday, eight girls took twelve of the fourteen requirements for Fire Maker. They were: Olivia Finke, Frances Berry, Hilda Parker, Enda Aure, Lulu Carlson, Lois Poore, DeLoras Gage, and Florence Hanneman. The two requirements on first aid and elementary bandaging will be passed at camp. They will take their ranks at the grand ceremonial at Antelope park early in the fall.

The swimming classes at the Municipal swimming pool have increased so that to give proper instruction, different divisions of the classes are to be made. The requirements for the first class or blue ribbon will be: To blow bubbles, do the dead mans float, and correctly illustrate the side stroke. The tests will gradually become harder for the different groups until they begin to work for junior Red Cross life saving honor. The advanced class will be assisted in learning the tests for the Red Cross life saving honor by one of the life saving corp.

The camp craft class to be held on Thursday, will be given instruction in the ten standard knots. How to make each knot and to know the purpose and advantage of each will be the aim. Each girl attending is asked to bring a three foot rope.

Leaves have been the main study of the nature lore class. Discovering the difference in the veination of leaves collected and pressed was done in last week's class. The note books will be started this week, along with new ideas for printing the leaves.

The Pakiwa camp fire gave a musical program at their church last Sunday. The program consisted of camp songs, the law, ode to the fire, camp fire songs, and the various desires of each rank. Their guardian, Mrs. Carlson gave a brief talk.

The Eluta camp fire held a party at the First Baptist church on Saturday. A program was given which consisted of impromptu stunts by each member. The camp songs were sung many times and a discussion of the program to be carried out this summer was made. Refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

The Clinton communty camp fire or Wapelka will have a picnic supper at Wakeya, Thursday evening, after the classes in nature lore and camp craft.

Eight girls won their blue ribbons at the swimming classes held at the Municipal pool this week, Florence Hanneman, Alice Hart, Lois Poore, Roberta Stevenson, Florence Stevenson, Margaret Sowles, Elizabeth Cook and Lulu Carlson. To win these ribbons the girls had to do the dead mans float, blow bubbles and illustrate correctly on land the side stroke. Dorothy Orr, June Holmes, Irma Bass, Frances Whitsett, Theona Steel, Elizabeth Barber and Doretta Christenson, not only passed the blue ribbon test, but the red one also, which included swimming fifteen yards, dead man's float with the flutter kick, and jumping into the deep water. Miss Ruth Hatfield has charge of the beginners classes, which have had an average attendance of thirty. Miss Betty Thornton will teach the advanced swimmers class, that are working towards the Red Cross life saver requirements.

The class in nature lore was told about the different stars and planets to be seen in the sky during this month and that on the evening of July 10 the three planets Mercury, Venus, and Mars would be so near together that they might be mistaken for a triple star.

The class learned how to draw star maps and are to make a star map of the sky some evening during the coming week. The last half of the period was spent in making smoke prints of the leaves that had been pressed for the nature note books.

Knot tieing was taught in the camp craft class the past week. Six different knots were learned toward the honor ow knowing ten different knots and their uses. This same honor will be completed the coming week, each girl passing a test on ten different knots.

At Wohele court held July 3, the following girls were tested on twelve of the fourteen requirements for Fire Maker: Olivia Ginke, Frances Berry, Hilda Parker, Edna Aure, Lulu Carlson, Lois Poore, DeLoras Gage, and Florence Hanneman. The two requirements concerning first aid and bandaging will be passed when the girls go to camp. This was the last court to be held where the old requirements for the rank will be used. The new manual has twenty-seven requirements which all girls that wish to become Fire Makers must be able to pass.

The last week at Camp Kiwanis is to be older girls week. All girls that have been to camp the last five years and have not been this summer and even those who have want to register for this last week. Plans are being made for a great camp reunion with lots of new stunts, and activities. Friday night August 14, is to be the gala night.

All camp fire girls will be glad to know that Mrs. Eugene McAllister formerly Dorothy Williams is now in her new home in Ventura California. Many have asked about her, knowing that she had gone to Santa Barbara.

MATCHING COLORS.

The combination of felt and velour in machine colors is shown in a little Agnes model of purple with a crown of felt and a little brim of velour, the brim turned up at the front and held to the crown by a strap of itself, which seems to pass through a buckle effect in the brim The crown is made with two dimples at the front, much on the order of the crown which Reboux has made so popular.

Russian green is a color which Reboux is introducing for the fall and which is see nin a model with a crown that is rather larger at the top and made on the order of the Balloon crown. This is developed in felt and dimpled on each side of the front. The little brim rolls up tightly to the crown at the front and is turned under in a clever way at the back.

Dr. Pfeiffer To Lecture Monday On World Court

Timely pictorial information bearing upon the proposal for American membership in the World Court, will be presented at an illustrated address on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Social Science auditorium, on "League and Court: What They Are. How They Work." More than one hundred views will be shown with an explanation of the relationship between the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice. The extent of present American association with the two bodies through individual and non-governmental agencies will also be revealed. This exhibit was prepared for the screen by Jonathan A. Rawson, jr., of New York City, lecturer and writer, whose visual presentations of current topics has been seen by many American audiences. This lecture will be given by Dr. Laura B. Pfeiffer of the department of history University of Nebraska. The public is welcome.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Back Row: Olive Viele, Donald Viele, L. N. McCartney, Ellis McCartney, Roy McCartney, L. C. McCartney, O. M. McCartney, Frank Viele, Melvin McCartney, Richard McCartney, Genevieve McCartney and Fred Viele.

Front row: Orlyn McCartney, Mrs. L C McCartney, Mrs Roy McCartney, baby Kenneth McCartney, Jessie McCartney, Max Viele, Mrs. Nicholas McCartney, Dorothy McCartney, Robert McCartney, Mrs. Amy Viele, Willard Viele, Mrs. L. N. McCartney, Mrs. O. M. McCartney.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas McCartney celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Tuesday, July 7, at their home, 202 West Twenty-third street, University Place.

They have lived in Lancaster county for forty-five years, moving here from LeMars, Ia., five years after their marriage. They first located on a farm near Waverly and later moved to another one six miles east of University Place, where they resided until removing to their present location in 1910.

Six children were born to Mr. and Mrs. McCartney, all of whom were present at the golden wedding. They are L. N. of Los Angeles, Calif., Orley M. of Scottsbluff, and Leslie C., Roy M., Mrs. Amy Viele and Miss Jessie, all of University Place.

At noon Tuesday a picnic dinner was served on the lawn for members of the family, including the thirteen grandchildren, all of whom were present.

From 3 to 5 p. m., old friends and former neighbors from Waverly and Sharon church neighborhoods were entertained, and in the evening a reception was held for University Place and Lincoln friends.

Many beautiful gifts were offered the couple by their friends and relatives.

Where Are the Over-Fat?

A few years ago excess fat was common. Men and women did not seem to care. Now look around in any circle. Note how rare it is.

One reason is this: Fat is now recognized s a blight to beauty, to health to efficiency. It is regarded as abnormal, often due to a disorder easily corrected. And people abhor the abnormal.

Another reason is Marmola. For 18 years the Marmola Prescription, has been proving that fat can be easily and pleasantly reduced. It has proved that to countless thousands and those users have told others. Now people are taking over a million boxes yearly of these famous reducing tablets.

Mark the results. You see them everywhere in slender figures which you envy, maybe. Then why not ask about Marmola? Learn how those results have come without abnormal exercise or diet.

We state the ingredients in Marmola and explain just how they act. Thus every user knows why Marmola is so efficient, helpful, safe. Investigate this famous treatment in justice to yourself.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Send this coupon for our latest book, a 25-ct sample free and our guarantee. Clip it now.

Mrs. Reynolds Visits Parents

Mrs. Oscar W. Reynolds and little daughter, Mary Elizabeth, have arrived from Fort Brown, Brownsville, Tex., for a visit with Mrs. Reynold's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Shepherd. Chaplain Reynolds has been ordered from Fort Brown, where he has been stationed with the Twelfth cavalry, to Fitzsimmons General hospital in Denver and Mrs. Reynolds and her daughter will join him there the middle of August. Chaplain Reynolds motored to Denver from Brownsville late in June

Mrs. Reynolds has been the guest of Mrs. J. C. George in Brownsville. Mrs. George is former president of the fifth district of the women's clubs of Texas and is now a member of the state board of the Learners' club, the oldest federated club in the lower Rio Grande valley and she says that women are taking a prominent part in its development. She was appointed chairman of the municipal committee of the Brownsville Federation of Women's clubs for the coming year, but she will be unable to serve.

The Learners 'club is preparing a history of Brownsville, which is of interest because of the early Spanish settlement there and because of the international bridge over the Rio Grande, connecting the United States and Matamoras, Mex. The fort adds interest, for since its establishment by Zachary Taylor during the Mexican war many famous army men have been stationed there.

Salvation and God

BY J. D. M. BUCKNER.

What is salvation and how do we get it?

There are two theories of salvation; the old theory that it is ready made and we secure it by believing certain things—saved by faith. We owed a debt and Jesus paid it for us on the cross and we accepted it by faith—a salvation wrought out for us in heaven. The second theory is that character is salvation and that character is the product of human effort assisted by God.

How much does human effort count in salvation and how much will God do for me? I want to be saved from stealing, lying, adultery, pride, jealousy, selfishness and hatred; how much depends upon God and how much depends upon me? Does human effort count as much here as it does in the intellectual world and the industrial world?

I must co-operate with God if I would be saved from my sins. The salvation is here and now. God cannot make a saint unless man co-operates with him. Man must purpose, resolve, decide, love, repent, struggle to overcome the evil and seek to develop the good. Salvation is progressive, a man is saved more today than he was yesterday and he will be saved more tomorrow than today if he is true to God and his purpose to be good.

I voted a men's Bible class of forty men one morning on this question: Two men lived to be sixty years old; one was honest, true, chaste, kind-hearted, a good husband, a loving father and a good citizen, but he never professed to be a Christian Thus he died.

The other man was a thief, liar, libertine, a bootlegger, a drunkard, an untrue husband, a harsh father, a bad neighbor and an undesirable citizen, but one day before he died he repented of his sins, confessed Christ as his Savior, was baptised and joined the church and died the next day.

Which man had the better chance in the next world?

Thirty-eight voted for the good man and two for the bad man I would vote for the good man for I do not believe a man can live sixty years in sin, then exchange that character and life for a good one in twenty-four hours.

I would go and pray for a bad man when he was dying and if he wanted me to I would baptise him and receive him into the church.

I would not say that he would enter into the next world on a par with a man who had suppressed evil and cultivated virtue all of his life. There is good in all men and evil in the best of us.

Salvation will manifest itself in this world: In the church, in the home, in business, in politics, in service for humanity. It saves from sin but does not fix the past or save from the penalty of sin. Salvation is character.

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE IS a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father brother husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty Women gaze with envy secretly jealous, perhaps wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty A clear skin—is the barometer of one s condition A healthy skin radiates beauty Pure clean blood means a clear skin

S S S is waiting to help you It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. Since 1826 S S S has been ridding people of blood impurities from pimples, from blackheads boils, eczema and from rheumatism too Because S S S is made from fresh herbs and barks it may be taken with perfect safety Try it yourself You will not only look better, but you will feel better too

S.S.S is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes The larger size is more economical.

Mrs. Reynolds Visits Parents

Mrs. Oscar W. Reynolds and little daughter, Mary Elizabeth, have arrived from Fort Brown, Brownsville, Tex., for a visit with Mrs. Reynold's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Shepherd. Chaplain Reynolds has been ordered from Fort Brown, where he has been stationed with the Twelfth cavalry, to Fitzsimmons General hospital in Denver and Mrs. Reynolds and her daughter will join him there the middle of August. Chaplain Reynolds motored to Denevr from Brownsville late in June.

Mrs. Reynolds has been the guest of Mrs. J. C. George in Brownsville. Mrs. George is former president of the fifth district of the women's clubs of Texas and is now a member of the state board of the Learners' club, the oldest federated club in the lower Rio Grande valley and she says that women are taking a prominent part in its development. She was appointed chairman of the municipal committee of the Brownsville Federation of Women's clubs for the coming year, but she will be unable to serve.

The Learners 'club is preparing a history of Brownsville, which is of interest because of the early Spanish settlement there and because of the international bridge over the Rio Grande, connecting the United States and Matamoras, Mex. The fort adds interest, for since its establishment by Zachary Taylor during the Mexican war many famous army men have been stationed there.

Salvation and God

BY J. D. M. BUCKNER.

What is salvation and how do we get it?

There are two theories of salvation; the old theory that it is ready made and we secure it by believing certain things—saved by faith. We owed a debt and Jesus paid it for us on the cross and we accepted it by faith—a salvation wrought out for us in heaven. The second theory is that character is salvation and that character is the product of human effort assisted by God.

How much does human effort count in salvation and how much will God do for me? I want to be saved from stealing, lying, adultery, pride, jealousy, selfishness and hatred; how much depends upon God and how much depends upon me? Does human effort count as much here as it does in the intellectual world and the industrial world?

I must co-operate with God if I would be saved from my sins. The salvation is here and now. God cannot make a saint unless man co-operates with him. Man must purpose, resolve, decide, love, repent, struggle to overcome the evil and seek to develop the good. Salvation is progressive, a man is saved more today than he was yesterday and he will be saved more tomorrow than today if he is true to God and his purpose to be good.

I voted a men's Bible class of forty men one morning on this question: Two men lived to be sixty years old; one was honest, true, chaste, kind-hearted, a good husband, a loving father and a good citizen, but he never professed to be a Christian. Thus he died.

The other man was a thief, liar, libertine, a bootlegger, a drunkard, an untrue husband, a harsh father, a bad neighbor and an undesirable citizen, but one day before he died he repented of his sins, confessed Christ as his Savior, was baptised and joined the church and died the next day.

Which man had the better chance in the next world?

Thirty-eight voted for the good man and two for the bad man. I would vote for the good man for I do not believe a man can live sixty years in sin, then exchange that character and life for a good one in twenty-four hours.

I would go and pray for a bad man when he was dying and if he wanted me to I would baptise him and receive him into the church.

I would not say that he would enter into the next world on a par with a man who had suppressed evil and cultivated virtue all of his life. There is good in all men and evil in the best of us.

Salvation will manifest itself in this world: In the church, in the home, in business, in politics, in service for humanity. It saves from sin but does not fix the past or save from the penalty of sin. Salvation is character.

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

To Make Our Lives Blend With Others Seems To Be the Eternal Scheme — We Cannot Live For Self Alone Do We Women Want To Bring Home Our Bacon And Cook It Too? — One View Of the Feminist Movement.

When You Want Yourself.

Dear Minerva: Does everybody want you when you want yourself? I often wonder just what it would be like to do just a few things when one wanted to. The cat is coaxing for milk just now. And when I started reading The Star unexpected company came. That meant more fussing for dinner and more dishes. When I started to read again husband was real hungry. More cooking and dishes. Looked three minutes at Star, then it was a car ride when I wanted to go to church

I am lonesome and don't know what for. I wanted to look at the moon tonight to think of God's wonderful creation but instead I had to come down to earth and listen to conversation I was not interested in and smile and make believe. I am always making my life fit and blend in with other lives. It is a game I have to play. But no one guesses or knows the longing just to live my life as it seems to me worth while. I haven't even told anybody but I am going to whisper some of my longings to you. I would like to have time to write a few letters uninterrupted and make some pretty clothes and have my husband to myself once in a while. My mother died leaving a large family younger than myself and it seemed my responsibility to make them a home. Then Husband has a married son living here. I love them all and would be lonesome without them, but I am so busy and it has been so long since I have been rested I don't know what it would seem like.

It is 11 p. m., time to put out out the milk bottles. Just what is life all about, I wonder. These precious lives that make us so much work and worry. These loving burdens—will they be our inheritance and joy? Perhaps in another life we will forget the selfish longings to want ourselves when others want us. Life and Longings.

A.—I guess most of us go through the years looking wistfully for the time when we may rest and do just what we want to do. And I presume if that time ever arrived we should be perfectly miserable. You would not have been at all happy if you had kept on reading The Star when Husband wanted something to eat, or had gone to church when you knew someone wanted you to go for a ride. You could not even have looked at the moon and pondered upon the wonders of God's work with any peace of mind, if you had known that the family and friends were visiting and wanted you among them. We all have to make our lives fit and blend with others. That is the eternal scheme, I guess

Most of us have piles of unanswered letters—and longings for pretty clothes beyond our reach—and other things. I wonder if we should be happier if they were all cleared away to satisfy our fancy.

But there is just one thing that I do think you should have, and that is your husband all to yourself once in a while. From the viewpoint of a disinterested outsider, it would seem to me that Husband's married son would be better off in a home of his own. If the young children whom you so kindly took under your wing after your stepmother's death are old enough to care for themselves, why not let them try their wings and give you your home to yourselves

I do not know what Eternity is, except the dictionary definition, "Infinite Duration," and that is not very satisfying. From our moral viewpoint, it seems that we shall not be happy in Eternity without our loving burdens. I do not believe the longings are really selfish, if they are not put in execution, do you?

And a little selfishness is surely justified We all must have some time to ourselves.

Cook It As Well.

Dear Minerva: Ever since the feminist movement started, we women have not quite seemed to know in what direction we were headed One group is constantly urging that women must have a chance to go out and earn their own livings and thus excuse the men from earning it for them, and another group is bent upon making the place of women in the home still more secure by protecting her with more and better laws.

I wonder just what this new freedom and new equality is to mean in the end, Minerva? It seems a bit hazy now, doesnt it? I was interested in the letter from the girl who wrote asking your advice on the choice of a profession which she could hope to keep after marriage. She seemingly hopes to make marriage and child-bearing merely incidental to her chosen profession.

Is this what we women want?

Surely if the home is to stick, it behooves girls to take it more seriously than they do to make of it more of a study, rather than seek new ways of neglecting it

The flaw in the theory that women can be professionally independent and yet have a family is that they must always employ some other woman to do for them the work in the home

It does not seem like we are in danger of getting our wires crossed.

FLOY.

A.—Sometimes it seems that the independently inclined women are merely fighting after all for the right to bring home their own bacon and cook it as well A great concession surely

That is the way this lauded independence works out very often

IS YEAR OLD

Edward Junior Skudler, the little son of Mr. and Mrs P. O. Skudler, 3934 Washington street, was one year old June 26.

in real life for the girl who merely takes a leave of absence from her job when she marries.

This is a problem on which I am studying and observing. As yet, my opinion is that if a woman is truly talented and has creative ability she should not submerge her talents into the monotonies of home work which are of no interest to her. In such a case I believe it but just and practical that she should employ someone to discharge her home duties while she works at her own profession. But when it is with her merely a case of earning spending money, or seeking excitement, then she is placing a false value on things when she neglects her own home toward those ends.

It is all rather involved.

But I am rooting for the homes—more of them, and better

Quite In Opposition.

Dear Minerva. It has been several years since I have written to you so I hope you won't throw my letter into the wastepaper basket, although I am afraid you will not agree with me

This time I am coming to your circle on the subject of schools. I am much opposed to swimming pools and I feel safe to say that seventy-five per cent of the mothers will agree with me. Could not that time be spent more profitably by studying something that is more educational? I have daughters in high school and have watched this thing pretty closely I don't believe one-third of the girls that take it do it because they want to; it is because they have to or they are not allowed to graduate. How much good does it do them. How much do they know about it when they finish? They are not taught to be modest. I visited a class in swimming one day. A certain girl paraded all over the room in her dainty silk underwear One girl remarked to another, 'She thinks she is smart because she wears silk underwear. Outdoor sports are all right but it amuses me to hear our principal and professors say it is necessary and that all modern schools have them. How many of them ever saw a swimming pool when they went to school? I am willing to wager that they are as intelligent as the men and women of tomorrow will be.

Another thing I don't approve of is cooking being taught in the schools. Any mother who takes the interest in her home and children that she should ought to be able to teach her girls to cook

Just one more thing and I am through. Why not compel uniform dress? In many homes there is a constant wrangle concerning clothes If a girl is not dressed up to the minute she is looked down upon. I suppose you think that I am old-fashioned, but I am a business woman and try to see things from a broad viewpoint. Can't we see the opinions of some other mothers?

INDIGNANT.

A I will welcome the opinions of other mothers on these subjects.

But I must air my views also.

I cant' stand by silently and hear swimming pools in schools or elsewhere attacked. In my opinion every person should be taught to swim, not only in order to have a chance for themselves if in any sort of water catastrophe, but because swimming provides wonderful exercise and relaxation of the most healthful sort. Modern young girls are lucky that they are forced to learn to swim whether they want to or not. Swimming develops good lungs, develops the body symmetrically, strengthens the organs and stimulates the body.

And why not cooking in the schools? If mother is a good cook and a good teacher, all right. The supplementary lessons in school will not be amiss and modern methods should surely always be welcomed. And so very often mother is herself not a good cook, at least according to modern, scientific lights, and if she is a good cook she is not a patient, efficient teacher of the cult she knows more by instinct than by rote.

I do approve of uniform dress in school We agree on one point anyway.

University Dispensary Has Helped Scores of Students To Health Within Six Years

Tucked away in one corner of the Pharmacy building of the University of Nebraska is a department which is probably of as much vital concern to both students and parents as any in the entire school. It occupies only four small rooms, but students paid nearly 15,000 visits to it last year. It is the student health service dispensary, which is responsible for the general health conditions of the entire body of students.

The service is only six years old, but last year it made physical examinations of more than 1,000 boys and a nearly equal number of girls, and treated 7,000 boys and 4,500 girls.

The health service or "up to th' doc" as the students call it, has been growing steadily in popularity among the students since its inception, and more students were given medical attention and advice last year than ever before The service is free

Usually only minor cases are handled, the more acute conditions being turned over to a physician of the student's choice, or, where no choice is made, the one made by the medical advisor in charge of the case The doctors—there are three—do not make private calls while representing the clinic, but will respond to any emergency call on the campus, without charge. This last is an important part of the service, because cases of electrical shock, acute appendicitis and gastric ulcer have caused emergency calls more than once

The dispensary is a development which started when the university took charge of examinations of students for the R. O. T. C corps. Now every freshman is examined when first entering the university—the boys for military drill and the girls for the department of physical education—and may at any time while in school have a thorough physical examination without charge The service continues the year around, and a steady stream of "ailing" comes during summer months as well as during the winter.

A large part of the work of the clinic is to prevent the spread of disease and epidemics. Last year when one student exposed a number of others to smallpox, more than 2,000 vaccinations were made, with the result that but three went to the isolation hospital, and those with only mild forms of the disease. In addition to the smallpox vaccine, innoculations for typhoid dyphtheria and hay fever are given if asked.

In the more serious cases, especially those which are acute. the students are given their own choice of doctors and hospital Sometimes students unable to pay for major operations are sent to the university hospital in Omaha. where they receive surgical attention without charge.

Respiratory and skin diseases are the most common among the patients at the clinic, and occasionally some very rare forms are found. In such cases the individual is sent to a specialist.

Prescriptions given are filled by the pharmacy department in the same building at minimum cost The prescription department is under the direction of Miss H. I. Redfield, with a few students of advanced dispensing assisting Last year 1,450 prescriptions were filled.

Bad teeth, bad tonsils and broken bones are frequently found upon examination, and a student doing poor work is often found to be in a pathological condition.

Dean Rufus A Lyman, of the College of Pharmacy, is the executive head of the service. Dr. Inez Philbrick, has charge of the women and Drs Charles H Harms and Earl N. Deppen of the men. The university nurse is Miss Irene Dykeman, graduate of St. Luke's hospital. Chicago, and formerly head surgical nurse at the Lincoln sanitarium

GIRLS! THROW AWAY YOUR FAT! LOOK YOUR BEST THIS SUMMER

Start To-day, Take Off from 10 to 50 Pounds, as I Did—Simple, Easy, Harmless Way—HERE IT IS.

If you are ashamed of your figure, especially in a bathing suit, decide to take off all that extra fat and look your best on the beach this summer. You can do it. I did. I am glad to be able to explain to you how to go about it—I am not going to tell you to go through strenuous exercises or weakening diets. I will not recommend you to rub your body with absurd creams or wear reducing girdles or garments, as I KNOW THEY ARE ABSOLUTELY WORTHLESS I am giving you here the secret I found out in Paris and which is the most marvelous discovery ever made to easily and safely take off fat. I suffered for years with all the troubles well known to fat people—time after time, I deprived myself from all pleasures—bathing, dancing, riding or golfing, because of my ridiculously fat figure I turned down parties and friends to avoid the dreaded, "Here comes fatty" until one day after I had tried everything known to reduce and failed, I hit upon the secret with which I made myself over. It is called SAN-GRI-NA, the discovery of a French scientist who has solved the problem of obesity. SAN-GRI-NA is put up in small tasteless tablets You take two before each meal and watch your weight go down. With this simple, easy, marvelous new way, I reduced from 180 to 130 pounds in eight weeks and have never re-gained since The reducing I went through was gradual and easy—did not leave me flabby or wrinkled—with every pound of fat lost, I felt a steady increase in strength and vitality. Now my health is splendid and I look and feel years younger SAN-GRI-NA is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and is sold with money back guarantee. Nothing like SAN GRI NA was ever before offered to you—Try it Today.

NOTE: Since I have given out this wonderful secret to the American public the demand has been so tremendous, that every good drug store is supplied with SAN GRI NA Get your package to-day and watch your fat disappear

On sale at any good Drug or Dept store If your druggist does not carry San-Gri-Na in stock he can get it from his wholesaler or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, New York City —Advertisement

Furnish Your Home By Using

that puts high grade homefurnishings within reach of moderate incomes.

A dignified, self-respecting plan for the purchaser. Terms that are not generally possible on furniture and furnishings of the better grades.

A plan that makes it possible for home-makers, whether new or expanding, to put only the best and lasting kind of furnishings into their homes, instead of being content with less desirable qualities.

You have as much as 18 months to pay with no carrying charge or interest

Open to all Responsible Persons

The Robertson Budget Plan is open to all responsible persons It consists simply of a reasonable down payment and a contract to pay by week or month for a given period not to exceed 18 months You use and enjoy the furniture and pay for it out of earnings and not out of savings It makes it possible for anyone to furnish their home NOW

You are Urged to Use it.

The important part we want to present is that this Robertson Budget Plan, which gives you 18 months to pay for what you select, is something of which we sincerely want you to take advantage. Under the terms of the plan you are not asking any favor, not doing anything different than what hundreds of other customers are doing when you indicate your wish to pay in a series of payments instead of all at once. Many homes are furnished with beautiful furniture in this way People look upon their payments as that much saved, and it is not missed at the time

What the Robertson Plan Includes

Furniture Rugs Stoves, Lamps, Chinaware, Washing Machines Kitchen Cabinets, Phonographs and Other home furnishings may be bought on our Budget Plan—any purchase of $25 or more

You Will Find at Robertson's

furniture at all ranges of prices—excellent grades and assurance that you receive the utmost in value no matter what price you pay

You will find the standard well known brands which command your respect by their prestige Furniture for mansion or cottage may be selected with ease and the opportunities of the Budget Plan are extended to all

University Notes

A publication recently issued by the extension division gives suggestions for project work by classes in English in connection with the study of the Oregon trail through Nebraska. The bulletin was prepared by the department of English of the Teachers college. In the publication are sections devoted to the map of the trail, river crossings, expeditions, covered wagons and provisions taken, the Mormons, Indian legends, pioneers, social life of the pioneers, pioneers of the Oregon trail, slavery in Nebraska, the growth of Lincoln, letters, and explanatory notes. The map of the state which appears in the bulletin shows twelve routes or trails through Nebraska—the ones taken by Coronado, Lewis and Clark, Smith, Hunt, Parkman, Fremont, the Bozeman, Oregon, Mormon, Nebraska City and Ft. Kearney trails; and the Nebraska City cut-off. Copies of the pamphlet may be secured through the extension division.

Prof. E. L. Hinman and Mrs. Hinman will make an eastern automobile tour during the latter part of the summer, visiting in New York and New England states. They will return early in September.

Professors L. E. Aylsworth, R. S. Boots and John P. Senning, of the political science department, returned last week from the Third Commonwealth conference at Iowa City, June 29, 30, and July 1. They made the trip by automobile. Dean Herman James, chairman of the department, was on the program as one of the discussion leaders, but was unable to attend.

Prof. W. S. Galpin of the University of Oklahoma, who is a member of the faculty for the first term of the summer session, will visit in Michigan, following the end of the term, and later will go to the Pacific coast. He will return to Oklahoma in the fall. A book by him on "Grain Supply of England During the Napoleonic Period" is being published.

Virginia Neville, '27, Aurora, is doing social work this summer at the Omaha social settlement.

Prof. R. C. McGrane, head of the department of history in the college engineering and commerce, University of Cincinnati, who is teaching in the university during the first term of the summer session, will go to the University of Texas for the second term.

Dr. Winifred Hyde is spending a vacation period in Chicago and the Great lakes region.

C. O. Weber of the philosophy department, has received word from Prof. Hartley Burr Alexander, chairman of the department, that he has concluded his lectures at the Sorbonne and that with his family he is now touring Italy. He expects to go to England in August, returning to the University in September.

Miss Nellie Jane Compton, acting librarian, will leave Thursday for Isle Royal, in Lake Superior, where she will spend a month's vacation.

Major Sidney Erickson, former commandant of the R. O. T. C. regiment at the university, has taken a three months' leave of absence, due to the death of his brother-in-law.

W. C. Peterson, '26, Lincoln, editor of the Nebraska alumnus, will act as a relief man for the Associated Press at Des Moines during the summer months that the magazine will not be published. The next issue of the Alumnus will be mailed September 15.

L. E. Gunderson, university bursar, returned last Monday from Cedar Point, O., where he attended the national convention of the Lions clubs. Mr. Gunderson is president of the Lincoln organization.

The university has received an invitation to be represented at the installation of Rafael Palma as president of the University of the Philippines. The ceremony will be held at Manila, July 18.

The fifth annual news-letter of the College of Business Administration, is being prepared and will be ready for distribution to all graduates of the college within ten days.

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE IS a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps, wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty. A clear skin—is the barometer of one's condition. A healthy skin radiates beauty. Pure, clean blood means a clear skin.

S.S.S. is waiting to help you. It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been ridding people of blood impurities, from pimples, from blackheads, boils, eczema and from rheumatism, too. Because S.S.S. is made from fresh herbs and barks, it may be taken with perfect safety. Try it yourself. You will not only look better, but you will feel better, too.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. The World's Best Blood Medicine

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

To Make Our Lives Blend With Others Seems To Be the Eternal Scheme — We Cannot Live For Self Alone Do We Women Want To Bring Home Our Bacon And Cook It Too? — One View Of the Feminist Movement.

When You Want Yourself.

Dear Minerva: Does everybody want you when you want yourself? I often wonder just what it would be like to do just a few things when one wanted to. The cat is coaxing for milk just now. And when I started reading The Star unexpected company came. That meant more fussing for dinner and more dishes. When I started to read again husband was real hungry. More cooking and dishes. Looked three minutes at Star, then it was a car ride when I wanted to go to church.

I am lonesome and don't know what for. I wanted to look at the moon tonight to think of God's wonderful creation but instead I had to come down to earth and listen to conversation I was not interested in and smile and make believe. I am always making my life fit and blend in with other lives. It is a game I have to play. But no one guesses or knows the longing just to live my life as it seems to me worth while. I haven't even told anybody but I am going to whisper some of my longings to you. I would like to have time to write a few letters uninterrupted and make some pretty clothes and have my husband to myself once in a while. My mother died leaving a large family younger than myself and it seemed my responsibility to make them a home. Then Husband has a married son living here. I love them all and would be lonesome without them, but I am so busy and it has been so long since I have been rested I don't know what it would seem like.

It is 11 p. m., time to put out out the milk bottles. Just what is life all about, I wonder. These precious lives that make us so much work and worry. These loving burdens—will they be our inheritance and joy? Perhaps in another life we will forget the selfish longings to want ourselves when others want us. Life and Longings.

A.—I guess most of us go through the years looking wistfully for the time when we may rest and do just what we want to do. And I presume if that time ever arrived we should be perfectly miserable. You would not have been at all happy if you had kept on reading The Star when Husband wanted something to eat, or had gone to church when you knew someone wanted you to go for a ride. You could not even have looked at the moon and pondered upon the wonders of God's work with any peace of mind, if you had known that the family and friends were visiting and wanted you among them. We all have to make our lives fit and blend with others. That is the eternal scheme, I guess.

Most of us have piles of unanswered letters—and longings for pretty clothes beyond our reach—and other things. I wonder if we should be happier if they were all cleared away to satisfy our fancy.

But there is just one thing that I do think you should have, and that is your husband all to yourself once in a while. From the viewpoint of a disinterested outsider, it would seem to me that Husband's married son would be better off in a home of his own. If the young children whom you so kindly took under your wing after your stepmother's death are old enough to care for themselves, why not let them try their wings and give you your home to yourselves.

I do not know what Eternity is, except the dictionary definition, "Infinite Duration," and that is not very satisfying. From our moral viewpoint, it seems that we shall not be happy in Eternity without our loving burdens. I do not believe the longings are really selfish, if they are not put in execution, do you?

And a little selfishness is surely justified. We all must have some time to ourselves.

Cook It As Well.

Dear Minerva: Ever since the feminist movement started, we women have not quite seemed to know in what direction we were headed. One group is constantly urging that women must have a chance to go out and earn their own livings and thus excuse the men from earning it for them, and another group is bent upon making the place of women in the home still more secure by protecting her with more and better laws.

I wonder just what this new freedom and new equality is to mean in the end, Minerva? It seems a bit hazy now, doesnt it? I was interested in the letter from the girl who wrote asking your advice on the choice of a profession which she could hope to keep after marriage. She seemingly hopes to make marriage and child-bearing merely incidental to her chosen profession.

Is this what we women want?

Surely if the home is to stick, it behooves girls to take it more seriously than they do, to make of it more of a study, rather than seek new ways of neglecting it.

The flaw in the theory that women can be professionally independent and yet have a family is that they must always employ some other woman to do for them the work in the home.

It does not seem like we are in danger of getting our wires crossed.

FLOY.

A.—Sometimes it seems that the independently inclined women are merely fighting after all for the right to bring home their own bacon and cook it as well. A great concession surely.

That is the way this lauded independence works out very often in real life for the girl who merely takes a leave of absence from her job when she marries.

This is a problem on which I am studying and observing. As yet, my opinion is that if a woman is truly talented and has creative ability she should not submerge her talents into the monotonies of home work which are of no interest to her. In such a case I believe it but just and practical that she should employ someone to discharge her home duties while she works at her own profession. But when it is with her merely a case of earning spending money, or seeking excitement, then she is placing a false value on things when she neglects her own home toward those ends.

It is all rather involved.

But I am rooting for the homes—more of them, and better.

Quite In Opposition.

Dear Minerva: It has been several years since I have written to you so I hope you won't throw my letter into the wastepaper basket, although I am afraid you will not agree with me.

This time I am coming to your circle on the subject of schools. I am much opposed to swimming pools and I feel safe to say that seventy-five per cent of the mothers will agree with me. Could not that time be spent more profitably by studying something that is more educational? I have daughters in high school and have watched this thing pretty closely. I don't believe one-third of the girls that take it do it because they want to; it is because they have to or they are not allowed to graduate. How much good does it do them. How much do they know about it when they finish? They are not taught to be modest. I visited a class in swimming one day. A certain girl paraded all over the room in her dainty silk underwear. One girl remarked to another, 'She thinks she is smart because she wears silk underwear. Outdoor sports are all right but it amuses me to hear our principal and professors say it is necessary and that all modern schools have them. How many of them ever saw a swimming pool when they went to school? I am willing to wager that they are as intelligent as the men and women of tomorrow will be.

Another thing I don't approve of is cooking being taught in the schools. Any mother who takes the interest in her home and children that she should ought to be able to teach her girls to cook.

Just one more thing and I am through. Why not compel uniform dress? In many homes there is a constant wrangle concerning clothes. If a girl is not dressed up to the minute she is looked down upon. I suppose you think that I am old-fashioned, but I am a business woman and try to see things from a broad viewpoint. Can't we see the opinions of some other mothers? INDIGNANT.

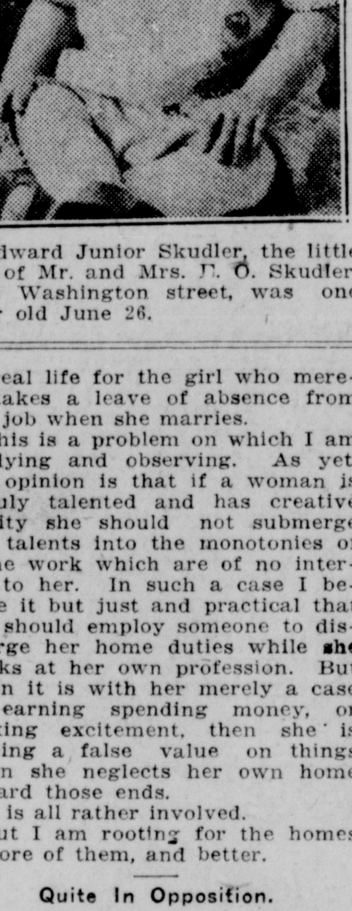
A. I will welcome the opinions of other mothers on these subjects. But I must air my views also.

I cant' stand by silently and hear swimming pools in schools or elsewhere attacked. In my opinion every person should be taught to swim, not only in order to have a chance for themselves if in any sort of water catastrophe, but because swimming provides wonderful exercise and relaxation of the most healthful sort. Modern young girls are lucky that they are forced to learn to swim whether they want to or not. Swimming develops good lungs, develops the body symmetrically, strengthens the organs and stimulates the body.

And why not cooking in the schools? If mother is a good cook and a good teacher, all right. The supplementary lessons in school will not be amiss and modern methods should surely always be welcomed. And so very often mother is herself not a good cook, at least according to modern, scientific lights, and if she is a good cook she is not a patient, efficient teacher of the cult she knows more by instinct than by rote.

I do approve of uniform dress in school. We agree on one point anyway.

IS YEAR OLD



Edward Junior Skudler, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Skudler, 3934 Washington street, was one year old June 26.

University Dispensary Has Helped Scores of Students To Health Within Six Years

Tucked away in one corner of the Pharmacy building of the University of Nebraska is a department which is probably of as much vital concern to both students and parents as any in the entire school. It occupies only four small rooms, but students paid nearly 15,000 visits to it last year. It is the student health service dispensary, which is responsible for the general health conditions of the entire body of students.

The service is only six years old, but last year it made physical examinations of more than 1,000 boys and a nearly equal number of girls, and treated 7,000 boys and 4,500 girls.

The health service, or "up to th' doc" as the students call it, has been growing steadily in popularity among the students since its inception, and more students were given medical attention and advice last year than ever before. The service is free.

Usually only minor cases are handled, the more acute conditions being turned over to a physician of the student's choice, or, where no choice is made, the one made by the medical advisor in charge of the case. The doctors—there are three—do not make private calls while representing the clinic, but will respond to any emergency call on the campus, without charge. This last is an important part of the service, because cases of electrical shock, acute appendicitis and gastric ulcer have caused emergency calls more than once.

The dispensary is a development which started when the university took charge of examinations of students for the R. O. T. C. corps. Now every freshman is examined when first entering the university—the boys for military drill and the girls for the department of physical education—and may at any time while in school have a thorough physical examination without charge. The service continues the year around, and a steady stream of "ailing" comes during summer months as well as during the winter.

A large part of the work of the clinic is to prevent the spread of disease and epidemics. Last year when one student exposed a number of others to smallpox, more than 2,000 vaccinations were made, with the result that but three went to the isolation hospital, and those with only mild forms of the disease. In addition to the smallpox vaccine, innoculations for typhoid, dyphtheria and hay fever are given if asked.

In the more serious cases, especially those which are acute, the students are given their own choice of doctors and hospital. Sometimes students unable to pay for major operations are sent to the university hospital in Omaha, where they receive surgical attention without charge.

Respiratory and skin diseases are the most common among the patients at the clinic, and occasionally some very rare forms are found. In such cases the individual is sent to a specialist.

Prescriptions given are filled by the pharmacy department in the same building at minimum cost. The prescription department is under the direction of Miss H. I. Redfield, with a few students of advanced dispensing assisting. Last year 1,450 prescriptions were filled.

Bad teeth, bad tonsils and broken bones are frequently found upon examination, and a student doing poor work is often found to be in a pathological condition.

Dean Rufus A. Lyman, of the College of Pharmacy, is the executive head of the service. Dr. Inez Philbrick, has charge of the women and Drs. Charles H. Harms and Earl N. Deppen of the men. The university nurse is Miss Irene Dykeman, graduate of St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, and formerly head surgical nurse at the Lincoln sanitarium.

GIRLS! THROW AWAY YOUR FAT! LOOK YOUR BEST THIS SUMMER

Start To-day, Take Off from 10 to 50 Pounds, as I Did—Simple, Easy, Harmless Way—HERE IT IS.

If you are ashamed of your figure, especially in a bathing suit, decide to take off all that extra fat and look your best on the beach this summer. You can do it. I did. I am glad to be able to explain to you how to go about it—I am not going to tell you to go through strenuous exercises or weakening diets. I will not recommend you to rub your body with absurd creams or wear reducing girdles or garments, as I KNOW THEY ARE ABSOLUTELY WORTHLESS. I am giving you here the secret I found out in Paris and which is the most marvelous discovery ever made to easily and safely take off fat. I suffered for years with all the troubles well known to fat people—time after time, I deprived myself from all pleasures—bathing, dancing, riding or golfing, because of my ridiculously fat figure. I turned down parties and friends to avoid the dreaded, "Here comes fatty," until one day, after I had tried everything known to reduce and failed, I hit upon the secret with which I made myself over. It is called SAN-GRI-NA, the discovery of a French scientist who has solved the problem of obesity. SAN GRI-NA is put up in small tasteless tablets. You take two before each meal and watch your weight go down. With this simple, easy, marvelous new way, I reduced from 180 to 130 pounds in eight weeks and have never regained since. The reducing I went through was gradual and easy—did not leave me flabby or wrinkled—with every pound of fat lost, I felt a steady increase in strength and vitality. Now my health is splendid and I look and feel years younger. SAN-GRI-NA is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and is sold with money-back guarantee. Nothing like SAN-GRI-NA was ever before offered to you.—Try it Today.

NOTE: Since I have given out this wonderful secret to the American public, the demand has been so tremendous, that every good drug store is supplied with SAN-GRI-NA. Get your package to-day and watch your fat disappear.

On sale at any good Drug or Dept. Store. If your druggist does not carry San-Gri-Na in stock he can get it from his wholesaler or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, New York City.—Advertisement.

Furnish Your Home By Using

that puts high grade homefurnishings within reach of moderate incomes.

A dignified, self-respecting plan for the purchaser. Terms that are not generally possible on furniture and furnishings of the better grades.

A plan that makes it possible for home-makers, whether new or expanding, to put only the best and lasting kind of furnishings into their homes, instead of being content with less desirable qualities.

You have as much as 18 months to pay with no carrying charge or interest

Open to all Responsible Persons

The Robertson Budget Plan is open to all responsible persons. It consists simply of a reasonable down payment and a contract to pay by week or month for a given period not to exceed 18 months. You use and enjoy the furniture and pay for it out of earnings and not out of savings. It makes it possible for anyone to furnish their home NOW.

What the Robertson Plan Includes

Furniture, Rugs, Stoves, Lamps, Chinaware, Washing Machines, Kitchen Cabinets, Phonographs and Other home furnishings may be bought on our Budget Plan—any purchase of $25 or more.

You are Urged to Use it.

The important part we want to present is that this Robertson Budget Plan, which gives you 18 months to pay for what you select, is something of which we sincerely want you to take advantage. Under the terms of the plan you are not asking any favor, not doing anything different than what hundreds of other customers are doing, when you indicate your wish to pay in a series of payments instead of all at once. Many homes are furnished with beautiful furniture in this way. People look upon their payments as that much saved, and it is not missed at the time.

You Will Find at Robertson's

furniture at all ranges of prices—excellent grades and assurance that you receive the utmost in value no matter what price you pay.

You will find the standard well known brands which command your respect by their prestige. Furniture for mansion or cottage may be selected with ease and the opportunities of the Budget Plan are extended to all.

MY LITTLE DARLING - IS EVERYTHING READY ON UNCLE BIM'S AIRSHIP?
THE CAPTAIN SAID THEY ARE READY TO SAIL WHEN UNCLE BIM GIVES THE WORD - DON'T LET BUSINESS KEEP YOU AWAY FROM US - REMEMBER YOU CAN'T COME TOO OFTEN OR STAY TOO LONG -
NOTHING BUT BUSINESS OF THE UTMOST IMPORTANCE WOULD MAKE ME LEAVE - YOU DON'T KNOW HOW I'LL MISS THE COMPANIONSHIP OF BRAVE LITTLE CHESTER - HE'S A CHIP OF THE OLD BLOCK -
WE CAN NEVER THANK YOU ENOUGH FOR THE WAY YOU RISKED YOUR LIFE TO PROTECT CHESTER -
WE WILL NEVER, NEVER FORGET YOU -
YOUR HONORABLE WORDS ARE SOOTHING TO MY COMMONPLACE EARS - THIS PERSON SHALL NEVER ERASE YOUR PICTURES FROM HIS INFERIOR HEART -
AND WILL I TEACH YOU HOW TO SAIL A BOAT, SEZ YOU - I WILL, SEZ I, AND YOU MAY LAY TO THAT FOR YOU'RE JUST THE KIND OF A MATE THAT MAKES A GOOD SAILOR-MAN -
MAYBE WHEN I GROW UP I'LL HAVE A BIG BOAT - THEN I'LL SAIL ALL OVER - I'LL CATCH WHALES AND DEVIL-FISH AND DO EVERYTHING LIKE YOU DID -
GEE, I HATE TO SEE YOU GO, CHING - YOU WERE ALWAYS SO BRAVE AND GOOD - IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR YOU I NEVER WOULD HAVE ESCAPED THE CANNIBALS -
IT IS WRITTEN THAT THE LORDS OF THE UPPER SPACES PROTECT THE COURAGEOUS ONES. THIS UNWORTHY PERSON SHALL MISS YOUR MOST AMIABLE COMPANIONSHIP - MAY THE ALL-SEEING ONES GUIDE YOUR FOOTSTEPS -
GOOD-BYE AND GOOD LUCK -
YOU'LL ALL HEAR FROM ME AS SOON AS I REACH AUSTRALIA -
I'LL WRITE YOU EVERY DAY, UNCLE
I HOPE THEY HAVE A SAFE PLEASANT TRIP -
THERE WERE TEARS IN HIS EYES WHEN HE SAID GOOD-BYE - HIS HEART IS AS TENDER AS A GIRL'S -
I WISH UNCLE BIM COULD LIVE WITH US ALL THE TIME -
UNCLE BIM SAID WHEN I GROW UP I'LL BE ONE OF THE RICHEST MEN IN THE WORLD - WON'T THAT BE SWELL?
HE DOESN'T CARE ANY MORE FOR A MILLION DOLLARS THAN MOST PEOPLE CARE FOR A NICKEL -
HE'S A WONDERFUL MAN -
OH PAPA - I WISH YOU HAD BEEN WITH ME ON THAT ISLAND. I'LL BET YOU'D HAVE MADE THOSE SAVAGES BEHAVE -
MAYBE I'LL TAKE A TRIP OVER THERE WITH YOU SOME TIME AND TEACH THEM A GOOD LESSON -
HOW CAN YOU TALK THAT WAY? NOW THAT CHESTER IS BACK I'LL NEVER ALLOW HIM TO RISK HIS PRECIOUS LIFE AGAIN -

NOW, MR. HOOLIGAN, ARE YOU ACQUAINTED WITH THIS PLAINTIFFS IDIOSYNCRACIES?
WITNESS, BE VERY CAREFUL!
NO, I NEVER MET ANY OF 'EM EXCEPT HIS UNCLE JAKE.
ORDER IN THE COURT!

THE GUMPS
SIDNEY SMITH
IT FEELS GREAT TO HAVE LITTLE CHESTER BACK AGAIN AFTER ALL HIS TERRIBLE ADVENTURES ON THAT DESERT ISLAND - NO ONE BUT A GUMP COULD HAVE GONE THROUGH ALL THAT KID DID AND LIVE TO TELL THE TALE -
I'M AFRAID TO LET HIM OUT OF MY SIGHT -
I WISH UNCLE BIM DIDN'T HAVE TO RUSH BACK TO AUSTRALIA - BUT HE NEGLECTED HIS BUSINESS TO SEARCH FOR CHESTER - I'LL BET HE SPENT MILLIONS TRYING TO FIND HIM -
THE SERVANTS SAY HE SCARCELY ATE OR SLEPT WHILE CHESTER WAS LOST -
IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE THAT JUST A FEW SHORT WEEKS AGO OUR LITTLE BOY WAS FIGHTING FOR HIS LIFE WITH NOBODY TO HELP HIM BUT CHING CHOW -
I WISH I COULD HAVE BEEN ON THAT ISLAND WITH HIM - I'D HAVE MADE SOME OF THOSE WARRIORS WISH THEY NEVER SAW A WHITE MAN - AND WHAT I'D HAVE DONE TO THAT FAT-HEADED KING WOULD HAVE BEEN WORTH PAYING TO SEE -
